INJURED AS AUTOS COLLIDE

Two women were hospitalized and one of the two cars was disabled in a collision which took place last Sunday afternoon at the intersection of Main street and Mystic Valley Parkway during the heavy rain about 3:40.

According to the police the collision involved a Packard sedan, driven north on Main street by Clifford M. Dexter of Chesterfield avenue, Pinehurst, and a Plymouth sedan, operated by John Micali of 1 East Sylvester street, Lawrence, who was headed west on the Parkway and crossing Main street.

The Plymouth was damaged about the left rear, but the front end of the Packard was so badly damaged it had to be towed away. In the Packard with the driver were Michael A. Nuzzoto, 21, and Arnold C. Dexter, 22, both of 28 Oak road, Medford. None of the three was injured.

In the Plymouth with the driver were his wife, Mrs. Nicoletta Micali, 59, and Dominick Scope, 71, of 109 Newbury street, Lawrence, and his wife, Julia, 74. Officers Clarence Dunbury, James Flaherty and Erwin Nurnberger removed the two women from the Plymouth and took them to the Winchester Hospital, where they were followed five minutes later by Mr. Scope, who became ill after his wife's departure and was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist.

After treatment by Dr. Charles Rooney Mr. and Mrs. Scope and Mrs. Micali were held at the hospital for observation.

BROKE NECK IN DIVE

Dick Fernandez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon F. Fernandez of 322 Main street, sustained two broken vertebra in his neck while diving at a day camp in New Hampshire July 24.

A counsellor at the camp, Dick had completed his day's work and with others had gone for a swim. As he was about to make a shallow dive a boy got in his way, and to avoid striking the youngster, he went deeper than he had intended, striking bottom and injuring his neck.

Of a rugged physique, Dick shook off the injury and came home to Winchester. He complained of a stiff neck and other symptoms that resulted in summoning a physician, and an examination by Dr. William Lanigan, Medford bone specialist.

After X-rays and examination Dr. Lanigan diagnosed the injury as two broken vertebra, ordering Dick to the Lawrence Memorial Hospital in Medford, where he will be in traction for two weeks, after which he will be in a cast for the remainder of the summer.

Dick will begin his senior year at Winchester High School in the fall. He played freshman, and some varsity football; and at Belmont Hill, where he spent half a year, he pitched on the baseball team. His athletic activities will be temporarily curtailed by the injury, but it is expected that there will be no lasting ill effects.

NEWS OF THE BOWES

Mrs. William H. Bowe and Mrs. Norman L. Skene have recently returned from Wolfeboro, N. H., where they attended graduation festivities in the Richard I. Bowe family. Brenda was graduated with honors from Brewster Academy, receiving a scholarship sponsored by the Rotary Club for an outstanding member of the graduating class, and the D.A.R. award for good citizenship. She will attend the University of New Hampshire this fall, majoring in art and dramatics. Her sister, Ellen, who will be a sophomore at Brewster, received the Time Magazine award for a current Affair contest.

Dick Bowe, Jr., graduated from the Carpenter School as president of his class, and will attend Brewster in the fall.

All the Bowes are well and happy and enjoy their copy of the Star each week, as it keeps them well-informed of doings in the old home town.

SAILING JULY 29

Mr. and Mrs. Gerard R. Collette (Mary MacIsaac) are sailing from New York July 29 on the S.S. Liberte for Le Havre, France.

They are to make their future home in Paris while Mr. Collette travels through most of Western Europe not occupied by Russia, and the Middle East, as an automotive field representative of Bendix International Division of the Bendix Aviation Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. Collette were married in New York August 20, 1949. They have since made their home at Great Notch, N. J. (P.O. Box 36) while Mr. Collette, who holds degrees from both European and American universities, was training with the Bendix Corporation.

Many in Winchester will remember her as a former secretary at the Winchester National Bank. Her father, Mr. John A. MacIsaac, makes his home at 24 Salem street. SKID CAUSED ACCIDENT

A skid on a slippery street shortly after 1:30 last Sunday afternoon disabled both cars involved and sent the drivers to the Winchester Hospital.

According to the police a Ford sedan, owned by Rodney O. Blomquist of 28 Laird road, Medford, and driven by Richard L. Hornbeck, Jr., of 87 Woods road, West Medford, while headed south on Washington street near Grayson road, skidded as the driver applied his brakes and crossed the street into the path of a Plymouth sedan, owned and driven north on Washington street by Salvatore J. Tibaudo of 52 Swanton street.

Both cars were so badly damaged they had to be towed away. The operators were taken to the Winchester Hospital where Mr. Hornbeck was treated by Dr. Charles Rooney for several cuts and a deep laceration under his left eye. He was released after treatment.

After treatment by Dr. A. J. Guarente Mr. Tibaudo was ordered held at the hospital for observation.

HUGE OLD TREE

On the grounds of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Armstrong, Jr., at 15 Chestnut street, stands a huge oak which was old when Lincoln was assassinated. Members of the Wellington family, who occupied the premises from the time the old house was built over 100 years ago until the death of the last occupant, Miss Harriet Wellington, October 17, 1947, stood under the branches of the tree when they learned of the Great Emancipator's death.

The Armstrongs have been having some work done on the tree and the tree man, Stanley Czerko, tells the Star that the tree is undoubtedly one of the oldest and largest in Massachusetts, if not the oldest and largest in the state. It has a spread of more than 300 feet and the trunk is 20 feet in circumference.

His first official duty was to lead the Middlesex delegation in the big parade that closed the convention on Saturday afternoon, June 21.

In this parade Sam had as one of his official aides, Legionnaire P. T. Foley who has been instrumental in his bid for Legion office. Many Winchesterites journeyed to Gloucester to witness the parade and pay tribute to the new commander.

MRS. McDONALD SURPRISED

On Wednesday evening of last week Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald of Hill street went to Stoneham with her husband to visit the new home in that town recently purchased by her son-in-law and daughter, Tony and Margaret DeTeso.

When the McDonald's arrived home they drove into a back yard gay with colored electric lights, noisy with the gay laughter of many friends, and a long table loaded down with all the fixin's for the best cook-out ever; and the McDonald's back garden has been the scene of many cook-outs.

On behalf of the assemblage, Mrs. May Serieka presented to the astonished guest of the evening a complete set of attractive lawn furniture, from chaise-longue to chairs, table and chair-side stools.

As words, for once, failed the surprised victim, Luke Glendon, a life-long friend, took over and announced that the occasion for the party was simply that those responsible planned a surprise just because they wanted to; they didn't need an anniversary, or birthday, just the idea.

The host, Babe himself, was soon busy at the out-door hearth and the following prominent young matrons from the precinct presided as waitresses: Ruth Hall Enstrom, Nora Beaton Queen, Mary Chisholm, Mary Mooney, Sally Cause, Martha Nixon and May Serieka.

Walter Chupaila of 17 Otis street, Brockton, a tree man working with a crew removing a tree from the yard of the home of Mr. John J. Gormley, 90 Canal street, was painfully injured Monday forenoon when a large tree limb fell across the back of his lower left leg.

SALVATION ARMY APPEAL

Fox, Provincial Commander in charge of all Salvation Army activities in New England.

IMMAC'S DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS

On Saturday, June 28th the local Drum and Bugle Corps and Girls Drill Team journeyed to Revere to participate in the V. F. W. parade and competition. Over 500,000 people lined the parade route to watch the parade which was the closing event of the Massachusetts Veterans of Foreign Wars, State Convention. The local group were sponsored by Woburn Post 543, V. F. W., and were given the position at the head of the Middlesex County Division. As the "Immacs" stepped off, followed by their sponsors, Post 543 they received the applause of the crowds that lined the route. As the group covered the route, judges checked all corps in the parade to determine the winners. The final score showed that the "Immacs", now hold another high honor, "Massachusetts Junior V. F. W. champions, 1952". In V.F.W. groups all over the country, corps vie for this award and the local corps are to be congratulated on being selected the winners.

The Girls Drill Team, not to be outdone by their brother members also competed in the Girls Team Division and also were in the winners circle. The girls with their usual precision marching received a tremendous ovation as they performed their difficult maneuvers. The "Vets" will always remember the "Immacs" performance at Revere.

On Sunday the group traveled to Manchester, N. H., on an invitation by the French Catholic Societies of that city. The day's events were in honor of St. John and started early in the morning and lasted until near midnight. Due to bad weather the parade was cancelled and all events were held in the State Armory. Many corps and drill teams competed in their respective divisions giving the large crowd that filled the armory a four hour show. The boys were nosed out of first place by 6/10 of a point. Had the floor area been larger, so that the boys could swing out to full maneuvers they might have been in top spot. The girls really showed the N. H. folks what a crack drill team looks like. They beat a field of six teams to come in first. The folks of Manchester treated the groups in very fine manner, having lunches ready for all visitors. Rev. Fr. Driscoll accompanied the boys and girls as usual, having never missed a parade with his "Champs".

ROTARY SUMMARY 1951-'52

As "Al" Elliott, retiring president of Winchester Rotary conducted his final meeting recently he listed some of the club's activities and accomplishments during the past year, 1951 - 1952.

The Club spent $366 for buses to take a group of Winchester children to a big league baseball game in Boston, and $100 to help the Winchester Jimmy Fund. Sports equipment for the club's youth activity totalled $30, and another $30 was spent to enable several high school youngsters to attend dinner in Boston and listen to an address on communist activities in America.

The Club sponsored a Boy Scout Troop to the extent of $75, and contributed $25 toward sending last season's championship high school basketball team to Washington, also having the football and basketball teams as dinner guests during their seasons. Favors for the Club's children's Christmas Party accounted for another $40.

A highlight of the year socially was the Club's 25th anniversary banquet at the Music Hall, with charter members present and an address by the Club's first president, George T. Davidson. Another outstanding event was the Club's sponsoring a performance of "Harvey" by the Parish Players of the First Congregational Church for the benefit of its youth fund.

The Club spent $10 to obtain a charter for Little League Baseball in Winchester and also spent an additional $250 to sponsor one of the local Little League teams. An additional $185 was expended by the club for a loud speaker for the games.

The sum of $500 was spent by the club to make good its commitment for the Rotary International Scholarship Foundation Fund, making the local club paid to date at the rate of $10 per member.

In aid of the important Youth Fund the Club held a Country Auction at the Town Hall. From the proceeds of the sale the sum of $300 was set aside to finance another sale for next year, with $200 going to the Youth Committee for the ensuing year.

A signal honor was paid the Winchester Club this spring when its own member, Dr. Forbes H. Norris was elected District Governor of Rotary District 288, local rotarians looking for great things from their district under his inspiring leadership.

CAMP FELLSLAND OPENS OFFICIALLY

In spite of the extremely wet weather on Sunday, June 29, a vast horde of local Scouts invaded Camp Fellsland, located on the Pow Wow River in Amesbury, Mass., to start their summer season of camping. This is the 28th season that the local council has been running this wonderful haven for the local Scouts to gain their outdoor experience. It is once again under the direct local leadership of Edward W. Nelson, the local Scout executive. He has been the camp director since 1935, so that this will be his 18th season as camp director.

This week, having the Fourth of July in it, will naturally call for a special celebration on the Fourth of July. A tremendously large pile of refuse, wood and so forth, has already been assembled to be touched off the night of the Fourth. Some fireworks are also promised, so that if any of the local folks would like to participate, they are cordially invited to come up the night of the Fourth of July.

As the new boys assembled in the large mess hall and recreation hall on Sunday, they were all pleased to find that one of their old-time leaders, Mr. Ebenezer Gay of Harvard College and Hingham, Mass., came into camp to serve as a special instructor at the rifle range for at least the beginning of camp. Mr. Gay was the rifle instructor back in 1950 and has done a remarkably fine job of instruction. He was prevailed on to come back to give the new instructors, Jimmy Daley of Medford and Peter Rulard of Stoneham, a hand in establishing the procedure at the rifle range.

At the waterfront Jeff Beckingham and Charlie Spod are back again from last year's staff. It is a remarkable layout, with the new wharf in place for boats and canoes donated by the En-Ka Society of Winchester, in addition to the new boats and canoes that have been purchased.

The entire camp has a clean appearance, due to the very fine efforts of the camp committee and many of its volunteer friends, who have been spending many weekends plus this last week at camp.

Among the campers are the following local boys who are at camp for this first week starting June 29:

Erskine Kelley
John Foster
Benjamin Carr
Peter Gowing
David Gowing
James Wakefield
Dickie Bates
Howard Bates
Jeffrey Bar
John Chopin

GIRL SCOUTS' CAMP JOY

At mid-point in our camp program we pause to give a hearty thanks to those who by special contributions have made our days particularly enjoyable. Mrs. Roswell Harding spent a week at the Camp and helped in many ways. We have an unusually fine nature study this year and appreciated the information that Mrs. Henry Fitts gave us when she showed her collection of stuffed birds.

Story hour is always a popular part of the Brownie Camp Day and we are indebted to Mrs. James Willing for her assistance with stories. Mrs. Richard Smith and Mrs. Thomas Hill have also given many hours at Camp this year.

Perhaps our most distinguished guest was Chief Grey Eagle who entertained both Brownies and Scout Campers one morning.

Mrs. R. P. Webster has helped in a way that will be remembered with gratitude by the adults for she prepared coffee at noon.

Our Director, Mrs. Francis Parsons, has achieved a nice balance in the over-all plan — a real task for there are only 16 sessions. Great progress is evident in the development of skills, at the same time there is boundless enthusiasm for studies and sports.

A CONCEPT OF ROTARY

The following, by Dr. Forbes H. Norris, Superintendent of Schools and newly elected Governor of Rotary District 288 will prove interesting reading and instructive to those who may wonder what Rotary is all about.

"A true concept of Rotary is the responsibility of all Rotarians. In the minds of too many people, any civic club is just another group that meets to eat. As one of our Junior Rotarians said last week, he thought Rotary was a place where men met to eat and eat and eat. To some of our own members, Rotary may be a kind of Chamber of Commerce whose chief concern is better business relations.

"My attendance at the International Assembly at Lake Placid a few weeks ago gave me an insight and a concept of Rotary that I would like to pass on to this whole District. I have attended some four or five International Conventions, but this meeting, because of its size, gave opportunities for fellowship and friendship not found in a large meeting.

"At the Lake Placid meeting, there were slightly more than 600 registrants. In this group, 51 nations were represented. There were great diversities in language, national backgrounds, economic levels and religions. There one found Christian, Jew, Mohammedan, Buddhist, and Hindu. Yet in spite of all of these diversities, there was a commonness of spirit and a feeling of harmony and unity that defied all barriers.

"The barriers that divide men are largely artificial and man-made. It is this spirit of Unity that gives Rotary so much meaning. Like Science, Rotary knows no barrier, no boundary, no flag, no race, no creed. It is not a substitute for religion, or ethics, or patriotism. The good Rotarian is fundamentally strong in religion and high minded in civic affairs. This feeling and spirit of Unity of a fundamental commonness out of many diversities is a basic part of the true concept of Rotary.

"Another phase of this concept is that you and I are Rotary. This is not just an organization with a constitution and by-laws. Those are the outward signs. The real Rotary is you and I, and the things we do and believe. For, Rotary, like the Flag, is ever in the making; Paul Harris started it; you and I are making and re-making it every day by the way we live and work and play. I hope I can emblazon over this District this year, the truth that you and I are Rotary.

"In the concept of Rotary, one finds exemplified the worth and dignity of the individual. No question is raised as to one's station in life, but it is the man himself that counts. If Rotary were to select a poem that expresses this belief, it would undoubtedly be that poem of Robert Burns — 'A Man's A Man.' No matter a man's station in life, his economic status, his social group, "a man's a man for that". I know of no organization where the real worth of a man is more basic, where a man stands on his own merit more completely than in Rotary; it is in Rotary that the chief concern is not who are you, but what are you.

"The classification principle is the organizational procedure that Rotary has to recognize the merit and worth of the individual. If this principle is carried into actual practice, as it should be, then I will represent my classification with deep humility and a great sense of responsibility. In assuming my role in Rotary, I face a challenge; I guard a trust.

"Within the concept of Rotary are found the rewards and treasures of the good neighbor. We get so busy rushing here and there that we forget or do not see the common, ordinary, everyday things that make life worth living. We forget the power of a handshake, the warmth of a smile, the cheer of a greeting.

"We forget that people, like mirrors, reflect all that they face. There are many people who crave and need a slap on the back, a firm grip of the hand, a cheery hello. Yet, we are so weighed down by the clouds of our own little world that we do not see the rainbows we can bring to the lives of others. I am reminded of the old Negro spiritual, 'Slow-Down'.

'Slow me down, Lawd. I's a-goin' to fast,
I can't see my brother when he's walkin' past.
I miss a lot o' good things day by day,
I don't know a blessin' when it comes my way.
Slow me down, Lawd. I's a-goin' too fast!'

"Some one has said: 'If you would know a people, then find the questions they are asking.' A big question in Rotary and a part of this concept is that of service. How can I do a better job? How can I be a better citizen? What can I do to further the aims and ideals of Rotary?

"A good Rotarian is a good citizen. Regardless of party, he is an advocate and supporter, first of all, of good, clean, honest government. The grafter has no place in his scheme of things. I would like to see every club and every member of this District become aggressive champions of clean, efficient government. As John Wesley years ago said to his friend: 'Friend Drummond, this night we have started a fire which shall not be quenched in all England.' So, would I like to see the 2,500 Rotarians in this area start a fire for good government that could not be quenched in all America. What questions are we asking about government?

"In a troubled world, with youth confused and facing interrupted lives, what is my part? As an individual and alone, I can do little. But Rotary offers me an avenue and a way whereby I can unite with over 350,000 men and we can work shoulder to shoulder. Here is the union and the unity which give strength and purpose to the individual. Through Rotary, I can see myself multiplied by over 350,000 times and I become a force in the world. By this group action, the individual comes into power.

"In olden times and with the coming of the king, there went out the call: 'Make ye his path straight.' Following this Biblical injunction, and fortified by the unity and inspiration of Rotary, and seeing the problems of youth as the opportunity of the world, I shall endeavor to have Rotary be an instrument to 'make the path straight', so that youth might have reason to bless, and not to curse.

"If I become a part of all that I meet, if I have this concept, then Rotary offers me the treasures of the earth — precious jewels of friendship, the harmony and inner strength that comes from association with men of good will the knowledge that:

'Four things a man must learn to do
If he would make his record true;
To think without confusion clearly;
To love his fellowmen sincerely;
To act from honest motives purely;
To trust in God and Heaven securely.'"

The Sons of Italy and the Winchester Brick Co. were the only teams to win two games during the past week in the Town Softball League. As a result the Sons have firmly established themselves in first place and with only three weeks left in the regular schedule are virtually certain to close the season at the top spot. The Winchester Brick Co. moved into fourth place by their two victories, and the addition of Marty Joyce will bolster their pitching enough to predict that they will win a playoff berth.

The Fitzgerald Contracting Co. and the White Shirts were the double losers of the past week of play. The Fitzgeralds are not playing the hustling brand of ball they displayed several weeks ago and must pull themselves together or face an early elimination in the playoffs. The White Shirts continue to lose tough ball games as they went two extra innings before succumbing to the Winchester Brick Co. by a score of 6-5 on a home run by Rich Farrell in the ninth inning.

MERCHANTS DEFEAT SOMERVILLE

The Merchants downed the Palmer Club of Somerville at Leonard on Monday evening in an abbreviated twilight game by a 9-2 score.

Jim Griffin and Bill Burke were the heavy stickers for the locals with 3 for 3 respectively.

A defensive gem was Sonny McLaughlin leaping one hand catch of a line drive.

Charlie Johnson playing his first game at third indicated by his fine play that he will make a strong bid for a starting role.

The Merchants have now won 6 and lost three in Inter-City League competition.

LOCALS SHUT OUT HOBOES

The Merchants shut out the Arlington Hoboes 4 to 0 last Friday at Leonard Field.

Bobby Farrell pitching for the first time in two seasons was in excellent form allowing only one hit during his five inning stick. He retired in favor of Delorey in the sixth.

Kiniry gave up only three hits but his base on balls cost him the game.

The Merchants scored two in the third on a pass to DiIorio, a bunt by Cirurso and a long single by Serieka and he scored on an overthrow, the other two runs came on a pass to Chisholm followed by Murphys' triple to center field. Murphy scored on a wild pitch.

HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL

Season Disappointing

Winchester High School's past baseball season was disappointing to supporters of the team and surprising to the experts who pretty generally picked the Indians to win the Middlesex League Championship and go on to the interscholastic tournament in Boston.

The Indians chances for their third championship of the year and fourth unbeaten season were dealt a staggering blow before the actual schedule got under way. "Bobby" Flaherty, experienced shortstop and as fast a boy as the squad boasted, was lost for the season when he fell during a practice game while rounding first base and got a badly broken arm. Flaherty, a good fielder with a great throwing arm and a real threat on bases, would have made a lot of difference to this year's club, but even worse than his loss was the injury sustained by the team's veteran hurler, Charlie Murphy.

Murphy, who pitched some great ball for the high school as a junior and also helped pitch the Winchester Junior Legion to a district championship, tore a muscle in his throwing shoulder while getting in shape for this year's campaign, and while he did pitch throughout the season, his condition prevented him from doing the hurling everyone had expected of him.

Winchester's pitching all season was not as effective as it was expected to be, primarily because both Murphy and Symmes, the key box-men, were in Washington on the basketball team trip for the best part of a week when they should have been readying themselves for the baseball season.

To make matters worse, after the boys got back, there was nearly a week of rain with the cancellation of two practice games arranged by Coach Bartlett to help his team sharpen up for its regular schedule.

All this happened before the season started, and undoubtedly helped to keep the Indians from a championship season. In spite of these handicaps, however, the Club could have won the Middlesex League title had the boys wanted to play ball badly enough. The same spirit that carried the basketball team to victory, in spite of all sorts of obstacles, could have brought a baseball championship to Winchester, but the boys just didn't have it, and though they at times looked like, as they undoubtedly were, the best team in the league, the Indians

Key games were booted away on errors or lost for the lack of one real clutch hit, the Indians leaving an unbelievable number of baserunners stranded throughout the season.

Winchester's batting averages were not too bad with four players above the .300 mark and six hitting .260 or better. Stowell Symmes, who pitched and played the outfield, led the team with .364, followed by Co-Captain Dave Dalton, .333; Charlie Murphy, pitcher and first base, .326; and Charlie McLaughlin, ss, .308. Prescott Keyes, outfielder, had a virtual .300 average, hitting .296; and Jimmy Griffin, outfielder, hit for .260. "Moosie" Bellino, .237; Co-Captain John Dilorio, .222; and "Jocko" Serieka, .220; were the others above the .200 mark.

For all his bad shoulder, Murphy had a pitching record of five games won and a single loss. Symmes, workhorse of the team, won three and lost seven, pitching both the Melrose and Stoneham games and one of the two Reading games. Young Norman Delorey pitched the other Reading game and won it, also pitching and winning one of the two Woburn games. If this sophomore had better health during the season so that he could have pitched more often, Winchester's winning record might have been considerably improved.

Others who appeared in several games as pitchers were Brown, DeFilippo and DiIorio, though none of them has any official record. Pete Coon did practically all the catching, though Procopio did figure in the lineup occasionally.

Playing the outfield regularly were Jimmy Griffin, "Prep" Keyes and "Jocko" Serieka, backed by DeFilippo and DiSilva. Co-Captain Dilorio and Murphy played first base, with Co-Captain Dalton at second, Bellino, McLaughlin and Dilorio at shortstop and Ron MacKenzie at third. Bob Taylor was team manager.

Reading won the Middlesex League championship with Winchester finishing no better than third, or tied for third. The Indians won ten, lost six and tied one. This record might not have been so bad had it not been for the high hopes everyone had of a championship because of the veteran material available to start the season.

The failure of the team to live up to its advance boosting was particularly unfortunate because this season was the last in which Ted Bartlett will coach the team, due to a School Committee ban on what the members believe is excessive extra-curricular activity. Ranking with the best baseball coaches in Winchester High's history, the hard-working "Bart" deserved to end his baseball coaching career in Winchester on a championship note.

Following is the season's record:

PLAYGROUND NOTES

Aided by the good weather of the past week, no less than 15 contests were played in the various Playground Leagues as the program is now operating at maximum. Despite two home runs by Bob Jacobellis for the losers, the Loring Seniors defeated the Leonard Seniors 9-6 as Jack Connors made his pitching debut a successful one. The West Side Seniors won two games during the past week with Arthur Sullivan relieving successfully in the first game and going all the way in the second.

The West Side Intermediates defeated the Loring Intermediates behind the strong pitching of John Chapin who also banged out another home run to help his own cause. Just to show the strength of their pitching staff, the West Side Intermediates defeated Loring again during the week with Rennie Johnston twirling an 8-0 shut out. The Leonard Intermediates showed their power by banging out a 15-10 victory over the Ginn Intermediates to keep pace with the West Side.

The Junior division teams are providing the most spirited competition with the Little Leaguers making up the core of each of the teams. Don Flynn and Charlie Bond pitched the Loring Juniors to victories over West Side and Leonard respectively. Craig Davenport beat Leonard 10-3 but Jim Dwinell made it 7-6 for the West Side over Tom McGrail and Joel Peckham of Ginn Field. This Junior race promises to be hotly contested as Loring, Ginn, and the West Side all have strong teams.

The West Side kickball team had two exciting games during the week when they were edged by Leonard Field 31-30 and then won an extremely well-played 15-14 game from Loring. The Ginn Field team got sweet revenge on the West Side for that horrible beating last week as Patsy Pooler led the Ginn team to a 31-26 victory. The Junior Boys' Softball League opened its schedule in the past week with Leonard Field beating Loring Avenue twice by scores of 20-10 and 12-11. Warren Bryan was the star of the first game with two home runs for the victors.

BRAVES FIRST HALF CHAMPS

Dwinell's Pitching and Breaks Decide Tight 2-0 Game

The Braves won the first half championship of the Winchester Little League by defeating the Yanks 2-0 in a special play off game on Monday evening. The largest crowd of the season witnessed the well-played game which was dominated by the strong pitching of Jim Dwinell of the Braves and Don Flynn of the Yanks. Both pitchers were superior to the batters as there were no extra base hits and few harshly hit balls.

The Braves tied together three of their four hits in the fourth inning to score their winning pair of runs. Dennis Keane opened the inning with a single through second base. After O'Brien went out, Adams hit back to Flynn on the mound who made the correct play at second but his throw was wide and both runners were safe. Then came the second break as the Yanks were careless and when the return throw to Flynn got away from him, Keane hustled to third base on a piece of smart base running. The importance of this alertness was then emphasized when Danny Serieka dropped a beautiful bunt down the first base line for a base hit as Keane scored the winning run. Fisher hit to Gray at shortstop who threw out Adams at third. Dave Harkins then dropped a single into right field to score Serieka from second base with the second run of the inning.

It was a tough game for the Yanks and Flynn to lose but the teams are so evenly matched that it was bound to take a break or two to decide the winner. The Yanks had the greater scoring opportunities but Dwinell was equal to the occasion each time as he twice retired the third batter with the bases loaded. Dave Power contributed the fielding gem of the game as he knocked down a hard hit ground ball with his gloved hand and recovered the ball in time to nip the runner at first.

A fitting climax to a spirited contest came at the end of the game when the players of each team gathered around in a circle to give a cheer for their opponent. This is the sort of sportsmanship that makes Little League the wonderful program that it is for the youth of Winchester.

RED CROSS NOTES

Bedford Picnic

On Wednesday of last week, the Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross, gave its annual picnic for 186 patients of the Bedford Veterans Hospital. The picnic is held in the beautiful grove about a mile from the Hospital where tables are spread under the trees and on the out-door fireplace the hamburgers are cooked. This is one of the busiest days of the year for the Red Cross canteen but the results are well worth the planning and the work. For many of the patients, this is the only picnic they may have for the summer.

The following Red Cross canteen members with Mrs. Ray Mauger the chairman, were responsible for this successful day:

Mrs. Kingman P. Cass
Mrs. Harrison Dodge
Mrs. George W. French
Mrs. Dora Herbert
Mrs. Albert I. Parker
Mrs. William O. Thompson
Mrs. Whitelaw Wright

Local postal employees presently on vacation include Assistant Postmaster Edward J. Martin and Carriers Dan O'Leary, Frank Shaw and Hugh McElhinney.

TOOK SOLO FLIGHT

Naval Aviation Cadet Holbrook Bugbee, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bugbee of 7 Dartmouth street, recently completed the first phase of his naval aviation training at Whiting Field, Milton, Fla., by taking his solo flight.

Working for his Navy Wings of Gold and a commission as Ensign in the United States Navy, Bugbee flew for the first time unescorted by an instructor in the Navy's sturdy SNJ Texan Trainer.

Bugbee, who attended Deerfield Academy, Deerfield, Mass., and Hamilton College, Clinton, New York, reported for duty at Whiting Field April 4, 1952.

MERCHANTS DOWN READING

The Merchants defeated Reading last Tuesday evening at Reading by a score of 6 to 3.

A big first inning told the story, Griffin reached as a hit batsman but was washed out on a fielder's choice with Dilorio reaching safely. Tansey singled sending Dilorio to third. Both scored on "Jocko" Serieka's tremendous homer. Dalton walked moving to third on McLaughlin's perfect hit and run. Murphy singled to right, to score Dalton and McLaughlin.

Murphy pitched good ball but tired in the sixth, after passing two batters Dilorio relieved with two out. He struck out the last man on a called third strike.

The Winchester Little League completed the first half of its schedule last week, and so close had been the competition that a play-off was necessary to decide whether the Braves or the Yankees were the first half winner. The Braves won the playoff in a tight game, 2 - 0, Monday evening before a good sized crowd of parents and friends of the Little Leaguers, as well as many others who thoroughly enjoy watching the youngsters play. Your Star representative was among the latter, and though President Bartlett assured us the game was not as good as many played during the first half, we got a lot of fun out of it. We were especially impressed with the quick thinking of the boys in several instances, indicated by their throwing to the proper bases after fielding balls hit to them, their heads up base running and their evident knowledge of the rules of the game. Managers may call the plays offensively, but in the field and to some extent on the bases the boys are on their own, which is one of the good things about baseball. It was good to see the winning and losing teams cheer each other after the game, and to watch the winning players congratulate their pitcher after the final out. The Little Leaguers are learning some valuable lessons on Manchester Field, both in technical baseball and sportsmanship. So far at least they are having a good time doing it, and their parents and neighbors are equally happy watching them in action. Winchester should benefit from its Little League activity in many ways. Not the least of them should be a crop of ball players with poise and ability to improve the caliber of future high school teams.

PRAISE FOR POLICE

The following letter to Police Chief Charles I. Harrold is published as being of general interest to residents of the town.

Chief Charles Harrold
Winchester Police Department
Winchester

Dear Sir:

I wish to express my sincere thanks in appreciation of the service your officers rendered my son by safeguarding his personal property, which remained in the car which he was driving, after an automobile accident on Washington street last Sunday.

The courteous and helpful assistance, both at the scene of the accident and at the hospital, of your officers, is certainly worthy of the highest commendation.

Although I am not a resident of Winchester, I am deeply indebted to you and grateful for the efficient methods by which you conduct your department.

I feel that your townspeople should be made aware of these facts, thus have taken the liberty of sending a copy of this letter to your local newspaper for publication.

Respectfully yours,
Richard L. Hornbeck

A REAL BLESSING

Editor of the Star:

Having lived in the State of Massachusetts for some fifteen years, I feel qualified to give my opinion of the great blessing which the town enjoys in our Winchester Theater.

Its inviting and charming entrance, opening into a spacious hall and an atmosphere of restfulness enhancing the beautiful Screen of unusual dimensions, is pleasing to the most exacting state of the individual or group. The management and supervisors deserve great credit for the pleasure created, combined with the dignity of so many magnificent pictures of the best acting possibilities, while containing the essence of high-standing morals and inspiration!

We owe much gratitude to our screen actors who protray so vividly the realities of our present day existence as well as such great comparisons with past history; not to mention the greatness of their generosity in giving so much of themselves for so little of the public's time and money.

May they never surrender the good works accomplished by the Screen of Revelation!

STAR BRINGS WINCHESTER TO THIS SOLDIER

Editor of the Star:

I want to take this opportunity to thank the Winchester Star for making Winchester so close yet it's thousands of miles away. While here in Europe I have been able to read about every item and issue brought before the townspeople. The wonderful coverage of sports for Winchester High and also the beginning of the Little League has brought me many hours of reading pleasure.

When I receive the Star I sit right down and read it. It's almost as if I were in my own living room reading about everything which is happening and will happen. Only now every article seems to bring more news and is twice as interesting. I am sure glad to be able to be a regular subscriber to the Star. Keep up the good work.

Sincerely yours,

HAD RUPTURED APPENDIX

Mr. Clarence Donaghey of Glenwood avenue, well known clerk at the Winchester Postoffice, underwent an emergency operation for a ruptured appendix performed by Dr. George Marks, Monday at the Winchester Hospital. Mr. Donaghey had been back at work only a week after undergoing an operation for an abcessed neck at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary. He was reported Thursday as in an oxygen tent, but his condition, though serious, was somewhat improved.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Marriage intentions have been filed with the town clerk by Daniel James Cirone of 20 Arlington street, Woburn, and Elena Adelina Gambino of 38 Swanton street.

Miss Shirley Salyer, daughter of Mrs. Florence Salyer of Black Horse terrace, has been transferred by American Airlines from Laguardia Field in New York to International Airport in Los Angeles, Cal. This is Miss Salyer's third year as a hostess with American.

Among those affected by the heat of last week was Dr. J. Churchill Hindes of Stetson Hall, popular retired dentist, who was overcome while at the Winchester Trust Company Friday. He was taken to the Winchester Hospital where his condition was found to be not serious. He showed marked improvement through this week and yesterday was expected to leave the hospital in a short time.

The Winchester Fire Department sent apparatus to Mystic street in Arlington near the Winchester line late Wednesday afternoon when the mutual aid box 359 was sounded. The men found the alarm to have been false.

Some time during Tuesday night the back seat was stolen from an automobile parked in the driveway at the home of Mr. J. R. Humphreys, 93 Wildwood street. The police were notified.

GOOSE-EGG MYSTERY SOLVED

For some time Park Superintendent "Babe" Mullen and Town Hall Custodian Lee Mellett, with his assistant, Charlie Sousa, have been trying to find the party responsible for robbing the nests of the geese on the island behind the town hall. Boys have been blamed for the damage done the nests and the loss of eggs, but apparently this is one bit of mischief that cannot be laid to the youngsters.

While at the rear of the hall Tuesday, Mr. Mellett noticed a large black dog skirting the mill pond along the Parkway shore, coming from the direction of Main street. The big fellow approached the town hall and finally made his way onto the island by jumping over the fence on the bridge.

Once on the island, the dog made a bee-line to the ducks' nests, which had been cleverly camouflaged by Lee and Charlie, pushing aside the coverings and making off with a large goose-egg held carefully in his mouth.

A war-whoop from the irate Mr. Mellett resulted in the dog dropping the egg and leaving promptly, via the water, steps being taken by Mr. Mellett to make the return performance on the part of the dog extremely unlikely.

Sterner measures, however, will have to be taken, for the dog, far from discouraged, has been seen hanging around twice since he was driven off on Tuesday.

Mr. Mellett did get across to the dog that he wasn't welcome on the island, and the animal is now showing extreme caution in his approach, keeping a safe distance if anyone happens to be in sight at the town hall.

The dog is licensed but there were no introductions on the day he and Mr. Mellett met. Lee and Mr. Sousa, to say nothing of Mr. Mullen, would be very glad to learn the identity of the marauder.

DAIRY QUEEN POPULAR SPOT

The New Dairy Queen refreshment stand at 156 Main street in Woburn, across the street from the A & P supermarket, is proving popular with many in Winchester and Woburn as well as motorists who stop to get the cones and sundaes "with the curl on top", sold there exclusively in this section.

The Dairy Queen opened Saturday, June 21, under the ownermanagement of Dan and Violet Palmerino. They report that their "curl on top" refreshments, which are frozen just before being served, are attracting young and old to their stand to taste this deliciously different treat. All sorts of frozen desserts and refreshments are served at the Dairy Queen as well as sodas of all flavors, expertly dispensed.

The owners of the new Dairy Queen extend a cordial invitation to Winchester lovers of good things to eat to visit their spacious establishment which features both the usual, and particularly popular window service.

LEGIONNAIRES IN SECOND PLACE WITH TWO WINS THIS WEEK

When the Legionnaires played at Medford two weeks ago with "Skitchy" Carroll relieving DiSilva in the fifth, Coach Frankie Provinzano noticed that "Skitchy" fanned five in four innings. With the hunch that "Skitchy" could beat Medford, the coach started him on the mound against this team last Friday evening, and he came off the field with a brilliant 2-0 victory. The southpaw fanned thirteen in eight innings of play and issued but four bases on balls. "Skitchy" also came through by getting a hit and having a stolen base. At no time was 'Skitchy" in trouble, since he allowed but one hit in the third and another in the sixth. The first inning ended with 5 pitched balls. The first two batters flied out and the third batter fanned. In the second inning "Skitchy" got all three batters by the strike-out route. In fact, Carroll was able to fan two batters in every inning but the first, third and eighth, which is superb pitching in anybody's book. In the hit column for Winchester were Joe Bellino and Bob McLaughlin with two each and Connors and Carroll with one safety apiece. Jackie Connors and Bob McLaughlin made spectacular plays at second and third base, respectively.

On Tuesday evening Malden visited Loring avenue but found difficult going and retreated with a 15-1 setback. Charlie DiSilva, after a long lay-off from mound duty, came through with a good job well done. Charlie fanned seven in seven innings and allowed seven bases on balls. Charlie got in hot water in the first inning when he allowed a hit and two bases on balls to load the bases, but he chokek out the fire when he fanned two batters to get out of the inning wih no scores made. The Winchesterites to offer fireworks in this game were Jackie Connors and "Skitchy" Carroll, with two hits each, and Joe Bellino, Dave Pratt, Hokie Procopio, Lou Farrell, Joe Dilorio, and Bob McLaughlin with one safety apiece. One regular and two substitutes were the only batters to go hitless. The fireworks exploded in the fourth inning when twelve batters took their places at the plate. These twelve batters reached the rival pitcher in this one inning for nine runs. Other tallies made were one in the first, and five in the second. Malden scored the lone run in the sixth. Defensive honors for this contest goes to shortstop Lou Farrell, who is doing a splendid job. In this game Lou made a sensational catch of a fly ball over his head while running toward left field. On another play Lou made a beautiful back-hand pick-up of a ground ball while moving to his right and threw to first to nip the runner.

No league contests are scheduled now until the Monday after the "Fourth," when the locals travel to Trum Field, Somerville, to tackle the league leaders. During this same week, the Winchesterites travel to Reading on Wednesday and to South Commons, Lowell, on Friday evening.

Miss Eleanor Dudley, who holds a government position in Washington, has been spending the week with her sister, Miss Virginia Dudley of Maxwell road. Both visited their father in Portland, Maine, last week-end, Eleanor going from Washington and Virginia from Winchester. They returned to town together.

YANKS EDGED BRAVES

The Yanks reversed Monday evening's defeat at the hands of the Braves Tuesday night, by edging the first half champions, 6 - 5 on Manchester Field. A single run decided both games, so evenly are these teams matched.

Eddie Ardini of the Yanks was the hitting star with three out of five, including a triple. The summary:

CAT BROUGHT HOME PARRAKEET

No it's not the heat! It really happened! "Frisky", Mrs. Paul O'Neil's cat actually brought home a live parrakeet to the O'Neil home at 25 Park avenue Tuesday evening, not once but twice!

It was about 6 o'clock when Mrs. O'Neil first saw "Frisky" coming home from the direction of Highland avenue with something a very bright green in his mouth. As she went out to investigate Frisky released his grip and a handsome parrakeet dropped from his mouth and hopping about a bit, flew away.

At 8:30 "Frisky" again brought the same bird home, and this time the O'Neils got him into a cage for safe keeping. Evidently a valued pet, the handsome bird had a blue plastic tag on its left leg with the number 164. Once in the cage, the parrakeet showed no ill effects of his two rides in "Frisky's" mouth and after fluttering about on his perch, apparently settled down for the night.

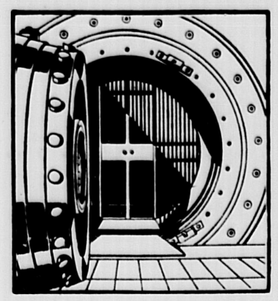

The knowlege and skills accumulated by the O'Neils do not include the care of parrakeets, but Mrs. Stanley Mullen, a neighbor and wife of Park Superintendent "Babe" Mullen, imparted the information that a former Winchester resident, Mrs. Fred Wilberger of Medford, is a dealer in the birds and would have some ideas.

Mrs. O'Neil communicated with Mrs. Wilberger, who offered to send for the bird and care for it pending the arrival of its owner. The offer was accepted by Mrs. O'Neil with alacrity and the bird is now at the Wilberger home. It is a vivid green with yellow, flecked with black along the back. The number, again, is 164.

If the bird is yours, or you know to whom it may belong, Mrs. Wilberger and Mrs. O'Neil will be glad to have you call MYstic 6-0952.

That human freedom prospers in proportion to mankind's understanding of God and man's relationship to Him will be brought out in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "God" at Christian Sciences services on Sunday.

The following selection from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will be included in the Lesson-Sermon: "The enslavement of man is not legitimate. It will cease when man enters into his heritage of freedom, his God-given dominion over the material senses. Mortals will some day assert their freedom in the name of Almighty God." (Page 228).

And from the Holy Bible, I Cor. 2: "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God."

EARLY GLIDDEN TOURS HELPED PROVE AUTOS

Many modern motorists have changed a tire. Some have never raised the hoods on their automobiles. It isn't necessary. The service station attendant does it.

It was not always thus, says the National Geographic Society. In the early days of the automobile it was necessary for the driver to be able not only to change a tire but to take it from the rim and patch the tube, then pump up the tire and put it back.

Wearing his duster, he spent hours under the hood. He had to know how to clean and change spark plugs and ignition points, how to blow out his gas lines, and how to make innumerable other repairs with baling wire and other such makeshift materials.

Among the early devices to prove the reliability of the automobile, and to test improvements, were the Glidden Tours, sponsored by Charles J. Glidden, Boston industrialist and onetime associate of Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone.

Modern Revivals

Glidden tours were not speed races as were the early Vanderbilt Cup and other contests. Rather, they involved stock automobiles and teams of cars entered by owners, manufacturers, and other interested parties. Emphasis was placed on ability of entries to finish specified cross-country trips with a minimum of repairs and wear on the drivers.

The tours have been revived in recent years by early-automobile enthusiasts. But the revivals, while run with antique vehicles, can never be the same as the originals, run from 1905 through 1913, with the exception of 1912.

The carefully restored old cars of this year's tours to Washington from such widely separated cities as Chicago, Detroit, and Boston will travel over roads designed for modern motor traffic with speed limits far beyond the capabilities of most of the machines.

Many Abandoned Makes

In the 1905 - 13 Glidden tours many roads were little more than rutted cowpaths. Broken springs and axles were ordinary hazards, and tire trouble was so commonplace that it was considered a routine annoyance. The modern contestants travel on tires mounted on the same narrow rim as the early entries, but like new first-run tires except for size and tread designs. Thus the modern Glidden tourist can travel with little fear of having to get out the tire irons and the hot or cold patches and blowout shoes.

Both the early contests and the revivals involved the names of many automobiles no longer manufactured, as well as some still represented in dealers' showrooms. Among the better-known early cars were such as the Pierce-Arrow, Locomobile, Maxwell, Chalmers, Stanley and White steamers, E M F, Simplex, Franklin, Mercer, Marmon, and Stutz.

WAR PRISONERS OF PAST NEVER HAD IT LIKE THIS

Caesar, Hannibal, and even the generals of the American Civil War would be astounded could they know of the agreements made by modern civilized nations to protect prisoners of war, for until the end of the last century little but the whim of the victor governed the fate of the captured enemy.

Wars of extermination in which no prisoners were taken occurred in ancient and medieval times, says the National Geographic Society. The Romans usually made slaves of defeated soldiers. As late as 1780, some governments held their prisoners for ransom.

The French humanitarians Montesquieu and Rousseau are given credit for advancing the thesis that soldiers who lay down their arms are entitled to life and humane treatment. The civilized nations of the world drew up a prisoner code at The Hague in 1899 and despite frequent lapses, have honored it in general ever since.

Hague Convention Modernized

The Hague Convention has been reviewed and modernized periodically. One such revision produced in 1929 the so-called Geneva Convention, growing out of the fact that the Central Powers took advantage of loopholes in the old instrument during World War I.

Russia never signed the 1929 Convention. The result has been a wrangle between the Soviet Union and the Western Nations concerning the fate of thousands of German and Japanese soldiers who disappeared into Russia during World War II.

But the Soviet Union, with sixty other nations, is a signatory to the current Geneva Convention, drawn up in 1949 to correct abuses discovered between 1940 and 1945. The United Nations forces, at least, scrupulously adhere to the Convention in Korea.

One reason Koje's murderous mutineers were treated more mildly than many thought they should have been was the code's ban on mass reprisals. The Convention also says prisoners must be given decent housing, nourishing food and the right to communicate with their families.

They may not be punished for trying to escape or refusing to answer questions of a military nature. They are guaranteed medical care, freedom of worship, exercise, and the opportunity to participate in sports and intellectual pastimes.

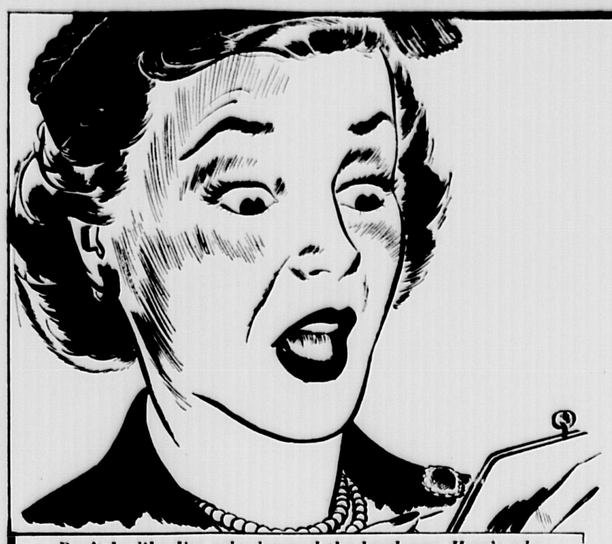

Enlisted captives can be worked but must be paid for their labors. Such labor may not further their enemy's war effort. It is forbidden to insult or humiliate them, or to take from them their personal property, their decorations and their insignia of rank.

A major Geneva stipulation requires the nations to give the enemy complete and accurate lists of his soldiery taken in battle. This proviso, a part of the 1929 agreement, led to the East-Wes impasse on Axis captives, for the Soviet Union furnished no lists.

GEOGRAPHIC ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

In Barbados, sugar is king. Cane stalks ripple in the trade winds over four-fifths of the island's area. Cane cutters, harvesting from January until June, prefer to cut with the wind because the fields are oven-hot and tall cane blocks the breeze, says the National Geographic Society.

St. James' Palace, official seat of the British court, stands on the one-time site of a hospital for 14 "maidens that were leprous," mentioned in British history of the year 1100.

I felt icy panic when I opened my purse

It wasn't there. The fifty-five dollars in cash for the final payment on the car.

"Jim," I said, "the money . . . it's not in my purse."

"It must be," he said. "Look again."

"No, Jim, it's not here . . . see for yourself."

Jim grabbed the purse and started pawing through it. "Check your pockets," he said.

I did. No luck. Jim was boiling, "We've both been stupid, but this is not going to happen again. We're going to open a checking account."

"But what about this money, Jim?"

"I guess it's cost us fifty-five dollars to learn what a lot of other people already know. With checks, something like this just can't happen. To me that's reason enough for opening a checking account."

We did. Now paying bills is a lot easier, and there's no more panic when I open my purse.

All names are fictitious, but the situation happens every day.

Don't be like Jim, who learned the hard way. Here's why you should pay by check:

- Eliminates loss or theft of money.
- Time-saving, convenient — write a check, mail it.
- Your cancelled check is a receipt
- Your check stubs are a record of bills paid.

Lynch of 16 Chestnut street, to Vincent Daniel Gugger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gugger of 401 Jefferson Boulevarde, Annadale, Staten Island, N. Y. The Rev. Thomas Burns performed the 10 o'clock marriage ceremony and was also celebrant of the nuptial mass which followed.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Lynch was attended by Mrs. Francis Poirier of Manchester, Vt., as matron of honor, and by Mrs. John Jahant of Sanford, Fla., sister of the bridegroom; and Miss Martha McNulty of Memphis, Tenn., as bridesmaids.

The bride wore a gown of Belgian lace fashioned with a portrait neckline and bouffant skirt with tiers of lace and scalloped ruffles. Her veil was of illusion and Belgian lace to match her gown and she carried a prayer-book with a white orchid.

The matron of honor wore a blue ballerina-length dress with a matching stole and half hat. Her bouquet combined blue banda orchids with Pinocchio roses. The bridesmaids carried the same flowers and wore identical shrimp-colored dresses like that of the honor attendant with matching half hats.

Robert Lynch of Winchester, brother of the bride, was Mr. Gugger's best man, and another brother of the bride, Dr. Brock Lynch of Winchester, ushered, with Paul Hanlon of Medway, Francis Poirier of Manchester, Vt., and John Carlan of Brooklyn, N. Y.

A reception was held after the ceremony at "Lynbro", Priscilla Beach, summer home of the bride's parents, where colorful early summer flowers made an attractive setting.

Mrs. Lynch, mother of the bride, was gowned in seafoam blue silk shantung and wore orchids to match her orchid-colored hat. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Gugger, wore orchids with her blue lace dress and matching flowered hat.

After a honeymoon spent in Bermuda Mr. and Mrs. Gugger will live in Yonkers, N. Y., where the bridegroom is a high-school teacher.

The bride is a graduate of Immaculate Conception Seminary in Washington, D. C., St. Mary of the Woods College, Indiana, in the class of 1950, and of the Katharine Gibbs School in Boston. Mr. Gugger is a graduate of Notre Dame University at South Bend, Indiana, and of Fordham University in New York.

JR. MRS. GUILD

The first of two summer meetings of the Jr. Mrs. Guild of the First Congregational Church will be held on Tuesday evening, July 8th, at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Gilman Wallace, 117 Church street.

All Jr. Mrs. members are cordially invited to attend this meeting to sew items for the Church Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Badger have opened their summer home at Oyster Harbor, Osterville.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE NOTES

A special meeting was held on June 27th to consider the Boiler Inspector's report on the High School boilers. Messrs. Charles T. Main, Jr., and Melvin Kishler of Committee met with the School Committee.

In a report of inspection just made, the Boiler Inspector described the present boilers as in too poor a condition to warrant their use for another heating season, and stated that they should be replaced.

On the advice of the Building Committee representatives, the School Committee requested one of its members, Professor Earle Littleton, of Tufts Engineering School, to discuss the whole question with heating engineering firms with the idea of retaining one as a consultant, and who would study the matter and make recommendations.

The School Committee is faced, also, with the possibility of spending over $2,000 to install Smoke Screens in both corridors of the Wadleigh Building, as the inspector of the State Department of Safety has indicated he will not certify this building for further use until that has been done.

Other matters considered were:

Miss Anne Dolan, Kindergarten teacher at the Wyman School was granted a year's leave of absence, without pay, to teach children of military personnel in Japan.

Mrs. Teresa Eisenstadt and Miss Esther Colby were elected as Elementary teachers. Mrs. Eisenstadt comes from East Orange, New Jersey schools, and Miss Colby is completing her Master's Degree at Boston University.

CAT CHAT

by
Evelyn Gustafsson, Director
Kalico Kat Research Institute

Getting A New Kitten

If you're choosing a new kitten, the kind you get may depend on how much you want to pay, and what your tastes are.

Of course, the cost needn't bother you! Unless you need an expensive cat to match your interior decoration, or have a weakness for pedigree, right now there's a cute little snub-nosed kitten in the next block, or at your corner grocer's who will grow up to be a devoted and helpful pet, if you will only take him in and give him a little care and affection.

But whether your kitten is plain or fancy, you'll do well to know something about the family and the home from which he comes. Is his mother a well-behaved house cat? Is she healthy, strong, friendly, and clean? More often than not, the mother will pass these qualities on to her kittens.

Your new cat—and you'll have more fun with him if he's a kitten—should be not less than six weeks old. Eight weeks is a safer age at which to take him away from his mother. His diet should consist of lukewarm milk, with a little pablum or cereal, beef juice and scraped raw beef. If you're near a reliable pet shop, get vitamins and calcium to add to the food. They will produce a sturdy cat, free from rickets. At first, meals should be small, and spaced only a few hours apart. You'll find milk is laxative. You may prefer to boil the milk, and cool it, which will lessen the laxative effect. Remember: diarrhea is more dangerous than constipation.

There are milk formulae I've learned to trust through experience. I'll describe them later.

Upon completion, he attended aerographers' school at Lakehurst, New Jersey. After graduation from school, Ulrich was stationed at many Naval Air Stations, including Miami and Bermuda. He reported to the Saipan on January 18, 1952.

Prior to entering the Navy, Ulrich was graduated from the Winchester High School with the class of '46. He later attended the University of Miami and the University of Florida.

The Star has been trying to run down the rumor we heard Tuesday that a resident of Wedgemere avenue locked himself out of his garage and missed a couple of trains diddling around trying to pick the lock instead of sending at once for Locksmith Freddie MacDonald at the Central Hardware. The only clue we have to the identity of householder is that he occasionally pitches horseshoes and has been for years the champion of the Boston Paper Trade.

LOOMIS — CHAPMAN

DAUGHTER OF FORMER WINCHESTER MINISTER MARRIED IN GREENFIELD

Of much Winchester interest is the marriage which took place at All Souls Unitarian Church in Greenfield on Saturday afternoon, June 28, when the minister's daughter, Miss E. Paulette Chapman, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Paul Harmon Chapman of Greenfield and Tamworth, N. H., formerly of this town, became the bride of David Bullard Loomis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Loomis of West Newton and Antrim, N. H. Rev. Mr. Chapman was assisted in performing the 4:30 o'clock ceremony by Dr. Dana McL. Greeley of the Arlington Street Church in Boston. The reception was held at the Stoneleigh-Prospect Hill School, from which the bride was graduated.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Chapman wore a gown of antique ivory satin with a bertha and ruffles of imported Chantilly lace. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a bonnet of old family silk lace and she carried a crescent bouquet of small white orchids, pale pink roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. S. Theodore Guild, Jr., of Cambridge, was her sister's matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert F. Loomis of Chestnut Hill, Mrs. Richard S. Loomis of Belmont, Miss Mary Phillips Leszkiewicz of Braintree, and Mrs. Donald R. Kenyon of Springfield. Wearing gowns of iridescent green taffeta, they carried bouquets of yellow roses with similar flowers in their hair. Sally Ruth Smithson of Westtown, Pa., a cousin of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a daffodil yellow frock and carrying a basket of yellow rosebuds and delphinium.

Robert F. Loomis was best man for his brother, and the ushers included another brother, Richard S. Loomis, S. Theodore Guild, Jr., and John DeWitt Peltz, Jr., of New York City, Warren J. Loring of Concord, George A. Sweet, Jr., of Marblehead, and Edward B. MacMartin of Boston.

The bride lived in Winchester while her father was minister of the Unitarian Church here. She is a graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design. Mr. Loomis prepared for Harvard at Belmont Hill School and also studied at the Bentley School of Accounting and Finance. He and his bride are spending their honeymoon in Bermuda.

WASHINGTON LEADS IN GIRAFFE OUTPUT

Already well known for many things, the Nation's Capital in mid-June became the undisputed center of United States giraffe farming as Helen of the famed Zoo presented a 4½-foot-tall youngster to her admiring public.

Fifth to be born at the Smithsonian Institution's National Zoological Park, the male "baby" was also first second-generation representative in America of his curious species. Only one of the four born earlier failed to survive infancy, says the National Geographic Society.

Herd Started in 1937

The Zoo's giraffe herd was started with four Nubians collected by a National Geographic Society-Smithsonian expedition in 1937. Dr. William M. Mann, Zoo director, led the party, which brought home a shipload of almost 900 animals from far points of the globe.

Just before the Zoo ship reached New York, it ran into a severe storm. The giraffe cages broke loose to careen wildly about the deck. Dr. Mann says he still marvels that the long, delicate legs of the captives sustained no injuries.

The Zoo has operated its herd on what might be described as a limited commercial basis. Pressed for specimens by other zoos, Dr. Mann has sold several giraffes, including one which was shipped safely to Australia.

Giraffes Are Ruminants

Giraffes, natives of Africa, may grow as tall as 19 feet. The ancients coined the name camelopards for these ruminants, or cudchewers, because they appeared to them to resemble camels with leopard coloration.

Their exaggerated necks and legs enable them to browse from the treetops, but they can reach grass and water by awkwardly spreading their forelegs. Signs of awkwardness largely disappear, however, when they break into their fast, rolling gallop, their means of escaping enemies. They rival camels in their ability to go without water.

No one, including Dr. Mann and his staff, has ever heard a giraffe vocalize in any manner. Giraffes are readily tamed, but like the mule, kick viciously with hooves that can shred even lions.

Inhabitant of the earth when dinosaurs first appeared, a New Zealand lizard known as the tuatara has lived practically unchanged through millions of years. Carefully guarded on small outlying islands, tuataras today lead sluggish lives in crevices shared with sea birds, says the National Geographic Society.

YALU RIVER HIGHLY INDUSTRIALIZED IN REGION OF COMBINED AIR ATTACK

Modern power and industrial development is much in evidence along the lower Yalu River where North Korean hydroelectric installations were pounded in a record UN air attack virtually on the eve of the second anniversary of the Korean War.

Time was when small power boats and junks loading as much as 8 tons, could ply the Yalu 120 miles upstream, says the National Geographic Society. Light junks went much farther.

As on Pennsylvania's Susquehanna, however, construction of a series of power dams altered cargo traffic on the Yalu. The river's largest tributary, the Hun, flowing from Manchuria, enters the upper end of the big Suiho Reservoir. The Suiho's dam is 60 miles upstream from the Yalu's mouth.

Down stream from the reported region of heavy bombing of North Korean power plants, lumber, paper, iron, and other mills line both Yalu shores at the facing cities of Antung, Manchuria, and Sinuiju, Korea. Ships of as much as 1,000 tons navigate the channel to these ports during the summer months. From November to April the river is frozen solid except at its salt water mouth.

A 12-span steel railroad bridge on stone piers joining Antung and Sinuiju was called the greatest in all Asia when it was built early in the 20th century. Two eight-foot sidewalks on each side of the bridge tracks were credited with a big part in aiding Koreans and Manchus to understand each other. The bridge, bomb-blasted late in 1950, is 3,098 feet long.

The winding Yalu River forms the western three-fifths of the boundary between Korea and Manchuria. Only for the first 30 miles from its source in the highest of Manchuria's Chang Pai Mountains is it wholly within that Chinese state. Then it takes up its border duties for 450 miles southwestward through hills to Korea Bay of the Yellow Sea.

The Yalu compares with the Susquehanna in its length and in its shoreline of forested hills. Smuggling and immigration violations are peacetime evils that increase during the long winter freeze of this border waterway. After the April thaw, timber rafts in endless procession are its most characteristic sight.

Woodsmen fell the trees—spruce, fir, larch, and pine— in winter, cut them to eight-foot lengths, and bind them in units of eight. As many as 100 units are loosely joined into one raft. Drifting 300 or more miles downstream, the raftsman builds a small hut for his home on the 60- to 80-day journey. He may even grow a small vegetabletable crop aboard.

The Yalu made Western World headlines 45 years ago when Japanese forces dramatically crossed it to begin their surprise victory campaign in the Russo-Japanese War (1904-05). It is not to be confused with China's historic Yellow River (Hwang Ho), the shifting mouth of which is now 450 miles southwestward from that of the Yalu, across the Yellow Sea.

GEOGRAPHIC ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

For U. N. fliers in Korea, winter is a better season than summer. Skies are clear 10 to 15 days a month and the air is dry, whereas in summer's rainy season only one to three days a month have clear skies.

Many New Yorkers call the lower Hudson the North River without knowing just why. The name is a relic of Dutch colonial times when the Delaware, at the other end of New Netherland, was the South River, says the National Geographic Society.

The shell of the paper argonaut, a species of octopus, does not house the body of the animal, as it does in snails, but serves as a baby carriage in which the female guards her eggs until they are ready to hatch.

The weaver birds — among the best known of South Africa — are true to their name. They weave nests from blades of grass and other vegetable fibers, using a fixed and often elaborate design, says the National Geographic Society.

Acapulco, Mexico's resort city on the Pacific Ocean, was known 50 years ago chiefly as a coaling port for steamships and as the former Mexican harbor for Spanish galleons bringing treasure from the Philippines, says the National Geographic Society.

Of the diamonds produced in the Belgian Congo, the world's largest source, only two percent are suitable for gems, notes the National Geographic Society. All others go into varied industrial uses. The yield of Tanganyika's mines is 80 percent gem-quality stones.

Slanted by the swift current flowing east through the Straits of Florida, sea level on the north coast of Cuba is about 17 inches higher than at Key West. Yet they are less than 100 miles apart.

Mountain sheep may lie for hours in a Rocky Mountain snowdrift, but the pressed-down flakes do not melt. The animals' matted coat effectively stops escape of body heat, says the National Geographic Society.

The Delaware River forms a natural boundary for parts of four eastern states, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware.

FATAL ACCIDENT JULY 4

MALDEN MAN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH ON CAMBRIDGE STREET

William L. MacLellan, 58, of 128 Summer street, Malden, was fatally injured shortly before noon on Friday, July 4, when the automobile in which he was riding was in collision with another car at the intersection of Cambridge and Wildwood streets.

According to the Police Mr. MacLellan was one of three passengers riding in a Plymouth business coupe, owned and being driven north on Cambridge street by Harry J. MacArthur of 49 Prospect street, Malden. The other car, a Pontiac sedan, owned by William H. Goodwin of 2 Meadow Lane, Marblehead, was headed west on Wildwood street and was being driven by William H. Goodwin, Jr., 18 year-old son of the owner. Riding with young Goodwin was Miss Joanna M. Nissen of 285 Englewood avenue, New Haven, Conn., living temporarily in Charlestown. Both had been students at Cushing Academy, and according to Goodwin, were on their way back to the school when the accident occurred, he having lost his way temporarily while going through Winchester.

The force of the collision spun the Plymouth around several times, the car continuing along Cambridge street for more than 100 feet after the crash. Mr. MacLellan and his mother, Mrs. Margaret MacLellan, 90, were riding on the seat of the car with the operator, the other passenger, Miss Flora MacLellan, 44, of 128 Summer street, Malden, riding in the open space behind.

Mr. MacLellan was pitched bodily from the car, apparently as it was turning around, he being thrown out on the westerly side of Cambridge street, about 50 feet from the intersection of Wildwood street, his head striking the curbing at the side of the road. His mother was thrown out onto the street at a point about 100 feet from where the cars met. Fortunately traffic on Cambridge street was light at the time or the consequences might have been more severe.

News of the accident was sent to Headquarters and Officer James E. Flaherty was dispatched at once to the scene in a patrol car. Sgt. John J. Dolan followed him and two members of the Fire Department, Henry Heitz and Paul Haggerty, responded with the Police Ambulance. The three MacLellans were taken in the ambulance to the Winchester Hospital, the others involved in the accident being taken to the hospital in private automobiles.

They were treated for cuts, lacerations, bruises and shock and were discharged from the hospital, the 90 year-old Mrs. MacLellan being able to walk out of the hospital after being treated for her injuries.

Mr. MacLellan was attended by Dr. Nelson Fontneau who found he had sustained a fractured skull and other severe head injuries. He was pronounced dead at 12:20 p. m., and his body was viewed by Dr. Harry Benson, associate medical examiner. After striking the curbing with his head Mr. MacLellan was hurled 30 feet further up onto the sidewalk.

Both cars were so badly damaged they had to be towed to Haggerty's Garage. Police say a hearing on the possible issuance of a complaint will be held some time this week at the District Court in Woburn.

Funeral services for Mr. MacLellan were held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the funeral home of A. N. Ward and Son on Maple street in Malden.

CLARENCE SAMUEL DONAGHEY

Clarence Samuel Donaghey of 14 Glenwood avenue, money order clerk at the Winchester Postoffice and a lifelong resident of the town, died Thursday night, July 3, at the Winchester Hospital, following an operation for a ruptured appendix performed the preceding Monday. Previously, he had been back at the Postoffice only a week, following a long layoff, during which he underwent an unusual operation for the removal of an obscess from his neck. His condition following the appendix operation was critical, but on the day of his death hopes were held out for his recovery, and his wife had just returned home from his bedside when his death occurred.

Mr. Donaghey was the son of Hugh, and the late Rebecca (McClay) Donaghey. He was born October 31, 1899, in Winchester, and attended the Winchester schools, graduating from Winchester High School in the class of 1919 and attending Boston University night school.

First working as an electrician's helper for the late E. C. Sanderson, when the latter was an electrical contractor, Mr. Donaghey was later in the employ of Seller's Market as a clerk. He was appointed a clerk at the Winchester Postoffice July 1, 1923, and at the time of his death was serving as money order clerk. He was a member of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks and of the Winchester Postoffice Employees Association.

Mr. Donaghey was a member of the First Congregational Church and a former member of Crystal Fount Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Woburn. His hobby was rifle and pistol shooting and he was a member, and twice president of the Arlington Rifle Club.

He was on several of the club's championship teams, both rifle and pistol, and was well known throughout New England, especially as a pistol shot, having won many prizes. He also coached his older son, Kenneth, who became a top performer, both individually and as a team member of the Arlington Rifle Club.

On October 23, 1926, Mr. Donaghey married Lillian Gray of Winchester, who survives him, with two daughters, Mrs. Dana Hollis (Barbara Donaghey) of Medford, former State AAU swimming champion, and Nancy Jean Donaghey, a sophomore at Winchester High School; two sons, Kenneth Allan, recently discharged from the Marine Corps, now at Northeastern University, and Robert Bruce Donaghey, a pupil at Junior High School. Mr. Donaghey's father, a resident of Winchester, also survives, with two brothers, George A. Donaghey of Winchester and Arthur R. Donaghey of Medford.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Bennett Chapel with the Rev. Lawrence F. Small, assistant at the First Congregational Church, officiating. Interment was in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

At a special meeting of the members of the First Congregational Church of Winchester, held on June 26, 1952, it was unanimously voted to call Dr. Dwight L. Cart, Pastor of the Plymouth Church in Seattle, Washington, to succeed Dr. Howard J. Chidley as Pastor upon Dr. Chidley's retirement on January 2, 1953.

Dr. Cart is a native of Iowa. He graduated from Simpson College in Indianola, Iowa, in 1926, and from Boston University School of Theology in 1929. Following the completion of his studies at Boston University School of Theology, he took graduate work in the Social Ethics Department of Harvard Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Cart has held successful pastorates at the Old North Church in Marblehead, Massachusetts, Trinity Church in Gloucester, Massachusetts, and at Faith Congregational Church in Springfield, Massachusetts, before accepting a call to the Plymouth Church in Seattle, Washington. His work at Faith Congregational Church and at Plymouth Church has been outstanding and has brought him recognition as one of the prominent leaders of the Congregational Church in the United States. He holds honorary degrees from American International College in Springfield, Massachusetts, Northland College, Ashland, Wisconsin, and from his Alma Mater, Simpson College in Iowa.

Mrs. Cart, like her husband, is a native of the Midwest and a graduate of Simpson College. She came east to Boston University where she received her Master's Degree and later did graduate work at Columbia University. In addition to her close association with the life of the Church, Mrs. Cart has been actively interested in Y. W. C. A. and Girl Scout activities.

Dr. and Mrs. Cart have one son, Rodman Cart, a graduate of the University of Washington, who at the present time is attending Yale Divinity School.

JAMES — SCOTT

White gladiolas decorated the main altar of St. Mary's Church on Saturday afternoon, July 5, when Miss Joan M. Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. E. Scott, Jr., of Nelson street, became the bride of William M. James, son of Mrs. Mary James of Water street, Woburn. The Rev. John P. O'Riordan, pastor of St. Mary's, officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony, and the bridal music was played by the church organist, Miss Mary Callahan. Arnold Callahan, lyric tenor, was soloist.

Miss Scott was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white begaline suit with a matching lace hat and veil, and carried a prayerbook, covered with lace and topped with an orchid.

Miss Theresa MacLellan of Somerville was the bride's only attendant. She wore a mauve-colored suit with a lilac flowered hat and veil and carried an old fashioned bouquet. Edward F. James of Winchester was best man for his brother.

A reception was held for members of the immediate families at the 1790 House in North Woburn, the parents of both the bride and bridegroom assisting in receiving. Mrs. Scott, mother of the bride wore a blue print sheer silk dress with a large black straw hat and patent leather shoes, and a corsage of stephanotis and white carnations. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. James, wore the same flowers with her navy sheer print and matching accessories. The bride's 12 year-old sister, Jean, wore a flowered brocade frock with a white hat and slippers and a corsage of pink roses.

After a wedding journey through the White Mountains and Maine Mr. and Mrs. James will live at 58 Water street, Woburn.

HOLIDAY WEEK-END BROUGHT MANY COMPLAINTS

Police Headquarters reported a quiet holiday week-end, so far as serious activity was concerned, but there were many complaints which had to be investigated though no arrests were made. Perhaps the most serious were complaints of marital trouble in the Highlands and West Side hill district, in each case the wife complaining that her husband was on the rampage and that she was afraid for her own safety. In both cases the arrival of the police had a quieting effect and no further action was necessary.

Police reported that there was rather more discharging of banned fireworks about town than usual this year, it apparently being easier to get fireworks this year. The complaints ranged over many sections of the town, but several came from the vicinity of Myrtle street where reported serious illness caused several calls for police intervention in the discharge of firecrackers. Wherever caught in the act those firing off fireworks were relieved of their unlawful explosives.

Following a series of grass fires near Leonard Field Beach Saturday, Officer John Reardon picked up a 13 year-old boy living in that district, who after questioning, admitted having set the fires. The boy was taken to the Central Fire Station where he was given a severe lecture by Captain Ray Hanscom, who warned the boy that any further setting of fires would result in prompt court action.

Saturday evening the police were notified that a hit-and-run motorist had struck a traffic sign on Cambridge street near the residence of Prof. Hoyt C. Hottel. The police found part of a headlight and paint on the signal pole, which enabled them to radio a warning to police in other cities and cars to be on the lookout for the wanted car.

Over the week-end A. H. Weene of 60 Clearwater road, Brookline, reported to the police that a shed he owns on the Brooks Estate on Grove street had been broken into. Officer James F. Noonan investigated and was told by Mr. Weene that property of considerable value had been taken from the shed.

The fireworks celebrations about town hadn't ended by Saturday night, for residents in the vicinity of Nelson street, complained of the discharge of firecrackers in that district shortly after 10 o'clock.

About 10:30 p. m. residents of Church street complained of noisy young people on the wall in front of the Wyman School. Officers John Boyle and James Noonan responded to this complaint and sent home three girls and a boy who were having fun "yelling and singing" to the detriment of the neighborhood's sleep.

MRS. HENRIETTA M. KEENAN

Mrs. Henrietta McCombie Keenan, widow of Frank I. Keenan and a former resident of Winchester, died Saturday, July 5, in Amherst, N. H., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Goodwin, after a three months illness. She was in her 69th year.

Born in Nicktown, Pa., Mrs. Keenan came to Winchester with her husband and family in 1927, living at that time on Forest street. Later the family lived on the Parkway and at 93 Highland avenue, their last home before leaving Winchester being at 21 Brookside avenue. While at that address Mr. Keenan, an insurance appraiser, died December 12, 1945, and the next year Mrs. Keenan went to make her home with her daughter in Amherst, N. H.

While in Winchester Mrs. Keenan was a member of the Guild of the Infant Saviour and of the Fortnightly. In Amherst she had been active socially and in church circles as long as her health permitted.

Besides her daughter in Amherst, the former Regina Keenan; she leaves two sons, Lt. Col. James H. Keenan, USAAF, called home from active duty in Korea by the death of his mother; and Francis H. Keenan of North Reading. There are also four grandchildren and three sisters, Mrs. Annie Swope of Johnstown, Pa., Mrs. Mae Patterson of Harrisburg, Pa., and Miss Emma McCombie of Spangler, Pa. A daughter Agnes Keenan, died in 1950.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning with solemn requiem high mass celebrated at St. Patrick's Church in Milford, N. H. Burial was in Amherst.

PLEADED GUILTY AT WOBURN

William H. Goodwin, Jr., of 2 Meadow road, Marblehead, pleaded guilty to driving so as to endanger Wednesday morning in the District Court at Woburn, in connection with the fatal automobile accident which took place at the junction of Cambridge and Wildwood streets shortly before noon on the Fourth.

Goodwin was the operator of a car coming out of Wildwood street and colliding with a machine being driven north on Cambridge street by Harry J. MacArthur of 49 Prospect street, Malden. William L. MacLellan, 58, of 128 Summer street, Malden, a passenger in the MacArthur car, was fatally injured in the accident.

The Winchester Police asked for a hearing upon the issuance of a complaint at the District Court on Wednesday, but when Goodwin arrived at court he waived his right to a hearing and asked to stand trial, pleading guilty to driving so as to endanger. Justice William Henchey continued the case until today for disposition.

MISS CAROLYN H. BILLINGS

Miss Carolyn H. Billings, who for many years made her home at 188 Mystic Valley Parkway, died Tuesday morning, July 8, at the Finck Nursing Home in Malden after a long illness.

Miss Billings was the daughter of Charles O., and M. Martina (Hooke) Billings. She was born May 26, 1865, in Lowell, but came to Winchester soon afterward and was living with her parents in the family homestead on the Parkway when her sister, Edith was born there in 1870.

She was educated in Winchester and Boston, where she lived from 1881 to 1893, adding the study of art to her scholastic subjects. Both she and her sister painted and were particularly skilled in the decoration of china.

Miss Carolyn, or Carrie as she was better known, lived with her sister and parents in the family homestead from the time they returned to Winchester from Boston in 1893 until the death of their parents. The sisters lived on there until Edith's death, April 22, 1943. Both were faithful attendants of the Church of the Epiphany from the days when the church occupied the present home of the First Church of Christ Scientist on Mt. Vernon street. She taught in the church school and assisted with the women's work for the church in many ways. Like her sister, quiet and retiring, she was helpful to others wherever possible and was held in esteem by all who knew her. She was the last of her family.

ALBION L. DANFORTH

Albion L. Danforth of 27 Cabot street, president of the Cadillac Automobile Company of Boston and prominent in the automobile business in Boston for many years, died suddenly in his sleep early Sunday morning, July 6, at his summer home at Oyster Harbors. He had commenced a vacation only the preceding Wednesday.

Mr. Danforth was the son of Pitt Francis, and Marcia (Stackpole) Danforth. He was born November 23, 1885, in Freedom, N. H., and as a boy had to sell papers to pay his way through school. His rise to prominence in the automobile sales field is a tribute, not only to his ability and integrity, but to his capacity for hard work and the willingness to ask nothing of his business associates and subordinates that he would not do himself.

Mr. Danforth worked as a young man for the Library Bureau in Cambridge. His first job in the automobile business was selling used cars for the Packard Motor Car Company of Boston headed by former Governor Alvan T. Fuller. As a result of his success in this field he joined the Cadillac Automobile Company of Boston in 1914 as general manager, at the age of 28 years, and he became president of the company soon afterward, a position he held until his death.

He was the organizer, and this year vice-president of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, having many times headed this organization as president and often directing the Boston automobile shows. Last year he headed the Automobile Division campaign for the Infantile Paralysis Drive.

Aside from his business Mr. Danforth's hobby was blooded horses. He bought them as colts in Kentucky for several years and at one time had a stable of twelve, his horses, trained by his daughter, Anna, winning blue ribbons in many New England shows. In the years of the Winchester Horse Shows, Mr. Danforth was active in their support as a director and exhibitor. He was an ardent golfer and when more active as a competitor 20 years ago ranked sixth in the State. He was a member of the Winchester Country Club and was a Mason, holding membership in Melrose.

While in Melrose on October 6, 1909, Mr. Danforth married Bertha May Kellough of Winchester. They came to Winchester in 1916, living first at 3 Sheffield West, and later after a brief residence in Boston at 12 Everett avenue. From 1937 to 1945 the Danforths made their home in Boston, but in the latter year they returned to Winchester and had been making their home at 27 Cabot street since that time.

Mr. Danforth leaves his wife, two daughters, Mrs. R. C. Scott (Marjorie) and Mrs. Everett P. Stone (Anna), both of Winchester. There are also five grandchildren.

Private funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Waterman Chapel in Boston with the Rev. Franklin P. Smith of the First Unitarian Church in Somerville officiating. Cremation took place at Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge.

JULY FOURTH OBSERVED

ENTERTAINMENT AND GAMES AT GINN FIELD ATTRACTED KIDDIES

Winchester's observance of Independence Day followed those of other recent years with the ringing of the town hall bell morning, noon and night and a party for kiddies, held this year at Ginn Field with Aberjona Post, VFW, in charge of arrangements.

At 1 o'clock, an hour before the entertainment was scheduled to commence, the popular Kiddies' Fire Engine was at the field, taking youngsters for rides up and down the roadway along the river, and by 2 o'clock starting time there was a big crowd of kids on hand, with many adults, despite the 90 degree heat.

A delay of nearly an hour was necessitated to get the public address system to function, due to a variation in currents, but finally all arrangements were made, and once the system got going, it proved satisfactory.

The Winchester Appliance Co. provided the public address system with a record player, on which were played a series of marches and patriotic selections, well chosen to tie in with the entertainment program and the general festivities before and after the show. Bob Loftus of Winchester Appliance was in charge of the system.

Tom McKee acted as Master of Ceremonies, introducing the entertainment acts which were run off on a large portable platform placed at the southerly end of the field so that the spectators could be seated on the banking below the roadway leading up to Bacon street and see the show in comparative comfort.

Hamid's of Boston provided three acts of professional vaudeville, with Jacy Collier, well known in Winchester, on hand to take personal charge of the show.

Bert Nagle and Hilja opened the show with a "Cat Act" that has proved popular on TV and which the kids seemed to know and enjoy. How the two performers escaped suffocation in their furry costumes under the scorching sun only they know.

Dixon's Marionettes involved some clever handling of a number of interesting puppets, including juggling and trapeze performances that were on the unusual side.

Closing the entertainment was another of those always popular dog acts, Ruth and Danlo, with several little fox terriers doing all sorts of stunts and giving evidence of skilled training and not a little intelligence. One of the things the kids got a big kick out of was two dogs meeting and passing each other on a ladder, and there was a balancing act by one of the dogs that was popular. Everyone applauded the ending of the act as the dogs each with forepaws on the hips of the dog in front of him, formed a conga line and danced around the platform behind their trainer Ruthie. "Mack" would have loved it!

Before and after the show ice cream was distributed to the kiddies, and there was plenty for all, though some were out of luck, due to late arrival at the field or because they were somewhere else during the distribution.

The teams battled to a 4 - 4 deadlock, darkness finally ending the game after an extra inning had been played. Joe Flaherty and Dannie O'Connell pitched for Winchester with Coakley catching. There was a noticeable difference in the size of the two teams, the Woburn boys appearing much larger.

President Chet Thibault led the Kiwanis delegation at the game, others being Jim Haley, Postmaster Tom Gilgun and Dick De Conta. A big crowd saw the game.

FOR SAFER LIVING

During summer months nothing can be healthier or more enjoyable for children and teen agers than the "old swimming hole." However, parents should know when and where their children spend their time in or near the water.

Information supplied by the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company shows that of the more than 6,500 deaths by drowning each year, nearly 50 per cent happen to children from 5 to 14 and teen agers from 15 to 20. This places drownings as one of the foremost causes of accidental death among younger people. Records show that July is the worst month for drownings, with August following a close second. These are the two months when parents should be especially watchful to prevent such disaster.

Many child and teen age drownings are directly traceable to parents in one of two ways says the Institute. First, lack of training of children in taking care of themselves in or near the water. Second, lack of supervision in allowing children to swim, go boating, or play near the water without adult attendance. It is not enough to warn children about the dangers of drowning points out the Institute. Parents need to take an interest in all factors which may lead to accidental drowning. The following precautions listed by the Institute will help parents to avoid the possibility of drowning accidents.

1. Do not permit younger children or children who cannot swim to play in or near the water unless attended by an older person. Never permit children who can swim to swim alone.

2. Know your children's limitations. Is it safe for them to swim in deep water? How far can they safely swim before risking exhaustion? Have they been taught to float or tread water?

3. If children are permitted to swim with other neighborhood children, make sure you know something about their companions. Can they swim? Are they normal, well-balanced youngsters who will use their heads while in and around the water?

4. Familiarize yourself with any waters where your children may swim. Is the water safe from a health standpoint? Are there any dangerous currents, deep holes and similar hazards to swimming safety? Make sure that you have the courage to say "No" when weather or water conditions aren't right for swimming.

5. Teach children the safety rules about handling boats and canoes. Do not permit them to use water craft unattended until you are sure they are old enough and responsible enough to handle boats properly.

6. Learn the latest approved methods of artificial respiration and teach your older children these methods. Consult your local Red Cross Chapter.

7. When swimming at public beaches make sure that children know and observe the rules posted by beach authorities. Also teach them to be courteous and considerate of others using the beach.

Many childhood drownings can be prevented if every parent follows the above suggestions and takes an active interest in the proper training and supervision necessary to water safety.

CATS AND VACATION

What to do with your cat during your summer vacation is a problem with a number of solutions. But whatever you do, please don't leave your cat alone to take care of himself! He may run away, starve, or be run over by a passing automobile.

Leaving your cat with a neighbor may be satisfactory, if the neighbor understands cats, and will keep your pet indoors, and safe. During short weekend trips, I've had a trusted friend stay in my apartment with my animals. For me, this has proven the best way of all.

There are boarding homes which will take in your cat while you're away. But you ought to see such a place yourself, and make sure your pet will be in a clean place, protected from infections and from other animals.

On an extended vacation, you'll want your cat with you. A ventilated, secure carrier, obtainable from a pet shop, is a must. Coastwise steamships often have kennels. If you leave your cat in one of them, or crated in the baggage car of a train, visit him often, so he won't feel deserted.

Most foreign countries don't admit animals without a prolonged stay in quarantine. If you're going abroad, it's kinder to leave your cat at home.

When you reach your vacation spot, be careful to keep house doors closed, especially if the place is new to your cat. Of course, many cats who visit the same vacation home every year, have the run of the property, and show clearly that they remember everything about it.

With a few necessary precautions on your part, kitty may enjoy your vacation quite as much as you. Happy Holiday!

Upon graduation he had first choice of all billets open and he and Mrs. Cronin have chosen Newport, R. I., where they are living at 40 Hall avenue.

Mrs. Cronin, formerly Miss Barbara May Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Elliott of 11 Herrick street, Winchester, will be remembered for her musical activities while in Winchester High School and continued her work while in Tennessee by playing for a class in dancing in Memphis, Tennessee.

The Cronins made the 1,500 mile trip to Winchester in their 1929 Model A Ford sedan "Bessie" which seemed to sense that she had earned a rest on delivering the Cronins at Newport, by developing a flat.

Now that they are at Newport, the Cronins hope to be able to visit Winchester and Andover frequently, Andover being Mr. Cronin's home town.

HOLIDAY WEEK-END BUSY FOR FIREMEN

The firemen were busy over the holiday week-end with much of their activity centered in a series of fires at the town dump. The fires had worked down into uncovered rubbish and getting them finally out proved difficult.

The first call to the dump came at 8:05 Saturday morning, a telephone message reporting a fire there. Captain Ray Hanscom, who responded with the first apparatus, radioed in for a squad call, 7-7-35, at 8:10, and the men and apparatus were busy at the fire until 3:53 in the afternoon. The department's trailer pump was sent to the dump at 9:57 to replace Engine 4 which developed trouble with its fan-belt.

Sunday morning at 8:04 the Central Station was notified of another fire at the dump, and again it was necessary to sound the squad call, 7-7-35 at 8:14. This time the men were through at the dump at 11:57, but Monday morning they were back again for another battle with the burning rubbish, this lasting for nearly five hours.

The first alarm of the week-end was at 1:53 July 3 for a brush fire set by boys near the West Side playground. At 8:38 there was a hot fire in a tree-stump on the Skillings Path near St. Mary's Campus. Box 35 was sounded for a bonfire in the old sandpit on Swanton street at the rear of Loring avenue. Children living in that district had gotten together material for a bonfire to celebrate the Fourth, but boys touched off the fire prematurely. The fire apparatus merely stood by as a precautionary measure.

The last call the "night before" came at 10:10 p. m. for a grass fire at the rear of the Cross Street Filling Station, 166 Cross street.

The Department's only activity on the Fourth was its participation in the big Independence Day parade in Wakefield during the forenoon. Engine I with Captain Ray Hanscom and John Flaherty driving went over, as did Chief James E. Callahan in the Chief's car.

The fire fighters participated in two parades over the week-end, going Saturday morning to Danvers to take part in the big anniversary parade there. Apparatus numbering 68 pieces took part, Winchester's Engine I and the Chief's car being in line. Captain J. Edward Noonan was in charge of Engine I, driven by Joe Shea, and having Bob Wyman and Henry O'Melia as crew. John Nash drove Chief Callahan in the Chief's car.

Saturday morning shortly after midnight the Central Station was notified of a hot grass fire at the end of Baldwin street that had ignited old railway sleepers piled along the spur track leading to the Winchester Brick Company. Box 34 was sounded at 12:13 Saturday morning, partially for the same fire and partially for a grass fire at the rear of the new home of Mr. Joseph McManus on Cross street near the railroad bridge.

Saturday afternoon at 12:55 there was another grass fire on Swanton street, this time at the rear of the M. D. C. building there. At 3:53 a telephone call from the police notified the Central Station of a grass fire near Leonard Field pool. This proved to be one of several fires, set by a neighborhood boy, who was picked up by the police, and given a warning against further fire-setting.

At 5:14 Saturday, in response to a call from the police, a piece of apparatus went to the Medford line at Main street to put out a fire in a truck. The machine was in Medford and had been taken care of by the Medford Department.

Sunday morning at 10:42 a. m. an alarm for a grass fire near Sandy Beach on Mystic Lake was telephoned in by the M. D. C. police.

At 11:10 Sunday forenoon Mr. Willard Hudson of 44 Winthrop street reported a strong smell of oil coming from the nearby home of Mr. Carl E. Burkard, with the family away over the holiday. Chief James E. Callahan investigated, and with Mr. Hudson's help, entered an upstairs window and found a serious condition in the basement, where the motor of the oil burner was in operation and throwing unburned oil around the cellar floor. Chief Callahan shut off the burner and tank, taking further steps to warn the family against starting the oil burner until the defect was completely remedied.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Ober Pride are at their summer home in Conomo.

BOAT CLUB NEWS

BOAT CLUB NEWS

Sailing is taking over at the Club this week-end — the skippers are praying for a spanking breeze! The occasion is the annual snipe regatta, and the cup which was won last summer by an out-of-state girl, has been shined up and is ready and waiting for its new owner.

A 3-race series, it will begin with a tune-up race on Saturday morning. The Fleet Dinner, to be prepared by Steward Broder and his wife, promises to be delicious and is a Boat Club tradition. Good luck, sailors! May the best man win!

The Fourth of July Clambake was a gala affair with a record number of members and their guests oh-ing and ah-ing over those huge lobsters and tasty clams. The attendance was 200, and the best part of it all was that everyone pitched in and helped. Commodore Ned Morse wishes to thank everyone who lent a hand. Especially memorable was the coffee made by Steward Bill Broder.

Before the big feast began there was a skippers race, and Pete Redding carried away all the honors. Our lifeguard, Bill Davies, Jr., supervised the swimming races and shuffle-board contest. The square dance, due to the rain, was moved into the club and then out again, but the spirit of the dancers certainly wasn't dampened!

The directors announce that the Boat Club membership for this season has reached its maximum, and they regret that it is impossible to admit any more members because of the crowded conditions.

In the offing are Saturday night buffet suppers with canasta, bridge, and conversation following. The suppers, to be prepared by the Broders, promise to be a lot of fun.

WINCHESTER - BROCKTON SWIMMING MEET

On Friday August 1st at 2 p. m., the 1952 edition of the Winchester Swimming Club will engage a powerful Brockton team at Campello Pool in Brockton. Events planned are free style, back stroke and breast stroke races for boys and girls in the following classifications:

9 and under
11 and under
13 and under
15 and under

Although rating an underdog role the Winchester Team can be expected to give a good account of itself. Veteran performers Charlie Govostes, Joe Bellino, Bucky Morgan, David Govostes, Noreen Johnson, Marguerite Johnson, Nancy Donahue, Peggy McNally and Ann Neville should provide an excellent nucleus for building a winning team.

Boys and girls wishing to try out for the Winchester team should list their names with Coach MacCarthy at either Palmer Beach or Leonard Field Beach no later than Friday, July 18th.

PLAYGROUND NOTES

The total registration on the four Winchester playgrounds has reached an all-time high of 527 youngsters. This represents an increase of 114 children over the figures of a year ago when three playgrounds were in operation and is undoubtedly the largest number of children ever to be enrolled in the Winchester playground system. Leonard Field boasts of the largest number of children registered and actually using the playground facilities which is a reflection of the swell job being done on that field by the two instructors, Patsy Mawn and Sandy Burbank.

Contributing to the record-breaking number of youngsters making use of the playground facilities is the very active arts and crafts program developed by Mrs. Raymond Thomas in the past two years. The number of youngsters taking part in this program and the volume and variety of articles produced are amazing. Samples of the articles made by the youngsters will be on display in the window of Hevey's Pharmacy so that the public may see what a grand job these youngsters are doing in arts and crafts.

The program is kept alive and interesting by the introduction of a special project each week. The special project for this week, for example, is the making of stuffed dolls and bunnies, together with the sewing necessary to make dresses, bonnets, overalls, vests, etc., for the dolls and bunnies. Last week the special project was work in 12 different colors of gimp from which the youngsters made multi-colored bracelets, lanyards, lapel pins, and belts. Other projects from past weeks that continue popular are the making of mittens and "scuffies" from felt, pocketbooks, vases, and jewelry boxes from twisted crepe paper, and rings from brightly colored Indian beads. Not listed as a special project but far exceeding in numbers all other articles produced is the ever popular potholder that the very youngest of the children can make successfully.

In addition to the excellent arts and crafts program, competition is conducted between various playgrounds in baseball, softball, and kickball with no less than 18 different teams in this program. Added to this is the enjoyment the youngsters receive from the sand-boxes, the swings, badminton sets, croquet sets, and dodge ball and basketball games. It can safely be said that the children of Winchester are enjoying a very instructive, and a very entertaining summer on the Winchester playgrounds.

MINUTEMEN LOWER THE BOOM ON MERCHANTS

The Lexington Town Team defeated the locals 13 to 2 in a pre-Fourth celebration at Lexington on July 1st.

Farrell pitching for the Merchants walked the first two men to face him. Whalen hit what appeared to be a double play ball to Johnson at third but the ball got away from him and the bases were loaded. Then came the deluge. Two hits and an outfield fly followed by two more hits scored seven runs.

The Merchants outhit Lexington but were never able to get back in the ball game.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Sons of Italy	12	3
Fitzgeralds	10	5
V. F. W.	7	7
Winchester Brick	7	7
White Shirts	6	9
Merenda	2	13

The excellent balance of the Town Softball League was well demonstrated during the past week when only one team, the Winchester Brick Co., escaped defeat. As a result of winning their only game the Brick Co., nine moved up into a third place tie with the V. F. W. who had a poor week with two losses. Only two weeks remain of the regular schedule before the playoffs which are always hotly contested and promise to be just as exciting as ever this year.

John Sexton, with the impetus of a two-run homer by Prep Keyes, upset the Sons of Italy 6 - 5 for the second time this year to keep the White Shirts in the contention. Previously the White Shirts had dropped a 15 - 8 slug fest to the Merendas in spite of a grand slam homerun by Bob Kittridge. The V. F. W. dropped two games during the past week in spite of their power at the plate as they sorely miss the steady pitching of Marty Joyce.

Next Week's Schedule

Monday
Merenda vs V. F. W. (Ginn Field)
White Shirts vs Winchester Brick (West Side)

Tuesday
Sons of Italy vs Fitzgeralds (Ginn Field)

Wednesday
Fitzgeralds vs White Shirts (Ginn Field)
Winchester Brick vs V. F. W. (West Side)

Thursday
Sons of Italy vs Merenda (Ginn Field)

RED SOX EDGED BRAVES

The lowly Rex Sox edged the first half winning Braves, 7 - 6, in a Little League Game on Manchester Field Monday evening.

The Braves looked like sure winners with a big five-run second inning while Sullivan was blanking the Sox over the first three frames.

The Sox got to Sullivan in the last three innings while "Lefty" Toperzer was holding the losers to a single tally in the 5th.

Toperzer helped win his own game with a home run, a feat equaled by his team-mate Larry Bairstow. Fisher homered for the Braves. The summary:

MERCHANTS LOST TO IMPERIALS

The Merchants lost to the Somerville Imperials at Lincoln Park, Somerville last Friday by a 6 to 4 score.

Symmes pitched good ball for the Merchants allowing only five hits, but was the victim of poor support when, in the fifth inning, the Imperials scored 4 runs on two errors, a walk, a fielder's choice and a triple by Nauglar.

Symmes and Murphy homered for the locals, the latter with one aboard. Jim Griffin continues to hit well and now sports a 470 average in twelve games.

After the races the long-awaited watermelon and blueberry pie-eating contests took place on the platform, with the judges having plenty of difficulty in accommodating all the youngsters who wished to take part. So numerous were the competitors for the boys events that it was necessary to strictly enforce the advance entry list, taking the first 20 to sign up.

Judges for the contests included Commander Warren Boliver of the VFW, Tom McKee, Tim Connors, Bob Loftus and Freddie Murphy. Jim Penaligan of the Star was starter with May Harrold, president of the VFW Auxiliary, and Sue Fiore, clerks of course. Results of the contests follow:

There was a brief pause after the pie-eating so the winning contestants could get their faces into recognizable shape to ensure accuracy in the distribution of prizes. The prizes were all sports equipment, tennis rackets, balls, baseball gloves, bats and balls and other athletic items. The prizes seemed very popular with the recipients, and as a sort of bonus, some that were left over were hidden in the tall gass and bushes along the river to be the property of lucky finders, while a number of new baseballs were thrown out on the field for the boys to scramble for.

Guessing the number of beans in the big jar at the field, an event open to all kiddies, both boys and girls, resulted in a tie. There were 17,946 beans in the jar (Jake Horn swears to this), and both Margaret Ducharme and Paul Doherty guessed 17,500, only 446 beans out of the way.

After the contests the Kiddies Fire-Engine continued to ride the youngsters around the field while the weary Vets and their Auxies with the help of the Park Department employees began to clean things up.

Jake Horn was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements and was assisted by Commander Warren Bolivar of the VFW, Mark Kelley, Tom McKee, Clem Landry, Bill McGuinity, Al Thorne, Ralph Fiore, Tim Connors, Fred Murphy and Pete Gionnotti.

President May Harrold headed the VFW Auxiliary group, other members being Eleanor Giannotti, Grace Delsolio, Audrey Kelley, Sue Fiore and Dawn Horn. Park Department employees assisting were Frank Dattilo, Howie Amundsen, and Fred Wheaton.

It was just a false alarm, but it was quite reassuring to see Officer James E. Farrell arrive at the Winchester National Bank while the vault alarm was still ringing Tuesday afternoon. Within a minute or two at the most after the first stroke of the alarm Sgt. John J. Dolan had rounded McCormack's corner to join Officer Farrell at the bank and a police car with Officers Thomas Parsons and Clarence E. Dunbury was also on hand. Had the alarm been genuine, the Police would definitely have been on hand and ready for action. We are pleased to record our personal observation of this fact.

THANKS FROM VFW

Editor of the Star:

The Veterans of Foreign Wars wish to express their thanks to all those who helped in making the July Fourth celebration, sponsored by the Town of Winchester, a huge success.

A word of thanks to Chief James Callahan of the Fire Department for the use of the Portable Power Unit.

Thanks to Park Superintendent, "Babe Mullen" for securing the bandstand from the city of Medford and for getting Ginn Field into Tip Top shape, and also Superintendent James Wakefield of the Highway Department for the use of trucks and equipment. As usual our Winchester Star Reporter, "Jim Penaligan" was on hand to be a Judge of our watermelon and blueberry pie contests.

I also wish to thank all persons, not personally mentioned for participating in our Fourth of July celebration.

John T. Horn, Chairman

CAMBRIDGE STREET WORST PROBLEM

Editor of the Star:

When I returned home last night I was informed by my neighbors that at about noon an automobile accident occurred at the crossing of Wildwood and Cambridge streets, which resulted in death to one person and serious injury to several others. Since I did not witness the accident myself, I cannot pass judgment on the innocence or guilt of the drivers involved, but I believe it is my duty as a human being to protest against a situation which is intolerable and is becoming worse every day. I hope that this tragedy will arouse our officials from their lethargy.

Seven years ago, when I first moved to my present address, I saw from my porch literally hundreds of near-accidents on the above-mentioned crossing, and when, several months later, my dog, which was following my son, was killed by a run-away driver, I wrote to the State Highway Department, accusing it of reducing Cambridge street to an asylum for criminals and requesting a reduction on the speed of traffic. A representative from the Department came to see me and in the long conversation we had together he hold me that the Department had a project to construct a new highway parallel to Cambridge street and a mile and a half west of it. But, what has become of this project? Or is this traffic, with its attendant danger, to stay with us permanently?

Many Winchester citizens think that the Town's worst problem is the railroad crossing. I believe it is Cambridge street, which presents a dangerous, noisy, moving wall of trucks, busses, and cars, going on twenty-four hours a day, endangering our lives and those of our children. When to the present traffic is added that from Johnson road, the situation will be beyond human endurance. That's progress, Winchester!

With its lakes, lawns, and clean, white houses, Winchester is a beautiful suburb, and its residents are delightful people to associate with, but the town is marred by "progress." It will be marred by "progress" even more with the raising of the railroad tracks and the increasing traffic on its streets. But it seems that our town officials are anxious to bring more traffic in, as proven by their approval to extend Johnson road to the Lexington line in order to transfer the cost of construction to the county or state. This new line of traffic from Lexington is to pour into Wildwood street, pass in front of the West-Side Playground, and cross Cambridge street where the accident occurred yesterday. Last year I complained about this project to the Selectmen, but the project is going ahead just the same. If a death-trap was ever contemplated by Satan, this is it!

But our officials are not interested in keeping Winchester a desirable community, nor in the safety of our lives. They are interested only in "progress." What, for instance, is being done about rerouting the traffic through the Center? What influence is being exerted to urge and hasten the construction of a regular highway west of Cambridge street? What is being done about the earth-carrying trucks that start rolling down this road at six o'clock in the morning? Have any complaints ever been raised against the busses that speed down from New Hampshire, one of which nearly killed me not so long ago?

I realize that business must go on and that lines of communication must be kept open. But to use Cambridge street as a highway for speeding trucks and busses is absurd, because Cambridge street is narrow, winding, and crossed by many local streets running from west to east, and those of us who live on the west side must cross it to go to church, to go to school, and to go shopping. Moreover Cambridge street runs through a very heavily-settled district, and speed on it should be reduced to twenty miles per hour.

Because of the tragedy that occured yesterday and the constant and ever-increasing danger to our lives, I urge our officials to do everything in their power to impress upon the State Highway Department the necessity of building another road to relieve the dangerous congestion on Cambridge street.

WESTWARD HO!

On Sunday, June 15 Aidan and Jerry Underwood, sons of Mrs. Elizabeth B. Underwood, 34 Oxford street, left with five fellow field artillery ROTC students at Boston College by automobile for Fort Sill, Oklahoma where they are now engaged in an extensive six-week course in Field Artillery officer training. The following letter to Mrs. Underwood from Aidan describes the trip west and is reproduced as having general interest.

C Battery — 1st Battalion
ROTC Summer Camp

June 29, 1952

Dear Mom,

Our group, Angelo Lanzilotta from Revere, William Sullivan from Cohasset, Jerry and I, left Neponset Circle at 5 p. m. Sunday, June 15 and drove until one o'clock the next morning. We reached New Jersey via the Wilbur Cross and Merritt Parkways and the George Washington Bridge.

The first night we slept out, two in the car and two on the ground. Because travel allowance is not paid until destination is reached, we considered this a wise choice in order to conserve the green stuff for later.

Monday morning we arose early to avoid traffic and soon arrived at the Pennsylvania Turnpike. This beautiful highway was the most tiresome part of the trip because of the monotony of the same scenery and the lack of anything commercial except a gas station and a Howard Johnson's every twenty miles. However, the tunnels through the Allegheny Mountains more than made up for the lack of billboards which New Englanders are used to seeing on their highways. One of these tunnels was almost a mile long.

After we left the pike we soon reached Route 40 in western Pennsylvania. This was the beginning of a straight, two-lane road that rolled up and down for miles on end without curves. While traveling this route, we came to the top of a hill from which we could see a mirage 75 by 125 yards (the temperature was 110 degrees in the sun). Swimming in this mirage called Sunset Beach, which is actually a cement-lined swimming pool larger than a football field, was such a refreshing relief that we stayed there from two o'clock until almost seven.

Tuesday morning at one a. m. we rolled into Columbus, Ohio, where we gave the local gendarmes some business. They gave us permission to sleep out on this park lawn, but every two hours a prowl car would drive by, a flashlight would shine in our faces, and the car would dive on. No questions were asked, the cops would do their duty and leave like robots.

We arose early Tuesday morning and continued on through Ohio. In this state the populace is definitely for Taft. When we would stop for something to eat and somebody would notice our Massachusetts plates, one of us would succinctly remark that back east the predominant sentiment was for Eisenhower. These people would look at us but politely refrain from saying anything.

We reached Indianapolis late Tuesday afternoon, but too late to drive around the Indianapolis Speedway. We did manage to get inside the gate but we were called back immediately. However, we did go swimming again in a city lake.

The swimming pools out here are all warm water pools; at least they seem so to people used to swimming in the North Atlantic Ocean. Nevertheless, they are clean; the chlorine in the water is as strong as the salts in the ocean.

Tuesday night we slept out again, this time too near the highway.

The trucks would go whizzing by all night long, and we could hear them a mile up and a mile down the road.

Wednesday noon we reached St. Louis. After a shave and a swim in the down-town "Y", we drove around the city sight-seeing. About 5 p. m. we stopped for a swim in another outdoor pool (Forest Park Highlands).

Around seven we drove by Sportsman's Park and were just about to pull into a parking lot when we were met by three other Boston College ROTC students. They were Jack Buckley from Arlington, Jim Tibert from Milton, and Art Leary from Belmont. After a loud welcome in Boston accents, we stopped to talk to a friendly police officer outside the press gate. This cop, to our surprise, called over a newsman and introduced him to us as Hy Hurwitz of the Boston Globe. Hy then got a good story and told us to wait while he went in and got Tom Dowd, traveling secretary of the Red Sox. Although Tom is a Holy Cross man himself, he invited us in as guests of the Red Sox and got us good seats in the upper deck between first base and right field. Thus seven B C boys whooped it up for the Sox, sang "For Boston" in the first of the seventh, but had to leave the park in disgrace when the Sox lost in the last of the ninth.

Wednesday evening we stayed in a motel outside of St. Louis on Route 66, where we enjoyed our first good night's sleep in days.

Because the weather continued so hot on Thursday, we stopped off late in the morning and went swimming in the Missouri State Park. In this park there was an Ozark Mountain stream with a very swift current that presented the first cool (and the only cold) water that the South seems to offer. At that, it couldn't compare with warm New England fresh water, let alone the Ocean.

Thursday evening the seven of us slept outside again just beyond Joplin, Mo. The grass by the side of the road looked so inviting that we fell asleep even before we hit the earth. The sleep was short-lived, however, because at 5 a. m. the grounds keeper kicked us off the 18th hole of a golf course. By the way, these rebel mosquitoes are rough on damn yankees. Two of the boys were bitten and the swelling lasted all day.

Friday we traveled from Joplin to Chickasha (pronounced Chick-a-shay) Okla. The weather was the hottest of the trip, 103 degrees in the shade (Heaven only knows what it was in the sun — these rebels never look at the thermometer).

Late in the afternoon we stopped at a motel (they call them motor courts out here) and sacked up for a last good night's rest before reporting.

The Oklahomans treated us very well and seemed interested in Northern ROTC college men. That evening some of us saw a class D Sooner League baseball game under lights. The local fans were very proud of their team and really cheered their players on; but we felt that outside of the pitching that night, the teams looked like New England Junior Legion ball.

Saturday morning, after a good breakfast in the local cafe (our last civilian meal), we drove out to the Fort. The roads were straight as an arrow and the local Oklahomans used it as a speedway. Driving along at 60 mph and seeing a car bomb past at 80 mph is quite an experience on narrow roads with ditches on either side. Some of the highways out west are so straight that if we locked the steering wheel and put a brick on the accelerator, we could let the car go driverless for miles.

We reported in just in time for chow, and spent the next two days taking our physicals and drawing our bedding and uniforms. Some time in the future when the barracks are cleaned up, I'll write and let you know how we made out the first week.

With love,
Aidan

"DAYS OF YORE"

Clippings from the STAR Files

FIFTY YEARS AGO

JULY 11, 1902

The tax rate for the current year will be in the vicinity of $16 on $1,000, although the Assessors have not fully determined just the exact rate. Last year it was $15.80 — 20 cents less. One reason for the increase is due to the fact that $9,500 more was appropriated this year than last. Of this increase about $6,000 was placed in the tax levy because of the reduction in water rates. When this question of reduction of water rates was before the town, the Star called attention to the fact that in all probability there would be an increase in the tax rate to meet the deficit that was sure to result. However, so far as we have learned, there is no desire to go back to the higher water rates. (Editorial).

Winchester has never been in a more healthy condition than since January 1st, up to the present time. There is a practical freedom from all contagious diseases. Since the new year came in there have been but twenty-seven burial permits issued against fifty-nine for the same time last year. There should, however, be some action taken looking to secure a suitable place for contagious diseases as the Board of Health would be found seriously handicapped should there be an outbreak of small pox next winter, which is by no means improbable considering the number of cases there are at the present time in communities surrounding Winchester. It is well to be prepared for such an emergency for when the disease comes there is no time for suitable action. (Editorial).

Last week two lads of only about nine years of age driving an empty hay wagon had a race down Washington street with an electric car. Every passenger feared there would be an accident from the reckless driving, and the motorman was forced to slow down in order that the boys might have the entire street. The horse, when it reached the center, was almost exhausted while the lads were happy in the knowledge they had beaten the car. There should be a law against boys of tender years driving horses these days of automobiles and electric cars.

Mrs. Mary S. Knowlton of 18 Cabot street, mother of ex-Atty. General Knowlton, was struck by a run-away horse in Arlington Monday morning and died a few minutes later in a doctor's office, to which she had been carried.

Work on the Country Club property is progressing in a satisfactory manner. From Cambridge street the sward presents a most inviting appearance, taking the place of what recently was roughly ploughed land. The premises have lately been visited by a number of out-of-town people.

Mr. Lewis Parkhurst is the chairman of the committee on the new high school building and Mr. Edwin N. Lovering, secretary. Ed. Note — Mr. Lovering was high school principal.

Miss Cassie E. Sands has been passing a week in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Smith of Oxford street are stopping at quaint old Marblehead.

There were three alarms of fire on the Fourth, two false and one for a fire in a hay mow at Symmes Corner.

Mr. Robert F. Whitney is visiting in Georgia and Alabama.

The lawn party that was to have taken place on the night before the Fourth at the corner of Washington and Swanton streets was postponed until last evening because of rain and general damp condition of the grass.

Judging from the large number of children especially girls, who bathe in Wedge Pond every day, it would not be a bad idea to have some kind of a bath-house at the foot of the "Wedge Pond Way".

Miss Ackerman of the General Course house furnished a most excellent dinner Fourth of July to thirty guests. Among the number was a boating party of fourteen ladies and gentlemen.

Mr. Joe Ransau, driver for Mr. Thomas Quigley, had one of his ribs broken Monday while driving a tip-cart. How he met with the injury is not known.

Miss Charlotte and Mr. Nelson Skilling left this week for a month's stay at Windsor, Vermont.

Mr. Sumner McCall has left for Wyoming, N. Y., for a trip.

The picnic given by Wedgemere Lodge of Good Templars in the Pines in the Fells on the Fourth of July was a most pleasant and enjoyable success, about 40 being present.

The tug of war at the lawn party last night was a draw.

As things are now going, we shall soon have to hire boys to make use of our playgrounds, as they will not play for fun.

THE FOURTH IN WINCHESTER

The glorious Fourth passed off without accident, but not without noise. The night before was perhaps the noisiest ever known at the center, but owing to the good judgment of Chief McIntosh all the racket was kept there. Had repressive measures been adopted by the Chief, the boys would have scattered all over town and therefore it would have been impossible to keep an eye on them. For this reason all parts of the town outside the center were comparatively free from disturbances. Cow-bells made a perfect din throughout the night.

During the day the town was exceptionally quiet, the streets being practically deserted.

But one arrest was made, and that for drunkenness.

There were private displays of fireworks in the evening, the most important being at the Calumet Club where during the evening there was also an entertainment; dancing and refreshments.

BOAT CLUB NOTES

Messrs. James Newman and Roy Pratt took a canoe trip down Boston Harbor the first of the week, making a stop of several days.

James Newman won the sailing canoe trophy cup on the 4th.

Messrs. William and Preston Corey paddled up the Aberjona as far as Richardson's Pond, in Wilmington, the first of the week. The owner of the pond refused to allow them to place their canoe on it and they were obliged to return home.

A party of Winchester men expect to paddle to Nantasket Sunday. They will leave Saturday afternoon and if unable to reach Nantasket that night, will camp out on one of the islands in the harbor. They will return Sunday. Those who expect to make the trip are James and Edward Newman, Harris Cole, Clifford Talbot, Edward Wills and Wyatt Eustis.

Following are the results of the aquatic meet at the Club on the 4th:

LEGIONNAIRES DROP TWO

IN THIRD PLACE

The Winchester Legionnaires traveled to Somerville last Monday evening and were set back by a 5-0 score. Somerville, the League leaders, hit "Skitchy" Carroll for seven safeties and scored two runs in the first, two in the second, and one in the sixth inning. An error in the first inning was responsible for two runs crossing the plate when two men were out. Had this error not been made it probably could have meant another kind of game. Somerville's Mills, who pitched the entire nine innings fanned ten Winchesterites and issued only one base on balls which is good pitching. In fact he is "tops" as a pitcher in the league. Reaching Mills for safe hits for Winchester were Joe Bellino with two, DiSilva, Carroll and McLaughlin with one each. Winchester loaded the bases in the sixth but was unable to tally. "Skitchy" Carroll opened this inning with a single to right, McLaughlin beat out a bunt, Bellino bunted safely and all three are on the bases. Carroll was forced at home on a grounder by Connors but bases are still loaded. Pratt popped up to the second baseman for the second out and DiSilva fanned to put an end to Winchester's chances.

On Wednesday evening, the locals visited Reading and lost 4-2. Winchester scored first getting two runs in the second. Reading came back in their half of the second to tie the score and get two more in the sixth. Cryts of Reading fanned eleven Winchester batters and gave up but two bases on balls. Those hitting safely for the locals were Bellino, Connors, Pratt, Farrell, and Carroll, all with one each.

This evening, Friday, Winchester travels to Lowell. Sunday afternoon the locals go to Arlington. On next Tuesday evening Reading visits Loring Avenue. The next day Arlington visits Loring Avenue, and this winds up the League season with Winchester probably in third place as they now are with Somerville and Medford in first and second places respectively.

Among the Winchesterites visiting the home town over the Fourth of July week-end was Miss Helen Elliott of Linden street. Miss Elliott returned to her position at the Army School of Medicine in Washington, D. C., driving back Monday.

The vital role of humility in the daily living of Christianity will be illustrated in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Sacrament" to be read at Christian Science services on Sunday.

The Biblical account of Elisha's healing of Naaman, King of Syria, of leprosy when the king was sufficiently humble to wash in the river Jordan, will be among passages read from the Old and New Testaments. The account includes the rebuke of Naaman's servant: II Kings 5 "If the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldest thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash, and be clean?"

The Lesson-Sermon also includes this selection from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The baptism of Spirit, washing the body of all the impurities of flesh, signifies that the pure in heart see God and are approaching spiritual Life and its demonstration." MASSIVE WATER CONTROL PROJECT TO OPEN NEW LAND IN EVERGLADES

The United States' semi-tropical show case — the rich and lushly vegetated Florida Everglades — is scheduled for some new decorating effects at the hand of man.

Presently under construction is the first phase of a $208,000,000 master plan to tame the 'Glades — a plan that reaches into an area larger than Connecticut, Delaware, and New Jersey combined, including a third of Florida's people and nearly half of its wealth.

Projected by the United States Army Corps of Engineers, the massive water-control scheme calls for drainage of swamps, control of floods, and reclamation for agriculture and cattle of extensive reaches of grass lands, says the National Geographic Society.

Although the plan encompasses the eastern part of Florida from Orlando south, first-phase work is primarily concerned with the Lake Okeechobee region, the lower east coast and the Everglades proper, often called America's "last frontier."

60-Day Crops

For well over a century Floridians have been stirred to action by dreams of making productive a part or all of the 4½-million-acre Everglades area which lies south of Lake Okeechobee. Although dominated by nearly flat and usually flooded grass marshes, much of the area's soil is rich, organic muck capable of producing a crop in 60 days.

To get at the soil a vast program of drainage began in 1907. Dredges gashed 16 canals across the flat marshes to the ocean. Land owners constructed a network of ditches to carry water off their lands to the canals. In the first half of the 20th century more than $50,000,000 was spent on drainage of the Everglades alone.

As man moved in and over drainage became prevalent, Nature's delicate balance was thrown out of kilter. In times of drought the drained muck and peat lands shrank, caught fire, and thousands of acres of rich soil went up in smoke.

Moreover, as the fresh water drained into the oceans, there was nothing to hold the sea's salt water from seeping into the porous rock beneath the land surface. So great has been the loss of soil, water, vegetation, and wildlife that soil experts predicted recently that there would be no Everglades in another 50 years if the destruction did not cease.

Exotic Wilderness

In the upset of Nature many casualties were counted. Among the first to disappear from water-drained lands, for example, were Pomacea snails, which depend on fresh water for life. As a result the Everglades kite — a bird that exists on Pomacea snails— has become rarer.

Fortunately for the region's wildlife the Everglades National Park was created in 1947. Here a part of the Everglades' exotic wilderness will be preserved forever in a natural state. A refuge for birds, the parks plays host to such colorful guests as the snowy egret, white and wood ibis, Louisiana and blue heron, white pelican and many other species.

FIND RECORD WIND 100 MILES ALOFT

Winds of 1,000 mile-an-hour velocities, capable of leveling cities were they to blow through man's domain, have been discovered some 100 miles above the earth.

But these winds, the fastest ever measured, are ghost gales. To a man to ascend into the ionosphere and stand in their path, says the National Geographic Society, they would seem no stronger than zephyrs on a near-calm day.

The reason is that at such heights there is little atmosphere. In consequence, nothing exists that could buffet the human and tell him he faced a blow with a speed of more than thirteen times earthly winds of hurricane force.

Tracked By Radar

Radar made possible the tracking of ionospheric winds. British scientists of Cavendish Laboratory, of Cambridge University, pioneered. One super-tornado they tracked streaked through the skies at 1,100 miles an hour.

United States Bureau of Standards physicists also have entered the field. They rate their own fastest observed wind at 660 miles per hour. They concur in the British finding that average winds in the belt between 65 and 100 miles above sea level move at 150 miles per hour — about twice hurricane speed.

Cambridge scientists say the tremendous gales occur in times of magnetic storm. Gravitational pulls of sun and moon, plus solar heat cause the normal ionospheric winds. They appear to follow a worldwide pattern.

Radio Is Reflected

Interest in radio communications, rather than in possible interplanetary rocket travel, led to measurement of winds far aloft. Radio signals, moving in straight lines, cannot follow the curvature of the earth. Their reflection from the layers of ions and free electrons in the ionosphere enables them to travel long terrestrial distances.

Ionic concentrations constantly vary in their ability to reflect the signals back to earth. Seeking a pattern in this variation which would permit forecasts of best radio communication periods, physicists shot signals at the ionic strata above.

When the reflections came back, they were captured on antennas placed in different locations. By measuring the time lags between receptions of the same signals on the different antennas, speeds of the ghost winds which were moving the ionic concentrations were determined.

The night Mary solved the mystery of the disappearing dollars

Mary made the discovery — just as I'd settled down with my paper.

"Ned," she called excitedly, "come here, quick." I dropped my paper and headed for the kitchen.

"Look," Mary said spreading out a batch of cancelled checks on the kitchen table. "That 'ThriftiCheck' account. It's wonderful! It solved our mystery of the missing dollars."

"You mean they don't disappear any more?"

"Don't be so wise, Ned Smith," she said. "I have a cancelled check now for every bill. We know where the money goes."

"I wish it just wouldn't go," I said.

"That's just the point," she said. "We actually spent less last month by using a 'ThriftiCheck' account. And I didn't have to walk all over the place paying bills. Just mailed 'em."

"And I'm nailed for taking you out for dinner. Like I promised I would the first month you stayed within our budget."

All names are fictitious, but the situation happens every day.

It's easy to see that anyone can afford a "ThriftiCheck" account like Mary's!

- book of 20 checks just $2.00
- as little as $1 opens your account
- no minimum balance required

Next payday stop in and see us. Open your own "ThriftiCheck" account!

BILASPUR'S DAYS ARE NUMBERED: INDIAN STATE NEAR WATERY END

States — geographical patches on the quilt of the earth — often have been destroyed by war and treaty. India's tiny Bilaspur will lose its niche by drowning.

The small state on the Sutlej river in eastern Punjab is scheduled to pass into history some time within the next five years when the giant twin-dam project of Bhakra and Nangal in the Punjab is completed, says the National Geographic Society.

Then, all of Bilaspur's 453 square miles will lie beneath water and its 110,000 people will be redistributed on other lands in other states. The sacrifice of the area, less than half the size of Rhode Island, is expected to open, through irrigation, a farming area larger than the state of Connecticut. The Indian government hopes that the new agricultural acres will produce some 1,300,000 tons of vitally needed food each year and many thousand bales of cotton.

Dress of Honor

As an independent state, Bilaspur reached its modest peak of power at the turn of the 20th century. Then its own rajah, who had been accorded a dress of honor and an 11-gun salute by the ruling British, lived in a neat but unpretentious palace in the capital, Bilaspur Town, on the left bank of the Sutlej river.

He ruled some 90,000 people who lived in the state's one town and 421 villages. Bilaspur's military force, though not large, was specific — 11 cavalrymen, 187 infantrymen (including gunners and police), and two field guns. Its people raised grain, opium, tobacco, and ginger, much as they do today.

Though life was not rich, it was at least more peaceful than at the beginning of the 19th century when the warlike Gurkhas swarmed in from nearby Nepal and nearly destroyed Bilaspur Town. The British drove the Gurkhas out in 1815 and reinstated the rajah, confirming his possessions after the conquest of the Punjab in 1847 - 48.

Bilaspur Town was rebuilt and by 1900 proudly claimed a number of stone houses, a bazaar, dispensary, school, and the ruler's home. In 1948, when India began the reorganization and consolidating of her 548 states into 26, tiny Bilaspur was left separate and intact.

Long before Bilaspur became a state, however, the area shared the colorful history of the Punjab. Alexander the Great marched near by, down the Indus river, on a mission of conquest. Later, during the Roman Empire, spice-seeking caravans out of Smyrna and Antioch crossed the Sutlej near Bilaspur on their way to Mathura (modern Muttra) and the riches of the East.

Conqueror after conqueror blazed across the region and it became a part of the Gupta Empire in the 4th century, Harsha's Empire in the 5th, Sultan Mahmud of Ghazna's Empire in the 9th. In 1236 it was included in the sultanate of Delhi, which stretched across northern India from the Indus to the mouth of the Ganges.

Later, it lay in the invasion path of Timur the Turk and Bahur, his descendant, and was included in the Mughal Empire which lasted well into the 18th century.

JOYCE FLIES SIX-JET BOMBER

Promotion from major to lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Air Force has been awarded one of Winchester's veteran bomber pilots of World War II, Charles Joyce, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Joyce, live at 15 Webster street.

Announcement of the promotion has just been made by the 306th Bombardment Wing at MacDill Air Force Base, Fla., where Col. Joyce is stationed as a B-47 jet bomber pilot. The 306th Wing is the country's only tactical B-47 unit.

In addition to flying the new six-jet bomber, Col. Joyce serves as operations officer for the 368th Bomb Squadron, a unit of the 306th.

In World War II, Col. Joyce was cited on six occasions for his aerial exploits over Japanese targets in the Far East and in the Pacific. He won the Distinguished Flying Cross with two Oak Leaf clusters and the Air Medal with two clusters. Also, he was awarded the Presidential Unit Citation with two clusters and the Philippines Liberation Ribbon with one Bronze Star. He flew in seven major engagements.

On one mission, late in 1944, he won world-wide attention when he glided his gasless B-29 safely to home base over the last ten miles of his flight. He was returning from a strike against Singapore, 2,000 miles away. The mission was the longest that had ever been flown by the Superfort at that time.

Colonel Joyce has demonstrated his flying prowess many times since he won his wings in mid 1942.

Following a raid on Formosa in 1944, he made a forced landing on a small Chinese airstrip only half the length normally required for a B-29, then took off the following day from the same tiny strip. This was a feat that amazed even the Boeing Airplane company, manufacturer of the Superfort.

Another time he won acclaim from his superiors when he held his aircraft aloft on only two engines, and flew it that way from over Tokyo — where the other two engines had been shot out — to land safely at Iwo Jima, 1,200 miles away.

In qualifying to fly the high-speed, swept-wing B-47, Col. Joyce accomplished another feat. The B-47 Stratojet, also a Boeing product, is considered the Air Force's "hottest" bomber. With a speed of better than 600 miles an hour and heavier than the B-29 or B-50, it is flown by a crew of only three men.

Furthermore, each of the three crewmembers must be qualified to operate all of the airplane's systems; normally, each must be not only pilot but navigator, bombardier and radar operator. The Stratojet is one of our most complicated aircraft, but one of the most promising. Those who fly it must possess the highest qualifications.

Colonel Joyce is rated a senior pilot and also a B-47 instructor pilot.

FIREFIGHTERS ON THE JUMP TUESDAY

Tuesday proved a busy day for Winchester firefighters with two house fires and four grass fires, the first alarm coming at 12:06 Tuesday morning.

At that time Box 63 was sounded for a fire on the piazza roof of the home of Mr. John A. Dolan, 36 Eaton street. The actual fire damage was slight, but asphalt shingles had been laid over wooden shingles on the roof and firefighters had to rip off the outer layer to get at the burning wood shingles. A couple of the roof boards also had to be removed before the fire was finally put out.

The second house fire was at 1:40 p. m. with Box 49 sounding for a fire in the attic of the home of Mr. Thomas W. Conlon, 54 Canal street. The family had been cleaning the attic and had been driven from their task by the heat, the fire starting in a waste-basket shortly afterward. The fire did little damage, but the attic and second floor of the house were filled with smoke, the firefighters using a smoke ejector to clear them.

At 11:29 Tuesday morning the Department was called to put out a grass fire at the Winchester-Woburn line on Washington street. The local firefighters found the fire to be wholly in Woburn and Woburn apparatus busy putting it out.

There were three more grass fires during the day, one at 12:37 p. m. near 35 Franklin road, another at the rear of the DeLucca home, 39 Spruce street at 1:42 and the last off Oxford street extension near Wildwood street.

This last fire at 7:41 p. m. was the 251st since January 1, said by Chief James E. Callahan to be an unusually large number for that period.

WON PARADE HONORS

Brad Hersey and daughter Alison have done it again! Alison winning first and Brad second prize in the individual classification in the July 4 parade in New Boston, N. H. Alison as Lady Godiva in a long golden haired wig and flesh colored tights rode bareback on Mickey. Brad, as Fiske's "Time to Re-Tire", dressed in bedroom slippers, the hired man's night shirt, a night cap made from the cut off leg of Alison's tights and carrying a candle stick with candle in one hand and an inner tube over the other arm yawned his way along the mile long parade route, receiving much applause and laughter particularly from those who knew him. The tiny town of New Boston, full of imaginatively creative people who find fun in hard work attracts over 2,000 people annually to their July 4 parade, dinner, baseball game, evening entertainment and children's program.

DISPLAY OF CHINA

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 14, 15 and 16, the Winchester Public Library in conjunction with the Institute of Contemporary Art of Boston will sponsor a research project in contemporary china design. A group of 42 plates will be exhibited in the Library showing new trends in decoration, color, and shape. A member of the Institute will be in attendance during the two-day showing, and the public will be invited to indicate its individual preferences by ballots provided for this purpose.

It is expected that many people will take advantage of this showing in order to acquaint themselves with what is new in china design. This exhibit will also be of special interest to students of art in the town.

This exhibit will benefit both the exhibitors and the public. The public will get the chance to find out first-hand what the newest styles are, and the exhibitors will find out the likes and dislikes of the viewers concerning the china display. You are cordially invited to see this exhibit which will be open during library hours from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

FIRST PRESENTATION A SUCCESS

On Thursday, July 3rd, at ten in the morning and again at two in the afternoon, the Tufts Magic Circle Theater, a summer theater exclusively for children, presented its first program starring Miss Dorothy White, concert pianist, singer, and storyteller. The hour-long program, Fun With Music, was enjoyed by over three hundred children, ranging in age from four to fourteen. Miss White has enjoyed remarkable success in the field of entertainment for children, and it is easy to see why. She has a magic formula for capturing the interest of children.

They have a grand time and so does she. Participation from the seated children develops a warm rapport between the musician and her audiences. Miss White's program contained familiar selections by classic composers and was liberally spiced with novelty numbers by moderns. In one number, she was assisted by a string quintet, the young musicians, all local children, having been rehearsed briefly beforehand.

The Magic Circle Theater has had an auspicious beginning. We look forward to the scheduled five programs which will be presented each Thursday at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Next Thursday, the children's acting company will offer The Sleeping Beauty, a new script of the classic story of the princess who sleeps for a hundred years and is awakened by Prince Charming's kiss.

EN KA CANOES LAUNCHED AT FELLSLAND

On Wednesday, July 2nd in response to the invitation of Mr. MacFeeley, executive of Fellsland Council of Boy Scouts, four members of the En Ka Society went to Camp Fellsland in Amesbury for the launching of the two new En Ka canoes given by En Ka.

Mrs. Herbert Ross, mother of Eagle Scout William Ross, Mrs. Maxwell MacCreery, Girl Scout Commissioner of Winchester, Mrs. Chandler Parkhurst and Mrs. Walter Keyes enjoyed the hospitality of the camp.

After dinner in the Mess Hall with the staff and the boys — a dinner which was a fine sample of the excellent food which is served there the guests were taken by Mr. MacFeeley on a tour of the camp. They were very favorably impressed with the camp, both its physical equipment and the spirit of cooperation and discipline which was evident throughout.

At the waterfront the director, Jeff Beckingham explained the Buddy Board and the system which is carried out so that a hundred boys in various stages of experience in the water can learn to swim in safety.

The campers were assembled there and when Mrs. Ross and Mrs. MacCreery launched the two new aluminum canoes, En Ka IV and En Ka V from the new steel wharf also a gift of En Ka they cheered lustily.

The ladies left camp feeling a very profitable and enjoyable day had been spent and that the leaders of Camp Fellsland deserved all the help and encouragement possible in continuing their good work.

Mrs. Florence Quimby of Maxwell road motored to West Falmouth with her daughter, Miss Frances Quimby for the holiday week-end. Mrs. Quimby is staying on the Cape for two weeks and is being joined for that time by her older daughter, Miss Harriet Quimby of Brooklyn, N. Y.

PEARY'S SIGNBOARDS STILL POINT WAY TO NORTH POLE

Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, left long-standing guideposts for the men who today follow his track across the top of the world.

Peary's records and supply boxes, found recently by Air Force fliers on Cape Columbia, are not the first of such caches to come to light, the National Geographic Society says. But the newest discovery may prove to be the most historic.

It was on Cape Columbia, northernmost land tip of Canada that the explorer in June of 1909 built a final marker before turning homeward from his hard-won conquest of the Pole.

A stone cairn was erected, holding a signpost of sledge planks pointing due north, east, south and west. This was supported by heavy guy wires; it carried directions and distances punched into copper plates.

Below the arms of the sign, in a frame covered with glass to protect it from the weather, a notice was placed, dated June 12, 1909:

"This monument marks the point of departure and return of the sledge expedition of the Peary Arctic Club, which in the spring of 1909 attained the North Pole.

"The members of the expedition taking part in the sledge work were Peary, Bartlett, Goodsell, Marvin, MacMillan, Borup, Henson.

"The various sledge divisions left here February 28th and March 1st, and returned from March 18th to April 23rd.

"The Club's Steamer "Roosevelt" wintered at C. Sheridan, 73 miles east of here." (Peary later gave this distance as 93 miles.)

The placard was followed by a list of the expedition members and ship's crew, plus a tragic footnote on Marvin: "Drowned April 10th, returning from 86° 38' N. Lat."

First in 1906 and again in 1909, Peary set out from Ellesmere Island across the frozen ocean toward the long-sought 90° North. Smashed sledges, hastily built snow houses and discarded supplies marked his difficult trail.

In moving his supplies from the "Roosevelt" up to his jumping-off points, Peary also twice established a chain of relay stations along the northern land rim. Thus the entire 500-mile route was dotted by material evidence of his expeditions.

In 1906, reaching a "Farthest North" of 87° 6', he built a cache. In 1919, at the Pole itself, he left documents and a strip of his flag in a glass bottle wedged between two ice blocks. It is not likely that these markers still survive on the drifting, everchanging ice.

After returning to land in 1906, however, Peary pushed westward, away from the ship, and left a cairn on Cape Thomas Hubbard at the northern tip of Axel Heiberg Island. Both this and Peary's Cape Sheridan markers have been found, the first by Donald MacMillan in 1914, the last by a Navy-Coast Guard task force in 1948.

Still awaiting discovery is a cache at Cape Morris Jesup on Greenland's Arctic coast, at the world's northernmost point of land. On a mountain peak at Cape Columbia, in addition, is a cairn holding a tin can with a piece of Peary's flag and a record of his 1906 expedition inside.

The successful 1908 - 09 expedition was supported in part by the National Geographic Society. Peary appeared as a speaker on various occasions before meetings of the Society in Washington, and wrote several articles on his Arctic explorations for the National Geographic Magazine.

Wednesday afternoon at 2:33 a grass fire along the Aberjona River on North Washington street got away from Park Department employees, necessitating the assistance of the Fire Department. Apparatus went to the fire at 2:33 and at 2:40 Captain Edward Fitzgerald radioed in for more help, Box 333 being sounded. The men were at the fire until nearly 4 o'clock.

MERCHANTS 6 — LEXINGTON 4

Winchester defeated Lexington at Leonard Field last Monday evening by a score of 6 to 4.

Delorey on the mound for the locals, while not as sharp as in some of his more recent outings, was able to bear down in the clutch to snuff out any Lexington rallies.

Chisholm and Tansey were the hitting stars for the Merchants with two apiece for their evening's work.

NEW WHARF DEDICATED AT CAMP FELLSLAND

A delegation of ladies from EnKa Society of Winchester made their appearance at Camp during the last week to enjoy one of the regular camp meals and then inspect the camp and finally dedicate the new wharf and the two new canoes that they donated to the camp this year. Everything went off smoothly including the actual christening of the canoes that have been named EnKa 4 and EnKa 5.

Another feature of the past week was the monster bonfire and fireworks display that went on the night before the Fourth. A fair crowd of visitors was present in addition to the entire camp and some of the neighboring people.

On the athletic side, the Fellsland boys defeated Camp Powow in baseball with Chapin pitching a one hitter for the Fellsland boys. They also tied Camp Powow in basketball.

One very fine feature of the Camp this year has been the very fine advancement in Scouting work and this will reflect in the boys' advancement when they return home in the Fall.

New rifles have been secured for the younger or smaller boys so that the new boys have the same advantage as the older or larger boys with the regulation rifle.

One of the most favorite people in camp this year as always is the cook, Nick Zagrafos of Medford, who is this year's cook and has won an immediate favor amongst the boys and wins praises daily for some of the dishes that are prepared. It is quite a stunt to feed some 130 or 135 boys and have everyone satisfied.

The second week at camp which opened on Sunday, July 6, has better than 100 boys and approximately 26 staff people and this includes two new volunteers who came in this week. They are Bernhardt Anderson, Scoutmaster of Troop 4, Winchester, who is giving of his leadership to not only the boys of his Troop but of all the boys in the camp. Another oldtime favorite is Earl Doyle of Hudson who for many years was a regular member of the Camp Staff and just could not stay away from camp and had to come into camp to give leadership in Advancement work in Scouting for this coming week. During this week the Council Health and Safety Committee will visit the camp on Wednesday of this week to have their regular monthly meeting and in turn inspect the camp as well.

Interest in the Dachshund that is to be presented to some boy is developing very quickly and the boys are now busy developing their stories as to why they would like to have a Dachshund and how they would take care of it.

The following local boys are at camp this week:

MAGIC CIRCLE THEATER'S 1ST PRESENTATION A SUCCESS

On Thursday, July 3rd, at ten in the morning and again at two in the afternoon, the Tufts Magic Circle Theater, a summer theater exclusively for children, presented its first program starring Miss Dorothy White, concert pianist, singer, and story - teller. The hour-long program "Fun With Music," was enjoyed by over three hundred children, ranging in age from four to fourteen. Miss White has enjoyed remarkable success in the field of entertainment for children, and it is easy to see why. She has a magic formula for capturing the interest of children. They have a grand time and so does she. Participation from the seated children develops a warm rapport between the musician and her audience. Miss White's program contained familiar selections by classic composers and was liberally spiced with novelty numbers by moderns. In one number, she was assisted by a string quintet, the young musicians, all local children, having been rehearsed briefly beforehand.

The Magic Circle Theater has had an auspicious beginning. We look forward to the scheduled five programs which will be presented each Thursday at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Next Thursday, the children's acting company will offer "The Sleeping Beauty", a new script of the classic story of the princess who sleeps for a hundred years and is awakened by Prince Charming's kiss.

RETIRES FROM NAVY

Capt. T. F. Wellings Served 35 Years

Captain Timothy F. Wellings, USN, of 195 M. V. Parkway, one of four East Boston brothers graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy, has been relieved as Planning Officer, First Naval District, to retire after 35 years of naval service with the rank of rear admiral.

Born in East Boston, Massachusetts in 1898, Admiral Wellings attended Mechanic Arts School and Huntington Preparatory School, Boston, prior to his appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, in 1917. While a midshipman he served on the USS Maine, operating with the Atlantic Fleet in World War I.

"Exceptional meritorious service" as Gunnery Officer of the Amphibious Force, Atlantic Fleet, during the assault on the island of Sicily in July, 1943, earned Admiral Wellings the Legion of Merit. He also was awarded a second Legion of Merit for service on the staff of the Commander, Task Force 122, Twelfth Fleet, participating in the assault landing on the coast of Normandy in 1944.

Naval service is a tradition in the Wellings family. Three brothers, currently on active duty, are Rear Admiral Augustus J. Wellings, USN, Captain Joseph H. Wellings, USN, and Commander Albert A. Wellings, USN. A son, Timothy F. Wellings, Jr., is serving as a lieutenant in the submarine service.

Rear Admiral Wellings is married to the former Conna Cooper of London, England, and they have two daughters, Rita and Lila.

Ordered to duty as relief for Admiral Wellings is Captain Howell C. Fish, USN, formerly on the staff of the Commandant, Fifteenth Naval District, Balboa, Panama Canal Zone.

WINCHESTER WOMAN ADOPTS DUTCH BOY

Mrs. Leo J. Cass of 30 Ridgefield road has "adopted" Laurinsio Nicolaas Nartes, an 11 year-old Dutch boy, through Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, Inc., with headquarters at 55 West 42nd street, New York City. "Adoption" is financial, not legal, the Foster Parents merely promising to contribute $15 monthly toward the child's support for at least a year.

Laurinsio's father was a soldier in the Royal Dutch Indian Army and was stationed in Indonesia, where his wife and three children lived with him. When the war broke out Carlos Rey Nartes was taken prisoner and sent to Thailand to work on the Burma railroad. He contracted dysentery and died as a result.

His family, meanwhile, had been interned in various camps and underwent great hardships, one result of which was that the oldest son, Carol, was completely broken in health.

Living conditions became increasingly difficult and about a year ago the mother and children repatriated. Carol was placed in a hospital and it is doubtful if he will ever become emotionally stable.

Jules, 18, is learning dressmaking and lives with her mother and Laurinsio in two small rooms, with a minimum of furniture, as the family returned to Holland empty handed. The rent is paid by the government, and in addition the mother has a pension of $4.50 a week for food and other expenses.

Clothes are a big problem, especially for Laurinsio, who is growing fast and likes to play football! He is an intelligent, perhaps a little spoiled as the youngest child, but sensible and likable. Although he was hardly more than a baby when his father died, he still feels his loss.

Mr. Gallagher's preliminary education was in the Woburn public schools. Subsequently he attended Burdett's business school and in 1926 graduated from the Bentley School of Accounting and Finance. Almost the entire period since graduation was spent in the accounting department of the New England Electric System.

He has been very active in the affairs of Winchester Council 210, Knights of Columbus and Winchester Lodge 1445 of Elks. He has been a trustee of the latter for nearly 20 years and its unusual financial strength is generally attributed to his prudent supervision.

WINCHESTER DELEGATES BACK FROM CONVENTION

Winchester's Delegates to the Republican National Convention, former State Senate Chairman Harris S. Richardson and Mrs. J. Stanley Barnes, pledged to Eisenhower; former Selectman and present Planning Board Member Ralph H. Bonnell, pledged to Taft; and John Volpe, delegate-at-large and former candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant governor, are all back in town, reporting a wonderful experience and fired with enthusiasm for the G. O. P. nominees and the coming campaign.

Mr. Richardson and Mrs. Barnes were part of a delegate-and-alternate team that included General Otis Whitney, governor's councillor, of Concord; and Senator Paul Achin of Lowell. They and Mr. Bonnell, a member of Republican State Committee, who was prevented from casting his vote for Taft when the Massachusetts delegates decided to go unanimously for Eisenhower, stayed as did Mr. Volpe, a State officer of the Sons of Italy and president of the American Society of Military Engineers, at the Palmer House, headquarters of the Massachusetts delegates at the convention.

At the Massachusetts Headquarters after the nominations had been announced Mr. Volpe and Fred Ayer of Wenham, former Republican candidate for State Attorney General, were joint hosts at a cocktail party attended by most of the state delegates and other dignitaries. Local attendants were high in their praise of the good feeling engendered at this affair and praised both Mr. Volpe and Mr. Ayer highly, for their efforts in support of the party.

When the Winchester Eisenhower supporters returned to Boston Sunday night they were met by two large and enthusiastic Eisenhower delegations, one from Arlington and the other from Winchester. Returning delegates were greatly impressed with the seriousness of purpose and the close attention to business which marked the convention.

MISS MURRAY SHOWERED

Miss Anne Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Murray of 131 Washington street, was given a surprise shower at her home last Friday evening by a large group of relatives and friends in honor of her approaching marriage. Gifts were placed in a replica of a large well, designed and made by Mr. Frederick Porter of Fitchburg, uncle of the bride-to-be.

After Miss Murray had expressed her thanks and opened her lovely gifts refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. Guests were present from Wellesley, Stoneham, Arlington, Reading and Fitchburg, as well as from Winchester.

Miss Murray has chosen Sunday, August 17, as the date for her marriage to Mr. Louis E. Crandall of Stonington, Conn.

BEECHER — DYSON

White bouquets and candles decorated the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church on Saturday afternoon, June 21, when Miss Madeline M. Dyson, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Harry S. Dyson of 320 Washington street, became the bride of Lawrence S. Beecher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Beecher of 5 Amherst street, Hamden, Connecticut. The minister of the church, Rev. John Snook, Jr., performed the marriage ceremony at 2:30 under an arbor placed before the altar, and the bridal music was played by the church organist, Charles Potter.

Miss Dyson was given in marriage by her father. She wore an ankle-length gown of white lace over satin, with a Peter Pan collar and long sleeves. Her fingertip-length veil was caught to a helmet of lace to match her gown and she carried a white prayer-book topped with an orchid.

Mrs. Jack Marshall of Winchester was matron of honor, and Miss Andrea Beecher of Hamden, Conn., a small niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Bridesmaids were Miss Lillian Leatham of Lynn, Mrs. William Dyson of Wakefield, Mrs. Roger Eckels of Roxbury and Miss Eleanor Dalton of Winchester.

The matron of honor wore an ankle-length dress of white cotton lace over a lavender taffeta slip with matching helmet and carried an old fashioned bouquet. The bridesmaids wore identical aqua dresses like that of the honor attendant with matching helmets and carried the same flowers. The flower girl wore a frock of white embroidered organdy with a lace collar. Her straw hat was trimmed with white, matching her short gloves, and she carried a nosegay of old fashioned flowers.

Walter Beecher of Hamden, Conn., was his brother's best man, and the ushers were Robert Meinsen, also of Hamden; Gardner Lakey of Rhode Island, Roger Eckels of Roxbury and Roy Steenhoff of Sturbridge. Master Robert Dyson of Wakefield, nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer.

After the marriage a reception was held in the church vestry, the mothers of both the bride and bridegroom assisting in receiving. Mrs. Dyson, mother of the bride, was gowned in rose silk shantung and wore a large navy picture hat with matching accessories and a corsage of orchids. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Beecher, also wore orchids with her rose print gown and white accessories.

Following a honeymoon spent touring New England by motor, Mr. and Mrs. Beecher will live in Hamden, Conn., where the bridegroom is a school teacher.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School, class of 1947, and of the Academie Moderne, class of 1951. Mr. Beecher, with more than three years' service in the United States Air Forces, graduated from Hamden, Conn., High School in 1942, from University of Illinois and from Boston University. He has done graduate work at New Haven State Teachers College.

FINED IN FATAL ACCIDENT CASE

William H. Goodwin, Jr., 18 year-old Marblehead youth, was fined $100 by Justice William Henchey in the District Court at Woburn last Friday after pleading guilty to the charge of driving so as to endanger at the time of a fatal accident in which he was involved at the corner of Cambridge and Wildwood streets shortly before noon on July 4.

Goodwin was the operator of a car coming out of Wildwood street and colliding with a machine heading north on Cambridge street and being driven by Harry J. MacArthur of 49 Prospect street, Malden, William L. MacLellan, 58, of 128 Summer street, Malden, a passenger in the MacArthur car, was fatally injured in the accident.

The Winchester Police sought a hearing on the issuance of a complaint last week Wednesday, but when young Goodwin appeared he waived his right to a hearing and asked immediate trial.

He pleaded guilty to the charge of driving so as to endanger, and Justice Henchey, who heard the case, continued it until last Friday, when he imposed the $100 fine. Young Goodwin will also be deprived of his license to drive for at least a year.

CHARLES A. FARRAR

RETIRING TELEPHONE EMPLOYEE HONORED

Charles A. Farrar of Myrtle street, widely known in and around Winchester, retired from the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company Thursday, July 10, after 42 years continuous service. At the time of his retirement, mandatory because of his age, Mr. Farrar was Chief Repair Man for Winchester.

Entering the employ of the telephone company in 1910 as what he termed a "scrub", Mr. Farrar then worked 54 hours in a six-day week at a weekly wage of $6, with no vacation. This is a far cry from the present day pay and working conditions of company employees. He worked up through the positions of sub-station installer and line-man to become a central office repair man, and he was appointed Chief Repair Man for Winchester 15 years ago.

Mr. Farrar was given a testimonial dinner at the Elks Home in Everett by telephone associates and friends, at which members of Winchester Lodge of Elks, of which Mr. Farrar is past exalted ruler, and his associate members of the Winchester Board of Public Welfare were guests. Sharing honors with Mr. Farrar were his wife, Pauline; his daughters, Mrs. Virginia Veitch and Miss Norma Farrar; his brother, Walter Farrar of Everett; and two sisters, Mrs. Emma Ames of Stoneham and Mrs. Addie Furnace of Chelsea. Miss Norma Farrar came down from her duties as counselor at a girls' camp in New Hampshire to lend her pleasing soprano voice to the party for her father. Miss Mary Rogers of the Winchester Exchange entertained with several soprano solos that were very well received.

Joe Barry, telephone repair man, of Arlington, acted as toastmaster, and Charles E. Ames, retired president of the Telephone Pioneers, an organization of long-time telephone employees, presented Mr. Farrar with his Pioneers' certificate and pin.

District Superintendent Carl Daly made the presentation of the telephone company's certificate and wallet, and Carl Wheeler, wire chief for Area 5, presented Mr. Farrar with a substantial purse, on behalf of those present.

Mr. Farrar responded to the various presentations in his usual hearty manner, though there could be no doubt of his deep appreciation of the gifts and sentiment expressed by all present.

He had still another surprise in store for him on his last day at work when the girls at the Winchester Telephone Exchange gave him a gift as they gathered to extend their best wishes for a well-earned vacation. Mae E. Vaugh, chief operator at the Exchange, made the presentation.

Jack Keller of Lynnfield was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the testimonial dinner, with Kay Doyle of the Winchester Exchange as co-chairman and Teresa Sullivan as treasurer.

"Charlie" has no plans for the immediate future, but as soon as the weather cools off a bit he and Pauline are going to spend part of the purse given "Charlie" at the dinner on a trip west to Phoenix, Arizona, to visit their son, Charles A. (Skitchie) Farrar, Jr., his wife and their three children. "Charlie" told the Star he and "the Mrs." have never seen the grandchildren, and think it high time they did, but not, he added, until the glass stops registering 107 degrees in Phoenix.

DR. HERTIG APPOINTED

Dr. Arthur T. Hertig of 21 Everett avenue has been appointed Shattuck professor of pathological anatomy, a teaching and research post at Harvard Medical School, announcement of the appointment having been made Tuesday by Dean George P. Berry.

Dr. Hertig is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and the Harvard Medical School. He has been teaching and conducting research in pathology at the school and its associated hospitals since 1932.

WEATHER BULLETIN

Winchester has had nearly a week of very hot and humid weather, with the glass in the high nineties everywhere and well over the 100 degree mark in the sun. Rain has been promised daily, but as the Star goes to press, none has fallen and there seems no relief in sight!

LeRoy Tiffany Downer of 460 Washington street, Woburn, prominent in local Masonic circles and a former well-known Winchester boy, died suddenly Saturday evening, July 12, while visiting a neighbor and walking with him about the yard. Mr. Downer was the son of Arthur T. and Ellen Maud (Palmer) Downer. The family home was on Stevens street and the Downers were prominent in Winchester, Mr. Downer having been one of the founders and at one time president, both of the Winchester Laundry and of the New England Laundries, which grew from the local plant.

After high school, Mr. Downer worked at the Winchester Laundry for several years, later being associated with laundries in Elmira, N. Y., and Windsor, Vt. He then headed his own plant, Downer's Laundry, in Arlington for a time before becoming associated several years ago with his father-in-law, William Spillsbury in the florist business with greenhouses on Washington street in Woburn near the Reading line.

Mr. Downer was active in Masonry, having been a member and past master of Mystic Valley Lodge of Winchester. He was also at the time of his death High Priest of Winchester Royal Arch Chapter and Master of the Thirteenth Lodge of Instruction, the province of which is to instruct candidates for degrees in the Masonic Ritual.

Aside from his Masonic activities, Mr. Downer was an ardent fishermen, his hobby being fishing trips, near and far, as time and opportunity permitted. He was a member of the Winchester First Baptist Church, and during World War I served in the United States Navy.

On November 17, 1920, Mr. Downer married Beatrice Spillsbury of Woburn, who survives, with four brothers, Charles P., of Portland, Oregon, Wallace F., also of Portland, David R., of Sarasota, Florida, and Arthur H. Downer of Hingham, also a sister, Mrs. Edith Bachelder of Wilton, N. H.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Bennett Chapel with the Rev. Walter Lee Bailey, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in Woodbrook Cemetery, Woburn.

MARINE PILOT PROMOTED TO MAJOR

On July 10th, Captain Thomas W. Conlon, Jr., was notified that he had been promoted to Major in the U. S. Marine Reserve Aviation Corps. Major Conlon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Conlon of 54 Canal street. He is married to the former Evelyn Landy of Revere, and they have a son Thomas W. 3rd. His family now resides in Opa-Locka, Florida, near the new marine air station, where Major Conlon is serving as commanding officers of the maintenance squadron and special services.

Major Conlon has an illustrious service record. He enlisted in July, 1942, and after a refresher course at State College, Amherst, entered Chapel Hill, at University of North Carolina for his preliminary officers' flight training and 10 months later was commissioned a 2nd lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve. Early in 1944 his dive bomber squadron went overseas and joined the first marine air wing assigned to General Douglas MacArthur, in the recapture of Pacific Islands and the liberation of the Philippines.

In October, 1945, he was returned to the states and was released from active service at the end of the war with Japan. He completed a course in aviation at the New England Aircraft School at Logan Airport. After his marriage in March, 1947, he made his home at 17 Edgehill road, Woburn, while conducting Conlons Auto Service at 972 Main street in Winchester.

Recalled to active duty in July, 1950, he went overseas early in 1951 as captain and was assigned to the U. S. S. Sicily. For five months he flew missions from the carrier, which operated in the Yellow Sea. When the Sicily was returned to the states for repairs, Captain Conlon was sent into Korea as air patrol officer for the 3rd Battalion, 7th Marine Infantry Regiment. With 1,000 marines he made the famous helicopter flight to the Punch Bowl Ridge area, and during the bitter cold of winter he served with the infantry, sleeping in frozen fox holes, and eating and working under most trying conditions. His duties included marking targets for bomber strikes and directing all air movement for his battalion. On the morning of November 3rd he was saddened by the death of his young friend, Billy Violante of Winchester, who was a member of his regiment and who had been killed by a raiding party during the night. Violante was Winchester first Korean casualty.

After completing his tour of duty in Korea Conlon came back to the United States and after reporting to the Marine base at Cherry Point, North Carolina, in January of this year, he was assigned to the new marine air station at Opla Locka which was in process of assembly at that time.

Major Conlon holds six air medals, two distinguished flying crosses and a personal citation from World War II; he also received another air medal and citation after Korea, and his eighth air medal on July 4th gave him the coveted Gold Star.

Miss Mary A. Haggerty of Winchester was her sister's only attendant. She wore a dress of orchid nylon tulle over taffeta with a matching hat and carried an old fashioned bouquet of carnations with variegated fuchsia leaves.

Charles M. Morrissey of South Boston was best man for his brother, and the ushers were John J. Morrissey of South Boston, also a brother of the bridegroom; William P. Haggerty, Jr., of Winchester, brother of the bride; William Gillespie of Cambridge and Augustus B. Govoni of Somerville.

After the marriage a reception was held at General Edwards Inn, Point of Pines, Revere, the parents of both the bride and bridegroom assisting in receiving. Mrs. Haggerty, mother of the bride, was gowned in powder blue and wore a pink lace hat with matching accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Morrissey, wore a navy gown with white hat and accessories and a corsage of yellow tea roses.

Upon their return from an extended motor trip through Maine and Canada Mr. and Mrs. Morrissey will live in Winchester.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School and of Burdette College. Mr. Morrissey graduated from high school in Boston and is associated with the Elliott Addressing Machine Company.

DELOREY THROWS TWO-HITTER AT IMPERIALS

Behind the two hit, pitching of Norman Delorey the Winchester Merchants defeated the strong Imperial Club of Somerville at Leonard Field last Monday by a score of 3 to 1. Delorey fanned nine and walked only two in his best performance of the year.

The Merchants broke through the strong pitching of Myles in the fourth inning to score two runs on a single by Dilorio followed by Tansey's single to right. Serieka walked to fill the bases. Dilorio was out at the plate on Murphy's infield grounder, Tansey scored on a second base overthrow in an attempt to trap Serieka at second. Chisholm singled home Serieka to end the scoring.

The Merchants are still tied for fourth place in the League with a 9 - 6 record.

Murphy held the Palmerites to two hits over his seven innings while striking out nine and walking only two. Farrell took over in the eighth allowing only one hit, while striking out three.

Serieka, Dilorio and McLaughlin were the heavy hitters for the Merchants. Serieka taking advantage of his speed twice stole home on a surprised Somerville pitcher. The summary:

RED SOX TIED DODGERS

An extra inning failed to break the 4 - 4 tie ballgame between the Red Sox and Dodgers in the Little League series at Manchester Field last Friday evening, the game being finally called because of darkness.

This was one the Red Sox should have won, the Dodgers scoring their two runs in the first after two were out on three straight errors.

McGee homered with a man aboard to put the Sox ahead 4 - 2 in the fifth, but Peckham, after pitching great ball, weakened in the 6th, and a combination of several hits and a bad break or two for the Sox enabled the Dodgers to knot the count.

Flaherty held the Sox safely over the last two innings. The summary:

YANKS BLANKED SOX

David Power of the Yanks just missed a no-hitter Monday night as the Yanks blanked the Red Sox in a Little League game on Manchester Field, 1 - 0

Joel Peckham spoiled Power's great try, which was almost equaled by the Sox "Lefty" Toperzer, who gave up only two safeties.

The pitchers were way ahead of the batters, there being no extra base hits during the game. Each team made a double play. The summary:

LEAGUE LEADERS DOWN MERCHANTS

St. John's of Cambridge, now leading the Inter-city League with a 13 - 2 record, defeated the Winchester Merchants 5 to 3 at Leonard Field last Friday evening.

St. John's has five all scholastic ball players in its lineup lead by Landry, their heavy hitting catcher. St. John's scored three runs in the first on two singles and a "long Gone" Homer by Landry. The ball carried in the air over the house in left center landing somewhere out on Nathaniel road.

The Merchants however fought back and in the sixth had a lively rally going featured by Serieka's homer to the Tennis Courts in right, with two aboard. Had not some over ambitious base running and perhaps over enthusiastic coaching choked off another possible run the Merchants might well have pulled this one out. The summary:

CAMP FELLSLAND HAS DISTINGUISHED VISITOR

Camp Fellsland for all local Scouts is now in its third week of camp life and will have only three more weeks after this finishing up on the tenth of August. The past week the camp was visited by Bob Pelletier of Belmont and New York City and who has served the camp as waterfront director for some three years. He returned to give a special exhibition of swimming last Sunday and participated in the clown act as part of the waterfront program.

The camp also was happy to have as a visitor, Major Robert Hayton, formerly of Medford and now of the West coast who is in the Marine Corps as pilot for some of Uncle Sam's largest planes. The part that was interesting to the boys in Major Bob Hayton was the fact that for many years he was a Scout in Medford, retained the Eagle Scout rank, and had over 50 merit badges and also for a period was a member of the Camp Staff at Camp Fellsland. He gave the campers some very sound advice if they plan to enter any part of Uncle Sam's forces. He stressed particularly that they give attention to their advancement work in Scouting.

The camp also was pleased to have two additional adult leaders during the entire past week in the persons of Mr. Earle Doyle of Hudson who for many years was a member of the Camp Staff and also Mr. Bernhardt Anderson, Scoutmaster of Troop 4, Winchester. He spent the entire week at camp working with Staff Rogers and some of the Rangers and in turn finishing up on some of his merit badges so that he will become an Eagle Scout within a very short time.

The camp was again most successful in its athletic endeavors due to the fact that they defeated Camp Powow in both baseball and basketball, with Camper Chapin once again limiting Camp Powow to one hit and defeating them 9 - 0. Arrangements are being made now for the Amesbury playground teams to come to camp to see if they might give Camp Fellsland boys a better run for their money.

The Council Camp Committee, headed by Norman Houghton, of Stoneham as chairman, visited and inspected the camp last Wednesday and we were informed that Mr. Robert X. Perry, Deputy Regional Executive, representing all of New England, will be in to inspect and review the camp on the 23rd of July. On this date it is expected that many members of the Council Executive Board and the Council Camp Committee will be present to listen to Mr. Perry's report of the camp itself.

This past week was a banner week as far as Scout Advancement was concerned and many boys will come back to their Troops in the Fall very well advanced in Scouting.

Among the local boys at camp this week are:

Erskine Kelley
John Foster
Roger Gullotti
Benjamin Carr
Peter Gowing
Jeffrey Bar
John Chapin
Kenneth Galiazzo
John Watkins
Robert Phillips
Philip Pollard
David McLean
Don Murray
David Cullen
Lawrence Nadeau

The Winchester Little League All-Star team as selected by the team managers at a meeting conducted by Ken Hall, the League Player Agent has been announced. No attempt was made to select the players by position, as some very good performers would have been omitted, but simply to choose the 14 best players in the league. Jack Serieka, coach of the Braves, has been appointed by the Board of Directors as manager of the All-Star team. Working with Manager Warren Branch, Serieka has done a splendid job of coaching the Braves to the first half championship. This appointment comes as just recognition of his outstanding work and his ability to get the best out of his performers.

There are no special age requirements for an All-Star team as there are in the case of a regular Little League team, and the managers came up with a team of nine 12 year olders and five boys of 11 years of age. It is rather surprising that there were not more 12 year olders; however, it speaks well for the ability of the 11 year old youngsters and augurs well for the quality of play next year. A breakdown by teams shows that the Yankees placed the greatest number of players with five, the Braves placed four, the Dodgers had three, and the Red Sox two players.

Although no attempt was made to select the players by positions, three of the leading pitchers in the league were chosen, as they are also outstanding in other positions. Don Flynn, Joe Flaherty and Jim Dwinell were the three chosen, while Joel Peckham, Bobby Gray and Dave Power can also do a creditable job on the mound. Eddie Ardini and Dick O'Brien are available to handle the catching chores. Tre managers have selected an impressive array of All-Stars about whom there can be little argument, and it will be interesting to watch the makeup of the team that Manager Jack Serieka will field as the strongest possible lineup from the Winchester Little League.

LITTLE LEAGUE ALL STARS

MEDFORD STARS MEET PICKED LOCAL TEAM

The Winchester Little League All-Stars will meet the Medford Little League All Stars at Manchester Field next Wednesday evening in the first round of the District Two Little League Tournament. In case rain causes a postponement, the game will be played the next clear evening. Local Little League fans are anxious to see how their favorites will do against outside competition and the largest crowd of the season will undoubtedly be on hand at 6:15 to see the opening pitch.

Manager Jack Serieka has a powerful array of talent at his disposal and will go all out to give the Winchester Little League a victory in its first Little League Tournament contest. Don Flynn, Jim Dwinell, or Joe Flaherty will toe the mound for the locals with Eddie Ardini or Dick O'Brien behind the bat. The makeup of the rest of the team will be decided from practice sessions held this week and from two exhibition games with the Wakefield Little League All-Star team.

To properly prepare his charges for the all-important Tournament game next Wednesday, two exhibition games will be held with the Wakefield Little League All-Stars. The first of these will be played tonight at Manchester Field and the Winchester All-Stars will travel to Wakefield for a Sunday afternoon contest. Wakefield competes in the District One Tournament while Winchester competes in District Two and thus would not meet in regular Tournament play.

Little is known of the strength of the Medford All-Stars but, like Winchester, this is their first season of Little League baseball. Local fans are confident that the Winchester youngsters will give a good account of themselves and feel that it is going to take a good Medford team to beat them. This Tournament is a sudden-death elimination affair — one loss and the team is out — and as this is the only Tournament games that will be played in Winchester, local fans are urged to attend next Wednesday evening to see Little League baseball at its best.

UNUSUAL FIRE AT WINN'S

Many about town heard with alarm Fire Box 332 sound at 9:40 Tuesday morning. This box is located at the J. H. Winn's Sons Watch-Hand Factory on north Washington street and a fire at this old line plant could be quite disasterous.

The fire apparatus made a quick trip to the factory and found, fortunately, that nothing serious was in progress though the fire which caused the pulling of the box was on the unusual side.

It took place on the third floor of the factory where a workman put a protective device against heat on a box of bottles containing plastic. The heat remaining in the protector caused the plastic in the bottles to explode and flare up, though the fire was quickly out and did no damage. The box was pulled while the bottles were blazing, quite properly as a precautionary measure.

EASIER WEEK-END FOR FIREFIGHTERS

The first of two alarms of fire over the past week-end was at 8:42 Saturday afternoon from Box 51 for a fire reported to be at 37 Pond street. Upon arrival the firefighters found that smoke from an incinerator fire at the rear of the house had been seen by a passer-by who reported the house to be on fire.

The other run also proved to be unnecessary. It came Sunday at 5 p. m., when the Central Station was notified that there seemed to be water leaking from a house at the corner of Church street and Wyman Court with the family away. The firefighters found the trouble to be clogged gutters at the house, with no trouble inside.

The telephone is one of the most direct lines of defense . . . whether it's linking a radar location to a warning center, building a ship or carrying a soldier's message home.

Radar, observation posts, aircraft control and warning networks, airfields, local civil defense centers and anti-aircraft units are being served by telephone. 9,000 miles of telephone and telegraph typewriter circuits and hundreds of miles of private military lines are being installed for New England defense communications.

IMPORTANT DEFENSE WORK IS BEING RUSHED

Steps are underway to rearrange switchboards, cables and other equipment used in handling long distance messages — so calls can be routed around major cities if necessary.

Provision for standby power units and for the use of automobile and other types of portable radio-telephone equipment at strategic locations, detailed emergency arrangements for restoring lines to service — all these plans are nearing completion. Safety measures have been taken to guard important equipment in key locations.

MORE AND MORE FOR THE ARMED SERVICES

More lines and switchboards to New England's camps and bases. Telephone Centers and other special provisions for servicemen have been set up at military hospitals, Army, Navy and Air Force installations.

Yes, the telephone plays a big part in defense and in morale, too!

Circuits, Circuits and More Circuits are being installed, tested and put into operation all over New England to meet the needs of our Armed Forces and Civil Defense networks. Expert engineers check every wire to make sure the new circuits work perfectly.

Complex Air Base Control such as this typical Massachusetts Army Air Force base, demand special telephone equipment. Controlling flights, relaying Civil Defense alerts, air-ground communications — these are some of the important jobs the telephone handles in an air base control tower.

PLAYGROUND NOTES

A very successful Play Day was held last Thursday at Winchester with the Reading Playgrounds with four games being played simultaneously on as many fields. It was a very satisfying sight to see so much activity and so many youngsters actively participating at the same time. Winchester was victorious in three of the four contests played, dropping only the Senior baseball game 8 - 4 to a strong visiting nine. The Intermediates won handily by a score of 15 - 0 while the Juniors turned in an easy 14 - 2 victory The Junior Boys Softball team enjoyed the best competition of the afternoon as they scored two runs in the last inning to edge the Reading Senior Girls team by an 8 - 7 score.

Competition in their own intra-playground league is continuing at a fast pace as the teams are now well organized and are showing improvement from the coaching received. Bob Jacobellis is making rapid progress as a pitcher in the Senior Division, twirling a 9 - 0 shutout over the West Side nine. John Bushell, Joe Bellino, and Lou Farrell are hitting well in these games.

The Leonard Intermediates dropped their first game of the season by a 12 - 5 margin to the West Side Intermediates. Rennie Johnston twirled the west Side Intermediates to three victories in the past week while adding another home-run to his batting record. The Junior teams still provide the best competition as all four playgrounds boast of strong Junior nines. The Leonard Juniors have shown marked improvement, winning three games in the past week. Don Flynn and Dennis Keane hooked up in a nice pitching duel that ended in a 5 - 5 tie, with Loring rallying for two runs in the last inning to catch the Ginn Fielders.

The Kickball League and the Junior Boys' Softball League provide interesting activity for the younger boys and girls. The kickball teams are well matched with any one team capable of winning on any given day. The Ginn Field softball team won an extremely well played 4 - 3 game from Loring on the strength of a homerun in the sixth inning by Tony Peterson. Hank Kiley pitched a 7 - 0 shutout for Ginn as well as twirling the 8 - 7 victory over Reading on the Play Day.

The Playground Arts and Crafts exhibit will go on display today in the window of Hevey's Pharmacy and will continue through the week. Parents and friends are urged to make special effort to see the grand job the youngsters are doing in this active program. Some of the articles on display are guaranteed to surprise you with their artistry and excellent workmanship.

Sons of Italy	13	4
Fitzgeralds	11	5
V. F. W.	9	8
White Shirts	8	9
Winchester Brick	7	10
Merenda	2	14

The Winchester Brick Co. nine had a disastrous week in the Town Softball League, losing three straight games to drop down to fifth place in the League standing. All three games were tough ones to lose, especially the ten-inning 6-5 defeat at the hand of the Sons of Italy. In that game Frank Procopio and Marty Joyce hooked up in a brilliant pitching duel that was tied at 5-5 going into the tenth. In the top of the tenth the Brick Company banged out two triples but failed to score because of careless base running and good defensive play by the Sons. In the bottom of the tenth Al Tibaudo was the lead-off batter and promptly brought the game to an abrupt end with a long home run.

Last Friday night the Brick Co. was again edged out by one run when the V. F. W. took an 8-7 victory in the seventh inning. The Vets went ahead in the early innings but the Brick Co. rallied to take the lead. The Vets tied it in the sixth and won it in the seventh when the Brick Co. strategy backfired. With two out and two on, Marty Joyce purposely walked the next batter to pitch to "Beanie" Perry, but Perry singled sharply to drive in the winning run for what must have been one of his most satisfying hits of the season. John Sexton pitched the White Shirts to a 4-1 victory over the Brick Co. on Monday night in the battle between these two for fourth place.

On Tuesday evening the Fitzgeralds staged the granddaddy of all rallies to score nine runs in the last of the seventh to edge the Sons of Italy 13-12 in a slugfest. Manager Charlie Tofuri pulled all the strings at his command to tally nine runs with only one out, climaxed by a Tony Cirurso single to drive in the winning run. The competition in the league is really intense as the teams enter the final week of the regular schedule. In spite of a drop in attendance because of the Little League, the actual competition has been the most spirited in years and the playoffs promise to be as close as the proverbial whisker.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Mrs. Charles P. Dow and her two daughters, Mrs. E. George Pierce, Jr., and Miss Eleanore P. Dow, also her two grandchildren Ely and Dabney Pierce, are at their summer home, Westport Island, Maine.

We at the Star got a kick out of an airmail communication from "Billy" Sullivan, son of the late "Bob" Sullivan, for many years a popular barber in Winchester. "Billy" has evidently noted our masthead carefully, for he addressed his communication to the "Only Newspaper Printed in Winchester". Naturally we got it all right. They have lots of strange addresses to decipher at the local Post Office and have become quite expert at figuring them out. "Billy" is somewhere in Japan so the letter had quite a way to go.

Charlie Koch of the Winchester Sport Shop has taken his sudden sport shirts and famous red hat to Machias, Maine, for a week's fishing, or at least so he says. If he is fishing (and we personally can see no reason to doubt his simple statement to this effect, Mrs. Koch notwithstanding to the contrary), and if he is using the tackle and bait-by-the-yard that he purveys at his famous sports emporium, then he should do well, perhaps, even very well! His return to town is eagerly awaited.

LEGISLATION PASSED OF BENEFIT TO ARLINGTON AND MYSTIC VALLEY AREA

The last week of the legislative session found favorable action on bills filed by Representative Henry E. Keenan of Arlington. The most important was a bill that authorizes the Metropolitan Transit Authority to go forward with plans and specifications relative to the extension of the Harvard Square subway from its present terminus underground to Porter Square and them overground beside the Fitchburg division of the Boston and Maine Railroad to terminate in an area of land set aside last year by an act of the Legislature, based on a program filed by Representative Henry E. Keenan of Arlington. Representative Keenan has worked for three successive legislative years to bring about this proposed subway extension.

Legislation calling for improvements along the Mystic Valley Parkway similar to those now being carried on along the Alewife Brook Parkway were enacted into law. This area will be beautified, safety fences erected along the riverway and a new parkway will be built on the east side of the Mystic River to relieve traffic that now bottlenecks at the junction of High street and Medford street at the Arlington-Medford line.

Representative Henry E. Keenan of Arlington takes this occasion to announce his candidacy for re-election to the House of Representatives from the Twenty-eighth Middlesex District in Arlington. His purpose for seeking re-election is to fulfill his original promise — "When elected, to stay on the job and get things done for the Arlington area."

KIWANIS FAMILY OUTING

The first annual Winchester Kiwanis Family Outing will be held on Sunday, July 27 at Bill Cantwell's summer home on Lake Massasecum, Bradford, N. H. It is approximately a 2 hour drive from Winchester. You may either come alone, or with your girl, wife and children. Also bring your own lunches.

There will be swimming, boating, fishing, and dancing. All members wishing to attend let Ray Murphy know at the next meeting. H., and then No. 114 to Lake Massasecum. Route 114 runs right by the Lake before you reach Bradford, N. H. Bill Cantwell's Cottage is named "Boys Town" and is the third from the Casino.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

The sweltering weather didn't daunt 14 tables of avid bridge players Wednesday when the ladies of the Winchester Boat Club gathered together for dessert bridge. The iced tea and cake helped them to forget the weather. Mrs. Robert Hall was committee chairman, and she was ably assisted by Mrs. Vincent Scanlon, Mrs. Gordon Harrington, Mrs. Ollie Fowler, Mrs. Carl Freyer, Mrs. Winston Clark, Mrs. Wendall Irving, and Mrs. Don Peterson.

Schedule of Ladies Bridges and their chairman:

July 30 — Martin Swanson
August 13 — Mrs. James Newman
August 27 — Mrs. Harold Pyne (Dessert Bridge)
September 10 — Mrs. Edward Morse

Steward Broder and his wife are putting on the first of a series of Sunday night buffet suppers this Sunday. Why not go on over to the Club and cool off. The menu sounds appetizing — cold cuts, ham, potato salad, punch, etc. Bridge and canasta will follow, so why not plan on these buffet suppers as regular Sunday events? Reservations must be in on the Friday before.

Fifty-two members and guests loudly applauded Rodney Long when he won the Winchester Boat Club Trophy at the annual Regatta Dinner Saturday night. The winners out of twelve entries were Rodney Long, Roger Swanson, second place; and the Wilkins Brothers from the Massachusetts Bay Yacht Club, third place. Handsome prizes were given out to these winners and their crews. The snipe fleet was starving after racing all day Saturday, and they really enjoyed every bite of that delicious turkey dinner.

FORMER WINCHESTER BOY HOME FROM EUROPE

A former Winchester boy, John H. Waite, Jr., son of Dr. J. Herbert Waite of 42 Wildwood street, and 5 Bay State road, former professor of ophtammology at Harvard, returned Sunday, July 13, on the S. S. Queen Elizabeth after 10 years in Europe.

Mr. Waite, who is 34 years old, went to Europe unmarried as a soldier in 1942. After World War II he remained in Europe as a civilian research physicist with Army occupation forces.

In 1946 he married an Austrian girl and he and his wife are bringing back with them to America seven children; three belonging to the wife by a previous marriage, three from the present union and one whom the Waites adopted..

This seventh youngster, Evelyn Yan Yan Waite, lost her Chinese father and Austrian mother in an automobile accident, and was in an Austrian orphanage when the Waites saw her.

They decided to adopt her, Mr. Waite said, because "she was the only child we saw crying and all the other children were laughing at her."

Gentlemen:

In response to your request the Department of Public Health has caused an examination to be made of the suitability for public bathing of Palmer Beach and Leonard Pool in Winchester.

The examination showed that adequate bathhouse and toilet facilities have been provided at each bathing place. Water from the municipal supply is available for drinking purposes. Both beaches were clean and well maintained.

The results of the bacterial examination of samples of water collected from Wedge Pond at Palmer Beach and from Leonard Pool show that the water in both instances was of suitable quality bacteriologically for public bathing.

Should you care to discuss this matter further you should consult with the Division of Sanitary Engineering of the Department of Public Health, Room 511A, State House, Boston.

Respectfully,

LEGIONNAIRES PLAY FINAL LEAGUE CONTESTS

The locals traveled to Lowell last Friday evening to meet the Lowell Legionnaires and returned with an 8-7 set-back. The winning run came in the last inning by Crowe's single to center with Payne reaching on a base on balls. Dave Pratt started on the mound for Winchester but had tough going when Lowell reached him for four runs in the opening frame. Four hits were made and four runs scored in this inning. "Skitchy" Carroll relieved Pratt and allowed two runs in the third, one in the sixth, and the winning run in the seventh. "Skitchy" fanned five and Pratt struck out one. Carroll issued two bases on balls and Pratt none. Winchester's runs came as follows: one in the second, three in the third, one in the fourth, and two in the last. Winchester out-hit the home town team 11-9. Getting safeties for Winchester were Bellino, Pratt and DiIorio with two each; and Connors, Di Silva, Farrell, Carroll and Procopio with one each. Joe Bellino, catcher, threw four men out at second attempting to steal, which is accurate enough for any boy just getting out of junior high school in such good competition.

On last Sunday afternoon the locals traveled to Arlington for its second defeat of the last stretch by a 5-0 score. Martens of Arlington, the league's ace pitcher, fanned ten Winchesterites while issuing but four bases on balls. Di Silva kept up Marten's pace by striking out eleven and passing five. Poor fielding and throwing the ball around damaged Winchester's hopes. Arlington scored two in the fourth and three in the seventh to put the game on ice. Di Silva fanned two in the first, one in the second, three in the third, one in the fourth, one in the fifth, two in the sixth, and two in the seventh, which is good pitching, but two errors with men on base and the lack of timely hitting prevented Charlie from getting a well-earned victory.

Then on Tuesday evening, Winchester returned to the win column by defeating Reading 5-2. Dave Pratt went the entire game, fanning five and allowing three to reach on balls. Dave gave up four scattered hits, one of which was a homer by Poehler and Milley on base, accounting for Reading's two scores in the fourth. Winchester's tallies came in the second for one, three in the third, and one in the fifth. With hard-hitting Di Silva and first baseman DiIorio out of the line-up, Coach Frankie Provinzano revised the order, placing eighth grader Joe Bellino in the cleanup spot, which paid off, because Joe came through with two hits, one of which was a triple to deep left field in the third inning with Connors and Pratt on base. Also getting two hits for Winchester was lead-off batter Lou Farrell, a ninth grader. Other Winchesterites reaching first on hits were Connors, Carroll, McLaughlin, and "Bucky" Morgan. Scoring for Winchester were Connors, Pratt with two, Bellino, and Carroll.

To wind up the season of league contests, Winchester defeated Arlington at Loring avenue on Wednesday evening by an 11-1 score with "Skitchy" Carroll the winning pitcher. "Skitchy" fanned six and allowed but two base hits. These hits came in the first and fourth innings. The Winchesterites found opposing pitcher Paynter for a total of nine hits, which came two in the second, third, and fourth innings and three in the fifth. Hitting for the locals were Connors, Bellino and Procopio with two each; and Pratt, Carroll and Jacobellis with one apiece.

Scoring runs for the winners were Connors with three, Procopio and Jacobellis two each, and McLaughlin, Pratt, DiSilva and Bellino one each.

Next Tuesday and Friday the locals will play non-league contests against Bedford and Stoneham, respectively, at Loring avenue.

WHERE'S "DENNIE" KEANE!

If any one in Winchester knows the whereabouts of Cliff and Bernice Keane of Lloyd street, presently vacationing with their family "somewhere on Cape Cod" please contact any official of the Little League in Winchester, President, Ted Bartlett; vice-president, Eddie Cullen; or any of the team managers. Dennie Keane has been chosen for the Winchester All Star team, playing exhibition games with Wakefield tonight and Sunday. His father, Cliff, sports writer for the Boston Globe, left no address when he went on vacation and "done it a-purpose", wanting no calls during his time off. He did not know, however, that his son and heir would be picked for Little League all star honors, and we would bet both he and Bernice would want Dennis in there swinging if they did know about it.

A SERIOUS THEFT

The Star was favored this week with a letter from Ray V. Hayward, who recently has reassumed the portfolio of Faculty Manager of Athletics at Winchester High School after an interim of several years. It is always nice to hear from "Raymie", particularly insofar as the newsy part of his letters is concerned. His latest screed tells us that there has been no rain at all on Birch Island in Maine, his summer habitat, and that some fiend in human form, had broken into his camp before Ray's arrival for the season and swiped his rowboat. That leaves "Raymie" with only a canoe for transportation and seriously curtails his and Dorothy's mobility, for say what you will and good navigator though Mr. Hayward undoubtedly may be, there are times, and we mean times, when the ocean down Maine way ain't no place for a canoe! You agree, George Franklin!

RETURNS TO CIVIL PRACTICE

Robert E. Dickson, D.M.D., son of Dr. and Mrs. R. Earl Dickson of 9 Wilson street, is back in the practice of dentistry following his recent discharge from the Navy, in which he served as dental officer with the rank of lieutenant.

Dr. Dickson was separated from the service at the Naval Air Station in Argentia, Newfoundland, about two weeks ago. Since his return to Winchester he has purchased the property at 56 Winford Way, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Matthews, and has commenced practicing in the office with his father, a well-known dentist, at 6 Liberty avenue in Powderhouse Square, Somerville.

Dr. Dickson went three years to to Winchester High School and then went to Wilbraham Academy for his senior year. On the basis of his work there during the first two months of scrool, he was sent on at once to Tufts, then operating on the three semester basis during the war. His marks as a freshman enabled him to complete his freshman year at college successfully and also to receive his graduation certificate with honors from Wilbraham.

During his college course Dr. Dickson was in the Navy V-12 Program, and at the close of the war he entered Tufts Dental School, from which he was graduated in the clas of 1949.

At that time he was commissioned a dental officer in the Navy with the rank of lieutenant, junior grade, and assigned to the Naval Training Station at Newport, R. I. From there he was sent to the Naval Air Station in Argentia, Newfoundland, remaining there until he was discharged, and being promoted to the rank of lieutenant, senior grade.

"CURIOUS SAVAGE" AT TUFTS ARENA

Opening last Tuesday night, and continuing through Saturday, July 19, the Tufts Arena Theater in Medford is presenting John Patrick's tender comedy "The Curious Savage" directed by Norman Ashton.

The action takes place in a sanitarium for the insane, and while insanity is not usually a subject for comedy, Mr. Patrick has managed, through his sensitive writing, to make his mildly mad people likeable, pleasant, and worthy of compassion. The "curious" Savage is an elderly woman who is committed to an institution by her greedy step-children who object to the manner in which she plans to dispose of her considerable fortune.

"The Curious Savage" makes an evening of mild laughter with a dash of sadness and a sprinkling of wisdom. This play may be seen through Saturday, July 19th at the Tufts Arena Theater in Medford. Curtin time is 8:30.

WHISPERINGS FROM MOUNT PERO

Camp Mount Pero, located outside of Plymouth, N. H., and in the White Mountains is enjoying another banner season of outdoor activity. Riding has been a highlight activity this past period with the sister camp giving the horses a good share of exercise. Swimming periods have been extended during the hot spell.

Along the extra activities the hardier boys consisting of Chuck Urmson, Roger Heard, Gary Gamage, Ron Kolligian, and Ken MacArthur, climbed Mt. Moosilauke from the Warren side and descended via the famous Beaver Brook Trail in Kinsman Notch. The sister camp and younger campers took in the Morse Museum and the Fish Hatchery in Warren in the morning, while the afternoon was spent trying to locate the river in the Lost River Geological Caverns.

Another well-remembered expedition was the overnight camping trip to the top of Mount Pero for the girls' camp while the boys treked to the Wilderness camp site down the lower valley with a breakfast cook-out. The boys team pitched by Gary Gamage and with Ron Kolligian doing the catching came home victorious over Plymouth Playground Lil' Leaguers. The sisters were not so fortunate under Sally MacArthur's pitching with a loss mostly due to being outclassed, however a cool swim in Loon Lake brought up the morale. The Baker Splash parties have been looked forward to and took place twice this week.

Leader Ann Hooper took Sally MacArthur, Ann Neville, Joanne King, and Gretchen Wolsey on a two day canoe trip on Big and Little Squam Lakes, leaving Tuesday morning and returning Wednesday.

Thursday was trip day with a tour of the Franconia Notch scenic attractions. These included the Flume, Basin and cascades, The Old Man of the Mountains and a swim in Echo Lake.

Winchesterites during this period at Mount Pero include, Lauren Keene, Ken MacArthur, Gary Gamage, Roger Heard, Bob Godwin, Charles Simpson, Charles Urmson, Ron Kolligian, Bruce Bonnell and Joe Donovan.

The sister camp included leader Ann Hooper, Judie Hanley, Sally MacArthur, Ann Neville, Janet Donovan, Gretchen and Sandra Wolsey, Beverly Bonnell, and Jean Heard.

The camp is operated by Mr. and Mrs. Roland A. Nault of 203 Washington street, Winchester.

KALICO KAT CHAT

by
Evelyn Gustafsson, Director
Kalico Kat Research Institute

Your Cat in Hot Weather

Summer weather can be trying to cats, but there are ways of lessening its discomforts. Your cat needs a cool dark place in which to sleep. If sunlight is available, he'll get all he needs. In the winter time, a cat will sleep in a patch of sunlight, often following it across the room. But in warmer weather, kitty plays in the sunshine, and sleeps in the shade. He prefers a bare floor, or linoleum, to a rug or cushion. If he sleeps in daylight, notice how he covers his eyes with one paw — a charming pose, but it means he'd be happier in the shade.

Cleanliness is both pleasant and essential to him. Summer time is infection time: be sure your cat's sleeping quarters are clean; and give him plenty of fresh water. Don't let his food stand around and spoil in the heat. What he doesn't eat in a short time after being served is better put away in the ice box, to be brought out later, warmed a little, and offered to him again.

Drafts ought to be avoided at all times. Cats are subject to colds. But on an excessively hot day, I've sometimes gone over my cat's fur lightly with a damp cloth. Moisture on the fur is cooling.

A cat should never sit in the direct draft of an electric fan. Be careful, too, that your cat doesn't go too near a fan, and injure himself. Usually, the noise frightens him away.

Shade, cleanliness, quiet — these are prescriptions for your cat's comfort in hot weather. By the way, you might do worse than to watch him, and follow his example. You'll find yourself keeping cool, too!

CUT BOATS ADRIFT

Saturday morning at 6:45 Mrs. Ethel Boyd of 8 Robinson Circle reported a motorboat on the lawn at the rear of her home. Shortly after 9 Mrs. Marion Fitzsimmons of 4 Robinson Circle reported a rowboat and sailboat at the rear of her property.

Officer John Elliott of the Police Department found that all the boats had been cut from their moorings at the Winchester Boat Club.

"DOWN IN A COAL MINE"

A Winchester businessman donned miner's "safety" helmet and work togs today for a descent 1,200 feet underground at Coaldale, Pa., recently, where he saw the inside workings of one of the world's most modern anthracite coal mines.

James E. Chute, 2 Horn Pond Brook road, of Lord Coal Company, went to Eastern Pennsylvania's famed Panther Valley for a first-hand look into the mining, preparation, and marketing of premium hard coal. His firm is a well-known dealer in Old Company's Lehigh anthracite which is produced there.

At Coaldale, he stepped into the Lehigh Navigation Coal Company's No. 8 Mine. While below surface, he observed how coal is blasted loose, loaded at the working face and transported long distances by electric-powered locomotives to the central shaft from whence the raw coal is hoisted.

In the Coaldale breaker, a huge preparation plant towering as high as a 20-story skyscraper, the Winchester man followed the fresh-mined anthracite through a careful pattern which separated impurities, graded the coal according to sizes and sent a thoroughly washed, glistening fuel into 60-ton railroad gondolas waiting to carry it to market.

As a sidelight of his trip to the coal mines, the local merchant visited the Lehigh Navigation Coal Company's big Greenwood stripping near Tamaqua, Pa., deepest vertical cut surface mining operation anywhere in anthracite, and toured the company's "Lelite" plant where a quality building aggregate is manufactured from run-of-mine coal by-products. His two days were climaxed by a visit to the big Anthracite Institute research laboratory at nearby Wilkes-Barre.

WINCHESTER BOY COMMISSIONED

Robert L. Singer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Singer of 7 Central street, and Marblehead, has been commissioned a second lieutenant, Artillery, after completing 22 weeks of training at the Anti-aircraft Artillery Officer Candidate School at Fort Bliss, Texas. He was a member of the fourth class to be graduated from the school.

Lt. Singer, who entered the Army in May 1951, was assigned to the Officer Candidate School in January 1952. Since that time he has studied tactics, gunnery, electronics and such subjects as army administration, military law, military sanitation and first aid, and others to fit himself as a junior officer in the United States Army.

Following his graduation from the Officer Candidate School, Lt. Singer was assigned to the 244th AAA Group, Fort Dix, N. J.

Sam Stern, Fargo, N. D., banker, merchant and civic leader, who was elected Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks at its 88th Grand Lodge Convention in New York City.

Sam Stern, Fargo, N. D., banker, merchant and civic leader, was elected Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks at its 88th Grand Loge Convention here July 14.

Stern, who was unopposed, was elected unanimously as Convention business sessions got under way in the Waldorf Astoria following the colorful public opening ceremonies Sunday night. He is the first North Dakotan to head the Order of Elks in its 84 (correct) year history. Stern has served as North Dakota Chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis since its inception, has been Chairman of the North Dakota State Crippled Children Commission for 11 years, and was a founder and for many years head of the State Elks Association's Crippled Children Program, which established Camp Grassick, an institution for handicapped children, near Bismarck. Stern will be installed at the closing convention session Thursday, July 17, succeeding Howard R. Davis of Williamsport, Pa.

Grand Exalted Ruler Davis reported that membership showed a gain for the 13th consecutive year, an increase of 28,604 which brought the Order's membership to an all-time high of 1,069,868. Nineteen new lodges were instituted in 14 states and Alaska during the past year, bringing the total to 1,610.

Convention officials reported over 15,000 Elks and their wives in attendance, and said this figure would climb to nearly 30,000 before the meeting ends.

While checking around the neighborhood shortly after 6 o'clock Tuesday morning the police discovered trouble with a heater at a closed home in the West Side hill district. Sgt. John J. Dolan notified the Fire Department and the men had to force their way into the house to correct the trouble. They found a safety valve open on a tankless heater and shut off the valve, taking care of the trouble.

Miss Betsy Rowe, daughter of Mrs. Lydia Rowe of Hingham, has been in Winchester this week, visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Field of Maxwell road, and enjoying the swimming and cool breezes at the Winchester Boat Club.

More Eloquent Than Words!

It is true, of course, that a Cadillac owner is proud of everything about his motor car.

But it is also true that he reserves a special place in his heart for the beautiful crest that rides high on the hood.

For here, as only he can fully appreciate, is one of the most wonderful and unique symbols in all the world of manufactured products.

In fact, it seems safe to say that no other mark of identification speaks so clearly or so eloquently of the product that bears it . . . and of the man who owns it.

It tells, for instance, of magnificent engineering and inspired design—and of experienced craftsmanship and painstaking construction.

It promises mile after mile of superlative motoring enjoyment—and it foretells year after year of dependable and enduring performance.

It proclaims, in short, the Cadillac pledge of quality—that here is an automobile built to the highest standards it is practical to enforce in the production of a motor car.

And, oh, the wonderful things it says about the man behind the wheel!

It reveals, more surely than if the words were spoken, that he is a man of position and achievement in his own private world of affairs.

It attests to the high regard he places on the safety and the comfort of his fellow passengers.

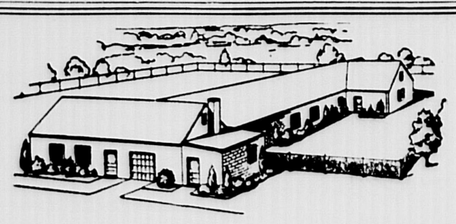

And it says, with unmistakable clarity, that he is a person of discernment and good taste.

Little wonder that the man who owns a Cadillac takes special pride in the beautiful crest that identifies it and adorns it.

* * *

The Cadillac crest tells its most eloquent story when it adorns the magnificent car illustrated above. For here is the illustrious eight-passenger Cadillac "75"—so luxurious, spacious and distinguished that it stands alone among the world's motor cars.

MOREAU — GRANT

White carnations and gladiolas decorated the altar of St. Mary's Church on Saturday, July 19, when Miss Nancy Terese Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael F. Grant of Linden street, became the bride of Bernard Joseph Moreau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emile J. Moreau of Burlington, Vt. The Rev. Fr. John P. O'Riordan, pastor of St. Mary's, performed the 9 o'clock ceremony and was also celebrant of the nuptial mass which followed.

Miss Grant was given in marriage by her father and attended by Miss Shirley Moreau of Burlington, Vt., sister of the bridegroom.

The bride wore an ankle-length gown of white lace and net with a cape of matching lace. Clusters of orange blossoms held her illusion veil in place and she carried a cascade bouquet of gladiolas combined with sprigs of ivy.

Miss Moreau wore an ankle-length dress of aqua lace and net with matching headband and her cascade bouquet was of yellow gladiolas.

John P. Lambert of Burlington, Vt., was Mr. Moreau's best man, and the ushers were Donald Brown, also of Burlington, and Alan Buttles of Williston, Vt.

A reception was held after the marriage at the home of the bride's parents, who assisted in receiving, with the parents of the bridegroom and the maid of honor.

McFATRIDGE — DEVINE

At a double-ring ceremony in the chapel of the Chelsea Naval Hospital, Miss Bernice L. Devine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Devine of 84 Hemingway street, was married on Saturday evening, July 19, to Lt. Charles Edward McFatridge, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frank McFatridge of Roxton, Texas. Commander Harvey H. MacLellan, Chaplain Corps, USN, read the service at 7 o'clock, and Miss Anne Marie Mooney of Lynn, cousin of the bride, sang "Because" and Malotte's arrangement of "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of traditional white satin, fashioned with a train and having panels of lace inserted in the front and centering the train. Her fingertip-length veil was caught to a white satin bonnet and she carried an old fashioned bouquet of white flowers centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Arnold Hebert of Winchester was her cousin's matron of honor, and her two small daughters, Miss Claire Ann Hebert and Miss Jean Marie Hebert, were flower girls. Bridesmaids were Mrs. George MacCready of Readville and Mrs. Daniel Baker of Braintree, both cousins of the bride.

The honor attendant wore a pink dress with blue satin sash, and the bridesmaids wore orchid with cerise sashes. Their dresses were all made alike of taffeta with nylon net overskirts and strapless bodices with stoles. They wore half-bonnets of matching material and carried old fashioned bouquets of assorted summer flowers. The flower girls wore strapless aqua frocks and carried miniature bouquets.

Claude H. McFatridge came on from Paris, Texas, to be his brother's best man and the ushers were George MacCready of Readville and Donald Callahan of Wayland.

A reception for about 75 guests was held after the marriage at the Oxford Club in Lynn. Mrs. Devine, the former Della Callahan of Lynn, received with her daughter and son-in-law, in a blue taffeta gown with lace bodice and a purple-throated white orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. McFatridge left after the reception for Memphis, Tenn., where Lt. McFatridge is stationed. The bride's traveling costume was a light brown suit with white hat and chin veil and a white orchid corsage.

The bride has been for the past year a stewardess for American Airlines, based at Dallas, Texas. A graduate of Winchester High School, class of 1947, and of the Melrose Hospital School of Nursing, class of 1950, she was assistant head nurse at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Hospital in Boston before joining American Airlines.

Lt. McFatridge is a graduate of Roxton High School in Texas and attended North Texas State College. He received his flight training at Squantum Air Base and was commissioned in Jacksonville, Fla. Before being recalled to service with the Atlantic Fleet in 1952, he was associated with American Air Lines.

Lt. McFatridge served 31 months in Asiatic and Pacific Theatres during World War II and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal with two stars in lieu of a second and third medal, and a commendation ribbon in the Aleutian campaign.

WYMAN — BEAR

There is Winchester interest in the marriage which took place at the Unitarian Church in Santa Barbara, California, on Friday afternoon, July 4, when Miss Donna Lisbeth Bear, daughter of Mrs. Donald Jeffries Bear of 2021 Garden street, Santa Barbara, became the bride of Donald Wyman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wyman of 1 Herrick street, who went on to Santa Barbara for the wedding. Dr. Berkeley Blake, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiated at the ceremony, which took place amidst masses of pink hydrangea from the Bear garden.

Miss Bear was escorted to the altar by her uncle, Frederick Fish of Denver, Colorado, and given in marriage by her mother. She wore a gown of white chiffon, fashioned on classic Grecian lines; ankle length, with a softly pleated skirt and a circular fold of chiffon forming the off-the-shoulder neckline of the sleeveless bodice.

Instead of the traditional cap and veil the bride wore an ancient Bavarian bridal crown of silver roses and silver leaves, lent her by Mrs. Leigh Harline of Portuguese Bend, Palos Verdes, Calif. Her shower bouquet of white water lilies combined some smaller pieces of the silver flowers with green ivy and long white streamers.

Miss Gretel Bear was her sister's only attendant. She wore a ballerina-length pink shantung dress with a wreath of pink flowers and carried pink water lilies.

Mrs. Bear chose for the wedding a navy blue taffeta dress, with a yellow cymbidium corsage and a small natural straw hat trimmed with rhinestones.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Wyman, wore a mauve dress, with a matching hat and lavender orchids.

Herrick Drake of Cambridge, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was his best man.

A small reception was held at the Bear home. Oliver Andrews, a friend of the Bear family and a young sculptor, designed an abstract sculpture in icing for the top of the wedding cake.

The bride was wearing a pale blue suit when she and Mr. Wyman left on their honeymoon to a mountain resort. They will go back to Santa Barbara for a short stay before they leave for Cambridge. They will make their home there while the bridegroom is attending Harvard Graduate Business School.

Mrs. Albert Goodrich Fish of Denver, who went out to Santa Barbara for her granddaughter's marriage, gave a dinner party Thursday night at Mar Monte for members of the wedding party and members of the family. Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Wyman had a dinner for the group.

Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Fish, Mrs. Burton W. Melcher, Mrs. Bear's sister, of Denver, and the bridegroom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Drake and his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. James Aspell of Tucson, Arizona.

The bride is talented, and was majoring in dance as well as art at Bennington, College, Vermont. She is the daughter of the late Donald J. Bear, founding director of the Santa Barbara Museum of Art.

Mr. Wyman prepared at Manlius Military Academy and was graduated in 1952 from Williams College, where he was affiliated with the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

WILLIAM JAMES GRAY

William James Gray, a well known resident of Winchester for nearly 55 years, died Monday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lillian Donaghey, 14 Glenwood avenue, after a brief illness. The recent death of his son-in-law, Clarence S. Donaghey, had upset him and he had been further bothered by the intense heat of last week.

Sunday evening, after enjoying the cooler air in the yard at his home, he had difficulty in getting back into the house, and during the night he became seriously ill, all efforts to improve his condition failing.

Mr. Gray was the son of Thomas, and Rachel (Morris) Gray. He was born April 19, 1868, in Kilkeel, County Down, Ireland, but came to this country as a boy of 14, living in Winchendon and Brookline before coming to Winchester in 1898.

Mr. Gray first worked in Winchester for Abijah Thompson as coachman and caretaker of his estate on Church street, staying on with Warren Witherell and his son, Percy, when they acquired the Thompson property.

Later he drove for Dr. Benjamin T. Church, popular Winchester physician, remaining with him until he retired. He then entered the employ of William H. Maynard of Church street, first as coachman and then as chauffeur, remaining in his employ until Mr. Maynard died.

In the late twenties, after a brief retirement, Mr. Gray returned to the Witherell estate as caretaker, remaining there until his permanent retirement about 20 years ago.

He first lived in the caretakers' cottage on the Thompson estate on Glen road, later living for some years on Thompson street at Purrington place at the site now occupied by the Terrace Yarn & Gift Shop. Later he lived, first on Wildwood terrace and then on Maxwell road, and for the past 18 months he had made his home with his daughter on Glenwood avenue. Active for some years in Orangemen's affairs, he was a member and twice master of America Lodge, L. O. L., of Charlestown, and he was also for many years a member of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

Mr. Gray was twice married. Both his first wife, Annie May Gray, and his second wife, Sadie McLeod Gray, are deceased.

He leaves two sons, Elmer W., of New York and Harold A. Gray of Baltimore, Md.; two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Larson of Cambridge, and Mrs. Lillian Donaghey of Winchester; a brother, John Gray of Rochester, N. H.; two sisters, Margaret and Charlotte, living in Ireland; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at the Bennett Chapel with the Rev. John William Cook, minister of the Second Congregational Church, officiating. Burial was in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

MRS. VICTORIA T. ALLA

Mrs. Victoria T. Alla, wife of Francis V. Alla of 53 Ledyard road, died Sunday night, July 20, at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston after a long illness.

Mrs. Alla was the daughter of Charles and Albena (Ercolini, Tanso. She was born in Brighton, July 16, 1917, but spent her girlhood in Medford, attending the Medford schools and graduating from Medford High School in the class of 1935.

In 1939 she came to Winchester with her parents and lived on Forest street until her marriage to Mr. Alla on June 14, 1941. After their marriage they lived in Ipswich until they returned to Winchester to take up residence on Ledyard road in 1948.

Mrs. Alla was much interested in the work of the schools in Winchester and while her health would permit was active in the Mystic School Mothers' Association.

Besides her husband, she leaves a son, Francis, Jr., 10, and a daughter, Victoria R., 7; her parents, living in Winchester; and a sister, Mrs. Virginia Benkus of Malden.

The funeral was held from the Gaffney Memorial Funeral Home in Medford Thursday morning with requiem high mass celebrated at St. Mary's Church. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery.

TRADERS DAY AUGUST 6

Wednesday, August 6, is Traders' Day, and stores in Winchester will be generally closed all day on that date. Housewives are urged to mark the day now on their calendar and arrange to do their marketing and other errands in the center either the day before or the day after Traders' Day, August 6.

EDWARD H. MERRILL

Edward H. Merrill of 298 Main street, Wakefield, a former resident and Selectman of Winchester, died Tuesday, July 22, at the Margaret Pillsbury Hospital in Concord, N. H. He had been for a week at his summer home in Warner, N. H., previous to entering the hospital two weeks before his death, but he had not been in good health for some time.

Mr. Merrill was the son of Walter Clement, and Amy Fisher (Harrington) Merrill. He was born August 20, 1879, in Peabody and attended the Peabody schools, leaving at the age of 15 years to go to work in the banking and brokerage business in Boston.

After eight years in this business he entered the employ of the A. C. Lawrence Co., manufacturers of patent leather, in Peabody, being associated with this firm for 20 years. Then after a brief interval during which he was in business in Montreal, he replaced his father in the Peterson-Merrill patent leather manufacturing business in Woburn, becoming president of the firm which was founded by Herman P. Peterson, ex-Mayor of Woburn.

Mr. Merrill joined the Peterson-Merrill Company in 1923, at which time he came to Winchester, making his home at 3 Madison avenue west. He later lived in the Winchester Chambers before leaving town 12 years ago to take up residence in Wakefield. He was a member and past president of the Woburn Rotary Club, a member of Winchester Rotary and of Winchester Lodge, 1445, B. P. O. E.

Mr. Merrill was prominent civically and socially while in Winchester. He served the town as Selectman in 1933 and 1934 and also as a member of the Town Insurance Committee. He was twice president of the old Calumet Club, taking a leading part in sponsoring the popular "Maine Guide Nights", which were among the last big social events at the club before its dissolution. An ardent hunter and fisherman, he developed a "fly dope" that was very popular, and he was also interested, with the late Everett Hambly, in the manufacture of an automobile heater when such heaters were first appearing on the market. His last business association before poor health forced him to retire was with Ratheon in Waltham.

On September 15, 1903, Mr. Merrill married Ethel Emerton of Peabody, who survives, with a daughter, Captain Marie Merrill, a physical therapist and Army technician stationed at Fort Devens. Also surviving are three brothers, Harry T., of Danvers, Roger C., and Wilbur Merrill of Peabody; and two sisters, Mrs. Henry Lord of Peabody and Miss Amy Merrill of Salem.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Morrison Funeral Home in Wakefield with the Rev. Kenneth Clinton of the Wakefield Congregational Church officiating. Cremation followed the services. Flags on the common and town buildings were displayed at half staff until after the funeral.

JAMES B. CLARK

James B. Clark of 987 Main street, a resident of Winchester for only three weeks, died Friday, July 18, in a nursing home in Danvers. He was 61 years old.

Mr. Clark was born July 20, 1890, in Salem. He lived for many years in Salem and was in the restaurant business until his retirement three years ago.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary (McDonough) Clark; a son, Wilbur J., of Winchester; two grandchildren, a brother, Leonard Clark of Lynn; and a sister, Mrs. Catherine Cushman of Cambridge.

The funeral was held Monday morning from the Lane Funeral Home with requiem high mass celebrated at the Immaculate Conception Church by Rev. Fr. Stephen Burke. Interment was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

NEW NOVITIATE DEDICATED

ARCHBISHOP CUSHING BLESSED NEW HOME OF MEDICAL MISSIONARIES IN WINCHESTER

His Excellency, Most Reverend Richard J. Cushing, D. D., Archbishop of Boston, visited Winchester last Sunday afternoon to dedicate and bless the Novitiate of the Medical Missionaries of Mary, newly established on the former Jere Downs estate at Arlington street by nuns from Ireland. Despite the intense heat more than 1,000 attended the ceremony.

Assisting the Archbishop at benediction were Rt. Rev. Joseph F. McGlinchey, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Lynn; Rev. John P. O'Riordan, pastor of St. Mary's in Winchester, and his assistants, Rev. Charles A. Anadore, Rev. Joseph McCall and Rev. John J. Grant.

The Winchester Novitiate resulted from a meeting between Archbishop Cushing and the founder of the order, Mother Mary Martin, which took place in Ireland three years ago during a pilgrimage to the Emerald Isle led by the Archbishop. At that time the Reverend Mother expressed a wish to have a foundation in the United States, and a year later after suitable arrangements were completed Archbishop Cushing invited a group of the Irish nuns to come to Boston and establish a foundation there.

The Boston quarters, while usable, were not adequate and after much looking about, the Archbishop chose the former Downs estate, then owned by the late Robert W. Armstrong, as an ideal home for the Novitiate. The nuns moved out from Boston last May and established themselves in their new home under the watchful eye of their Irish leader, the Mother General. With the return of the latter to Ireland at the end of May, Superior Sister Mary Terese assumed charge of the Novitiate.

The Mother House of the order is in Droghego, County Louth, Ireland. The Mother General, as Mary Martin of Dublin, established the order in 1936 in a humble home in Collon, County Louth, but upon the invitation of Bishop O'Callahan, moved to Droghego in 1940 and established the Mother House, Our Lady of Lourdes.

The order works in hospitals, doing both medical and dental work, and having special training in maternity cases and child welfare clinics, as well as in the care of lepers. The missionaries are located all over the world, working in the most inaccessible places in Africa and under conditions far removed from the quarters of their most recently established Novitiate in Winchester.

Here the nuns occupy a beautiful architecturally correct English Tudor style house of 14 rooms delightfully located in the midst of five acres on sitely Myopia Hill. The place is ideally adapted to the work to be done there and the 48 foot-long Great Hall of the House, built after the original house was erected, makes a beautiful chapel.

Reviewing the history of the order, Archbishop Cushing said that laymen, "rather than priests and nuns, are responsible for the majority of such vocations."

"It is this influence, the zeal and the enthusiasm of the lay people which is responsible for the hundreds of young persons joining orders such as this," he said. "The Catholic Church is greatly in need of such influential lay people. It needs an apostolic laity at this time."

The Archbishop announced that he expects to lead another pilgrimage to Ireland in August, 1953.

COOL IN SPITE OF HEAT AT CAMP FELLSLAND

Although the past few weeks in all areas of New England has been extremely hot, the boys at Camp Fellsland, the local Scout Camp located in Amesbury, Mass., have been extremely cool in both the cabin area and the waterfront. Many of the parents in visiting would make the expression that they would just love to stay themselves if arrangements could be made. Maybe sometime in the future some arrangement can be made whereby parents can camp at Fellsland, but for the present the camp has its hands full taking care of 100 or more Scouts and leaders from this area.

The camp started its fourth week of activity on Sunday, July 20, and after this week there will be only two more weeks of camp life for the boys at Camp Fellsland. Therefore if there are any Scouts who are planning for a week at camp it behooves them to get a move on immediately to be registered and accepted for camp. There is still room for additional boys as three new cabins have been built to give the additional space.

During the past week the Fellsland athletes both won and were defeated. The baseball team and basketball team both defeated Camp Powow but lost to the Amesbury Playground baseball team. All of the games were closely fought and good sportsmanship prevailed.

The rivalry for extras on ice cream on both Wednesdays and Sundays has developed into a battle for points. Points are given to the boys in the various camping and tent areas based on personal cleanliness, cleanliness of their cabins and the makeup of their bedding, and the general appearance of the grounds in and around their cabin or camp area. Inspections are given daily and occasionally a surprise inspection is called by various staff men and then the total points are added and the highest is then given extra helpings of ice cream on both Wednesdays and Sundays.

A very large portion of the camp this year has shown fine proficiency at the rifle range and as a result the young Scouts are bringing home medals to show that they are either a Promarksman, Marksman, Marksman 1st Class, or Sharpshooter and an occasional boy, who is an exceptional shooter is bringing home some of the bars to attach to his Sharpshooter medal. The medals are all issued by the National Rifle Association as Camp Fellsland is affiliated with that organization.

At the waterfront under the direction of Jeff Beckingham and Charlie Sprott and Craig Muncaster, a very large number of boys have been taught to swim and many of the swimmers have advanced to either intermediate or advanced swimmers. About a dozen of the young men have also qualified as Scout Life Guard. This Scout Life Guard rating is given for only the highest of proficiency in the water.

The new wharf that was given and dedicated by the En Ka Society is proving very helpful and useful in the launching and taking out of the boats or canoes. The boys want to publicly thank every member of the En Ka Society for their thoughtfulness in providing this very fine added feature to camp.

During this coming week the athletic teams of Camp Fellsland are competing again with Camp Powow and the Amesbury Playground team, but in addition are also inviting a group from an underprivileged camp group sponsored by a church group in the camp area. This group of boys are at this camp for the summer and some of them are year-round students. They have welcomed the invitation to Camp Fellsland and are to arrive at Camp Fellsland on Wednesday of this week.

On that same day, Wednesday, Mr. Robert X. Perry from the National Staff B. S. A. will visit camp for the official national inspection. In lieu of his visit the Camp Fellsland Committee plus some invited members of the Executive Board will have supper with the boys and then sit with Mr. Perry for a review of what is good or bad in relation to Camp Fellsland. This inspection is a yearly affair and the Camp Committee itself bases many of its improvements from years to year on the report that is given by this National Inspector.

In an early edition we printed that a genuine Daschund would be presented to some boy at camp this summer. A set of rules that a boy must meet has been set up and they include writing at least a fifty-word story on why they would like a puppy and in addition the boy must qualify for being a good sport, cooperating with the Camp Staff, helping other campers and winning his camp Teepee award. Based on these requirements a winner will be picked during the last week of Camp and presented this very fine little Daschund by the name of Donder.

The following local boys are at camp this week:

Roger Gullotti
Peter Gowing
David Gowing
Jeffrey Bar
John Chapin
John Watkins
Philip Pollard
Lawrence Nadeau
Thomas Hooper
Richard Gaffney
Richard Niles
James Ruma
James Guire
George Yore

CAPT. DONAHUE AT CONFERENCE

Captain Fred J. Donahue, USA, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Donahue of Mystic avenue, represented General A. C. McAuliffe, Assistant Chief of Staff for the Army, at the Presidio in San Francisco, Cal., were the Army held a managerial conference from July 6-20.

A regular Army man, Captain Donahue is stationed at the Pentagon in Washington where he is on General McAuliffe's staff, a splendid start for a young officer planning to make the Army his career.

PLAYGROUND NOTES

A very successful play day was held with the Stoneham Playgrounds on Tuesday afternoon with four games going on simultaneously on as many Winchester fields. In spite of the heat the youngsters enjoyed tremendously the competition with the Stoneham groups as the locals split even in the four contests played.

The Winchester Seniors were no match for the Stoneham Seniors in baseball as the visitors walked away with an easy 14-3 victory. The Winchester Intermediates had better luck as they rallied for two runs in the last of the seventh to eke out an 11-10 win. The Stoneham girls were a little to experienced for the Winchester girls, winning 9-6 in spite of outstanding play by Sylvia Crowelli and Leora Peckham.

The Winchester Juniors enjoyed the best contest of the afternoon as they scored a run in the last of the seventh to win 4-3. Al Adams and Jim Dwinell hit homeruns early in the game and the locals won it with two out in the seventh. Bill Smith and Bobby Gray singled, Dave Power drew a base on balls, and an error on Jim Dwinell's grounder scored Smith with the winning run.

The Arts and Crafts exhibit in the window of Hevey's Pharmacy is drawing considerable comment and praise for the work of the youngsters. The articles on display reflect the many hours of work that some of the youngsters have devoted to this program. On these hot, sunny afternoons Mrs. Thomas, the Arts and Crafts Supervisor, has wisely taken the children out of the heat into the shade of the playground huts or under nearby trees to work quietly on these projects. The exhibit will remain on display over the week-end and parents and interested friends are urged to spend a moment or two to observe the youngsters' work. The following boys and girls have articles on display:

WINCHESTER GIRL SCOUTS AND LEADERS POSE WITH REAL INDIAN AT CAMP JOY IN THE FELLS

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

FINAL REPORT FROM CAMP JOY

Even the rain was kind to us on our last day of camp Thursday, July 10th. The heavens opened after all the scouts and guests had left Camp Joy.

Many mothers and friends attended "Open House" at the cabin and carefully inspected the fine nature and crafts exhibits.

After demonstrations of camp activities, each of the seven units presented a lively "skit" describing each unit's name by songs and pantomime. Then the aides added greatly to the program by singing "the Camp Joy Aides song" composed by Mrs. Austin Nanry.

Mrs. Parsons, Camp Joy director then awarded certificates to the following nine brownies who passed the beginners swimming test.

Chris Carrier
Janet Cusson
Joan Denton
Emily Fish
Nancy Hill
Janet Keppler
Carol Lawson
Carolyn Switzer
Judy Thomas

Eight intermediates were then awarded certificates for passing the beginners swimming test.

Mrs. Parsons then read the names of the following scouts that had completed all the requirements for the Rambler badge:

Nancy Byrnes
Judy Cussen
Lynne Goodwin
Jean Gross
Catherine Reid
Lorrolyn Seller
Catherine Eden
Elizabeth Oliver
Catherine Oliver
Abby Nichols

Certificates were awarded to thirty-six Brownies that had passed all the requirements in activity skills: The twenty-six scouts that passed requirements toward Second Class badge in the out-of-doors which includes nature, sports and games.

Eleven scouts have partly completed the requirements for the Rambler Badge — Adding these figures to the previous lists it all adds up to weeks of hard, healthy accomplishment.

Even the faithful work of the leaders was recognized and for the first time membership badges were awarded to the following leaders on Camp Joy staff for the indicated years.

Six years — Mrs. Francis Parsons, Mrs. Kenneth Cullen.

Five years — Mrs. Robert Finn.

Four years — Mrs. Roswell Harding, Mrs. Austin Nanry.

Three years — Mrs. Arnold Goodwin.

Two years — Mrs. Alan Switzer, Mrs. Arthur Towle, Mrs. Richard Caldwell, Mrs. Arvid Monsen, Mrs. Raymond Gross, Mrs. Arthur Hewis, Miss Barbara Harding, Miss Betty Ann Carlisle.

One year — Mrs. Samuel Griffin, Miss Myra Luce.

The afternoon closed with the Friendship Circle, the lowering of the flag — with taps blown by Miss Betty Ann Carlisle — thus ending another Camp Joy season, rich and rewarding and a great tribute to the leadership of Mrs. Parsons and the fine cooperation of the entire Camp Joy Staff.

The following evening Friday, July 11th twenty-four leaders and their husbands met at Mrs. Roswell Harding's to celebrate the successful completion of Camp Joy Day Camp by enjoying a bountiful lobster supper!

MAHAN WINS STATE AMATEUR

BEATS GRACE AT WINCHESTER SATURDAY, 5 and 4

Tom Mahan, Jr., of the United Shoe Machinery Club, 23 year-old son of the veteran United Shoe professional, won the State Amateur Golf Championship at the Winchester Country Club last Saturday, beating 21 year old Leo Grace of Charles River in the ultimate round, 5 and 4. Many say Mahan, University of Miami senior, and Grace, a senior at Boston College, constituted the youngest pair of finalists ever to complete for the State crown.

Mahan, first entrant from the United Shoe Club to win the tourney, ended the match at the 32nd with a shot ending a couple of feet from the pin and a perfect putt. Four up at the time, his birdie at this hole was good enough to win and give him a five and four victory.

Both Mahan and Grace felt the terrific heat though Grace seemed to mind it much less than the stockier Mahan, who admitted after the round that he was really tired. Thirty six holes a day for three days in the blistering heat of last week was quite an ordeal.

Grace, New England collegiate champ, won the first hole of the morning round, but Mahan evened things with a birdie at the second and despite Grace's best golf of the day, the University of Miami boy led at the end of the first 18 by a hole, the stroke scores being, Mahan, 37 - 38 - 75; and Grace, 41 - 36 - 77.

Grace didn't look so good at the start of the second 18 after lunch, Mahan going three up at the end of the 20th. Grace took the 21 with a par, but Mahan took the next two to lead 4 up and the gallery began to figure a walkaway.

Grace, who had his left eye removed in an operation last year, kept pegging away, however, and with three pars and a birdie cut the fading Mahan's advantage to two at the end of 27. Grace was out in 39 and Mahan in a stroke less.

The heat was really tiring Mahan and Grace's chances seemed much improved, but bat putts at the 28th and 29th put him four down again. They halved the 30th with par fives, Mahan sinking a 10 footer and Grace a six footer to turn the trick, and the 31st was also halved, in par fives.

Mahan then hit his eight-iron shot to within two feet of the hole while Grace, to keep his chances alive, had to sink a 25 footer and didn't make it.

Mahan's semi-final victim was Jack Harvey of Winchester, whom he beat 2 and 1, after Harvey had completely scrambled the dope by coming from away behind to beat the medalist and general favorite to win, Ernie Doherty of Woburn, in 19 holes. Grace beat towering Ray Forkey of Bellevue in the semis, 1 up. His morning victim was John Woloshyn of Walpole, whom he beat 4 and 3. Mahan had to go 19 holes in the morning to beat Stanley Nowak of New Bedford, conqueror of Bobby Knowles.

Harvey was one up on Mahan at the turn, being two under with a 34 to the ultimate champ's 36. From then in Harvey commenced to tire in the heat and Mahan came on to win, being two under at the 17th while the Winchester golfer was even par.

Defending champion, big Ed Martin of Winchester, was eliminated in the second round of play by Ray Forkey of Bellevue, 2 and 1. Martin won his first round match from Pat Granese of United Shoe by the same score. He and Harvey were the only Winchester golfers to qualify, both Dave Shean and Joe Monahan, Jr., falling by the wayside.

Ernie Doherty, Woburn oil dealer, was the only golfer to equal the Winchester Country Club's par of 144 as he won the qualifying medal on Wednesday. Doherty lost the State amateur crown to Martin a year ago on the 19th hole at Vesper, and many believed he was playing enough better this year to win the title. After his medal round he was a general favorite and his defeat by Harvey with Forkey's beating Martin were the major upsets of the tourney, along with Nowak's defeat of the former Walker Cupper, Bobby Knowles.

Martin finished in the runner-up slot in the qualifying round, with 148, George Bernardin of United Shoe being a stroke higher. Tom Mahan, ultimate champ, had 154 for his qualifying round and the other finalist, Grace, was 156.

There was a playoff for the last two qualifying positions at 164, a pretty high figure for a tourney of this sort.

LITTLE LEAGUE ALL STARS BEAT WAKEFIELD 6 - 2

The Winchester Little League All Stars made it two straight over the Wakefield All-Stars with a 6 - 2 victory at Wakefield on Sunday afternoon. Thus the locals have defeated the All-Star teams of both of the Wakefield Little Leagues. Manager Jack Serieka once again played all of the boys on the All-Star squad while using three pitchers for two innings each.

Wakefield jumped off to a two-run lead in the first inning when they combined a base on balls, an error, and two singles for two runs. Winchester scored in every inning after the first and were in trouble only in the fifth when Wakefield filled the bases with two out but Joel Peckham struck out the next batter to put out the fire.

The Winchester pitching was strong all the way with Joe Flaherty outstanding in hurling two hitless frames. The locals showed more hustle and general all-around class than their opponents, being especially alert on the base paths and making only one error compared to the four committed by Wakefield.

SOX SET BACK DODGERS

The Red Sox beat the Dodgers, 3 - 1, in an extra-inning Little League game on Manchester Field Tuesday evening.

Afte six well played innings the teams were deadlocked, 1 - 1. The Sox put over two in the top of the 7th, but the Dodgers had the bases loaded in their half with no one out and looked good to tie it up again.

One Dodger was erased at the plate trying to score on a passed ball. A second was thrown out at home on a pretty play by third Baseman McGee. Peckham fanned the last batter to end the threat. The summary:

BASKETBALL AGAIN!

READING PLAYGROUNDS OVER WINCHESTER

The Winchester Playgrounds Senior basketball team was defeated by the Reading Playgrounds quintet by a score of 44 - 33 at Reading last Friday evening. This was the first game for the Winchester Playground five and they showed the lack of practice necessary to make an effective unit, committing many damaging mistakes and not operating smoothly on the offense.

Reading put a very strong quintet on the court and one that may well represent the high school intact this coming winter. The locals lacked the height necessary to battle the rangy Reading five off the boards but played their opponents evenly with the exception of the third quarter when Reading picked up a 14 point margin that provided their victory edge. John Atkinson and Bucky Morgan played well for Winchester while big Dick Burhoe and Abbie Runge were outstanding for Reading.

REFLECTION OF A CAT-SITTER

Tonight I'm an amateur cat-sitter. A friend of mine, who has to attend a family dinner, has recently acquired a kitten named "Dr. Foster" — because she found him in Gloucester, on a rainy day. What a name for so tiny and fuzzy a puff-ball, all creamy and cuddly!

"No, no, Dr. Foster! Not my new nylons!"

Dr. Foster has just made the perilous trip all the way up to my lap, and is purring loudly, and looking up at me with an expression of total innocence. Let's hope he never loses that angelic look, or the absolute trust in humans that lies behind it.

"Ouch! Not down my neck, Dr. Foster! That hurts!"

He's scampering about the room, now, chasing his shadow, playing it's a mouse. How lucky his mistress has a heart so big she can take care of a half-dozen nieces and nephews, and still pick up a stray kitten in a rain puddle! With so much kindness around him, he'll probably grow up with the sweetest disposition in catdom.

"Dr. Foster! Don't chew the lamp cord!"

He's too young to be told the story of the cat who bit a light cord in two and almost—well, I realize he'd never understand it. Still, some cats I've known have been so intelligent and sensible —

"Dr. Foster! Look what you've done! Ink all over you!"

It's my fault! I ought to have put the ink away when I filled my fountain pen. No more writing, now. I'll have to spend the rest of the evening trying to get his pretty coat clean.

"Oh, dear! Do you think, Dr. Foster, we can get it all off before your boss comes home?"

WINCHESTER BOY COLLECTS RARE PLANTS FOR SMITHSONIAN

The following reference to work done by Dr. Lyman Smith, Smithsonian Institute botanist, has much Winchester interest because of the fact that Dr. Smith is an old Winchester boy and is the son of Library Trustee and Mrs. Francis E. Smith of Wolcott terrace. The story is from a recent issue of the Boston Globe.

"A large collection of 'tank plants,' literally tree-growing tubs of water, has been made for the Smithsonian Institution in Brazil by Dr. Lyman Smith, Smithsonian botanist, during a 3½-month collecting expedition.

"Dr. Smith's work was sponsored jointly by the Smithsonian, the Rockefeller Foundation, and the Servicio National de Malaria of Brazil. The primary purpose was to identify accurately the species in whose tree-top pools malaria-carrying mosquitoes breed.

"The tank plants are members of the pineapple family. They are "epiphytes," which grow in trees but, unlike parasitic growth, get none of their nourishment from their hosts. They cling to the branches by their roots. Some, however, merely wrap leaves around the branch.

"Their leaves form shallow basins which collect water, upon which they subsist. Some of these leaves are as much as 6 feet long. The largest "tub" observed by Dr. Smith contained 5,100 cubic centimeters. This would hold nearly a gallon and a half of water. A few do not hold water. The leaves of these have scales which soak up water like a blotter.

"The living 'water tubs' will grow on nearly any tree with a rough and stable bark, which will give them something to which they can cling. There are approximately 550 species in Brazil alone, Dr. Smith says. Altogether there are about 2000 species, all but one found in North or South America."

AT THE NORTH POLE

Major John J. Lobingier, Jr., formerly of Winchester, recently had the thrilling experience of flying over the North Pole.

As Special Assistant to the Commander of the Atlantic Division of the Military Air Transport Service, Major Lobingier flew as observer on a re-supply mission to Fletcher's Island, the floating ice island known as T-3. After a successful supply drop the air rescue plane went on to circle the top of the world, in the midnight sun, before returning to a base in Northern Greenland.

As they flew over the Pole Major Lobingier dropped a sealed copy of The Airline, the division weekly newspaper of which he is the supervising officer.

The Air Force recalled him in July 1951 from an advertising post with the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company for an active duty tour of twenty-one months.

DISABLED VET SEEKS MOTHER

HAS NOT SEEN HER SINCE HE WAS KIDNAPPED AT AGE 6

George J. Cummings, a disabled veteran of World War II who was christened Frederick P. Noonan, was in Winchester last week in search of his mother, Katie Noonan, whom he has not seen since he was kidnapped from her home near Taunton when he was six years old.

Mr. Cummings states he was stolen from his mother's home in 1917 while his mother was shopping. After that he lived with people named Cummings and was called by that name. He and his real mother, Katie Noonan, lived in Raynham in January of 1912 and later in Taunton. He believes his mother may have married a man named Horton, and after Horton's death, may have married a man named Westgate. Because he has been unable to find any record of his mother's death, he believes she is still living and he has searched many of the States of the Union in an effort to locate her.

In World War II Mr. Cummings, or Noonan as he was christened, served in the 6th Armored Division, receiving wounds in the groin and thigh from German mortar shrapnel which makes it impossible for him to work.

He makes his home in his trailer at Marty's Trailer Court, 3 Southwest Cutoff, Worcester, Mass., and he will greatly appreciate any true information concerning the whereabouts of his real mother, Katie Noonan.

Winchester town records yielded no new information, but Mr. Cummings was not discouraging, stating to the Star that he would continue his search, praying that he and she may be reunited wherever she may be.

Strengthening him in his search were the words he heard his real mother say, "He my love and my child. Let me have him!" Her favorite song was always "In the Home Sweet Home of Mothers".

Mr. Cummings has dedicated his entire life to finding his true mother. The Star hopes his efforts will be eventually crowned with success and urges any of its readers who have reason to believe they have information concerning the missing Katie Noonan (Horton or Westgate) to send this information to Mr. Cummings at the address given above.

DALEY — KNOX

St. Anthony's Church in Litchfield, Conn., was the scene of a marriage of Winchester interest on Saturday morning, July 19, when Miss Katherine Melanie Knox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Knox of Litchfield, became the bride of William H. Daley, 3rd, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Daley, Jr., of 46 Salisbury road. The Rev. James Eagan performed the ceremony at 9:30 a. m. in an attractive setting of white gladiolas, and the bridal music was played by Miss Agnes Ryan. Miss Cynthia Brennan was soloist.

Miss Knox was given in marriage by her father and had Miss Gene Knox as her honor maid. Bridesmaids were Miss Helen Leonard of Millers Falls and Miss H. Patricia Knox of Litchfield, Conn.

The bride was gowned in white nylon tulle, designed with a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Her fingertip-length veil was attached to a net cloche, trimmed with lilies of the valley, and the prayerbook she carried was covered with orchids and stephanotis.

The attendants were dressed alike in nylon tulle with lace jackets, the honor attendant in orchid with yellow daisies and ivy forming her halo and cascade bouquet. The bridesmaids were in pale green, and their bouquets and halos were similar to those of the maid of honor.

Edward McKernan of West Hartford, Conn., was Mr. Daley's best man, and ushering were Robert Larson of Lexington and Thomas J. Knox of Litchfield, Conn.

A reception was held after the marriage at the White Fence Inn, Thomaston, Conn. The bride's mother received in a blue dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a purple orchid with her gray Shantung gown and white accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Litchfield, Conn., High School, and of St. Francis Hospital School of Nursing. Mr. Daley attended Harvard University and is associated with the John Hancock Insurance Company in Boston. During World War II he was a pilot in the Fifth United States Air Force.

DOWNEY — HUMPHREY

At St. Mary's Church on Saturday afternoon, July 19, Miss Janet Mary Humphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Humphrey of 39 Loring avenue, became the bride of Joseph Leroy Downey, son of Mr. John P. Downey of 10 Harrison avenue, Woburn. Rev. Fr. John P. O'Riordan, pastor of St. Mary's, officiated at the 3 o'clock ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Towanda Club in Woburn.

Miss Humphrey was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white marquisette and lace with a Peter Pan collar and a finger-tip length veil. Instead of a bouquet she carried a white missal with an orchid and streamers of stephanotis.

Mrs. Dorothy Cleary of Hartford, Conn., aunt of the bride, was the only bridal attendant. She wore a peach marquisette dress with a fitted lace waistband and lace-trimmed peplum. She carried talisman roses and wore a small crown of twisted strands of material matching her dress.

Leonard P. Downey of Woburn was best man for his brother, and the ushers, all of Woburn, were Charles McGovern, William McCarthy, Robert Ryan and Leo McHugh.

Mr. Downey and his bride, who is a graduate of Winchester High School, spent their honeymoon on a trip to Canada.

CAR CRASHED POLE

Mrs. Emily Z. Hubert of 216 Cambridge street, Woburn, was painfully injured shortly after 1 o'clock Tuesday morning when the automobile she was driving north on Cambridge street between Glen road and Church street struck a telephone pole in front of the home of Dr. Cecil W. Pride. She told the police lights from an approaching car blinded her.

The impact of the collision moved the pole slightly and brought down two wires controlling Fire Alarm Box 57 at the corner of Cambridge and Church streets, causing the alarm to sound.

Mrs. Hubert was taken to the Winchester Hospital in a police cruiser by Officers Thomas Kennedy and Erwin Nurnberger. Dr. Charles Rooney treated her for minor cuts about the face and a badly lacerated left knee. She was ordered held at the hospital over night for observation. Her car had to be towed to a Woburn garage.

Officer Andrew Crawford remained at the scene of the accident guarding the two live wires brought down by the collision. Electrician Everett Kimball and Fireman Walter Skerry worked until 6 o'clock in the morning to repair the damage to the fire alarm system.

CIRONE — GAMBINO

The marriage of Miss Elena A. Gambino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gambino of 58 Swanton street, to Daniel James Cirone, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alphonzo Cirone of 20 Arlington street, Woburn, took place at St. Mary's Church on Sunday afternoon, July 20. White gladiolas decorated the altar for the 4 o'clock ceremony which was performed by St. Mary's pastor, Rev. Fr. John P. O'Riordan. Miss Mary Callahan, church organist, played the bridal music and Arnold Callahan, lyric tenor, was soloist, singing the "Ave Maria" and "Mother at Thy Feet is Kneeling".

Miss Gambino was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of imported white Chantilly lace over summer satin with a Peter Pan collar. Her fingertip-length veil was caught to a crown of Chantilly lace and she carried a prayer-book with an orchid and streamers of valley lilies.

Miss Claire Callahan of Winchester was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Michael Gambino, Jr., of Boston, sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Kay Michienzi of Winchester and Miss Phyllis Masotta of Woburn, niece of the bridegroom.

The bridal attendants were gowned in rainbow colors, the honor maid wearing orchid and the bridesmaids, yellow, Nile green and blue. Their dresses were of frosted white nylon net over taffeta and they wore picture hats, two white and two orchid. Their flowers matched their gowns and were arranged in old fashioned bouquets.

Albert Cirone of Woburn was best man for his brother and the ushers were Michael Gambino of Boston and John Gambino of Winchester, brothers of the bride; and Cornelius O'Donnell of Woburn. John Masotta, Jr., of Woburn, small nephew of the bridegroom, was ring-bearer.

A reception was held after the marriage at the Christopher Columbus Club on Raymond Place, with the parents of the bride assisting in receiving. Mrs. Gambino wore a dress of powder blue Chantilly lace with an orchid corsage and a white hat and accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Cirone are spending a month honeymooning at Hollywood, Fla. Upon their return they will make their home in Winchester.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School and for the past five years has been with the National Fire Protection Company in Boston. Mr. Cirone, who is associated with the Winchester Crushed Stone Co., graduated from Woburn High School and attended the Massachusetts Trade School.

PRATT STILL "STOMPIN' "

Kenneth M. Pratt of Wildwood street, known to hundreds of Winchester schools kids and their parents as the Custodian of the Mystic School, is still riding his square dance hobby, hard!

Despite last week's heat "Weenie" drove out to Amherst after his day's work Friday, July 18, to participate in the Seventh Annual Country Dance Festival at the University of Massachusetts, directed by Lawrence V. Loy, extension specialist, young peoples programs, at the University of Massachusetts; and Robert Brundage, also of the University of Massachusetts staff. Music was by Wilbur Waite's Pokeberry Promenaders, Columbia Recording orchestra.

"Weenie" went out to Amherst with members of the Country Dance Society of Boston, and was one of the society members participating in the program demonstration of the Chorus Jig and Haymakers Jig. He made the trip to Amherst with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson of Arlington and Louise Chapin of Lincoln, leader of the Boston Country Dance Society. They went up around the Quabbin Reservoir and had supper at the Lord Jeff in Amherst.

Some six thousand persons attended the Dance Festival which was held under lights on the practice football field at the University. "Stompin' " commenced at 8 and continued until 12, with the temperature in the nineties.

The trip back consumed three hours, our hero, Mr. Pratt, arriving at his home at 3 in the morning. There's a fascination to "Stompin' ". There must be!!

"DAYS OF YORE"

Clippings from the STAR Files

FIFTY YEARS AGO

JULY 18, 1902

The town has been assessed $17,383.46 for three years for boulevards, parks and bath houses. Is it worth this to the town, taking into account what has already been paid by the town and its citizens? The bath houses at Nantasket and Revere Beaches are a long way from Winchester, so, too, is the Fells Reservation to a majority of the inhabitants. This being so, what benefits are we getting? (Editorial)

A USEFUL BOOK

The Assessors have issued the list of poll tax payers, in pamphlet form. This book gives the name of every male resident of Winchester over 21 years of age and is a reliable up-to-date directory. This book of 72 pages, which is given away gratuitously, can be had at the Town Clerk's office, Young & Brown's, Grover's, Connors' and Emu's drug stores and also at the Star office. As a limited number of copies was printed it would be well to secure one as soon as possible.

TAX RATE $15,80

The rate of taxation for this year will be $15.80 on $1000, the same as last year. The figures were kept at the above only by active work of the Board of Assessors, who were determined, if possible, that there should be no increase over a year ago. Up to within a few days it looked as if the rate was to be $16, but it was a case of hustle and $15.80 won out.

A most gratifying circumstance was Mr. T. W. Lawson voluntarily increasing his taxes $200,000. He now pays taxes on $300,000. It is also an indication that he has the interests of his home town at heart. This increase means a lessening of the tax rate by 35 cents on $1000, so that but for him the taxes would be $16.15.

The Assessors' figures at this writing show an increase in value of personal property of $359,150, and in real estate of $215,800—a pretty good showing.

There has been an increase of 60 in polls assessed. The number of houses is 1490 against 1434 last year, a gain of 56.

An early Sunday morning electric now leaves Stoneham at 7:05, returning from Arlington at 7:45. The car leaves Winchester at 7:15.

The Winchester Council, K. of C., will hold a lawn party on the Smith estate near tre corner of Washington and Swanton streets on Thursday evening, July 24. Like previous parties given by this organization, it will be a success.

A telephone has been placed in the repair and storage building of the Water Department on Vine street.

While coming down Mt. Vernon street last Saturday morning on his bicycle, a dog ran out in front of the wheel, throwing the rider, Mr. Price Wilson, to the street. He received severe bruises to his elbow and knees, besides other cuts.

Winchester Lodge, A.O.U.W., joins Medford and Woburn Lodges in a trolley party to Lowell Lodge, July 13. A special car leaves Winchester at 7 o'clock sharp.

A car load of picnickers from the Methodist Church went to Revere Beach yesterday.

Mr. Erastus B. Badger is passing his vacation at Camp Algonquin, Hoderness, N. H.

An ornamental rockery has been made of stones on the point of land that extends into the river at the lower side of the town hall building. It is a good improvement and pleasing to the eye.

The Sewer Department is laying the sewer from Swanton street near the freight yard, also on Loring avenue, Maxwell road and Lloyd street. In addition to this there are many applications for house connections. Thus it will be seen the deparment is pretty busy. All new houses on the line of the sewer are connected when built and as fast as as cesspools of old houses fill up they are abandoned and the sewer entered. After once knowing the advantage of the sewer over the cesspool, there is no hesitation about discontinuing the latter.

One lady who was on the electric which conveyed the children from Winning Home back to the city, was so interested in their talk about the fine time they had had, that her heart was touched and she went to the matron in charge and requested that the little "hunch-back girl" be given another week at the farm and handed her two dollars for that purpose.

The stores in town are now nearly all closed up Wednesday afternoons.

Mr. George H. Lochman has accepted the position of clerk at the Middlesex County National Bank.

Mr. A. Raymond is meeting with fine success in the sale of his harness dressing. It is considered the best dressing ever put onto the market, both for polish and preservation of the leather.

A woman entered one of the dry good stores a few days ago and called for mesmerized silk. She wanted mercerized silk!

St. Mary's Benevolent Society will hold a lawn party August 7 to raise funds to carry on its work of assistance among the needy. The following committee is arranging the details, and the perusal of the names will convince all of the assured success of the party: F. J. O'Hara, chairman; Miss H. E. Daly, secretary; P. W. Reardon, M. E. O'Leary, John J. Sullivan, M. S. Nelson, Charles J. Harrold, James A. Donahue, J. O'Loughlin, Misses M. E. Down, J. F. Bowler, Mary Gillespie, Annie Davidson, B. Martin, A. Martin, Mrs. J. O'Loughlin, Mrs. P. Noonan.

The hop at the Boat Club last Saturday night was a great success. The hall was filled to overflowing, while members who did not dance were on the lakes in their canoes in front of the boat house. The affair was under the direction of Mr. George Adams Woods, assisted by Mr. Edwin Rooney.

Surveyors are at work on the Rangely estate recently purchased by Mr. Edwin Ginn.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

JULY 15, 1927

The local police under Chief McIntosh have been engaged this week in making a traffic count of motor vehicles on Grove street and Forest street. The Metropolitan Planning Division is attempting to get authentic information as to the amount of travel by motor on certain roads, possibly with the idea of putting them in first class condition. If the Division wants data on parking it might get some interesting figures on Grove street on a warm evening.

Arthur E. French, Jr., of this town, a member of the Crimson contingent representing Harvard and Yale in the international track and field games with Oxford and Cambridge at Stamford Bridge, England, last Saturday, won second place in the running broad jump, won by Deacon of Yale at 23 ft. 9½ in.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott of this town were hosts last Saturday at their home in Rangeley to the employees of the Boston firm of D. R. Emerson Company, of which Mr. Abbott is president. The party arrived about 10 o'clock for an all day outing, with Mrs. Abbott presiding at the 1 o'clock luncheon.

The heat of Wednesday proved nothing in the lives of the playground kiddies at Loring avenue and Leonard Field. The youngsters were taken to Sandy Beach for a refreshing swim by their instructors, Charles "Chucker" Roche and Misses Lucia McKenzie and Lucille Skilling.

James "Fireman" Cullen is at Fortress Munroe, Va., for six weeks training with the Tech ROTC.

Ed Sandberg and Alan Hovey placed first for Winchester Boat Club in the tandem double-blade canoe race at the New England Amateur Rowing Association meet Sunday, July 10, in the Charles River Basin. Dave Downer and Win Palmer finished third. The double-blade club-four crew, E. Sandberg, stroke; Hovey, 2; W. Palmer, 3; and D. Downer, stern, finished third behind Crescents of Waltham and Samosets of West Roxbury. Winchester was without two of its best single-blade paddlers, Ken Pratt and Bob Hight, who were unable to compete.

The Chamber of Commerce has set apart Wednesday, August 3, 1927, as Traders' Day. No special arrangements have been made, but it is hoped that all the merchants in town will close and observe the day.

Stephen B. Neiley and Chesley Whitten tied for best net in the 18 hole, full handicap golf tournament at the Winchester Country Club last Saturday afternoon.

Last Saturday afternoon Mounted Officers Ned Shea and James Noonan, patrolling the Fells around the town's water works, came upon two out-of-town young men who had been thoroughly enjoying themselves fishing in the North Reservoir. The two disciples of the late lamented Isaac Walton had had excellent luck, some 20 specimens of their prowess with the rod lying upon the bank beside them, prima facie evidence so to speak. Among the fish were some landlocked salmon, red perch, some handsome bass and a pickerel. The young men offered no resistence, and after taking their names, and incidentally the fish, the officers allowed them to depart. They will be summoned to court soon.

Following the meeting held on last Monday evening, at which members of the Town Planning Board and Contractor Ralph Sylvester were present, and at which no agreement was reached satisfactory to all concerned with reference to the proposed development of the Corse property at the corner of Washington street and the Parkway by Mr. Sylvester, it has been reported that the latter has decided to go through with his original plan of erecting five single houses upon the plot.

A barn on a private estate near the greenkeeper's house at the Winchester Country Club was struck and practically destroyed. Bolts of lightning struck in the North Reservoir and in Mystic Lake in front of the Medford Boat Club, and the traffic beacon at the head of Mt. Vernon street was out of commission.

Lightning struck an awning at the home of Harold Larsen, 995 Main street, bending the heavy frame into the shape of a horseshoe; and at the home of James Higgins at the Woburn line a bolt demolished the chimney and knocked down plaster in the upstairs rooms.

At the Texaco Filling Station on Main street a bolt struck the heavy door of the building, knocking it from its hinges and hurling it 20 feet. The roof of the building at the home of Michael J. Lydon on Pickering street was completely torn off. A huge pine on the property of Mr. George A. Whittington, 8 Woodside road, was struck and considerably damaged.

Mr. Harrison Chadwick of Detroit has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett D. Chadwick of Everett avenue.

John Coakley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Coakley of Russell road, is enrolled for his fourth year in the Citizens Military Training Camp at Newport. Young Coakley is attached to the Coast Artillery and is a cadet lieutenant. After his month's course he will be sworn in as an officer in the reserve.

Adolph Forsberg of Woburn, a Woburn High School graduate in June, has been added to the clerical force at the Winchester National Bank.

Jim McFeeley, "Bob" Larrabee, "Don" Trenholm, "Cliff" Mobbs and "Chris" Powers are leaving by motor tomorrow for two weeks in camp at Kezar Pond, Me.

WEEK-END FIRES

The first of several calls for the Fire Department over the past week-end came at 2:08 Friday afternoon when a fire developed in the motor of a Buick sedan in front of 36 Church street. The carburetor and hood of the car, owned by Miss Helen Cullen of 28 Stone avenue, were damaged.

At 3:38 Friday afternoon the Metropolitan District Police notified the Central Station of a brush fire at Sandy Beach. This fire was of little consequence, being nearly out when the apparatus arrived.

An operator at the Winchester Telephone Exchange called the Station at 8:01 p. m. reporting she had been informed that a house was on fire near the Boat Club. Box 573 was put on at the station and all first alarm apparatus responded The firefighters found upon arrival some leaves afire at the home of Mr. Martin Swanson, 47 Cambridge street. The fire amounted to nothing at all, but the police were some time straightening out the resulting traffic jam on Cambridge street.

Friday's last call came at 9:21 when a resident of Cambridge street beyond the Boat Club reported having heard cries for help coming from Mystic Lake. Ladder I with Captain Frank Amico and Fireman Paul Haggerty responded with the service truck and life-saving boat, manned by Firemen Henry Heitz and Joe Donahue. Chief James E. Callahan also responded with his car. The life-saving boat and a motor boat operated by Erksine Kelley searched the late waters throughout the area from which the cries were reported to have come, using searchlights operated by the Fire Department generators. After a search lasting until 10:25 they gave up and returned to quarters, finding nothing to indicate any accident.

Saturday's only call came at 11:30 p. m. from Lt. O'Connor of the Metropolitan District Police, who asked for the use of the Fire Department's generator to aid in the search for a man believed to be drowned in Horn Pond off the Woburn Parkway. Fireman Norman Doucette responded with the service truck and generator, but the man's body had been recovered before his arrival. Chief Callahan also responded in the Chief's car. The man was said to be James Harrington, 42, of 8 Hancock street, Everett.

Sunday's only call was at 8:03 p. m. from the home of Mr. Benjamin Mullen, 1 Woodside road, where an incinerator fire had set fire to shingles on the rear wall of a garage. The actual fire damage was slight. Box 541 was put on for the fire at Headquarters.

MERCHANTS DEFEAT LEAGUE LEADERS

The Winchester Merchants defeated the League leading St. John's Club of Cambridge at Rindge Field last Tuesday evening in a well pitched and well played game by a score of 4 to 2.

Delorey and Trant hooked up in a real pitchers duel giving up two and three hits respectively. The Merchants played excellent defensive ball. A key play was Griffins' brilliant shoe string catch of a fast sinking liner off the bat of Dwyer and his fast throw to Murphy to double Nadeau off first.

The Merchants scored three runs in the first on Griffins single, DiIorio's running bunt sending Griffin to third. DiIorio reached on a fielders choice reaching second on a short passed ball. Both scored on Tansey's sharp single to center. The fourth run came on Serieka's walk and steal of second followed by Murphy's sharp single to left.

The Merchants have now won 12 while losing 6.

LEGIONNAIRES DEFEAT BEDFORD

The Winchester Legionnaires played Bedford at Loring avenue last Tuesday evening and was victorious by a 2-1 score. "Skitchy" Carroll performed excellently on the mound for the locals by fanning nine batters and giving up two walks in six innings when the game was called because of darkness. "Skitchy" struck out one in the first, two in each of the second, third, fourth and fifth innings, but lost control in the sixth, when he passed the first batter, hit the second batter, and passed the third batter. The fourth hitter reached on an error and the fifth reached on a fielder's choice. Despite all this, however, the visitors failed to score when good throws to the bases eliminated the runners. Bedford was first to score and this came in the opening inning. Winchester came back in the second inning to cross the plate twice and was able to keep the one-run lead to the game's end. Getting hits for the locals were Procopio with a triple in the second scoring DiSilva who reached on a base on balls, Carroll's single in the second to score Procopio, Pratt's single in the fourth and Giacalone's single in the fifth.

Stoneham comes to Loring avenue this evening (Friday) for a contest with the locals and it should be a hard-fought contest if both teams are at full strength. It is doubtful if Lou Farrell, Winchester's flashy shortstop, will be in the line-up, since he wrenched his shoulder in the Arlington game last week and is under doctor's care. Lou is coming along fine!

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Wakefield, with their daughter, Ann, and sons, John, Roy and Craig, have opened their new ranch, "Frisky Hill" at Gilmanton, N. H., and will stay there for the remainder of the summer.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL

PROGRESS BULLETIN

JULY-1952

If you are a patient, member of the staff, or just a friend of the Winchester Hospital you may have been wondering if the noise, dirt and inconvenience of the construction is ever going to end. Cheer up! After 27 months of building and remodeling the end is only 3 or 4 months away when we will have one of the finest hospitals in the country. Already we have completed a new addition consisting of new kitchens, store rooms, operating suite and 56 new beds.

With the new space gained, we have been shifting ourselves around for the last few weeks so that we can refinish the old part of the hospital. Pity the poor housekeeper and her staff dealing with possibly the most difficult part of the entire job — at least for those who have to live with the remodeling day after day. We fear at times that the contractor has been more successful at making the dirt than she has been at removing it. Recently the third floor of the south wing has been completely refinished and is now in operation. Other floors will follow as quickly as possible until they are all done.

At the same time we are constructing a new nursery on the most up-to-date lines to permit the most modern techniques in baby care. The new nurseries, along with the labor and delivery rooms will not only have the latest equipment but will be air-conditioned for the maximum comfort of the patient.

Basic to the efficient and economic running of any hospital is the reorganization of the behind-the-scenes departments such as the new laboratories, pharmacy, blood bank and the central sterile supply which processes and distributes all sterile materials. These were formerly handled by the various units that used them. Other departments which will undergo major changes will be the X-ray department, the business office and the medical records department. There will also be created a new admitting office.

Last, but certainly not least to the visitor, is the noise and confusion which will greet the eye in the front offices. Our lobby is being enlarged and refurnished. For we, like any good citizen of the community, want to put our best foot forward and create a good first impression.

Next fall when the last workman has removed his overalls from the scene, we will have additions and improvements to the tune of almost $1,000,000 worth and a hospital all may be proud of. Once again we have an example of where an American community sets to work to improve one of its important community services, where no one individual expects to get any particular credit but where all pitch in together for the common end — the best possible hospital. Thank you for your cooperation.

WINCHESTER HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The summer meeting of the Bay State Historical Society was held in the new Memorial Hall in Plymouth on Saturday, July, 19, with the following societies as hosts: The Plymouth Antiquarian, The Plimoth Plantation, The Howland Society and the Pilgrim Society. The arrangements had been carefully planned for a most enjoyable day of sightseeing, instruction and entertainment.

Pilgrim Hall was one of the first places visited with its large collection of articles brought over in the Mayflower, documents and other things pertaining to the early life in the colony.

The wonderful breeze from the harbor attracted the members to the waterfront, where was the "Plimoth Plantation" with its reproduction of the very early typical house and grounds. Close by were Plymouth Rock, the statues of Massasoit, the Pilgrim Maiden, the Pilgrim Mother (erected by the National D.A.R.) and the Brewster Gardens.

The Mayflower Descendents Society owend the Winslow Mansion with its cupola giving a commanding view of the harbor and surrounding country. Several rooms were paneled in mahogany and all were beautifully furnished, and contained valuable mementos of the Pilgrims, among them one of Priscilla Alden's wedding spoons.

The Pilgrim John Howland House was built in 1667 and was a very pleasant two-story house with a fireplace in each fully furnished room.

The Harlow House was built from the timbers of the Old Fort and was most interesting with its demonstrations of spinning, weaving, candle-making, and other Pilgrim crafts.

Time did not permit visiting other interesting shrines, as the meeting was called at 2:45 with welcome speeches by Mr. James Frazier, Chairman of the Selectmen, and by Mr. Ellis Brewster, President of the Pilgrim Society. Mr. Hornblower told of plans for a pageant to be written by Paul Greene and called "The Plymouth Story," which would be acted mostly by townspeople and given often during next summer.

Mr. Arthur Pyle, high school history teacher and secretary of the Plimoth Plantation, gave a talk on "The Significance of the Pilgrim to the present-day American," in which he stressed their physical and spiritual courage which established our own religious freedom.

The ladies of the Antiquarian Society invited the league to the handsomest house of all, the Antiquarian House (built in 1809), for delicious punch and cookies served in the cool, shady garden. It has two octagonal rooms, one above the other, all very beautifully furnished throughout with the luxuries of that period, as well as a valuable collection of dishes brought from China.

The following members of the Winchester Historical Society attended: Mrs. P. J. Glendon, the Misses Clara Russell, Violet Williamson, Eleanor and Louise Bancroft.

WINCHESTER GIRLS PRACTICE TEACHING

Two Winchester girls, Elizabeth Fenno of 75 Church street and Wanda Whiting of 3 Orient street are enrolled in the six-weeks Graduate Workshop in Elementary Education jointly sponsored by Boston University and the Public School System of Newton.

The workshop, instituted last year, extends from July 7 to August 15, and is held with the idea of improving the quality of teaching by giving the inexperienced teacher confidence from actual teaching experience and giving children the opportunity for additional educational experience on the grade level they will enter in the fall.

Last year's experience with the Workshop was a success. The children loved it. Their parents agreed to let them have the fun for six weeks of helping student teachers learn how to teach school.

The children are not backward pupils in need of remedial treatment, but represent the normal range of American school youngsters, who show eagerness to touch phases of their regular studies which can not be covered in the regular school year for lack of time.

SERVING IN KOREA

Pvt. Henry W. Harris, son of Mr. Henry B. Harris of 2 Curtis street, is serving with the 7th Infantry Division on the west-central front in North Korea. Patrols from the 7th are battling the Reds in the strategic Iron Triangle sector near Khumwha.

Pvt. Harris arrived in Korea June 26 and has been assigned to the 17th Infantry Regiment's Company M as a rifleman.

Before entering the Army in October of last year he graduated from Kimball Union Academy and Nichols Junior College.

James Roger McElholm, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. McElholm of 22 Nathaniel road, underwent an emergency operation for the removal of his appendix last Saturday at the Winchester Hospital. Jimmy plays center field for the Yanks in the Little League and will be glad to have any of his team mates or other friends call to see him at the hospital, or after his return home.

CAPTAIN HAMILTON ASSIGNED TO FRENCH MORROCCO

Captain Robert Sheldon Hamilton, USAF, former Star Linotyper and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hamilton of Mt. Vernon street, has been assigned to duty with the Air Force at Nouasseur, one of the new air bases in French Morrocco.

Captain Hamilton wrote us of this interesting change in his plans while aboard the SS Lyantey in the Mediterranean off the coast of Spain near Gibraltar. He was stationed at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, last spring when he received orders to go to Germany, and finally, after several delays, left Staten Island, N. Y., on the SS General Ballou, a military sea transport service ship run by the Navy, on June 14, arriving in Bremerhaven, Germany, June 24.

In Bremerhaven, Captain Hamilton was pleasantly surprised to find his car awaiting him, it having preceeded him abroad, and he drove to Frankfort where he visited Lt. and Mrs. Paul Simpson, service people he had known at Camp Gordon, Ga. Incidentally he had served Lt. Simpson as best man at his wedding.

When Captain Hamilton arrived at Frankfort he learned that he had been assigned to Nouasseur in French Morrocco, with arrangements complete for him to fly there from Frankfort. Captain Hamilton didn't like the idea of leaving that Mercury of his in Germany, so went to work on the plan of driving to Marseilles and sailing from there to his destination, taking along the car.

After several days he was able to wangle the change in travel, and at noon on June 8 he left Frankfort, arriving at Bienne, Switzerland, that night. Making an early start the next morning, Captain Hamilton drove through Geneva on into Lyons, France, then down the Rhone Valley to Marseilles, arriving there about 9:30 p. m. Even "the Deac" of the old tourist club days admitted he was pretty well bushed after 14 hours of steady driving on indifferently good roads.

At Marseilles Captain Hamilton and his car went aboard the SS Lyanti, a good boat that makes the trip from Marseilles to Casablanca in two days. Upon arrival at Casablanca, the Captain will drive out to Nouasseur, a distance of 25 miles. With gas at 60 cents a gallon he isn't planning any extended motoring in French Morrocco.

Captain Hamilton sends regards to all the "old gang" in Winchester and as soon as the Star gets his permanent address we will print it for the benefit of former Tourist Club members. (Ed Note: Spelling of all foreign names is approximate "The Deac" doesn't write any better than ever!

STELLA MARIS NOTES

With the record-breaking wave here in Winchester, the following Winchester young girls have been anxious to be off for Camp Stella Maris, Wingaersheek Beach, West Gloucester, where they are registered as campers:

Sandra Delay, 26 Vine street,

Mary Ellen McGreggs, 7 Forest Circle,

Martha McGreggs, 7 Forest Circle.

This will be Sandra's first experience at Camp Stella Maris but the McGreggs sisters have told her of their happy experiences there. Recently Mary Ellen and Martha visited a camp on the shores of Lake Champlain but the thought of the happy times at Camp Stella Maris made them say, "It's Camp Stella Maris for us."

The Camp is under the Direction of Reverend John J. Sheehan, former C. Y. O. Director at the Immaculate Conception Parish here in Winchester and founder of the Girls Drill Team and Bugle and Drum Corps of that parish. Father Sheehan came to Winchester with an outstanding record in youth activity and his intense interest in camping activities is reflected in the good times enjoyed by the campers at Camp Stella Maris.

NEW SOCIAL SECURITY AMENDMENTS

Thousands of people in the Cambridge area will receive higher social security payments as a result of the social security amendments which President Truman signed into law last Friday, July 18. The first increased checks will be for the month of September delivered early in October.

James T. Phelan, manager of the Cambridge social security office, emphasized that no one needs to apply for the increased payments. "The Social Security Administration is already changing the amounts," he pointed out. "We expect to get them changed in time to have them in the mail October 3, the regular delivery date, but if in a few cases we don't meet that schedule we'll send the regular check and make up the difference in a later check."

Mr. Phelan pointed out that although nearly every family receiving payments would receive an increase, the additional amount would not always be divided among all the members of the family receiving monthly checks. In some cases the entire increase will go to the retired worker.

Amount of the increase for a retired worker will range from $5.00 to $8.60, with the average about $6.00. Where several members of a family are receiving payments, the total increase to the family can be as much as $18.90. A few benefits now being paid, and most of those payable in the future, will be based on earnings after 1950 instead of after 1936. The amended law provides a new formula for determining the amount of payments in these cases. Under it, a retired worker's monthly benefit would be 55% of the first $100 of his average monthly earnings plus 15% of the remainder up to $300.

Beginning September 1, the new law increased to $75 a month instead of $50 the amount of money a beneficiary may earn and still receive the monthly benefits. Self-employed people entitled to old-age and survivors insurance benefits may receive the payments for each month of the year if their net earnings during the entire year are not over $900.

The amended law contains a provision of special importance to self-employed people who have retired or plan to retire during 1952. Before the passage of the amendments their earnings for the year in which an application was made could not be used to figure their old-age benefit payments. Now, those self-employed people who originally applied for benefits in 1952 may reapply at the close of the taxable year and have their 1952 earnings used in figuring their monthly benefit payments. In general, this will increase the monthly benefit payment to self-employed persons.

A similar change in the law permits insured wage earners who retire in 1952 to have their wages for this year used immediately in figuring the amount of their benefit payments. Heretofore, it was necessary for them to come back after the end of the year in order to have all of their covered wages for 1952 included in the computation of the benefit amount.

Another amendment allows beneficiaries aged 75 or over already on the rolls to take advantage of the higher benefit payments provided under the new formula if they have had at least a year and a half of covered work after 1950.

The amended law allows social security wage credits of $160 for each month of active military or naval service after July 24, 1947. This provision is simply an extension of the one which already gives social security wage credits to servicemen of World War II. It applies to service in the armed forces up to January 1, 1954.

Of advantage to the survivors of deceased service people is a provision in the amended law extending the time for claiming a lump-sum death payment. This applies to servicemen who died abroad and are later returned to the United States for burial or reburial. Survivors who pay the burial expenses may now claim reimbursement up to two years after the reburial instead of two years after the serviceman's death.

WINCHESTER ALL STARS BLANKED MEDFORD

Behind the brilliant pitching of Joe Flaherty the Winchester Little League All-Stars defeated the Medford All-Stars 3 - 0 at Manchester Field on Wednesday evening. The story of the game was wrapped up in the twirling of Flaherty who struck out 13 batters while giving up only two hits and two bases on balls. So effective was Flaherty's hurling that his teammates had only four fielding chances as Joe had two assists himself.

Winchester scored its first run in the second inning when Dennis Keane was passed with one out. Flaherty also drew a base on balls. Archie MacDonald laid down a beautiful bunt that went for a hit to fill the bases. Al Adams was passed to force in the first run of the game. With the bases full and one out, Winchester's chance for a big inning fizzled as two successive runners were nailed at the plate attempting to score on wild pitches that bounced back of the back stop.

The locals scored two unearned runs in the third to ice the game. Dave Power reached on an error with one out. With two out Eddie Ardini hit a ground ball to second base that went through his legs for an error. Power continued on to third and scored when the right fielder's throw broke through the third baseman, Ardini coming around to third on the two-base error. Ardini scored when the catcher became careless and threw the ball past the pitcher when returning a pitch on the next batter.

In spite of the heat, a large crowd was on hand to see the first Little League Tournament game in Winchester's history. It was not a spectacular contest because Flaherty's superb twirling left his teammates very little work and there were no extra-base hits by either side. As a result of this first round victory the Winchester All-Stars will play the second round of the Tournament at Waltham next Wednesday evening. The local's opponent will be the winner of the first round game between Malden and Arlington, with Arlington favored to win.

LEAGUE ALL STARS AT WALTHAM

Winchester's Little League All Stars, after blanking Medford Wednesday evening, move over to Waltham for the second round of the District 2 Little League Championship Tournament, meeting the winner of the first round game between Malden and Arlington played last night at Malden.

Both Arlington and Malden sponsor American and National Little League teams, and the two American League teams played Wednesday night, the winner meeting the Woburn - Stoneham tourney winner. Winchester is playing the National League winner decided by last night's game at Malden.

All tournament games, after the first round, are played at Waltham, center for District 2.

Manager Jack Serieka of the Winchester All Star team will probably start the same lineup that won from Medford Wednesday evening, with the exception of the pitcher. Under tournament rules no pitcher can pitch two games in a row, so even with a week's rest, Joe Flaherty, who pitched so sensationally against Medford, cannot work next Wednesday.

Jack has several other pitchers who are effective and Winchester should not be weak in the box at Waltham, but it would be nice to have Big Joe available just the same.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

Nine snipe skippers and their crews are beginning to slick up their boats for Marblehead's Race Week which starts August 1. They would be greatly encouraged and have a better excuse to win if the Boat Club members would go on down to Marblehead that week and cheer them on. Get the family together with a picinic lunch, and let's form a Winchester cheering squad.

The Winchester boys who took their boats down to the South Shore Sunday to race in the regatta did very well for themselves. Rodney Long, Pete Redding, Ned Morse, Daw Blamire, and Bart Sullivan represented the Club.

The first of Steward Broder's buffet suppers last Sunday night was attended by a huge crowd, and was a bang-up affair. Don't miss out on these yummy meals. Get Mother out of the kitchen and over to the cool breezes on the Club's shores. Your reservations must be made by the Friday before. You still have time today! Highlight last Sunday night was movies taken by George Jones of the Club's 50th anniversary party and the national snipe championships in 1948.

There were races at the Club last Saturday afternoon, and the winners were Roger Swanson, Ned Morse, and Carl Freyer.

LEGIONNAIRES IN THIRD PLACE

The league contests came to an end for the Winchester Legionnaires last week but the team is still together for a few non-league games before hanging up the gloves for another year. With an entirely new aggregation taking the field this year, Coach Frankie Provinzano is highly pleased with the record and play of his boys. The locals find themselves in third place in the league standing, with Medford on top and Somerville right behind Medford. It is the game of baseball but the Winchesterites split with the Medford champions and lost two to the runners-up.

The sixteen players making the Winchester team were James Carroll, Charles DiSilva, David Pratt, Warren Goodnow, Robert Jacobellis, Arthur Sullivan, Joseph Bellino, Robert McLaughlin, John Bushell, John Morgan, Joseph DiIorio, Frank Procopio, John Connors, Anthony Barbaro, Louis Farrell, and Reed Harvey.

On behalf of the members of the squad, Coach Frankie Provinzano wishes to extend his thanks and appreciation to Mr. Ralph Bonnell for the uniforms and caps, to the Park Department for having Loring avenue in tip-top shape for all of our home contests, to Mr. Ted Bartlett, the Post's Athletic Officer and District Commissioner for a fine job in getting us started, to Ernie Baron, a fellow Legionnaire, who provided us with transportation for all games played on the road, and finally to the Winchester Post for the necessary equipment and financial backing in order that the boys could participate in this wide-spread competition, and to those who attended our games and donated various amounts of money to help us keep going.

The League schedule and scores are as follows:

Winchester	12	Woburn	10
Winchester	0	Somerville	5
Winchester	3	Malden	2
Winchester	3	Lowell	2
Winchester	4	Medford	6
Winchester	5	Woburn	2
Winchester	2	Medford	0
Winchester	15	Malden	1
Winchester	0	Somerville	5
Winchester	2	Reading	4
Winchester	7	Lowell	8
Winchester	0	Arlington	5
Winchester	5	Reading	2
Winchester	11	Arlington	1

The above results show that the Winchesterites lost both scheduled games to Somerville, split with Lowell, Medford and Reading, and defeated Woburn and Malden in the two games that they met. The results also show that the locals scored 69 runs to 53 for the opposition.

Freddie Kimball of 33 Westley street is vacationing at Newport, Maine.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Sons of Italy	13	5
Fitzgeralds	12	7
V. F. W.	9	9
White Shirts	9	10
Winchester Brick	9	10
Merenda	4	15

As is usually the case in the Town Softball League, a cellar-dwelling nine will rise up to knock down one of the teams in the contention for a play-off position. The Merenda Flooring Co., nine did just that on Monday evening when they upset the White Shirts 14 - 11 to put the latter into a tie for third place with the Winchester Brick Co., nine. Not only did the Merenda nine upset the White Shirts but the also knocked off the League-leading Sons of Italy and forced the Fitzgerald Contracting Co., to go nine innings before winning 9 - 7.

The Winchester Brick Co., won both of their games in the past week to put themselves into the contention for third or fourth place. A glance at the standing above indicates the possibilities that exist for third and fourth place with three teams in the battle for these two playoff berth. At the time this is written, there are four games left to play of the regular schedule and it is more than possible that a tie will develop which will be played off Monday evening at Ginn Field.

The play offs for the League championship will start the first evening next week that is not required to play off any possible tie or ties that develop. As in past years the first place team will meet the fourth place team and the second and third place teams will clash on alternate nights in a two out of three semi-final series. The winners of these semi-final series will meet in a three out of five final series for the League championship. All play off games will be held at Ginn Field on Monday through Thursday evenings with no games scheduled for Friday evenings.

MERCHANTS OVERPOWER PALMER CLUB

For five innings last Sunday at Thrum Field, Somerville, Charlie Murphy and "Lefty" Harriman matched pitch for pitch in a real pitchers duel. Both men gave up only two hits apiece until the sixth. But in the sixth with two away the Merchants broke out with a thirteen run inning. A base on balls started them off and before it ended three base on balls, three errors and five hits featured by "Hegan" Cirurso's base cleaning homer and Murphy's long homer to center totaled thirteen runs.

Police have received complaints this week from automobile owners of thefts from their car, both of equipment and personal effects while the machines have been parked at Wedgemere Station. During the summer there are many out-of-town youths around the station, either going to or from Sandy Beach, but it is by no means certain that non-Winchester visitors to the station were responsible.

WINCHESTER MERCHANTS, 8; MELROSE, 2

The Winchester Merchants defeated Melrose by an 8 - 2 score at Pine Banks Park, Melrose on Wednesday, July 17th.

Stowell Symmes held Melrose to four hits scattered over five innings while the Merchants made their five hits together with some excellent base running good for eight

An unusual feature of the game runs was "Swifty" DiIorio getting a fast break on the Melrose pitching to twice steal home successfully.

WINCHESTER RESIDENTS IN SALEM HURRICANE

Several residents of this town figured in the terrific hurricance which swept Salem harbour last Sunday morning. At least five persons were drowned and one other missing in the disaster.

Elmer Josephson, 32, of 65 Brookside avenue, who was fishing from a skiff with a friend from Reading, was rescued by the Coast Guard after their boat was blown a distance of five miles from its position when the storm hit. Five boats were towed in together, their boat being the farthest one out.

Another Winchester man, Bruce Hamilton, 26, of 3 Lagrange street, a World War II Navy veteran and mate on the excursion boat Ruth M which sailed from Salem Willows, aided in many rescues during the storm.

The sudden and unexpected hurricane wrecked an estimated 200 sail boats and skiffs, and while it lasted only a quarter of an hour, the 85-mile an hour wind kicked up gigantic waves and created havoc among the hundreds of fishermen and sailors.

The fury of the storm was felt here in Winchester with a terrific wind and skies so black that lights were needed. Beyond a few tree limbs the Town escaped serious damage and the rain which accompanied the storm was welcome but hardly adequate to do much good to the parched lawns and gardens.

Two members of the Winchester fire department also figured in the Salem disaster when Charles Moran and Joseph Connolly not only received a good ducking, but aided in the work of rescue at Salem Willows. The two were out fishing at the time, but fortunately were on their way in when the hurricane struck and were near enough to the shore so that their boat was washed onto the rocks. They went to the pier and as the rescued survivors were landed they aided in caring for them. At that time there were very few persons available for this work.

The families of the two men were among those on shore who were trying to contact their menfolks and they were thoroughly drenched by the thick and driving rain. The firemen report that the experience will last them for a long time. They were fortunate in their escape.

DONAHUE — NOLAN ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Dr. and Mrs. James I. Nolan of 4602 New Hampshire avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C., and formerly of Roanoke, Virginia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary-Elizabeth Nolan, to Captain Frederick Joseph Donahue, Jr. U.S. Army, of Alexandria, Virginia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Donahue of 15 Mystic avenue.

Miss Nolan is a graduate of Sacred Heart Academy, Immaculata College and Trinity College, Washington, D.C., Class of '50.

Captain Donahue, who graduated cum laude from Winchester High School in '39, was a member of the '43 class of Boston University CBA prior to entering the Army in World War II, serving in the Pacific for almost three years. Returning to civilian status in '46, Captain Donahue resumed his college studies at Stanford University, Palo Alto, California, graduating with the class of '49. After graduation, he entered private business and established residence in San Francisco. At the start of the Korean War, Captain Donahue returned to the Army and is presently assigned to the Office of the Chief of Staff, Pentagon, Washington, D. C.

A spring wedding is planned.

Hadley of Andover, and Mr. Richard James Wansker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Wansker of Duxbury, formerly of this town. The Rev. George N. C. Mott officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony and a reception followed in the church vestry.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a nylon marquisette gown fashioned with a sheer illusion yoke, and cascading ruffles of imported Venise lace. Her matching headpiece was trimmed with satin leaf and mother of pearl beads and she carried a white aster arm bouquet with ivy. Miss Genevieve E. They carried arm bouquets of shell pink asters and baby's breath, Mrs. Leslie R. Hadley of San Rafael, Calif., was the honorary bridesmaid.

Town Treasurer Bradlee, who has been at the hospital for the past three weeks, was released on Wednesday, and while he had planned to visit his office that afternoon, he thought better of it after he arrived home and did not reach the Town Hall until Thursday. He had a kidney infection and at one time an operation was thought necessary. However, Mr. Bradlee escaped this ordeal and is recovering nicely.

A. MILES HOLBROOK

Mr. Holbrook is still at the hospital. He suffered a heart attack a fortnight ago and lost the use of his left arm and leg and his speech was affected. However, reports of his condition are most encouraging. He is now talking with his friends and has recovered the use of his arm, and is reported as greatly improved.

MR. DEAN SYMMES

Mr. Symmes, who was taken to the hospital following a flight from Europe, where he was taken ill while on a business trip, is reported much improved and recovering satisfactorily.

MRS. JONAS A. LARAWAY

Mrs. Laraway was stricken with a heart attack while in Boston a fortnight ago. She was released from the hospital yesterday. She is recovering at her home on Lloyd street.

IN JASPER HOTEL FIRE

Dr. and Mrs. Harry S. Parsons of Bacon street were among the guests at the Jasper Park Hotel in Alberta when the big fire occurred a fortnight ago. First reports were that this luxury hotel had been burned to the ground, but later information revealed that only the Lodge, a gigantic separate structure, was destroyed.

The Parsons' had only just arrived at the hotel when the fire occurred that night. They were aroused along with other guests, and although at that time the main hotel was not on fire, it was feared that a shift in wind yould ignite it. They left their bed and hastily packed their grips and went outside to a safe spot.

The Parsons spent a week at the hotel and report that they were not inconvenienced, the hotel people carrying on and caring for their guests as usual. They brought home with them two interesting pictures of the event — one a photo of the Lodge as it was in use before the fire, and another showing the fire at its height.

The bride graduated from Kents Hill School with the class of 1948, and Mr. Hanfield attended Allegheny College and was in the Air Force during World War II.

HOT AND DRY

Hot weather continues to be with us. Cooler air was most welcome on Wednesday following the extreme heat of Tuesday night, which many thought was the most uncomfortable thus far this summer, but yesterday morning the temperature went back into the usual groove, with the humidity high. No relief is forecast, although a promise of showers was held out yesterday. Thus far Winchester, as a town, has done very well through the terrific dry spell. With few exceptions the gardens have been ruined and all lawns show the effects of the drought, but trees and shrubs, while badly wilted, are still alive.

J. H. WINN'S SONS PROFIT-SHARING AND RETIREMENT PLAN

Messrs. Ernest B. Dade, Lester R. Snow and Edward H. Newhall, members of the firm of J. H. Winn's Sons are to be congratulated for the progressive and beneficial plan which was presented to their employees this week.

At a meeting held Tuesday in the picnic grove at the plant, the President, Mr. Ernest B. Dade, announced to the employees a new profit staring and retirement plan which is being set up for their benefit pending final governmental approval. This is in addition to the life and complete health insurance benefits now available to the employees.

All employees who have served a period of three years or more, and are 25 years of age or over, will be entitled to their share of the profits. The distribution of credits will be made after the close of each fiscal year on June 30th.

A booklet was distributed to each employee explaining the plan and illustrating how the plan was set up and how it will operate. The basis of distribution will be one point for each $100 earned, and three points for each year of service.

The Profit Sharing and Retirement plan was prepared by Marsh & McLennan, Incorporated, Consulting Actuaries, and the Trust Fund will be administered by the Old Colony Trust Co. of Boston.

It is needless to state the pleasure with which this announcement was received by the employees, who are most happy to be employed by such a progressive organization which is always striving to aid them in every way possible.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE

FINAL STANDING

Sons of Italy	14	6
Fitzgeralds	12	8
V. F. W.	11	9
Winchester Brick	10	10
White Shirts	9	11
Merenda	4	16

It is playoff time again in the Town Softball League! As a result of one of the closest races in years, a good-sized crowd has attended both of the playoff games this week. A glance at the final standing above shows that the team have been well balanced this year, with only three games separating the second and fifth place teams and elimination from the playoffs. It has been many years since the Sons of Italy lost six games during the regular season. Undoubtedly the Sons are beginning to show the need of more youth and speed in their lineup but they still look better balanced than the other three playoff contenders and are favored to win the League title for the third year in succession.

In the first playoff game on Monday evening the Sons of Italy defeated the Winchester Brick Co., by a score of 11 - 6. It was the same old story of greater poise and experience paying off for the Sons. The winners scored three in the first inning on a single by Bellino, a double by Al Tibaudo, a triple by Del Grasso, and a single by Gangi. The Brick Co. scored twice in the top of the second but the Sons made it 8 - 2 with five runs in the bottom of the second. Four of these five runs came before any were out on a base on balls to Chefalo and Procopio, a single by Bellino, a base on balls to Fiore, and a single by Sam Tibaudo who later scored on a fly to the outfield. The Sons made it 11-2 in the fourth and coasted to an easy victory behind the steady pitching of Procopio.

Playoff jitters hit the Fitzgerald Contracting Co., as they kicked the ball all over the field to drop an 8 - 5 decision to the V. F. W. on Tuesday evening. Bob Saunders pitched excellent ball for the Vets as he gave up only four hits and a single base on balls. Manager Charlie Tofuri threw a scare into the Vets with a three-run homer in the seventh after the Vets had made several changes in their lineup but Saunders was equal to the occasion and retired the side without further damage. It is strange what the playoffs do to some of these teams for the Fitzgeralds have played good ball all season but looked very ragged on Tuesday and face an early elimination unless they snap out of their slump.

The playoffs will continue on Monday through Thursday evening next week at Ginn Field. The semi-final series being played now is a best two-out-of-the-three affair with the winners to meet in a final three-out-of-five series. At the present writing it looks like the Sons of Italy and the V. F. W. in the finals and these two will provide plenty of action as they have been strong rivals over the years.

BASKETBALL TONIGHT

The Winchester Playgrounds will begin a series of Friday night basketball games with a contest at Ginn Court tonight. Tonight's opener will feature the South Boston Boys' Club quintet who opposed Winchester last year in the first formal basketball game at Ginn Court, won by the locals in a thrilling 35 - 33 exhibition.

Local basketball fans will remember the exciting Winchester High — South Boston High final of the Tech Tournament at the Boston Garden last winter. Three of the stars of that South Boston team will be playing for the Boys' Club tonight. Local fans will well remember the names of Mike Pano, the flashy, diminutive guard, Jim Donnellan, the high scoring forward, and John Mahoney, another forward. Little Mike Pano is a treat to watch in action and endeared himself to Winchester fans even though he was playing against our favorites.

Playground Supervisor, Ted Bartlett, will handle the Winchester team which will be led by Stu Thomson, co-captain of next winter's high school team. Other performers that Coach Bartlett will have at his disposal are John Atkinson, Dave Pratt, Max McCreery, Joe DiIorio, John Riordan, Bucky Morgan, and Lou Farrell. It will be interesting to see what these prospects for next year's high school team can do against the three South Boston boys who gave last year's championship team so much trouble.

The main game which is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. will be preceded by a preliminary game between the West Side Field Intermediates and the Leonard Field Intermediates. The West Side team is coached by Dave Pratt and captained by Bert Kneeland while the Leonard Field five is coached by Sandy Burbank and captained by Joe Bellino. The Intermediates will play their first half at six o'clock and play their second half between the halves of the feature contest.

Miss Bette Garden, clerk in McCormack's Apothecary, is on vacation this week.

GIRLS' JUNIOR WIGHTMAN CUP TENNIS

The third match of the 1952 Girls' Junior Wightman Cup Team took place Saturday, July 26, at the Packer Courts. Winchester won 5 - 2, with scores as follows:

Sue Morton, Winchester, defeated Sally Darmody, Tedesco, 6 - 3, 6 - 3; Libby Humus, Tedesco, defeated Prue Morton, Winchester, 6 - 0, 6 - 4; Sylvia Crowelli, Winchester, defeated Norma Slauer, Tedesco, 6 - 1 6 - 2; Nancy Waldo, Tedesco, defeated Connie Snelling, Winchester 6 - 4, 6 - 4; Jan Collins, Winchester, defeated Doris Slauer, 6 - 1, 6 - 3; Prue Morton and Jan Collins, defeated Sally Darmody and Pat Hinchey, 6 - 4, 6 - 4; and Sue Morton and Merdi West defeated Libby Hummus and Norma Slauer, 6 - 3, 3 - 6, 6 - 2.

The fourth and last match of the season was played Tuesday, July 29, at the Longwood Cricket Club. Considering the fact that Longwood has three top ranking state players our 4 - 3 loss, the only team defeat of the season, proves that our team has considerable depth. It shows, also, that the Winchester Tennis Association's clinics and tournaments are paying dividends in a fine new crop of enthusiastic young tennis players.

Scores for the matches at Longwood were as follows:

Ruth Jeffrey, Longwood, defeated Sue Morton, Winchester, 6 - 3, 6 - 0; Carol Wendell, Longwood, defeated Prue Morton, Winchester, 6 - 1, 6 - 3; Joan Stockdale, Longwood, defeated Sylvia Crowelli, Winchester, 6 - 4, 6 - 3; Jan Collins, Winchester, defeated Barbara Doherty, Longwood, 6 - 3, 6 - 1; Merdi West, Winchester, defeated Joan Barry, Longwood, 6 - 0, 6 - 2; Ruth Jeffrey and Joan Stockdale, defeated Sue Morton and Sylvia Crowelli, 6 - 3, 6 - 4; and Connie Snelling and Dot Bellows, Winchester, defeated Joan Barry and Barbara Doherty, 6 - 3, 6 - 3.

After a soda-pop treat by Mrs. Wightman, our seven players, coach Dot Hills, with Jeff, Gerry, and Mike crammed into Sue's convertible and actually sang mascot Mike to sleep on the way home.

Summing up our season, the team defeated Belmont 5 - 2, tied Concord, defeated Tedesco 5 - 2, and lost to Longwood 4 - 3. Fourteen girls played; eleven will receive emblems for playing in two or more matches.

READING, 5; MERCHANTS, 3

Reading defeated the Merchants at Leonard Field last Friday evening by a score of 5 to 3.

The first inning told the story. With two away Murphy lost his control passing two men to fill the bases. A base hit and two successive errors scored four of the five runs. Delorey relieved with the first man to face him hitting to right. But Symmes' perfect peg to Cirurso caught Gardner at the plate to retire the side. Delorey then pitched no hit ball over the next four innings. Chisholm had a perfect night at the plate with 3 for 3.

LANDS THE BIG ONE

Bill Mitchell, Gardner place and Cape Neddick, Maine, leading tuna fisherman in Maine waters so far this season, is prouder of the fact that Chad Mitchell, his eleven year-old boy, handled the boat in landing a 400 pounder in rough water.

The efforts of the boat handler in big game fishing often spells the difference between landing the fish and losing him, and Chad handled the boat like a veteran skipper.

A day later he handled the boat while "Les" Johnson of Weston landed a fifteen foot shark.

WHAT WILL IT COST?
The price of every prescription compounded by us is determined by the cost of the ingredients plus a nominal fee for professional services. This is the only fair and square method for figuring the cost of any prescription. It assures you that no corners are cut in order to cut a price, and it also acts as a brake on unnecessarily high prices. When you bring your prescription to us, you know that the medicine and the price will both be RIGHT.

GOING ON VACATION

Editor of the Star:

May I use your valuable space to notify the young men of our town, and their families, that I am leaving for Winnisquam, N. H., on August 3rd for three weeks. However, M/Sgt. Eliot Watts, Station Commander of the Medford Recruiting Station (MY 6-5777) will be glad to answer any questions and advise any young man as to what is best for him to do.

It will be more than pleasant to get away from telephones and to ponder upon the inscrutable ways of bass and pickerel instead of those of the Armed Forces!

Cordially yours,
G. Toye, Chairman
Military Manpower Committee

KOREA

Editor of the Star:

It is bounded on the East by Japanese fishing boats, on the West by the Yellow Sea, in the South by revolt and in the North by utter confusion. It is divided by a hypothetical parallel that circumscribes the earth and depending on which side you plant your rice paddy determines your politics. It is ideally suited for submarine truck gardening and for people who like to write under water with a fountain pen. It is inhabited by some 30 million people, half of whom own "Honey-Carts", and the other half are babies.

It is a nation of myriads of sticky antagonistic flies, countless and apparently unattached naked children, all with running noses. Plumbing that defies Newton's pet theory, horrible weather conditions, housing problems aggravated by a birthrate competitive with white mice or rabbits. Transportation methods that resist description. Everything with the exception of an outboard motor on a wheelbarrow is put into practice. Streetcars that look like refugees from a San Francisco cable line, pregnant motorcycles, horsedrawn trolleys, stripped down Army trucks and overbuilt jeeps, versatile bicycles, taxis with co-drivers and the inevitable rickshaw, all of which are completely ignored by the pedestrian.

It's pet gastronomical delight is a conglomeration of calories that would be revolting even to a crocodile's digestive system, and is consumed with a tone liking to an inebriated harelip sucking hot spaghetti out of a soup bowl.

It is probably the only country in the world where a germ can be seen with the naked eye. It is unique in that not one of its authors has ever mentioned chronic alcoholism. It is a nation that has amazingly survived over 4,200 years through the flotsam and jetsam of other people's politics. It is a country where the instinct to survive is greater than the will to live.

Most countries leave us with a pleasant memory, but this is strictly a taste-in-the-mouth deal. If you do have memories, they are apt to wake you up in the night screaming at the top of your lungs and beating hell out of your better half.

Let's call the whole deal off and fervently pray for a bad case of amnesia.

Anonymous

ALCOHOLISM

Editor of the Star:

Alcoholics Anonymous is neither wet nor dry. It treats alcoholism, a self-inflicted disease, as physicians deal with any malady that afflicts the human flesh and mind. This is the modern approach to the subject. It reports that there is an increasing number of young people seeking information and guidance concerning the most effective method of dealing with this social enemy that has become so menacing. It is estimated that 160 of these applicants were college and high school students. "Alcoholism is everybody's business." Throughout the nation committees on alcoholism are organizing to combat the menace.

The Boston Committee on Alcoholism, Inc., which is affiliated with the national committee, is composed of an outstanding group of officers and directors and an advisory committee of more than sixty prominent men and women who are studying this serious problem. At the third annual conference held this year at John Hancock Hall, there was a record attendance of 820,52 of whom were doctors and 102 business leaders. Dealing with alcoholism as a disease, which it is, rather than as a moral weakness has proved to be a wise course. Alcohol Facts, Inc., chartered in New York in 1947 as an educational organization to study the subject, favors this approach to the alcohol problem which, it says, is "practical, far-reaching and effective." The Boston Committee on Alcoholism reports it has become so successful in removing the stigma that has so often been associated with alcoholism that the number of alcoholics who come into its office of their own volition has sharply increased.

The ratio of drinkers to non-drinkers, especially among women, is steadily increasing, it is said, and has become a major public health problem that no longer can be ignored. A report of the Boston Committee on Alcoholism states it affects directly some 100,000 persons in Massachusetts and its ravages cost the citizens of the state $61,000,000 annually. Americans spent $9,150,000,000 on liquor last year according to an Associated Press, Washington, dispatch; half as much as was spent for clothing and shoes. Spending averaged $59.80 for ever man, woman, and child in the country.

Reports state that most of the children treated for alcoholism come from families where the father and mother drink. Yielding to the innate influence of mimicry, a child's inclination to do as his parents do, these innocent little ones become addict. The parents set the example. The ultimate cost of thoughtless mimicry, as applied to the use of harmful, habit-forming drugs is tremendous, as the writer has shown in a previous article. Is the soothing influence of a drug, once a habit is formed, worth the price of a guilty conscience and the remorse a thoughtful person suffers from a bad example?

DUCKS, ELEVEN OF THEM

In the most recent copy of Life Magazine, the Picture of the Week portrays one mother duck with her eleven offspring. Not commonly known this duck was tamed by the Mortons of Arlington street, Sue in particular. A process involving large quantities of patience, bread crumbs and strength to ward off neighborhood bird dogs.

Three mallards have returned each spring for the last three years for a short time, but this year because the pond was kept flooded on the golf course, the ducks continued to stay through the summer.

The particular duck pictured made her nest in the Morton's yard, laid her eggs, sat faithfully — with the result shown in Life.

FRIENDS OF WINCHESTER HOSPITAL

The Friends of the Winchester Hospital during the summer months are still carrying out the volunteer services which they perform for the hospital.

Because of so many people being on vacation, extra assistance is needed. There is a need for clerical work to be done at the hospital. If any woman or college student with reasonably fast typing ability, is willing to contribute time for this worthwhile work, will she please call Mrs. Clarence Wickerson, WInchester 6-0507-W. Help is also needed in the linen room for machine mending of the hospital linen. Will anyone willing to assist please call Mrs. James B. Harlow, WInchester 6-1912.

Mrs. William A. Nowell of Middlesex street is a patient at the Winchester Hospital.

"DAYS OF YORE"

Clippings from the STAR Files

FIFTY YEARS AGO

JULY 25, 1902

It is a singular fact that the last three deaths of Winchester people have been violent and the result of accident. The list includes Mrs. Knowlton, William Mills and Henry Hooper.

The sidewalks of side hill streets being subject to frequent washouts despite the fact that they are built with crushed stone, Supt. of Streets Spates believes they should be concreted.

Increased business at the local office has given Postmaster Richardson an addition of $100 to his salary.

Among the Winchester members of the Medford Boat Club who make up the crew who go to Bath, Maine at the invitation of Pres. Hyde of the Bath Iron Works to paddle against the Wawbewawas are Edward Vose, William Corey and Price Wilson. The party will leave Friday night on the new Portland boat, Gov. Dingley, and return Monday. The canoeing sports are part of the program for the observance of Old Home Week by the city of Bath.

Mrs. William B. Sands and Miss Jennie Sands went to St. John's, N. B., last week for the summer.

The watch hand factory at the Highlands, owned by J. H. Winn, shut down last week on account of the dull season.

A train composed of loaded coal cars broke apart at the crossing Wednesday afternoon by the pulling out of a draw bar and as a result there came near being a smash up. The broken draw bar reached within an inch or two of the ground, and but for the rear half of the train coming to a standstill before the raised planking at the crossing was reached, much damage might have resulted. The train came to a stop within a foot of this planking.

Miss Marjorie Cutting of Oak Knoll has returned after a two weeks visit to Miss Barbara Fernald at her father's cottage at West Harwich.

The newly elected officers of the Winchester Cycle Club are as follows: President, Charles Chase; Vice-president, Harry Dotten; Secretary, Ralph Arnold; Treasurer, William Dickey.

Mr. C. E. L. Wingate and family of Stratford road and Robert Barr are passing two weeks at Falmouth.

Mr. Roy Pratt has accepted a position with Young & Brown's drug store.

On the Fourth of July the North Woburn electric railroad carried 21,000 passengers, the largest in any one day since the road was established.

The Selectmen are doing considerable concreting these days. Why attend to the main thoroughfares first before doing the side streets?

Miss Ruth McCall is visiting her classmate, Miss Helen Gardner, at Chicago.

Miss Helen Munroe is visiting relatives in Ashland, Mass.

The police arrested about the entire Chinese population of the town at 2 o'clock Sunday morning for gambling on the Lord's Day. The arrest was made by Chief of Police McIntosh and Patrolmen Brown, Harrold and O'Connell, who surprised the Celestials at their little game of chance in the rear of a Chinese Laundry at 19 Pleasant street.

Mr. George H. Raymond was kicked on the right hand and arm by a horse last evening. The hand was badly bruised, but no bones were broken. His injuries were attended to at the Emergency Hospital, Woburn.

To-Let-A tenement of six rooms at 22 Pleasant street. Rent $12.50. Inquire at 20 Winthrop street.

To-Let-Tenements in new apartment house on Railroad avenue. Five room each, $10, $12, and $13 per month. Apply at Star Office.

Mr. Andrew M. Fitz, the genial gentleman who looks after Mr. George A. Wood's real estate business in town, left this week for a cruise along the Maine coast in a thirty-five foot raceabout, with a party of three others.

Mrs. J. A. Kennison of Portland, Me., and Miss Gagey Titcomb of Newburyport are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Bridges of Highland avenue.

Miss Dasie McLellan left last week for Silver Bay, Lake George, N. Y., where she goes as a delegate to the convention of Young People's societies, conducted by Mr. Luther Wishard.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Corey, Miss Mabel Corey and Messrs. William Corey, John Blank and Price Wilson leave this Saturday for Nantucket. Messrs. Corey and Wilson have chartered a cat boat for their stay and will take along a canoe.

Mr. Henry J. Carroll, who is doing extensive carpenter work at Pinehurst, N. C., left for there last Saturday. He has a large force of men employed there.

Mr. George Tyler had his bicycle stolen from the alley at the rear of Young & Brown's store Saturday.

Last Friday a party of 33 fishermen of this town embarked on the schooner "Letter D" at Swampscott for the fishing grounds. The weather was all that could be desired and the day was enjoyed immensely by all. The total catch was 180 fish, including cod, haddock, pollock, flounders, etc. Two prizes were offered for the largest fish and the greatest individual catch. Mr. Frank J. Taylor of Blind Bridge street captured both. Mr. John Blank caught the greatest variety, and while he did not get a prize yet he was entitled to one for his display. It was agreed that the winner of prizes should treat the party to soda, but for some unexplainable reason the lucky man got separated from his companions after the landing had been reached.

The A. A. C. Club of the Highlands has been disbanded for the summer.

The second of Judge Littlefield's trolley excursions took place Thursday, objective point being Nashua, N. H. As usual, a good time was enjoyed. Seven gentlemen went on the excursion.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

JULY 22, 1927

Winchester's recently formed Rotary Club got off to a flying start, when it provided and erected a handsome sign for the headquarters of the Winchester Council Boy Scouts of America. Officials of the Rotary Club have indicated that the sign is an evidence of the active part the new organization plans to take in town activities.

Horace Ford of Kenwin road has signalled his return to the line-up of the "Cincinnati Reds" by playing a whale of a game at shortstop and hitting the ball hard. "Hod" when right is one of the smoothest working infielders in the senior circuit.

Louise Packer, one of the foremost among the Town's junior net stars, and number one singles player on the high school girls' team for the past two seasons, won top honors in the girls' singles tournament at Montserrat Golf Club in Beverly last week. In the mixed doubles Louise and Frank Carleton won their way into the finals. Carleton was very much in the tournament, winning the boys' consolation singles, and paired with Sidney Paine, getting to the finals in the boys' doubles.

Messrs. Vincent and Howard Ambrose are enrolled with the C. M. T. C. at Fort Ethan Allen, Burlington, Vt., for the month of July. Mr. Vincent Ambrose has been unanimously elected Captain of the baseball team for Troop BX, 3rd Cavalry.

Members of the Winchester Fire Department have been outfitted throughout with shiny new heavy-duty helmets. Those of the men are black with white lettering, the several captains' helmets having white shields. Chief DeCourcy and Deputy Chief Gorman have helmets entirely finished in white.

Winchester boxing fans can get some first hand information on the big fight from Assessor John F. Cassidy, who was at the ringside in the Yankee Stadium.

Miss Janet Goddard won second prize in the regular Tuesday tournament for the ladies of the Plymouth Country Club this week.

Among other Winchester spectators at last night's big Dempsey-Sharkey fight at Yankee Stadium were O'Rourke of Symmes road and Frank White of Glenwood avenue.

Bids have already been asked for the construction of the handsome new funeral home which the local firm of Kelley and Hawes is to erect on Elmwood avenue at the corner of Vine street.

Sergeant William Rogers of the police conducted a raid last evening, seizing two cases of beer in a house on Washington street. The occupants of the house will be summoned into court as soon as the results of the analysis are in hand.

"Jomma" Dolan, erstwhile shortfielder went on the mound for St. Mary's against Woburn and pitched plenty good enough ball to win with good support. He literally hooked the hard hitting "Pals" to death, and the 6 blows garned off his delivery were by no means bunched.

What was at first thought to be a fire threatening Lyceum Building, turned out to be smoke from a near-by restaurant upon investigation by firemen about 5:20 o'clock last Sunday morning. Edward Cullen of the Winchester News Company was busy supervising the arrival of the early morning supply of Sunday papers in the square when he noticed smoke apparently issuing from the eaves of Lyceum Building. He quickly pulled Box 21, summoning the Fire Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Bartlett of Hillside avenue, while spending the week-end in New Hampshire, visited Camp Wyanoke at Wolfeboro on Sunday. They were dinner guests at camp of Director and Mrs. Bradford Bentley, and enjoyed seeing Mr. and Mrs. F. Meredith Cooper and Mr. Henry Knowlton, all members of the camp staff.

For Mr. Bartlett the visit brought back memories of his days as a counselor at Wyanoke. It was Mrs. Bartlett's first visit to the camp.

GEOGRAPHIC ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

One out of every six of the earth's elements belongs to the rare earths family, a group of metals with such tongue-twisting names as praseodymium, dysprosium, and ytterbium. They make up a larger part of the earth's crust than does copper, lead or zinc; but because the rare earths are rarely found in concentrated deposits and are extremely hard to separate, they are little known or used.

In the breeding season of wild ducks, mallard drakes dog-fight in the air for a female's favor. Among the dignified canvas-backs, however, the competing males stage a chest-to-chest pushing contest on the water, each swimming as hard as he can move his webbed feet. When one begins to slip backward, his contest is lost, and he must turn and dive before his opponent seizes him by the back of the neck.

Diamonds have been found in the glacial drift of the Great Lakes region, particularly in Wisconsin. They were apparently brought south by the glaciers, says the National Geographic Society. Thus, the region of the known glacier paths between the Great Lakes and Hudson Bay is indicated as a potentially rich diamond field.

So forceful is the great Orinoco River in Venezuela that where it flows through the so-called Angostura constriction at Ciudad Bolivar, the channel has been scoured out over the centuries to a depth of 262 feet below sea level. Rushing between banks only 800 yards apart, the river has a mean depth of 335 feet, with fluctuations of as much as 52 feet.

The "smoke" that rises from an erupting volcano is not smoke, but steam, the National Geographic Society says. Black color of the vapor comes from vast amounts of volcanic ash carried by the steam. This ash sometimes falls with the condensed steam to make "mud rain." On other occasions the ash will float in the stratosphere for years and for great distances.

Bats are mammals, not birds. They have fur and well-developed teeth, says the National Geographic Society. Their young are born alive and nursed at the breast. Their wings are supported by the finger bones of the hand, greatly elongated, the wing membrane itself being skin stretched between these finger bones, forming an exaggerated webbed foot.

Some animals can survive temporary temperatures as low as 100 degrees below zero.

Lightning may strike many times in the same place, says the National Geographic Society. It has harmlessly hit the Empire State Building in New York City as many as 12 times in 20 minutes.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tibaudo of Revere are the parents of a daughter born July 23. Mrs. Calagira Tibaudo of 52 Swanton street is the paternal grandmother. Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Panerase of Chelsea are the maternal grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rallo, (Anne Errico) of Winchester announce the birth of their second daughter Susan Anne, at the Winchester Hospital on July 20th. Grandparent honors are shared by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Errico and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rallo also of this town.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

Five of the staunchest members of the snipe fleet are transporting their boats to Marblehead this weekend for the annual Race Week. They all have an excellent chance to come in with flying colors in the snipe class. All you Boat Club rooters are urged to come on down to Marblehead to cheer in Rodney Long, Cliff Austin, Bob Huggins, Pete Redding, and Bart Sullivan, who are sure to be winners.

This year's fleet is breaking all records! There are now 22 snipes skimming the lakes — and a trim little armada it is! A new idea called the Novice Races has been hatched. This is for the benefit of those landlubbers who feel they are just beginners and don't want to race up in the big leagues yet. These beginners will start five minutes after the regulars in the Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning races. It's darn good experience, so why not join in?

Rodney Long made the club proud of him when he placed fifth in point score at the Long Island Snipe Championship Regatta last weekend. There were 32 snipes from all over New York and New England represented. The minor hurricane Sunday prevented the regular Club race, but former Commodore Walter Redding made the news of the weekend when he came in first Saturday. Daw Blamire and Carl Freyer drifted in for second and third position, stunned by their forerunner's victory.

Steward Bill Broder and his wife are to be highly commended for the excellent buffet suppers they have been putting on these Sunday nights. Fifty-five members and their guests were delighted with a menu of cold turkey, ham, delmonico potatoes, Caesar salad, and potato salad last week. There will be no buffet during Race Week, but put it in your date book to be on deck the following Sunday.

Mrs. Martin Swanson was chairman of the Ladies Bridge last Wednesday.

Dorothy Winship, a sophomore at Connecticut College for Women, is the Club's new lifeguard.

If you have any Boat Club news, please call Nancy Fritch, ARlington 5-8226-J.

WINCHESTER OFFICER OBSERVES NAVY FLYING IN KOREA

A recent dispatch from Korea, in noting the work of our airmen engaged there, contains reference to a Winchester boy who is engaged in active duty. Lt. Col. Hall B. Gamage of this town was one of a group of three Air Force officers flown by torpedo plane to the flattop Philippine Sea, one of the big carriers in the combat area. These officers were given a few days observation of the Navy's method of operations and to co-ordinate communications.

Lt. Col. Hall B. Gamage of the 136th Fighter-Bomber Wing, called the operations "the most interesting and impressive sight I have ever seen. I am amazed at the speed in which the planes are launched and landed. The flight deck crew seems just a mass of men running around. But they really get the job done quickly."

This was the first time any of the men had ever been aboard a carrier. They were flown about the area to observe Task Force 77 in action and made several carrier landings.

Cadet Richard G. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Smith, 21 Jefferson road was appointed cadet company commander of company A at the ROTC Summer Camp at Fort Knox, Kentucky. Perhaps a personal loan could help you "go places" in your job. Get that needed cash from us . . . without red tape.

Now Sally isn't afraid to smile

Jim was tearing mad the night I brought Sally home with braces on her teeth. "Betty," he roared, "how in the world are we ever going to pay for all that?"

"But, Jim," I pleaded, "Sally's teeth have to be fixed. The other kids are teasing her!"

"I want her teeth straightened," he stormed, "but three hundred bucks doesn't grow on trees."

"Almost," I said, "I went down to the bank today. I asked them for a personal loan. It was just as simple as that."

"Paying it off," Jim fumed, "won't be so simple."

"It is when you get bank rates," I flashed back, "Look at the payments the bank arranged."

Jim looked. He smiled. "Say, these aren't half-bad. You're pretty clever, Betty."

The days of the crooked teeth and braces are over. We paid off the loan last week. Now, Sally isn't afraid to smile.

All names are fictitious, but the situation happens every day.

FINNS, OLYMPIC HOSTS, LIKE FIERY STEAM BATHS

Finland, host this summer to the fourteenth modern Olympic Games, is a small country of lakes, forests and snows whose gallant people adhere as firmly as any on earth to the ancient Greek belief in equal development of mind and body.

Finland has produced impartially the composer Jean Sibelius, the distance runner Paavo Nurmi, the architect Alvar Aalto and the javelin thrower Yrko Nikkanen. To their famed institution of the sauna, or steam bath, notes the National Geographic Society, the Finns themselves attribute much of their ability to produce such talented and hardy citizens.

In the sauna, the bather parboils himself in scalding steam, is soundly switched all over with birch branches, and finally cools out with either sudden immersion in icy water or a dive into a snowdrift outside the bath house.

BATHS ARE RITUALS

Many of those who have taken these ritualistic baths claim that the resultant feeling of physical, mental and spiritual well-being is beyond comparison with other human experiences. Others feel it may at least in part help explain how the Finns, who are in part a Mongolian people, remain sufficiently rugged to survive and prosper in a bleak country poor in natural resources and ravaged time after time by war.

The Arctic Circle crosses Finland—Suomi, in the Finnish language. Slightlly larger than New Mexico, the land lies in Northern Europe between Sweden and Russia. Lacking fertile soil and minerals, Finland counts only timber, water power and the character of her citizens as her major resources.

Historically, Finland as a nation never enjoyed independence until 1918, when she broke away from Soviet Russia. The Communist regime inherited her from the Czars, who had controlled Finland since 1809. Before the 12th Century, Finns governed themselves in independent tribes.

Then Sweden conquered the land, which thereafter became a battlefield in struggles between the Swedes and the Russians. In World War II, despite heroic resistance, Finland was twice overrun by the Soviets. Between defeats, she was ravaged by the Nazis, with whom she had perforce allied herself.

THEY PAY THEIR DEBTS

Despite the alliance, Finns are still regarded by Americans as valiant people who refused to declare war upon the United States and who proudly and promptly pay their national debts.

This will be the first year that Finland has been Olympics host, although the "flying Finns" began making their amazing distance running records in the Games held just after World War I. She was to have had the 1940 contests, but they were cancelled because of the war.

The first Olympic Games of which there is written record were held in Greece in 776 B.C. Banned by the Roman Emperor Theodosius in A.D. 394, they were not resumed until 1896, when the late French Baron Pierre de Coubertin, inspired by the excavation of the original stadium at Olympia, persuaded the Greeks to hold the first modern Olympiad at Athens.

BAMBOO, HEROIC-SIZED GRASS, FINDS NEW USE IN INDUSTRY

Modern industry is beginning to experiment with the commercial possibilities of bamboo.

Several pulp and paper companies in the United States have started plantations. A new method of fastening sections of bamboo together may lead to more and better bamboo furniture, trellises, toys, sporting equipment, and innumerable other practical items.

America has 70 species and is second only to southern Asia as a home of bamboo, says the National Geographic Society. The giant grass grows mostly in California and along the Atlantic Coast as far north as New England.

Sixteen Inches a Day

In the tropics bamboo growth has been measured at 16 inches in 24 hours. In the temperate zones the hardy species thrive almost as well. Taken with its beauty, people have planted a bamboo hedge or clump and have soon had to use jungle tactics to keep it in bounds.

Bamboo grows quickly, densely, and gracefully. The tough but pliable stems resist even hurricanes. The roots are like underground stems. Unless cut back continually, they spread in all directions, sending up new growth. Every spring long lines of bamboo shoots march in Indian file across lawns and flower beds.

The young shoots are delicious and nutritive as a vegetable. The stems attain their full height before the branches and leaves appear, completing the gracefully geometric pattern characteristic of the "tree."

Brought to Europe from China

Silkworm eggs were carried from China to Constantinople in a section of bamboo stem during the reign of Justinian the Great in the 6th century. The Western World, dazzled by the prospect of shining silks ignored the useful container.

In Asia, bamboo's usefulness rivals that of the palm and the white pine tree. A list of bamboo products can read like a mail order catalogue.

It is possible, for instance, to sit down to a meal at which bamboo shoots are the main dish and in which bamboo, alone, has been used to make the dishes, the tableware, the table and chairs, the cooking utensils and fuel in the stove, the walls, ceilings and floor of the room — in fact the whole house and all the furniture in it.

Many Asian farms are cutivated with bamboo tools and irrigated by pipes made of hollow bamboo poles fastened together. Water is brought to the house in bamboo buckets. Dinner music may be provided on soft-toned bamboo flutes, and for those who want it, bamboo pipes would be ready for the after-dinner smoke.

UNPREDICTABLE BARRACUDA SOMETIMES ATTACK PEOPLE

The biting habits of fish are unpredictable, and perhaps the most uncomfortably unpredictable of all is the great barracuda (Sphyraena barracuda), because it bites not only fishermen's bait, but sometimes human beings.

There are few fish in the sea, says the National Geographic Society, that can equal the barracuda's bloodthirsty reputation.

This reputation often sends swimmers scurrying for shore when unknown fish are sighted, either alone or in schools. Many alarms are groundless, as large barracuda do not school and fish found near beaches in groups are usually harmless.

THEY DO ATTACK

However, great Barracuda do attack swimmers, and the attack is easily identified. Long, knifelike teeth along both sides of each jaw make a clean straight cut that can cause a serious leg wound or even sever an arm at the wrist.

Many attacks attributed to sharks are the work of barracuda, but a shark bite can be identified by its curving edges, matching a shark mouth. And a shark will return for further attacks, often mutilating its prey. A barracuda usually strikes only once.

Divers in the West Indies, where both shark and barracuda abound, maintain that sharks as a rule are cowards and can be frightened away from swimmers. Barracuda are fearless, have poor eyesight, are very curious, and do not scare easily. When they attack it is with lightning speed, and the fish are seldom seen. On the other hand, barracuda have been known to approach a person in the water, survey him, and swim away with satisfied curiosity.

LIKE PIKE

The great barracuda is only one of 21 known species of this fish, ranging the western Atlantic from Florida and the West Indies to Brazil. Smaller cousins are found in the tropics the world over, and the Pacific coast species is a valuable food fish. Young great barracuda are considered good eating in some regions, but the flesh of larger ones is widely believed to be unpalatable or poisonous.

In appearance the barracuda is superficially like the fresh water pike—a long fish with a vicious-looking mouth, undershot, tooth-filled jaw. The great barracuda reaches a length of six feet and weight of 100 pounds. Usual food is other fish, and occasionally squid.

GEOGRAPHIC ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

Properly caught, processed and prepared, whale meat is nearly indistinguishable from beefsteak. The annual Antarctic whale catch represents more than half a million tons of such meat, more than all the beef exported in an average prewar year by Argentina, the world's leading beef exporter.

One of the pleasantest youth hostels in the world is at Stockholm, Sweden, says the National Geographic Society. The full-rigged ship Af Chapman, last such vessel in the Swedish merchant fleet, has been converted into a luxurious 130-bed hostel and moored in Stockholm harbor.

KIWANIS CLUB

The Winchester Kiwanis Club under the leadership of President Chet Thibeault will join 180 Kiwanis Clubs of the New England District in a journey to the Cathedral of the Pines in Rindge, N. H., on Saturday afternoon, August 2, when the District with its 10,000 members will conduct its annual memorial services.

Since 1947, when the idea of the Cathedral first came into being, it had attained national fame as a place of worship for all religious denominations and creeds. Thousands of people journey to the Cathedral on week-ends to participate in prayer and meditation in its beautiful atmosphere and surroundings. Last year Kiwanis donated to the Cathedral a set of Carillonic bells as its contribution.

The Kiwanis program on August 2, in which the local club will participate, includes an address by Dr. Julius Seelye Bixler, President of Colby College, and the laying of a wreath by a representative of each one of the New England States. Richard J. Dillon, New England Governor of Kiwanis, will represent the New England District.

The Norton Male Quartet of Worcester and Mrs. Russell Fuller, organist, will give the musical program. Prayers will be offered by Reverend Armand Morisette, Rabbi Leo Shubow, and the Reverend Wallace E. Hayes.

In memoriam services will be given by Lieutenant Governor Duane E. Webster. Presiding will be William Cantor of Boston, former Lieutenant Governor of the Fifth Division and original sponsor of this program.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Holmes are leaving this week for their summer home at Meredith, N. H.

KALICO KAT CHAT

by
Evelyn Gustafsson, Director
Kalico Kat Research Institute

THE CAT'S TIME SENSE

People often wonder how cats tell time. It's true, there are some infallible signs. Daylight comes and goes. The birds waken at five, and hearing them, the cat's sensitive ears twitch. The seasons follow one another; the cat shivers in the winter, or takes his ease in the summer heat. So do we.

We don't need calendars to recognize these time signals, nor does the cat. But we do need watches. When keeping an appointment, we glance nervously at our wrists, and turn on the radio to check our watches, mistrusting the very machinery on which we depend.

My first cat, Oscar, didn't need any such crutch as a time-piece. In his small, uninformed but knowing head, the hours somehow marched their daily rounds, and he was never at a loss for the time of day. He knew when the maid was due, when the postman would drop his bundle of daily mail through the front door slot. He would stir, complain, or flee in disgust if such things took place at an unusual hour. He sat on the stairway landing each afternoon at 4:25, watching the front door, ready to greet our landlady, who came home every day at 4:30. At night, he stationed himself by the radio, waiting for the eleven o'clock news and looking over his shoulder to remind me to turn it on.

Mine is scarcely a routine household. Almost nothing goes on in it to inform my cat that a maid is coming, or a radio program is about to be aired. Certainly they never caught their sense of time from me! How, then, do they always know what time it is?

The State of Maryland calls itself "America in Miniature" because of the geographic variety to be found within its borders, notes the National Geographic Society. From the mountains of Western Maryland with their mines and forests, the Free State sweeps to flat Chesapeake and Atlantic tidewater through rolling countryside suitable for dairying, orchardry, and many types of farming.

CASTAGNOLA ABOARD TRAINING SHIP

Among the 425 Officers and Cadet Midshipmen aboard the Training Ship Empire State on their annual summer cruise is Cadet Midshipman Alfred J. Castagnola of 38 Ledyard road. Cadet Castagnola is a Rated First Classman at the State University Maritime College located at Fort Schuyler in the Bronx, New York.

The three month cruise, which annually covers over 10,000 miles, is designed to afford the nautical trainee an opportunity to make practical use of his classroom knowledge. Studying for a Baccalaureate degree in Marine Transportation, this training will also qualify him for his license as Third Officer in the Merchant Marine and Commission as Ensign in the Naval Reserve.

On this, Cadet Castagnola's third cruise, the Empire State has visited Bermuda, Palma, and Venice and will stop at Pireaus, Nice, and Valencia before returning to Fort Schuyler on August 27th.

Mrs. Franklin Flanders, Mrs. Paul Collins and Mrs. A. Allen Kimball are playing this week in the annual invitation ladies 4-ball tournament at the Essex Country Club at Manchester, Mass.

ANNUAL EXHIBITION AT NEW LONDON, N. H.

From Monday, August 4, through Saturday, August 23, the paintings of Dorothy Dey Howard will be on exhibition in the Gallery at the Tracy Memorial Library, New London, New Hampshire.

The Gallery is open daily except Sunday, from 2 to 5 p. m. Mrs. Howard will be there each Monday afternoon, and occasionally on other days. All who are interested are most cordially invited to view the exhibition.

ANOTHER GIANT goes to work for our customers

ANOTHER giant electrical generating unit, with a nameplate rating of 81,250 kilowatts, and capable of producing 600,000,000 kilowatthours annually, is now in commercial operation at Boston Edison's Edgar Station, on the Fore River at North Weymouth.
Our family name for this marvel of modern engineering is Edgar No. 5. In size and overall design it is a duplicate of Edgar No. 4, installed at the same station in 1949, but the builders have taken full advantage of all improvements in the art in the intervening three years. Construction is under way for the installation of Edgar No. 6, similar in size and design to No. 4 and No. 5, and scheduled to go into service in 1954.
Boston Edison Company will continue to plan and build to meet the growing needs of our customers. This is in keeping with the American tradition of free enterprise, to which the new giant, Edgar No. 5, is another monument.

PLAYGROUND NOTES

A total of 103 youngsters and eight instructors made the annual Beach Day at Crane's Beach in Ipswich last Thursday a huge success. This was the largest number of children ever to register for this annual affair, with three buses needed to transport the group. The youngsters enjoyed the beautiful sand dunes, the refreshing salt water, and the rolling waves so much that they have requested another such beach party during the month of August. The major share of the credit for the successful party was due to the untiring efforts of Cynthia Wilson and Patsy Mawn who organized and supervised the annual outing.

Leonard Field has moved into first place in all three Divisions of the Playground Baseball League. Sandy Burbank's charges were in first place in the Senior and Intermediate Divisions but the Juniors have now won five straight games to take a half-game lead over the Loring Avenue Juniors. Homeruns in these Junior games have been made by Dick Smith, Jim Dwinell, Vandy French, and two in one game by Don Flynn. "Jigger" Bond turned in the best pitching performance by hurling a one-hitter over the West Side.

The West Side Intermediates handed the Leonard Field Intermediates their second loss in eleven games when Renny Johnston and John Chapin combined to pitch a 7-3 victory over the Leonard Fielders. As a result the West Side Intermediates are only one game behind the Leonard Fielders and can catch them with a victory in their contest this afternoon. Only the Leonard Field Seniors have practically clinched their Division championship with two victories over the West Side in the past week. The addition of Rennie Goodrow has strengthened the Leonard Field pitching staff as he twirled an 11-0 shutout over the West Siders.

The Leonard Field softball team rolls along with six victories as against one defeat. No less than three of their performers banged out grand slam homeruns, the sluggers being Warren Bryan, Jimmy Lindsay, and Mike Bellino. Loring Avenue, Leonard Field, and the West Side Field have all won three kickball games apiece, with Loring and Leonard tied for first place in this competition.

WINCHESTER ALL STARS ELIMINATED

The Winchester Little League All-Stars dropped an 8 - 3 decision to the Arlington National League All-Stars at Waltham on Wednesday night in the second round of the Little League Tournament. Jim Maguire, on the mound for Arlington, handcuffed the locals with only two hits until the final inning when he was reached for two hits and three runs. Don Flynn started on the mound for Winchester but was shelled out in the third with Joel Peckham turning in a nice relief job over the final three innings.

Keane opened Winchester's rally in the sixth with a hot smash to the third baseman that was scored as an error. Adams doubled to right center, Keane stopping at third. MacDonald grounded out to second base, Keane scoring and Adams moving to third. Peckham drew a base on balls. Thomson grounded to short, forcing Peckham at second with Adams scoring on the play, Carlson drew a base on balls. Thomson and Carlson advanced on a double steal. Flaherty singled to right scoring Thomson but Carlson was caught in a run-down between the plate and third base to end the game.

BRAVES DEFEAT SOX

Paul Sullivan highlighted the Braves 5 - 1 victory over the Red Sox with a grand slam homerun in the second inning to provide the margin of victory for the Braves. Jim Dwinell twirled steady ball for the winners giving up only three hits, one of which was a homerun by Roy Port for the Sox only tally. Both teams played errorless ball, with Dwinell handling all six of the assists made by the Braves.

LITTLE LEAGUE PLAYOFFS

The playoffs for the championship of the Winchester Little League will get underway next Thursday evening at Manchester Field. The championship will be a best three-out of five series between the winner of the first half and the winner of the second half of the regular Little League schedule.

The Braves won the first half title when they finished the first half schedule in a tie with the Yanks and defeated them 2-0 in a special play-off game. The second half winner is still undecided and will probably go right down to the final game on Tuesday before a decision is reached. It is quite possible that the second half may also end in a tie, which would then be played off in a single game on Thursday evening. In that case the championship series would start the following Monday evening with three games to be played each week on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings until the winner is declared.

Interest in the playoff is expected to reach fever pitch as a series between the Braves and either the Dodgers or the Yanks, probable second half winners, would be a sizzler. All of the teams have improved tremendously since the start of the season and are so evenly matched that it is impossible to name a favorite for the title. The Braves are a much better team than their second half record shows, for they have been coasting after winning the first half and wisely giving the younger players an opportunity to play. Meanwhile the Dodgers and the Yanks have been bearing down throughout the second half and may enter the championship in keener mental and physical condition than the relaxed Braves.

The depth of the pitching staff of the two contenders may very well be the determining factor in the playoff series. Little League pitching rules provide that a pitcher, having pitched four or more innings in a game, shall be ineligible for further pitching duty until he has had three calendar days of rest. The rules further provide that a pitcher shall not pitch on two consecutive days under any conditions and shall not pitch more than nine full innings in any one calendar week. This, with playoff games scheduled for Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, the contending teams must use three different pitchers in these contests.

It shapes up as a very interesting series and one that will undoubtedly attract large crowds to cheer for their particular favorites.

CAMP FELLSLAND INSPECTED BY NATIONAL OFFICER

During the past week, Mr. Robert X. Perry, Deputy Regional Executive, a member of the National Staff, visited and inspected Camp Fellsland, local Boy Scout Camp located at Amesbury, Mass. Mr. Perry spent all of Wednesday and half of Thursday of the past week in going over minutely all parts of Camp Fellsland. In addition, a regular national form was filled out checking the camp against national standards. On Wednesday evening a number of members of the Camp Committee and members of the Executive Board were present to eat supper with the Scouts and then sit with Mr. Perry to go over in detail the report of his inspection. The substance of his report was briefly that the camp had unusually fine facilities and the only specific recommendation that he made was that the camp have additional acerage at some future date. Mr. Perry commended the Camp Committee particularly for the cleanliness of camp, the absence of any flies and the very fine facilities provided by the new mess hall and also the new winterized cabin that is almost completed. He stated that if he had a son of his own who was of Scout age and was eligible, he would certainly send him to Camp Fellsland. The Camp Committee and Executive Board were very pleased with the report and would complete the report at the next meeting of the Executive Board.

Camp Fellsland had a taste of the rain storm this past Sunday but was not a participant of the great blow that was inevident in the Council area. The rain that lasted about three quarters of an hour was certainly a welcomed sight and penetrated about one inch into the entire camp area.

The camp has been particularly fortunate this year in the fact that there has been a tremendous amount of advancement in Scout work and many of its campers have won the top honor award which is known as the C. F. Award. This is a small gold pin with a bar attached by a chain that the young men can earn if they show proficiency in many of the camping activities including boating, canoeing, archery, cooking, athletics, fishing, and winning what is known as the Camp Teepee Award. It is not an easy award to make and is generally not won until a camper has been at camp two or three years, although there are exceptions where some exceptional camper can earn it during his first season.

The camp has 90 campers and 25 staff this week and this coming Sunday, August 3, will be the beginning of the last week at camp. Therefore if there are any boys who have been planning and have not signed up for camp, this is their last opportunity to be a camper at Camp Fellsland next Sunday, August 3.

The athletic teams at Camp Fellsland have continued their reign of victory by beating teams from Camp Powow, from Boys' Haven, and the Amesbury Playground. The campers are getting quite cocky and it is hoped by the Staff that some team will come along pretty soon and beat them, otherwise their hats will become too small for them.

Jim Daley of Medford and Peter Rouillard of Stoneham, who are working on the Rifle Range, have had some very fine shooters during the year with quite a number of them getting almost perfect possibles. That is to say they are getting up in the upper 40's out of a possible 50 score. This means that many of the young campers have been able to earn their Pro-Marksman or one of the higher medals. These medals are issued through the National Rifle Association of which Camp Fellsland is a member. The boys covered the medals so that they might add to their award year after year as they climb up year after year at Camp Fellsland.

The local boys at Camp Fellsland this week are:

Jeffrey Bar
John Chapin
Carl Masi
Richard Gaffney
David Hopkins
Paul Franson
William Bond
Joseph Donovan
William Oliver
Stephen Enright
George Yore
John Yore

HERE'S THE MONEY FOR THE LOUD TALK, "CHARLIE."

ROTARY GAVE PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEM

Alfred D. Elliott, Past President of the Winchester Rotary Club, is shown presenting a check to Little League Treasurer Charles A. Koch to cover the purchase of the loud speakers and amplifying system for use at Little League games. When Little League Board of Directors made known that they felt it would be desirable to have a public address system for use at the Little League field as a convenience in keeping the spectators informed as to the plays, decisions, players' names and general announcements as well as keeping control of the players in the field, the Winchester Rotary Club voted to furnish the necessary funds.

Winchester Rotary has been particularly active in organizing and supporting Little League as a part of its youth program under Chairman Edward Cullen. They have also provided funds to sponsor the Yanks Little League Team.

JOSEPH J. DERRO, JR. TO ATTEND FRATERNITY CONVENTION

Mr. Joseph J. Derro, Jr., of 433 Washington street will attend the 23rd Biennial Convention of the Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity, which will be held at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York August 31 to September 3. He will be an official visitor from the North Carolina State Chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha.

Over 1,000 undergraduate and alumni delegates and visitors are expected to attend the convention. They will represent the 140 chapters of the Fraternity located at colleges and universities in 46 states and 4 provinces of Canada and the 96 alumni associations throughout the United States and Canada.

Lambda Chi Alpha, the largest international college social fraternity in the world, was founded at Boston University in 1909. The convention in New York will highlight the establishment of the John E. Mason Memorial Foundation. Severally nationally prominent members will take part in the convention, notable among which will be Jean Hersholt, who will deliver the address at the official banquet on September 2. Mr. Hersholt is widely known for his radio and screen roles as Dr. Christian.

TAG DAYS FOR BUGLE CORPS

The Immaculate Conception Drum and Bugle Corps will hold tag days in Winchester and Woburn today and tomorrow for the purpose of raising necessary funds for the maintenance of instruments and equipment and the purchase of new equipment and instruments for the organization.

Winchester should generously support these tag days. The Immaculate Conception Drum and Bugle Corps has often contributed its time and talents to local projects, while its championship performances in many contests, far and near, have reflected much credit to the community.

The corps is a youth activity and is not restricted to members of the Immaculate Conception Parish. Under the leadership of the Rev. Herbert K. A. Driscoll, who personally accompanies the corps on all its trips, its purpose is to build character, instill discipline and prevent delinquency in the youth of Woburn and Winchester. Contributions to its tag days will be distinct investment in youth.

Mr. Wyatt St. Barb Eustis of San Francisco, Cal., is in Winchester visiting his brother, Mr. Ernest R. Eustis of Church street, vice president of the Winchester Co-operative Bank. Recently returned from a business trip in Europe the visitor from the West Coast is on his way home.

TWO HOUSES STRUCK DURING STORM

Two Winchester houses were struck by lightning during the intense electrical storm of Tuesday afternoon, resulting in considerable damage to both residences but fortunately no personal injuries.

Box 281 was sounded from the Central Station at 4:24 after the Fire Department had been notified that lightning had struck the house of Mr. Harold McCarthy of 18 Canterbury road.

The bolt struck the roof near the ridgepole and ripped up an eight-foot area, tearing off shingles, splitting the ridgepole and some of the roof boards. There was no fire, but there must have been considerable water damage from the pouring rain that entered the upper part of the house before the firemen were able to spread a big tarpaulin over the hole in the roof, nice work during the drenching downpour.

About 5 o'clock the Central Station received its second call, this time lightning having struck the house of Mr. Harry Creamer at 10 Chesterford road east. The bolt struck the roof near the ridgepole, slithered down the rear of the house near a dormer window and tore its way through the lower rear wall of the living room, ripping off board and plaster and causing considerable damage. As in the case at the McCarthy home, there was no fire, but in this instance Mrs. Creamer and her child were in the house when the lightning struck. Both immediately took refuge at the home of a neighbor while firemen again stretched a heavy tarpaulin over the open place in the roof and patched up the ripped wall of the house against the weather.

There were several terrific crashes about town during the storm. From the nature of one of them it was believed that it must have struck in a good-sized body of water, possibly Wedge Pond. There were no reports of further serious damage about town as the result of the storm, but there were washouts and bad depressions at Priscilla Lane in the southerly part of the town and at Lockeland road in the new development of the West Side hill district.

TRACKS TO GO ON WEST SIDE

The temporary tracks over which Boston & Maine trains will be run through town while the work of raising the permanent tracks to eliminate the grade crossing is being completed, will be located on the west side of the present roadbed and will extend through the Common instead of Thompson street. Commissioner Callahan of the Department of Public Works made this statement to the Selectmen and other town officials at a conference held in the State House on July 23. In making the announcement Commissioner Callahan said that the decision to locate the temporary tracks on the west side as far as the Center, was reached after a conference he had with President Sugrue of the Boston & Maine.

Beyond the Center the tracks may cross over to the easterly side of the present roadbed, but as yet this decision has not been made. It is hoped, however, that a definite decision will be reached within a few weeks, after which the Selectmen can prepare definite figures to cover land damages to be presented to the town.

Though he made no definite statement as to the reasons, Commissioner Callahan stated that money for the elimination of Winchester's Grade Crossing will now be taken from the latest $200,000,000 State Bond Issue, which will make these funds available January 1, 1953. It is expected by that time that all engineering data will be available so that bids can be awarded. It would not be legal to award them prior to the new year.

Commissioner Callahan stressed at the hearing that Winchester's Grade Crossing is going to be eliminated.

Present at the conference with Commissioner Callahan were Associate Commissioner Grout, Frederick S. Hatch, Chairman of the Winchester Planning Board, Town Engineer James Wakefield, and Selectmen Harrison Lyman, Harry Chefalo and Don Greer.

SELECTMEN'S NOTES

Thomas J. McKee, 59 Wendell street, was drawn for the Jury Pool at Cambridge, to report at 9 a. m. on September 8.

There will be no Selectmen's Meeting on Monday, August the 11th.

MRS. MARGARET HERRON WARD

Mrs. Margaret Herron Ward of 13 Nelson street, widow of Frank H. Ward and mother of Paul E. Ward of 6 Park avenue, died late Saturday night, August 2, at the Ring Nursing Home in Medford, after a two-weeks' illness that followed a long period of failing health. She had twice been a resident of Winchester, living here for a time in the twenties before moving to Woburn, where she made her home for 25 years, returning to town two years ago.

Mrs .Ward was the daughter of James and Ellen (Herron) Black. She was born April 3, 1872, in Deerfield, and spent her early life in Deerfield and Greenfield, being married in Greenfield. For ten years after her marriage she lived in Spencer, later living in Windsor, Vermont, before coming to Winchester. She was a member of the First Baptist Church of this town.

Mrs. Ward's husband died about a year ago. Besides her son in Winchester, she leaves four granddaughters, Priscilla, Phyllis, Paula and Prudence Ward; four sisters, Mrs. Charles Laughton of Hartford, Conn., Mrs. Ruth Streeter, Mrs. Eliza Booher and Mrs. Ellen Steiner, all of Greenfield; two brothers, James Black of Greenfield and John Black of Lebanon, N.H.; and two half brothers, Paul and Richard Black, both of Athol.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Second Congregational Church in Greenfield with a cousin, Dr. Merrill Ward of the Universalist Church in Abington, officiating. Burial was in the Leydon Cemetery in Leydon.

MISS JANE ALLEN

Miss Jane Allen, who made her home with her niece, Mrs. Ann Kronquist, at 9 Nelson street, died suddenly Sunday night, August 3, in Searsport, Maine, while on her way back to Winchester from a visit with her sister at Cape Breton, N. S. Miss Allen had a heart ailment, which was known to be serious, but she wanted to see her sister again after 22 years and was able to do so before her death, which was attributed to an embolism with which she was suddenly stricken while in Searsport. Mrs. Kronquist had accompanied her to Cape Breton and was with her when she died.

Miss Allen was born October 4, 1882, at Pete De Grat, Cape Breton, N. S. As a young girl she went to New York and entered the service of a New York family, remaining with this same family as housekeeper until its last member died two and one-half years ago. At that time Miss Allen came to make her home with her niece in Winchester.

Besides Mrs. Kronquist, she leaves a sister, Mrs. Joseph Bonin of Arichat, Pete De Grat, Cape Breton; and two brothers, Jeffrey Allen of Rockport and Leo Allen of Gloucester.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning from the M. G. Moffett Funeral Home with requiem high mass celebrated at St. Mary's Church by Rev. Fr. Joseph McCall. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

MRS. ROSE McGOWAN

Mrs. Rose McGowan of 43 Canal street, widow of Thomas McGowan, died Wednesday, August 6, in the Winchester Hospital, after a brief illness.

Mrs. McGowan was the daughter of Anthony, and Mary (Keaney) Cullen. She was born September 29, 1861, in Ardmoney, County Leitrim, Ireland, but came as a girl to this Country and was living in Winchester at the time of marriage in 1894. All of her married life was spent in Winchester and she was widely known among older residents of the town. Her husband, a former foreman of the Highway Department, died December 1, 1932.

Mrs. McGowan was a member of Our Lady's Sodality of the Immaculate Conception Church.

She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Hugh J. O'Doherty of Winchester, two sisters, Mary and Isabel Cullen of Winchester; a brother, Terrance Cullen, living in Ireland, 14 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. A son, Thomas P. McGowan, former superintendent of the Park Department, died June 10, 1947.

The funeral will be held from the late residence Saturday morning, with solemn high mass celebrated at the Immaculate Conception Church at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

HEAVY STORM TUESDAY

After a bit of a break from the terrific heat over the past week-end, though the relief was by comparison rather than actuality, Winchester got back into the heat groove again Monday.

It cooled off during the evening, with some really refreshing air, but Tuesday dawned in a haze of humidity that increased through the morning until it got well nigh unbearable.

Some intermittent rain fell during the forenoon, but between one and two in the afternoon the thunder-storm that had been building up really got down to business, and from then through the remainder of the afternoon the rain fell in greater or less degree, at times reaching torrential proportions.

The electrical part of the storm was intense, with vivid lightning and heavy thunder. "Amos", the Norris's elderly dog early sought the substantial shelter of the Star office, and until we closed for the night, was never far away from some member of the force. "Amos" doesn't like thunder storms. He has visited us during them on occasion before, never at any other time so far as we can recall.

We couldn't find it in our heart to blame the dog, for those who were out in the storm did not look as if they were having much of any fun. The rain fell so heavily that you couldn't escape getting wet no matter what precautionery measures you took.

As usual some of the very heaviest rain fell for the late afternoon commuters, and the Star office force, from their vantage point at the big show window in front saw some interesting sights as the trains disgorged their wholly unprepared passengers.

Some sprinted for cover. There was a little fat man who got right down close to the ground and really gave it everything he had, shooting past the train and under the gates like a moist bombshell with his straw hat at arm's length in his hand.

There was some other notable footwork. A gal clad in one of those loose skirts, bunched at the waist, dirndles they call them, don't they, had a high knee-action that would have delighted the heart of any track coach. Whether she could have distanced the little fat feller, we can't say, as she was evidently on a car further back and started behind him. She was carrying her hat, one of those biggish crownless jobs, in her hand, and was making excellent going, the nature of her skirt giving her a big advantage over her sisters in those "pencil slim" numbers. Their lower limbs moved fast enough to make you realize the spirit was willing, but the cut of their jib just wouldn't let them make any speed.

Then there were the philosophic souls who just figured they'd get soaked anyhow and "what th' h---!" They slodged along, squishily, with the rain running down under the sweat-bands of their hats and off the tails of their coats. Some, not many women, adopted this attitude, but with it all we couldn't help feeling that it would not have been prudent to approach any of those half-drowned philosophers with a request for even a small loan. They were mad, all right, make no mistake about it!

We spotted one chap at a vantage point at the Winchester Drug Company, and wondered at first if he was practicing his crawl stroke with the idea of swimming across completely flooded Church street. Then we saw he was getting in a bit of semaphoring to a gal in a car, evidently "the little woman", who, summoned no doubt by phone, had braved the elements in the family car to pick up stranded hubby at the train.

Both she and hubby did some wholly incomprehensible arm-flaping, which they seemed to understand perfectly, for the "little woman" steered a circling course after traffic had proceeded and as she approached the crossing, hubby streaked it out of his fox-hole to get aboard the slowly moving car on the larboard side.

The maneuver was well conceived and flawlessly executed. The only fly in the ointment, or monkey-wrench in the machinery, was the fact that the door on the larboard side of the family-chariot was locked. You will realize that only a second of standing, or even dancing up and down in the particular downpour of that moment was enough! Thus do the best planned enterprises often fall by failure to attend to the last small detail. The man and woman left the center, westward bound, on speaking terms, it is true, but the conversation seemed far from amicable. The gal made what the billiard players would call "a good offer". She failed, but only with victory in sight!

LITTLE LEAGUE PLAYOFFS

The playoffs for the championship of the Winchester Little League are scheduled to get under way at Manchester Field on Monday evening. The championship series is a best-of-five series between the Braves, the first half winners, and the winner of the second half. Playoff games are scheduled for Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday evenings until the winner is decided.

The final game of the regular schedule between the Red Sox and the Dodgers was rained out on both Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. It is scheduled to be played either last night or tonight, thus setting the stage for the playoff series next week. If the Dodgers win this game, they win the second half and will meet the Braves in next week's series. If the Dodgers should lose this game, they would be tied with the Yanks for the second half and a special one-game playoff would be necessary on Monday to decide the second half winner.

It would be ironical if the second half also should end in a tie, for the Yanks ended in a tie for the first half with the Braves and were defeated in a special one-game playoff. It would be a handicap to either the Dodgers or the Yanks to have to play off Monday, for they would be forced to use their best pitcher, who would then be ineligible for the Tuesday or Thursday games with the Braves. On the other hand, either the Dodgers or the Yanks might be in a better mental frame of mind for the championship playoffs than the Braves, who have been coasting through the second half.

It definitely shapes up as a very interesting series, for the teams are well matched. Large crowds are expected to turn out for the playoffs, which will be a fitting climax to a great season of baseball for the youngsters and adults alike.

TRAINING AT CORPUS CHRISTI

Edgar P. Trott, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar P. Trott of Lagrange street, recently arrived at the Navy's Advanced Training Command at Corpus Christi, Texas.

A student at Tufts College, Trott is one of 1600 NROTC Midshipmen from 52 colleges and universities who will undergo three weeks of NROTC Midshipmen training at the Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, Texas. While there the Midshipmen will receive training in all phases of Naval Aviation, including actual flying of the huge PBM "Martin Mariner", a Navy twin-engine flying boat. During their stay in Corpus Christi the NROTC Midshipmen will be guests of the Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce at a special dance featuring Hal McIntyre and his orchestra. Prior to arriving at Corpus Christi, the Midshipmen underwent three weeks of amphibious warfare training at Little Creek, Virginia. On completion of their three weeks training in August, the Midshipmen will return to their respective schools to complete their NROTC college programs.

LOCAL MAN IN TRAINING

Bruce A. Bourinot, AN, USNR, of 21 Chester street, is currently completing his two weeks of annual training duty as a member of Naval Reserve squadron VS 911 at the Naval Air Station in Squantum.

Throughout the year Bourinot participates in one week-end of Naval Air Reserve training each month with his squadron, and during the present two weeks of annual training duty, he will have the opportunity to put to practical use the training and knowledge he has gained.

Miss Lucia McKenzie of Symmes road is enjoying a vacation at Dennisport on the Cape with a group of her fellow employees of the E. B. Badger Company.

SLACK TRAINING IN JAPAN

Verne J. Slack, son of Mrs. Grace Charnley Slack of Lebanon street and former athletic star at Winchester High, is now a platoon sergeant and student at the medical school on Eta Jima, an island just off the southern coast of Japan. He expects to be assigned to Korea after completing his training at the school.

Slack was captain of the 1948 football team and a star pitcher on the high school baseball team, also pitching some fine ball for "Lew" Warsky's Millionaires after his graduation. A number of big league teams were interested in the tall fire-ball right hander.

At the moment Verne is hungry for mail from home, having received no mail since arriving in Japan a month ago.

He is pleasantly situated on Eta Jima, the school being housed in a beautiful building of marble and stucco, with a fine gymnasium, baseball field, tennis court and swimming pool. His room overlooks the bay with mountains in the background, all very picturesque, but Verne would swap it all for a glimpse of the ducks on the Mill Pond and a Saturday afternoon crowd at a football game on Manchester Field.

Until such time as he can enjoy these old home scenes once more, he'll settle for mail. Write him at the following address:

PLAYGROUND NOTES

With only two weeks remaining of the Playground Leagues, competition in three of the five leagues is still very keen. In spite of the fact that Sandy Burbank's and Patsy Mawn's Leonard Field teams lead in all five leagues, only the Leonard Seniors and the Leonard Softball teams have clinched the championships of their respective leagues. The West Side Intermediates can still catch the Leonard Intermediates, both the Loring and the West Side Juniors can catch the Leonard Juniors, and the kickball race is wide open.

The champions of the various leagues will again be rewarded with a trip to Fenway Park on August 22 to see the Red Sox play the White Sox. Other activities in the final two weeks include a Play Day at Reading yesterday, a Play Day at Stoneham August 13, Winchester Day at Fenway Park on August 14, and another Beach Party at Crane's Beach on August 21. The youngsters certainly will be busy in the final two weeks as the largest number of children registered on the Winchester Playgrounds bring to a close a happy and a busy summer program.

Last week's play featured a 7-3 victory for the West Side Intermediates over the Leonard Intermediates as John Chapin pitched good ball for the winners. Leonard Field bounced right back to defeat the same team later in the week 7-5 in a tight ball game highlighted by the excellent relief pitching of Joe Bellino. The Loring Juniors lost three games last week to drop out of first place for the first time this summer, one of the defeats being a neat 6-4 pitching verdict for Paul Sullivan of the West Side Field.

The Loring Softball team won a close 13-12 game from Ginn Field when Jim Carroll tied it with a home run in the last of the seventh and his team went on to win in an extra inning. The highest scoring game but still a thriller was the 38-37 victory of the West Side kickball team over Loring Avenue team.

MERCHANTS SHUT OUT HOBOES

In a well played game at Pierce Field, Arlington last Sunday the Locals downed the Hoboes 2 to 0.

Murphy and Kiniry again hooked up in a pitchers duel. Murphy gave up three hits while striking out seven and walking only three. Kiniry gave up five hits and struck out fourteen Merchants. Bases on balls cost him the ball game.

The locals scored one run in the second on an error, Amico's perfect sacrifice and three walks. The second run came in the sixth on a walk to Cirurso and Murphy's triple to the right field corner.

Serieka and Gicalone made the defensive plays of the game. Serieka made a beautiful one hand shoestring catch of a hump back liner to short center.

In the sixth with one out Powers singled to deep short. Murphy struck out Beecy, but wild pitched Powers to second. Tassinari crashed a single to left, Gicalone racing to the foul line side, gathered in the ball and then threw a perfect strike to Cirurso at the plate to retire the fast moving Powers for the final out of the inning.

MERCHANTS DEFEAT BOSTON WEST ENDERS

Last Friday at Leonard Field the Merchants defeated the Boston West End Club by a 7 to 6 score.

The West Enders led 6 to 1 going into the fifth inning, but with two away and Johnson on base with a walk, Joltkie passed both Serieka and Cirurso to fill the bases. Murphy singled home Johnson and Serieka. Then five successive walks literally gave the locals the ball game.

Each player must have turned in at least three 18-hole scores during the season to be eligible to enter.

SOUTH BOSTON EDGED WINCHESTER

PLAYGROUND QUINTET BEATEN IN FINAL SECONDS

The Winchester Playgrounds basketball team dropped a heartbreaking 52-51 decision to the South Boston Boys' Club at the Ginn Court last Friday evening. The locals did well to make the game as close, as South Boston had a clever, experienced quintet with a big center in Gattuso that the locals lacked the height to handle. The locals fought like demons to stay within reach of their more experienced opponents and actually came within three seconds of winning a great uphill battle.

The first quarter was the only period in which Winchester was outscored as South Boston had a 13-8 lead at the end of that canto. The second quarter was all even as Southie led 26-21 at the half. Winchester gained one point in the third quarter to trail 40-36 entering the final period. The locals fought ahead by three points with two minutes to play but two baskets by the rugged Gattuso won for Southie, the second coming with just three seconds to play on a good left handed hook shot.

In a preliminary game the Leonard Field Intermediates ran roughshod over the West Side Intermediates in beating them 39-13. Joe Bellino was top man with 18 points while Bert Kneeland scored nine of the West Side's 13 points. There will be another double header at Ginn Court tonight with the Lexington Boys' Club as the main attraction.

MERCHANTS BEAT ST. JOHN'S

The Merchants defeated the League leading St. John's Club at Leonard Park, Cambridge, Monday evening by a score of 5 to 3. Stowell Symmes held the heavy hitting Cambridge club to three hits, all of which came in the first inning.

The locals played excellent defensive ball. They showed alertness on the bases and made their four hits good for four runs.

DiIorio and Griffin combined on a perfect run and bunt play to set up one run. Serieka, Dalton and Johnson put together a double, single, stolen base and a single to score two runs in the second. The other two runs came on a walk to Murphy followed by Johnson's second hit of the night and three walks.

The Merchants have now won 16 while losing 9 games in League competition.

Many have told us how much they enjoy the "Days of Yore" column which has been a regular feature of the Star during the summer for some time now. These events of 50 and 25 years ago are taken from the Star files of those years and are apparently widely, if not too carefully read. In last week's issue we reprinted from our 50 years ago edition a small advertisement offering a six-room tenement to let at $12.50. Those interested were directed to apply at 20 Winthrop street, and the present occupants of that address had no less than three persons call at their home over the week-end about the ad. A year ago we copied a twenty-five years ago item about Vincent Ambrose, treasurer of the Winchester Trust Company, having broken his arm. Mrs. Ambrose received several solicitous calls from friends concerning her husband's condition. The friends were humorously told the arm had healed nicely in 25 years and the applicants for the tenement were told in like vein that they were just 50 years too late to get that particular rental. The supposed landlords, in laughing over the incident, told us Monday that it evidently pays to advertise in the Star, and when you can get through its medium requests for things that haven't been around for fifty years we will say they have something there!

Winchester's first Little League baseball season is rapidly nearing a close. It has been in every way a credit to those who pioneered in this movement in town, to the hard-working managers and umpires and to the boys who have so wholeheartedly done the actual playing. Everyone is looking ahead to next year, but as they do, those who have been responsible for the operation of the Little League in Winchester are wondering what the league is going to do for a field on which to play another season. This year the games have been played on Manchester Field on what is used as a practice field for freshman football. From the standpoint of location this is an excellent place for the games, being easily accessible and having sufficient parking space. It was made available to the league by the School Committee when the Park Commissioners couldn't seem to find a town playground they could spare at the beginning of the season, and the least said about the situation that developed at that time, the better! Manchester Field from the spectator standpoint has been ideal. From the standpoint of a playing surface it has been literally terrible. No one should blame any boy who hesitated to go after a harshly hit ground ball on that infield, and though the surface could be improved and otherwise made to conform to Little League regulations, it seems doubtful that the school authorities would consent to have a Little League diamond permanently located where it has been this summer. Manchester Field is the only field in town on which organized football can be played. That portion of it which has been used for the Little League diamond this summer is the freshman football area. From the standpoint of both health and safety a football field should have as good turf as possible, and you can't grow good turf on an area being used regularly through the summer for baseball. That is why fields used for both football and baseball in substantially the same location are not good for either. At an expense of some hundred thousand dollars Winchester has finally gotten a suitable field for its high school football, baseball and track contests. Unless it is absolutely necessary, the field should not be used for anything that will harm its surface more than the usual wear incurred by the use for which it is intended. If the Little League could use the regulation diamond on Manchester Field, they would be welcome to do so. So would any other responsible organized team. The Little League, however, has to have a specially sized diamond suitable for younger boys to play on, with a regulation fence and cut-out base-paths. A football field is definitely no place on which to lay out such a diamond. The Little League authorities know that, and do not expect to use Manchester Field another season. As a matter of fact they have crossed their fingers hard each time a ground ball has been harshly stroked toward a Little League infielder throughout the season that is waning to a close there. Nor do the Little League enthusiasts want any part of that filled-in area on upper Mystic Lake between Sandy Beach and the Parkway. It doesn't seem possible that any one would seriously suggest that spot, if for no other reason than for the long walk to which practically all the boys would be subjected to reach it. Contrary to popular belief, a great many if not all the Little Leaguers walk to the games, though they generally get a ride home after them. Policing this plot would be impossible, and between fishermen and swimmers at Sandy conducting Little League games would be very difficult, aside from the fact that such equipment as is left at the field would probably not remain there very long. Little League has made a good start in Winchester. It has taken hold well, both youngsters and adults have enjoyed it. The attendance, particularly in view of the invariably broiling evenings on which games have been held, has been good. The project is here to stay for awhile at least, and the time to be doing something about a field for next year is in the near future, not at the start of another season when the same sort of stalemate which took place this year might be encountered. There is talk of reconditioning Shore Road athletic field. Certainly this idea should be explored, for Shore road would be an excellent spot for a Little League diamond. Of course the really ideal spot for such a field would be on the land bought for playground purposes to the west of the tennis courts on Palmer street, now being used either for private gardens or not at all. Here you run into an admitted parking problem and the opposition of adjacent property holders. It is propable that some one of the town playgrounds will be used for Little League another season, and the one you hear most often mentioned is Ginn Field. This field is well suited for Little League ball and is not large enough for regulation baseball. It is used a lot for softball, and of course the same objections voiced by the Park Commissioners this year to tying up Loring avenue five nights a week apply equally there, and even more so for Ginn Field is nowhere near as large as Loring Avenue playground. Be all that as it may, we are going to have a field for Little League next season, and an adequate one. The men behind the project in town are a guarantee of that. Already a committee of representative citizens has been gotten together to go into the field situation, and the men involved can be trusted to come up with a suitable solution. We have been playing our Little League games this year under makeshift conditions. Winchester ordinarily doesn't do things that way.

TRAINING AT SQUANTUM

Three Winchester Naval air reservists are among those presently attending a special 90-day training school at the Naval Air Station in Squantum. The school is part of the annual summer training program carried on at similar Naval bases throughout the nation by the Naval Air Reserve Training Command. Graduates will be eligible for advancement in their specialty.

At Squantum from Winchester are Marshall W. Jones, AN, of 27 Ridgefield road, Robert J. Butt, AN, of 4 Maple road, and Robert L. Welch, ATAN, of 22 Baldwin street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dermot Townley-Tilson are spending six weeks in the British Isles where they are visiting Mr. Townley-Tilson's father, Rev. W. H. Townley-Tilson, in Nothern Ireland and his sister, Mrs. Martin Loughland, in England.

WINCHESTER MAN COMMANDING GENERAL

Commanded by Brig. Gen. Ralph A. Palladino of 19 North Gateway, and functioning smoothly after a week of accelerated training in the field, Massachusetts 3000-man 94th Infantry Reserve Division swung into the second and final week of its annual summer maneuvers at Camp Drum, N.Y., on August 3. The Bay State's only reserve division this year is going through the most rugged training program in its history, in addition to giving a strenuous course of basic training to nearly 500 recruits.

Every phase of the unit's training, intensified to keep pace with the nation's military preparedness drive, stresses realistic, in-the-field activities.

Along with learning the latest methods in their own specialties, members of the 94th Division have been receiving up-to-date instructions in other Army functions.

During last week the 94th Division, after successfully completing its first postwar troop train movement to Camp Drum, engaged in many tactical exercises, featured by an exceptionally large number of night maneuvers in the field.

Every officer and enlisted man in the division participated in the night long operations, which were skillfully executed.

Working under Brig. Gen. Palladino are the following ranking officers of the 94th Division: Division Artillery; Brig. Gen. Robert C. Dean of Wellesley, commanding; Chief of Staff; Col. George W. Gibson of Waban, G-1, Lt. Col John F. McKenna of Medford; G-2, Major Philip Adams of Melrose; G-3, Lt. Col. John E. O'Neil of Medford; G-4, Lt. Col. Robert A. Daley of Roxbury; G-5, Lt. Col. Norman O. Rockwood of Reading; 301st Regiment commander, Col. Chauncey D. Merrill of Milton; 302nd Regiment commander, Col. John F. Mungovan of Quincy; 376th Regiment commander, Lt. Col. Harry S. Cutting, Jr., of Shrewsbury.

BASKETBALL TONIGHT

Another double header in the Playground basketball program will be staged at Ginn Court this evening. In the feature attraction the Senior Playground quintet will match dribbles and shots with the Lexington Boys' Club team. In a preliminary game the West Side Juniors will play the Leonard Field Juniors.

The Lexington Boys' Club team is made up of members of last year's and this year's Lexington High School squad. Most prominent of the visitors are Tony Busa and Ed Dinneen, who were regulars on the Lexington High quintet last winter. They will provide more even competition for the Winchester boys than last Friday's South Boston team that was older, bigger and more experienced than the locals.

Coach Bartlett was highly pleased with the performance of his charges last Friday in spite of the one-point defeat to the South Boston club. The locals battled every minute of the game against a superior team and only lack of ability to control the ball in the closing minutes of play cost the locals a great victory. It is hoped to bring the South Boston team here again for the final game of the season as the fans enjoyed the flashy Southie performers. The Winchester squad for tonght's game will be increased by the addition of Bill Ross and Pete Gove, who have returned from vacations.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL NEWS

The family and a few very close friends of the late Dr. Clarence Ordway came to the hospital Friday afternoon, July 25th, to see his portrait which has been hung recently in the Doctors Lounge of the new wing. They gathered about four o'clock and tea was served by the house committee. It was especially nice that Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Martin could be up from Washington for the occasion.

Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Jr., Mrs. Martin and Mr. John Ordway gave the portrait, which was done by Miss Suzanne Gleason, in memory of their father.

Dr. Ordway had been the very able Chief of Staff of the Hospital for many years. As a memorial to him, the gift of Mrs. Anna Ordway French has made possible the building and the furnishings of the Doctors Lounge and Dressing Rooms in the new wing adjacent to the Operating Suite.

The occasion had great significance for all those present and for the hospital.

Edward H. Ayer, torpedoman's mate, second class, USN, brother of William Ayer of 55 Hemingway street, is serving aboard the submarine, USS Archerfish, out of the Naval Base at Key West, Florida. During World War II the Archerfish was awarded the Presidential Unit Citation for her attack and sinking of the 59,000 ton Japanese aircraft carrier, Shinano.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE

After dropping the second game of the semi-final playoff series to the Winchester Brick Co. by an 8-7 score, the Sons of Italy bounced back to win the third and deciding game by a comfortable 12-4 margin. The second game was the best played contest of the series as the Brick Co. played good ball in rallying from a 5-0 deficit to win in the final inning. The winning blast was a two-run homer in the top of the seventh by Bobby Farrell with brother Tex Farrell on base to give the Brick Co. an 8-6 lead. The Sons scored once in the bottom of the seventh and had the tying and winning runs on base when Marty Joyce retired the last batter.

The presence of Sam Bellino in the line-up helped tremendously as the Sons of Italy captured the deciding game of the series by a 12-4 score. It was a close game until the top of the sixth inning when the Sons scored five runs after two were out to turn the game into a rout. The Sons hit Marty Joyce hard in this contest as Tony Bucci had three straight hits and Bill Fiore and "Robert" banged out homeruns. The Brick Co. infield suffered a bad case of playoff jitters to add to Joyce's woes even though Joe Farrell turned in the play of the game with a brilliant running catch of a potential home-run ball. Manager Frank Procopio twirled his customary steady brand of ball for the winners and never did give the Brick Co. the opening they needed to start a big inning.

The other semi-final series between the V.F.W. and the Fitzgerald Contracting Co. is evened up at one game apiece as the Fitzgeralds captured the second game by a 14-8 score. Tony Cirurso was the surprise mound nominee of Manager Charlie Tofuri and came up with a well-pitched game. Cirurso had the hard hitting Vets popping up all through the game and it was not until the seventh inning that the Vets caused any real damage, scoring four runs to make the score look closer than it really was. Jim Treacy started on the mound for the Vets but was relieved early by Bob Saunders. The Fitzgeralds would not be stopped as they maintained a commanding lead all the way.

Rain washed out the deciding game of this series on both Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. It was scheduled again for last night with the winner scheduled to clash with the Sons of Italy on Monday evening in the final playoff series of the league championship. The final series is a best three-of-five affair with games being played on Monday through Thursday evenings until the winner is decided. In spite of the scare given them in the second game of the semi-final series, the prediction is that the Sons of Italy will win their third successive Town League championship and retain permanent possession of the league trophy.

RACE WEEK JOTTINGS

The sailors from Winchester Boat Club have made a good showing in the Snipe Class Competition during Marblehead Race Week up to the time the Star went to press.

In the three race series sponsored by the Eastern Yacht Club, after two completed races, Bob Huggins of Winchester has the highest point score, with Rod Long, second, Bob Wilkins of Massachusetts Bay, third, and Cliff Austin, fourth.

The first race on Saturday was sailed through intermittent drizzle, fog, light air and no air. Bob Huggins in Shady Too finished first, and Cliff Austin sailed his Hy Cliff into second place. Although third place went to young Younie of Massachusetts Bay, Rod Long finished fourth, giving Winchester three of the first four places.

The second race of this series was sailed on Monday in a strong southeaster, which caused several smaller boats to capsize, one each in the Indian, Comet, Snipe, and Fish Catboat, as well as in other classes. Of twelve starting snipes, only seven finished.

Rod Long brought his Rebel in first, Wilkins of Massachusetts Bay was second, and Bob Huggins took third for Winchester. Although Cliffie Austin could finish no better than sixth in this race, his second on Saturday keeps him in the competition.

The third and deciding race of the Eastern series should have been completed on Tuesday, but was first postponed because of squalls and thunder-storms, and finally cancelled altogether. Plans at that time called for the race to be sailed Wednesday morning.

The Pleon Yacht Club held their usual one-race regatta for juniors under 21 on Sunday, August 3rd. The Winchester Snipe fleet was represented by Cliff Austin and Bob Stengle, the latter sailing Rod Long's Rebel. Last year, Stengle, who regularly crews for Long, captured this trophy, but this year he finished third, the trophy going to Bob Wilkins of Massachusetts Bay.

In the larger classes two Winchester skippers are well up in the competition. In the Raven Class Harry Bean, perhaps better known as a skiier, sailed Susan Hartnett's boat to a first place in the race on Saturday. Byron Wiswell, who is leading in the season's point score in the U. S. One Design Class, finished third in his opening race.

HARMER LEARNING TO FLY JET

Aviation Cadet Torr W. Harmer of 4 Lakeview terrace has successfully completed flight training in the T-28 conventional type airplane at Perrin AFB, Texas, and is presently at Laredo Air Force Base, where he is learning to fly the T-33 Jet. The T-33 is a two-seated version of the famed F-80 "Shooting Star" and is equipped with dual controls, a refrigeration unit and the new type "ejection seat" which automatically throws the pilot out of the plane and out of danger in the event that it would be necessary to bail out. The plane has a maximum speed of somewhere in the 600 mph class.

Before entering the USAF, Torr attended St. Paul's School, Concord, New Hampshire, and later Princeton University, Princeton, N. J.

Cadet Harmer's mother, Mrs. T. W. Harmer, lives at 4 Lakeview terrace.

CAST IN VERMONT PLAY

Two Winchester young people gave outstanding performances in the play, "The Happy Time", at the Weston Playhouse, Weston, Vermont, this last week.

Diana Mansfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Mansfield of Walnut street, a sophomore at Tufts College, has been acting with the Weston Players all summer. Her brother, Edward, was visiting in nearby Ludlow, Vermont and through his sister found himself with a large role in the current show under the direction of Harlan Grant who is well known to Winchester audiences for his work with the Parish Players.

The play is a delightful comedy with practically stellar roles for the entire cast from "Papa" and his French Canadian family to "Maman", his wife, a staunch Scottish Presbyterian. The upbringing of "Bibi", (Edward Mansfield) gave all concerned much food for thought and action, including "Sally" (Diana Mansfield) his love-struck, would-be, girl friend next door.

This was the fifth attraction of the season in one of New England's most beautiful summer theaters. Winchester people have long taken an interest in historic Weston, Vermont and this theater's activities.

Selections from the Holy Bible also constitute part of the Lesson-Sermon. Verses from St. Paul's letters to the Galatians to be included are: "For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other ... WINCHESTER MAN SACO-LOWELL PRESIDENT

The Board of Directors of Saco-Lowell Shops, manufacturers of textile machinery, announce that Mr. David F. Edwards, President of the Company since 1927, has been elected Chairman of the Board of Directors effective August 1, 1952. Mr. Malcolm D. Shaffner of 6 Ardley place, until now Executive Vice President of the Company, has been elected President to succeed Mr. Edwards.

Mr. Shaffner has been a member of the Saco-Lowell organization for nineteen years, having joined the Company in 1933. During that time he has had broad experience in connection with the sales and financial problems of the business. In the past several years he has worked closely with Mr. Edwards on matters of over-all policy and has had increasing executive responsibilities in the general management of the Company. He was elected Secretary in 1944, Treasurer in 1946, and a Vice President in 1950. Late in the same year he was elected to membership on the Board of Directors. Mr. Shaffner is also President and a Director of the Company's wholly owned subsidiary, the Pawtucket Spinning Ring Company. He is on the Board of Managers of the American Tariff League, a member of the Accounting Council of the Machinery and Allied Products Institute, and a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Shaffner was born in Lawrencetown, Nova Scotia, in 1899. He completed a general engineering course at Acadia University which was interrupted by a period of active service in the Royal Flying Corps during World War I. He continued his education at Yale where he received a degree of B. S. in Engineering in 1924.

FISHING AT CONOMO

The annual Fells Hardware Fishing Trip for Winchester painters was held as usual Traders Day at the summer home of Franklin J. Lane of the Boston Varnish Company at Conomo Point. The weather wasn't all that could have been desired, but there was no lack of a good time from start to finish.

Arriving at the Lane summer home, conditions for outdoor sports didn't seem favorable, so the party went indoors, for cards and other games that kept everyone busy until lunch time.

After a bountiful repast, about 2 o'clock the men braved the elements in the Lane 26-ft. motor cruiser for a spot of fishing. The water was rough and no extensive cruise was made, but luck was good and a goodly mess of flounders was brought back to shore. More might have been hooked had not the party considered Jim Chisholm's obvious "malaise", or approaching "malaise", and knocked off early.

"Nick" Josephson caught the big fish, and John Ryan, the smallest. Victor Froberg won the leather medal for hooking simultaneously on a two-hook line a mussel and a formidable crab that was gingerly handled.

All painters of the town were invited to the party, but some were unable to make it, due to unforseen events. Those in the party were Frank Lane, Jim Chisholm, John Ryan, Victor Froberg, Harry Dodge, Jim O'Neill and H. N. Josephson.

"So I've got the jalopy jitters!"

"Look here," said the Jalopy, "is it my fault if I've got under-the-hood trouble?"

"Did you say that?" I said, startled. "I didn't know you could talk!"

"It's about time somebody talked to you, Fred Brown," the Jalopy said. "I'm going to give you a piece of my mind — before I take the long sleep in the junk yard."

"S-u-r-e, you go right ahead," I said politely. Maybe my old crate was turning into a Frankenstein's Monster!

"You need a new car," the Jalopy said. "And you need it bad. I'm dished, folded, done."

"Cut it out," I said, "I can't afford a new car."

"Yes you can. Get smart. Go to the bank and get an auto loan. They save you up to $100 on it. And those easy monthly payments will be practically painless."

Believe it or not, next day I dropped into this bank. They treated me like someone important. Quick and easy I came out with my auto loan.

All names are fictitious, but the situation happens every day.

VISITORS FROM ICELAND RETURNED TO THEIR HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Baldur Sveinsson of Iceland, who with their son, Gylfi, have been entertained the past month by Mr. and Mrs. Bjorn I. Gunnlaugsson at their home at 32 Nathaniel road, returned yesterday to their native Iceland by plane from New York.

The purpose of the Sveinsson's visit to America was to have their son, Gylvi, a 14-year-old youngster who is a polio victim, treated at the Childrens' Hospital. In fact, the call by the Star for a wheel chair for the Department of Public Welfare a few weeks ago, was for the use of the youngster.

The Sveinssons were very much impressed with Winchester, stating that it was the nicest town they had seen in America. Having spent a period of eight months here in America a few years ago, also for the purpose of having their son treated here for his disease, they had ample opportunity to see other towns in this country. We are always glad to have visitors from other countries return to their homelands with a good impression of our town.

WYANOKE NOTES

Winchester readers of Life Magazine were interested in the pictures and story about Camp Wyanoke in last week's issue. This popular boys' camp is directed by Winchester's Brad Bentley and has had many Winchester campers and counselors. Jim Goode, Life reporter, and Kosti Rouhomaa, photographer, spent the first week of the camp season at Wyanoke. More than two thousand pictures were taken, none posed.

Members of both Harvard and Yale crews who raced recently at Center Harbor to celebrate the 100th aniversary of the first race which was held on Lake Winnepesaukee, were entertained at Wyanoke. Henry Knowlton, waterfront director of the camp and athletic director of Winchester High School, had a Yale crew man at his table, and was surprised to learn that the young oarsman did not know about George Field's place in Yale rowing history.

A DARE!

Last Sunday night at 11 o'clock the police were notified that several men had left a car on Willow street and gone into Wildwood Cemetery.

Officers John Boyle and Henry Dempsey went to investigate and could find no one in the cemetery, nor did anyone return to the car.

Searching around the neighborhood, the Police picked up a Winchester boy who admitted he had left the car on Willow street and had been hanging around waiting for the Police to leave so he could drive off again.

He said he and three other Winchester boys had entered Wildwood Cemetery on a dare. They were told by the police not to dare to take a dare like that again!

INNS OF COURT HIGHEST OF BRITAIN'S LEGAL SCHOOLS

The tradition-encrusted Inns of Court, rulers of the British bar, formally welcome U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson into the select company of honorary masters of the bench on his visit to London late in June.

Other current honorary "benchers" are Queen Mother Elizabeth, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Viscount Alexander, says the National Geographic Society. The actual, or practicing, masters of the bench decide the policies of the legal profession in England.

Presentation of an honorary bencher is made at a dinner in the particular Inn according the honor —Lincoln's Inn in the case of Secretary Acheson. The dinners themselves are part of British legal tradition and essential in the ceremonies leading to admission to the bar. Every aspiring barrister must attend a specified number of the dinners.

Four Inns

The four Inns of Court, Lincoln's, Gray's, the Middle Temple and the Inner Temple have the exclusive right to admit British lawyers to the bar, to qualify them as barristers. Lawyers in England are either solicitors or barristers. Practice of the former is limited to certain courts, while barristers can appear before any tribunal in the land, including the House of Lords and the Privy Council, courts of final appeal.

The Inns of Court can be traced back to the 13th century, when the church first started to lose its hold on the law. With the clergy barred from practicing any but canon law, it became necessary to provide training for lay attorneys.

Various schools developed, and grew up around the four Inns, which at one time were actually inns, housing as well as feeding aspiring lawyers, clerks, and students. Hence they were called inns although they are law schools.

Tradition ties Lincoln's Inn to the Earl of Lincoln in the reign of Edward II (1284 - 1327), although it is also held that the Inn took its name from Thomas de Lincoln, the king's sergeant, who acquired the property in the 14th century.

Gray's Inn, despite the difference in spelling, can be traced to Reginald de Grey, chief justice of Chester and first Lord Grey of Wilton, who leased the site about 1294. The Middle and Inner Temples are Inns of Court situated on parts of what was the London headquarters of the Knights Templar in the 13th century.

Survived Disasters

The Inns of Court have survived wars, plagues, and fires. They suffered in the great London fire of 1666 and were severely damaged by bombs in World War II.

Their memberships have been split by the Wars of the Roses and the revolution that resulted in the execution of Charles I. During the American Revolution members were on both sides. A number of signers of the Declaration of Independence had received legal training at the Inns.

Restoration of buildings damaged in World War II is still going on. Private subscriptions, including contributions from the American Bar Association, have been instrumental in the restoration.

Ancient chroniclers knew Yemen, kingdom at the southern tip of the Arabian peninsula, as the land of the Queen of Saba, or Sheba, whose visit to King Solomon is related in the Bible. Modern Yemen is an agricultural country roughly the size of Nebraska with four times Nebraska's population, says the National Geographic Society.

JAPAN'S HEAVIEST EARTHQUAKE PICKS GOOD PLACE TO HAPPEN

The earthquake that hit the northern Japanese island of Hokkaido early in March had all the specifications of major disaster except heavy loss of life, the National Geographic Society reports.

The tremor, named "The Earthquake off Tokachi," was described by Japan's central meteorological observatory as the heaviest in the area in 68 years, which would make it more severe than the 1923 temblor that caused some 143,000 deaths in the Tokyo-Yokohama area.

In addition, the latest quake was accompanied by a series of seismic sea waves — often miscalled tidal waves — which devastated the coastline of eastern Hokkaido, sweeping away fishing villages and boats and damaging coastal property.

Sparse Population

The death toll, however, was less than two score. Officials say there are several reasons for the small casualty list. Hokkaido is sparsely populated; the efficient Japanese warning service predicted seismic waves, or tunami, after the initial shock, and the earthquake-wise population did not even wait for the warning, but deserted the coast minutes after the quake.

Chief damage lay in twisted and torn railways, houses swept away by waves, and shattered and burned buildings. Fire, which follows every earthquake as gas and water lines are broken, chimneys toppled and stoves upset, took its usual toll. But again the thinly settled area suffered less than Tokyo or Yokohama in 1923, or San Francisco in 1906. In these disasters fire swept unchecked through urban areas.

Such a major earthquake with comparatively little loss of life resembles the violent temblors that shook the Himalayas in 1857 and 1950, sending mountainsides roaring down into ravines and damming rivers. Sparse population limited loss of life in both these disasters, known as the Assam Earthquakes, although both made noticeable changes in geographical features.

Sea Waves Follow Japanese Quakes

Any violent movement under the sea — and the Earthquake off Tokachi was centered in the ocean east of Hokkaido — usually creates seismic-waves.

Damage done by these waves is governed as much by the nature of the shore as by the seismic disturbance that causes them. Where the shoreline drops off sharply, there is a rise and fall of water that does comparatively little damage. Where the sea bed slopes more gradually, the waves come in as massive walls of water, sweeping everything before them.

The Hokkaido wave, variously described as 10 to 15 feet high, was a ripple compared to some seismic sea waves. In the Sanriku earthquake of 1896 the water reached a height of 95 feet in Miyako Bay, Japan, and the Dutch Harbor, Alaska, tremor of 1946 set up waves that swept over tops of palm trees as far away as Hawaii.

GEOGRAPHIC ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

Kruger National Park in the Union of South Africa is the largest zoo in the world — bigger than the State of Massachusetts and containing over 500,000 head of game, says the National Geographic Society.

Detroiters make most of the Nation's motor cars, and drive more of them in proportion to population than any other major city except one — Los Angeles.

The United States Military Academy at West Point is America's oldest permanent military post, says the National Geographic Society.

"DAYS OF YORE"

Clippings from the STAR Files

FIFTY YEARS AGO

AUGUST 8, 1902

Just 50 years ago the Star was dated August 8, 1902.

Rev. Arthur L. Winn led the services at the Highland Bethany Chapel Sunday. His sermon was very interesting and helpful.

Winchester Council, K. of C. beat the Woburn Ice team by 5 inches in the tug of war contest given by the South Border Athletic and Outing Club at Woburn last week. The Winchester men were: Daniel McDonald, anchor, William Murphy, Edward Murphy, Patrick Fitzgerald, Hugh McDonald.

Prospect Farm, one of the best country seats in Coos County, N. H., has been bought by Congressman McCall. It was owned by George P. Rowell, of New York, who laid out something like $50,000 on the place.

The rear truck of an electric car jumped the tracks on Forest street last Saturday forenoon and demolished an electric light pole. Travel was delayed for more than an hour as considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the car back onto the rails.

Mr. John Blank is considering getting up a fishing trip for the near future, provided there are twenty gentlemen who would like to participate.

The High School building is being painted.

The Methodist Camp Meetings are opening with excellent programs. Some from Winchester are planning to attend some of them. Sterling meeting is from Aug. 25 to 29. The Asbury Grove meeting from the 25th to September 1, and Heading, N. H., meeting from 25th to 30th.

Manchester Field yielded a good crop of hay this summer.

Mr. U. S. Sanborn is doing good work pruning the town shade trees. He is an expert and when he finishes for the town he intends to take offers for private work from the citizens. Here is a good opportunity to have your trees cared for at a low price.

Loring Hawes is visiting Mr. George Blanchard's family at Cumberland Foreside, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Messenger are expected home next week from a very pleasant trip to Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. LeFavour are very popular with the guests at the Pendexter Mansions, Intervale, N. H. They are very fine musicians.

The street signs are in bad condition in many parts of the town and need replacing. Also those streets that have no signs should be attended to by the Selectmen.

Extensive alterations are being made in the Maxwell buildings on Cross street for Winchester's newest industry — the Winchester Manufacturing Co., makers of geiatine. This concern has a large plant on Western avenue, Cambridge, where the well known Plymouth Rock Gelatine, so familiar to all housekeepers, is made. The new industry here was brought about by a desire for an enlargement of the business necessitated by the constantly increasing demand for this pure food product, and will therefor be an adjunct to the Cambridge branch. At some time in the future the entire plant may be located in Winchester. The prime essential to perfect gelatine is pure water, and an abundance can be had here from driven wells. Mr. Henry Weed, a member of the firm, will be the resident manager and will make his home in Winchester.

Miss May Barta, as chairman of the Committee on Directing Student's Building at Smith College, Northampton, is receiving many compliments for her executive ability. This building is designed to serve the social life of the college and the uses of the various college societies and other organizations.

The placing of stopping posts on the line of the Arlington and Reading line of electrics is giving almost universal satisfaction, but few persons objecting to locations.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Ripley and daughter, Miss Florence, are summering at Marblehead.

Police Officer Dotten is doing quarantine duty on Swanton street.

The Fitzgerald heirs announce that they will sell at auction on Saturday, August 9, thirteen lots of land on Sand Hill road, Fitzgerald avenue and Shepherd Court. The lots contain from 4,000 to 5,000 feet of land each and they will positively be sold to the highest bidders. The land is excellently situated for building purposes and affords a rare opportunity to secure a lot of land at a low price. Particulars can be had of the auctioneer, Edward F. Maguire, or of the heirs of the Fitzgerald estate.

TROLLEY CLUB HAS A LADIES' DAY

Thursday the Trolley Club had a "ladies day", Judge Littlefield having arranged what proved to be a most delightful trip to Nantasket Beach on special electrics, the first of which left the Center at 7:55 a. m. Special cars took the party from Arlington to Neponset, and from Neponset to the Beach. There the party under the leadership of the Judge, proceeded to the Rockland Cafe, where a genuine New England fish dinner was partaken of.

After dinner an opportunity was given for a stroll along the beach, before the return trip commenced at 2:15. A stop was made at the Fore River Works, of which Mr. Frank Wellington, a former well known Winchester boy, is the general manager. Tied up to one of the wharves was the new seven-mast schooner, Thomas W. Lawson — recently launched — a splendid great vessel.

At the beach the big four were induced to step onto the scales with the following result: Arthur H. Richardson, 201 pounds; C. H. Symmes, 210; N. H. Taylor, 218; H. F. Johnson, 280. The Judge was careful to see that these gentlemen were equally distributed in the car in order that there might be no accident because of the car not being properly balanced.

Col. N. A. Richardson took his first ride on a roller coaster. He showed outward signs of nervousness when he was swished around the curves and hung onto the sides of the car with grim determination. On stepping out of the car he remarked that a horse was by far the more preferable.

Neponset bridge was reached at 4:30 where an Elevated special was in readiness to take the pleased excursionists to Arlington, and at about 6:35 o'clock the Reading-Arlington special arrived in Winchester. In many respects this was the star trip of the Trolley Club.

Those who went were George S. Littlefield, George W. Payne and wife, J. Winslow Richardson, Anthony C. Richardson, Arthur H. Richardson and wife, Nathaniel A. Richardson, Henry F. Johnson, George H. Carter, R. P. Smith, H. C. Bagley and wife, E. C. Sanderson and wife, C. H. Symmes George F. Parker, C. W. Bradstreet, J. C. Kennedy and wife, C. F. A. Currier and wife, F. W. Phillbrick and wife, J. H. Winn and wife, Mrs. George H. Lockman, Emmons Hatch, N. H. Taylor and wife, G. E. Pratt and wife, A. Macdonald, wife and daughter, A. C. Bell and wife, T. P. Wilson.

AUGUST 5, 1927

The Selectmen voted last week to have Winchester's fire alarm system intercommunicating with that of Arlington, Chief David H. De Courcy having received orders to this effect. The local system of alarms has been for some time on such a basis with Woburn and the scheme has proved more than satisfactory. It's adoption in the present instance will provide for the answering on first alarm of certain local boxes by the Arlington Department, with Winchester reciprocating.

The town's census figures, according to Assistant Assessor F. Percyval Lewis, were 11,850 on April 1, 1927. At present it is estimated that the figures are 100 short of 12,000, with an estimated gain of 50 during the spring. The gain for the year is 200, which has been the average gain per year for some 25 years. The figures in 1900 were 7248.

The annual Father and Son Tournament, held Wednesday at the Winchester Country Club, proved the most successful event in its history. With the opening of the new 12th green and using the new 13th, reopened for the play, the 106 pairs entering the play proved the popularity of the match and the interest inspired in this annual tourney. The event was won by Ralph Lincoln and his son Dick with a 79, they being the only pair to break 80. Percy and Bobby Goodale of the home club were a close second with an even 80, being just one putt behind the winners.

Winchester's business center was locked tightly Wednesday, the date being that of the annual Trader's Day. No concerted outing had been planned by the local merchants and as a consequence an almost perfect day appeared. Many were out of town, some with the Elks party going to Providence and others at the Rotary Club outing at the Corinthian Yacht Club, Marblehead. Here and there one could see during the day irate housewives armed with the family market basket trying to find a store at which to make a few purchases. It was a case of "nothing doing" and a careful perusal of their last week's "Star" might have saved the ladies a trip down town.

Harold Elliott of Clark street was the winner of the prize for the big fish caught by a party of Winchester anglers who took a deep sea trip off Gloucester last Sunday. It is reported that several of the fishermen lost their interest in fishing soon after the boat got under way, the water being very choppy. Elliott hooked a 9¾ lb. pollock for the big money.

"Jim" Fitzgerald of Winchester, former High School and Huntington star athlete, late of the Tufts varsity football and baseball teams, and at present playing right field for Somerville in the Twilight League, has the distinction of being the first player to hit a home run over the left center field fence in the General Electric ball park at Lynn. "Fitzy" made his prodigious belt Tuesday night in the game between the Somerville and General Electric Clubs, the blow coming in the fourth frame with a man on base.

At the Governor's Day Exercises for the C. M. T. C. at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., held on Friday evening, July 29, Vincent Ambrose of this town, who has been enrolled as a Basic, or first-year man, in the third Cavalry, Troop BX, was awarded the medal for the best all-round student in the entire group of some 400 first year enrollments.

Beginning Monday morning, Winchester telephone operators will start a new method of answering calls. Instead of repeating the number called for, she will respond "thank you." The new "thank you" method saves the time of telephone users and removes any confusion due to repetition of numbers.

Mr. James "Fireman" Cullen of Clark street returned home Sunday after a seven week's tour of duty with the R. O. T. C. at Fort Monroe, Va. While at camp, Cullen was Athletic Editor of the Camp publication.

WINCHESTER LIEUTENANT COMMENDED

First Lieutenant Bernard von-Hoffman, Jr., of Allen road, a member of the Massachusetts 94th Infantry Reserve Division now encamped for two weeks of summer training at Camp Drum, N. Y., has been commended for excellence in the conduct of training.

An officer in the 94th Division's 301st Regiment, Lt. vonHoffman is in the specially-assigned group training nearly 500 recruits from New England, New York and New Jersey.

The 301st Infantry Regiment, part of the 3000-man 94th Division, is commanded by Colonel Chauncey D. Merrill of Milton.

For the first time in its history, the 94th Division this year came to Camp Drum via troop train. The 12-hour ride from Boston to the huge base outside Watertown, N. Y., was accomplished without a hitch.

This year the Bay State's only Army Reserve division has been receiving accelerated training featuring numerous night problems, firing of various weapons, long marches and lectures on latest military methods.

Lt. vonHoffman and other 94th Division men from the Winchester area are expected back home Sunday, August 10.

WHISPERINGS FROM MOUNT PERO

Camp Mount Pero, located in the Plymouth, N. H. region of the White Mountains, is living up to its tradition of "every day is different" again this year. The campers are enjoying the variety of program. John Urmson and Bob Godwin had quite a time on their overnight hike on top of Mt. Stinson. They learned a great deal of "porky" porcupine's habits. Another trip out of camp was a two-day canoe trip around Squam Lake with Roger Heard, Ron Kolligian, Seth Weston, and Ken MacArthur enjoying it. Saturday afternoon the entire camp witnessed a wonderful water skiing spectacle put on in Meredith. The same night John Urmson became a lion tamer at campfire with Roger Heard the defeated lion. Poor Roger's voice. Chuck Urmson's archery classes are always popular especially since the boys saw Robin Hood.

Perhaps the most exciting doings of late are the buggy rides around the loop to the Hermit's camp and back. Two old buggy's have been restored to modern day usage. The campers are entering these in a Rumney Village Indian Pageant Saturday August 9. In one buggy a select number of campers will be drawn by a human horse made up of Ron Kolligian and a fellow camper, while the other buggy will be drawn by a number of campers with the horse taking the ride.

The camp's baseball team, a training camp for Lil Leaguers, is still unbeaten locally, taking Hunters Rest and Plymouth Playground with runs to spare. Don Wyman and Ron Kolligian formed the battery.

Other plans call for an all day trip on the steamer Mount Washington and a two day mountain trip in the wild scenic Waterville Valley region. Ted Trott is expected next Sunday to take out his six-day wilderness trip through the White Mts. with older campers. They will leave on the 12th and return the 19th.

ATTENDING SUMMER WORKSHOP

Mr. Raymond J. Dickman of Hancock street, principal of the Junior High School, is enrolled in the Summer Session Workshop in Outdoor Education, sponsored by Boston University and being held from July 8 to August 17 at Sargent Camp in Peterborough, N. H.

As part of the University's 38th annual summer session, the study program especially for teachers of science, music, health recreation and social science coordinate with a children's camping program so that youthful vacationers receive expert guidance and training for out-of-door living, while the Workshop students put their studies into operation through participation in camp activities.

LAST WEEK FOR BOYS AT CAMP FELLSLAND

Now that the month of August has rolled around, we find that the boys of Camp Fellsland are preparing to close for the season and with a short stay at home they will be getting back to their school chores. Camp Fellsland this year is closing the earliest in its history because of the fact that the camp opened the last week in June which also is the earliest that the camp has opened its regular summer season. This now completes the six weeks of regular camp for the boys and will end up with a special turkey banquet on Sunday, August 10. It will be a regular banquet due to the fact that there will be everything from soup to nuts and will take a considerably long time to finish up the activities so parents are warned not to get to camp too early as the boys do not want to break away from camp until all the closing banquet activities are completed. There will be quite a number of invited guests including those men who have given a great deal of time in the construction work at Camp Fellsland during the past years. At the close of the banquet there will be many special camp awards issued to the boys who have earned them, the awarding af the Daschshund to some lucky boy who has written a good story about the dog, and then a series of farewell songs before departing for home and getting ready for school.

There has been quite a number of boys at camp the past two weeks who have been sponsored by one of the local Rotaries, Kiwanis, or Lion's Clubs, or in some cases, the sponsoring organizations where the boy is a member. Some of these boys have remembered to send a letter of thanks to the sponsors and undoubtedly others will hear from them on their return from camp.

The camp as well as others has benefitted by the cooler weather the past few weeks and has made it possible for a greater amount of activity. The nights are very cool now and in some cases two or three blankets are needed to ward off the chill and it certainly feels nice to snuggle up into a warm blanket in the chill of the evening.

Our athletic teams continued on the victory path with additional victories outside camp this week and the previous week as they have through the entire season. Camp Fellsland has been blessed with some excellent baseball players and this week are trying their hand as last week in a water meet with the Amesbury Playground boys. It looks as though they will also be victorious as the baseball and basketball teams have been previously.

As the paper goes to press, Camper's Day will be an actuality. Camper's Day to old-time Camp Fellsland campers means that the boys elect their own leaders and these leaders become the Camp Staff for the day. This day is on Wednesday, August 6. In turn the Camp Staff men become campers and do the regular chores of a camper for a full 24 hour-period. This becomes a lot of fun and is also a serious matter for the campers who for one day are staff men. Many of the young campers get their first experience from the staff men during this day and the following year or a few years later actually become a member of the Camp Staff. This is one of the many methods in which Camp Fellsland recruits their staff men and has been very successful over the past few years.

The following local boys are at camp this week:

Carl Masi
Jeffrey Bor
Richard Gaffney
David Hopkins
Paul Franson
George Yore
John Yore
William Bond
William Oliver
Stephen Enright

Gail Palace of 14 Myrtle street has been awarded the Red Ribbon for beginning swimmers at Tabor Camp in Needham.

PATENT TO WINCHESTER MAN

Robert D. Lowry of 158 Cambridge street and Hugo L. Schaefer of Midland, Michigan, were the recipients on July 22, 1952, of U. S. patent No. 2,603,838, entitled "Method For Preshrinking Crystalline Vinylidene Chloride Copolymer Film."

Notwithstanding its technical title, this invention pertains to improvements in the plastic films that are used extensively for wrapping foods or other materials where it is desired either to retain natural moisture in, or to exclude it from, the packaged article. These films, as is well known, have such desirable properties as high tensile strength in both directions, adequate flexibility, and extreme resistance to permeability by vapors and liquids.

However, according to Messrs. Lowry and Schaefer, they suffer from the disadvantage that they have a tendency to shrink irregularly while standing at room temperature, and even when under the tension existing in the tightly wound rolls in storage. As a consequence, there results a wrinkling effect when the film is unwound. It should be noted that this shrinking difficulty becomes especially serious when the film is subjected to high temperature due to the fact that it cannot be used successfully to produce neatly packaged articles whenever a heat seal is required in the wrapping operation.

Messrs. Lowry and Schaefer have discovered that this problem may be solved by a special process involving the passing of a sheet of the film continuously and under suitable tension over a series of at least four properly separated rotating heated rollers, the smooth surfaces of which range from room temperature up to about 265 degrees Fahrenheit. In other words, this procedure improves the reaction of the film to subsequent heat treatments to such an extent that it will shrink not more than five per cent along either of its major dimensions when exposed to a temperature of 212 degrees Fahrenheit for ten minutes. It is established and known that such a degree of shrinkage is acceptable for the most exacting uses of the film; and the aforementioned limitations are thus avoided.

The patent has been assigned to Dow Chemical Company, Midland, Michigan.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The Winchester League of Women Voters points with pride to three magazines of national circulation which in their August issues call attention to the special function of the League. The Woman's Home Companion, "You Too Can Be the Life of the Party"; Woman's Day, "A Jealous Care"; and Country Gentleman in an article on getting out the vote, mention the nonpartisan political role of the League.

Beginning the program of the Winchester League, the voters' service committee has contacted as many 21-year olds as possible. Mrs. James B. Willing, 16 Ledyard road, chairman, and committee members Mrs. Waldo V. Lyon, 6 Everell road, and Mrs. Thomas R. Powell, Jr., 4 Rangeley Ridge, were assisted in this project by Mrs. W. W. Davies, 11 Sanborn street, president of the League.

In future weeks the League will supply answers to some of the questions from voters that have come to the attention of its members. The following three on voter qualifications have recently been asked.

Question: I will be 21 in October. I go away to college in September. How can I arrange to register and vote?

Answer: You may register after the September 16 primary through October 3. You may then obtain an absentee ballot for the presidential election. Consult the Town Clerk.

Question: I moved to Winchester from Illinois last October. May I vote in the primary? May I vote in the presidential election?

Answer: You may register between September 17 and October 3 and vote in the presidential election, as you will then have resided here the required year.

Question: I moved to Winchester from Cambridge this spring. Can I vote in the September primaries and the November election?

Answer: You must have lived in Winchester six months prior to the election. If you moved here before March 16, you may register now and vote in the primary. If you moved here before May 4, you may register from September 17 to October 3 and vote in the November election.

GLOUCESTER FISHING PARTY

Police Lt. Edward W. O'Connell won the $25 prize for the biggest fish caught by members of a fishing party out of Bickford's yard at East Gloucester last Sunday.

Big "Ed" and Firefighter "Charlie" Moran each brought up a fish at the same time, and both won prizes, Lt. O'Connell for the biggest fish caught and Firefighter Moran for the smallest. The O'Connell catch was a 25 pound hake. Moran also hooked a hake, but his fish evidently had not got its full growth, unofficial estimates placing its avoirdupois at about half a pound.

Quite a little delegation from Winchester went on the trip, included being Eddie Hughes, Gunnar Abrahamson, Danny Beaton, Anthony Carroll, John O'Donnell, Windover Robinson, George and "Junie" Elliott, Police Officer Clarence Dunbury and Tom Smitherman.

Firefighter Joey Connolly did not make the trip, he having given up on Moran as a fisherman. The party went out on a 42-foot motor boat skippered by High School Teacher Frank Weafer. Luck generally was reported to be good.

Mrs. Frances Seletto of the Winchester National Bank has been on vacation the past two weeks.

DROUGHT BROKEN

So far as Winchester is concerned the drought and heat which has been experienced since the middle of last June was broken this week. On Tuesday, after one of the most disagreeable and humid mornings of the period, light showers opened up shortly after noon. The showers grew progressively frequent and the rain heavier until about four o'clock. At that time, while no rain was falling a single roar of thunder which equaled the firing of an 18-inch gun, started things going. The bolt was followed by about a minute of rain, and after a short period the downpour started.

Around five o'clock the rain fell in torrents, making visibility almost nil. Heavy thunder and lightning accompanied the rain. Fortunately the earlier rain, without wind sufficient to wet beneath the large trees, had moistened the ground sufficiently to stop much of any washouts.

During Tuesday night the rain continued in a series of showers, and on Wednesday it kept up all day, at times being very heavy.

The temperature dropped on Wednesday to a normal level and the prospect at this time is for a return to usual summer weather. The rain arrived here at just the right time to save many of our larger trees and probably many lawns. Gardens and small shrubs and flowers had already sucumbed to the drought.

NEW BOOK BY DR. SPAULDING

On July 28 Exposition Press, Inc., book publishers, published "One School Administrator's Philosophy" by Dr. Frank E. Spaulding, Yale University Emeritus Professor of Education and among the country's leading educators and school administrators.

Aside from the interest which the book has generally as a sort of analytical autobiography of one who has rendered distinguished service in the important field of education, Dr. Spaulding's story will have a special interest for Winchester readers because he is the father of Mary and Catherine Spaulding of Mary Spaulding's Bookshop, and of William E. Spaulding of Main street, who is associated with one of the big Boston publishing houses.

Dr. Spaulding won his doctorate, magna cum laude, from Heidelberg University in Germany in 1894. He also holds the Doctor of Laws degree. He has taught, and has been superintendent of schools in Passaic, N.J., Newton, Minneapolis, Minn., and Cleveland, Ohio, being unanimously elected to the last named post in 1917, though he was not a candidate for the position.

He organized the Department of Education in the Yale Graduate School in 1920, serving there nine years as chairman of the department and fifteen years as professor of school administration. He retired as Sterling Professor of Education Emeritus, in 1935.

A layman can read Dr. Spaulding's book with both interest and understanding. It is not full of educators' phraseology, particularly that of the progressive modern educators. His simple story of his life, his education, schooling and the things that have made him what he is, and think as he does, is absorbing and seasoned with a quiet humor that adds to its charm.

Dr. Spaulding tells us in his foreword that every individual develops a philosophy, whether he knows it or not, as the result of his reactions to the influences to which he is subjected, the process continuing from birth throughout life. His own philosophy, he tells us, is no hard and fast rule of life, but rather is what he calls a "frame of reference," which is simply a body of principles, developed through experience and educational training and used as a guide in the analysis and interpretation of complex and involved facts and as a measure of values.

Much of what makes up Dr. Spaulding's particular "frame of reference" came to him through the experiences of his boyhood on lonely "Spaulding Hill Farm" in Dublin, N.H. He is not an educator who believes that schools and colleges are the only media of education. He believes that perhaps the most important educational stimuli come from experience and from people.

His account of his boyhood is intriguing. On the farm he learned individual independence, self support, self-control, honesty, fair dealing, responsibility and cooperation. He was taught to make his own decisions, to think things through , and to complete the tasks set for him, doing simple things before moving on to the more complex tasks as his ability to cope with the latter successfully developed.

His primitive schooling he does not decry. Rather he defends it for its further development of the individual responsibility he had learned on the farm. The "Three Rs" of his day may seem a far cry from modern progressive education, but Dr. Spaulding finds in the way they did things in his little old District School, methods now advocated by the educator progressives, though called by different names, and administered far differently.

Readers will find his decisions to go to preparatory school and college were made by himself in accordance with his farm-bred independence, and his own money financed his education. His account of his life at Cushing Academy and Amherst is absorbing, though no more so than his experiences abroad and those outlined at the conclusion of the book.

Winchester readers ought to get a chuckle out of Dr. Spaulding's reference to the School Committee, the members of which did not want to put an old school falling into disrepair in good shape because they feared that if they did so, the people of the "district" would refuse to provide funds for the new school the committee wanted.

Dr. Spaulding's book should be read by everyone who thinks that education can only be obtained at great expense in costly buildings of advanced design under highly paid, professionally trained educators and teachers. Many of the lessons which have most influenced his life and aided in greatest degree in the formation of the philosophy about which he writes, were learned far away from the blackboard and text book.

Monday evening Patrolman John McHugh had to go to Palmer Beach to drive off a group of Somerville youths who were creating a disturbance and who refused to leave when ordered to do so by the Lifeguard.

The championship Winchester team, having won more matches during the season than its four league contenders (Belmont, Concord, Tedesco, and Longwood), played Malden (winner over Dorchester, Arlington, Newton and Tedesco) for the state title. As a reward for winning the girls will receive pins as well as National Junior Wightman Cup emblems.

At the close of this successful season we should note that this is Winchester's third year in Wightman Cup competition. We have progressed tremendously. First, we had to dig deep even to field a team; next, we had the material but no skill; and now, we have the winning combination. In a couple of years several of these match-toughened little veterans of junior-high and freshman age are going to be strong contenders for varsity tennis team positions.

LITTLE — McPEAKE

Lt. (j.g.) and Mrs. James Grant Little, the former Rosalind McPeake, passed under an arch of Navy and Marine officers' swords as they left St. Mary's Church after their marriage on Saturday afternoon, August 9. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by St. Mary's pastor, Rev. John P. O'Riordan, in an attractive setting of white gladiolas and chrysanthemums. Cymbodium ferns and multicolored gladiolas, dahlias and asters decorated the Music Hall on Bacon street for the reception which followed the service.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Lawrence John McPeake of 5 Lewis road, and the late Commander McPeake, USN, was given in marriage by her uncle, Paul V. McPeake. She wore a portrait gown of candlelight nylon tulle over ivory satin, fashioned with an Elizabethan bodice, long sleeves and a portrait neckline outlined by a shirred yoke of tulle. Her bouffant tulle skirt terminated in a cathedral train and her fingertip-length veil of imported French silk illusion was caught to a cap of heirloom Chantilly lace. Her flowers were white glamellias and stephanotis.

Miss Eleanor McPeake of Winchester was her sister's honor maid and another sister, Miss Grace McPeake of Winchester, was one of the six bridesmaids, the others being Miss Ann Perry of Paoli, Pa., Miss Ellen Shoemaker of Winchester, Miss Roberta Rey of Kenmore, N.Y., Mrs. Norman K. Mullin of Newport, R.I., and Mrs. John Hagan of Utica N.Y.

All the bridal attendants wore ballerina-length dresses of marquisette over taffeta, the honor maid wearing raspberry, and the bridesmaids mauve. The bridesmaids carried yellow glamellias and lavender asters and wore matching glamellias and ivy in their hair. The honor maid wore raspberry glamellias and ivy in her hair and carried matching glamellias and white asters.

Mrs. McPeake, mother of the bride, was gowned in silver nylon marquisette with a multi-colored panel, and wore a matching hat and orchid corsage. Mrs. Little, mother of the bridegroom, wore a corsage of sweetheart roses with her pale green crepe gown and pale pink accessories.

The bridegroom, son of Rear Admiral and Mrs. M. N. Little of 3182 Key Boulevarde, Arlington, Va., had his father as his best man. Ushering were Lt. Col. W. D. Morgan, USMC, of Arlington, Va., brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and the following Navy lieutenants, junior grade: N. K. Mullin of Newport, R.I., cousin of the bride; W. B. Farnsworth of Bristol R.I.; Lee Baggett of Newport, R.I.; Robert Zenk, also of Newport; and B. R. Weymouth of Ocean Gate, N.J.

After a wedding journey to Sea Island, Ga., Lt. and Mrs. Little will live in Norfolk, Va.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School and of Middlebury College. Lt. Little graduated from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis and is a Naval aviator.

WINCHESTER OFFICER HOST TO GREENLAND'S GOVERNOR

Captain O. A. Peterson, USCG, of 9 Cutting street, commanding officer of the U. S. Coast Guard Cutter, Eastwind, recently welcomed Governor Lundsteen, Denmark's Governor of Greenland, aboard his cutter during a visit of the vessel at Godthaab, capital of Greenland.

The Eastwind is currently on its third successive Arctic cruise, all under the command of Captain Peterson.

In 1950, he gave the Eastwind a new world's record for transit through heavy ice under its own power, by taking full advantage of its mighty engines and driving to within 450 miles of the North Pole before being halted by the solid Polar ice.

This year Captain Peterson hopes to better that record.

LITTLE LEAGUE FIELD COMMITTEE

Three former Selectmen, Town Engineer James Wakefield, and Leslie J. Scott, president of the Winchester National Bank, are members of the citizens committee organized to secure a field for Little League Baseball next season. James F. Dwinell, present member of the Water and Sewer Board; Ernest B. Dade, present chairman of the Board of Assessors; and Nicholas H. Fitzgerald are the former Selectmen on the Committee, headed by Mr. Dwinell as chairman. Warren F. Branch of the Town Finance Committee, represents the Little League organization on the committee.

The mission of the committee is to locate a suitable field, take the necessary steps to secure its use for a Little League diamond and then to see that work upon the actual construction of the field is commenced at once, at least within a month; work such as grading, leveling, seeding and cutting basepaths in accordance with league regulations.

Other work, such as the erection of a backstop and fence and the construction of dugouts can wait until next spring, but those who have steered Little League Baseball so successfully through its first season in Winchester do not want another season to dawn with any uncertainty at all as to where the League is to play its games.

PLANS FOR "ITALIAN DAY" ANNOUNCED

Winchester residents of Italian extraction will celebrate the Feast of the Assumption with the usual program of events again this year.

Chairman Frank Dattilo of the committee in charge of arrangements for the celebration has announced that on the actual Feast Day, August 15, a day internationally observed in the Roman Catholic Church, there will be a high mass celebrated at St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock.

On Sunday, August 17, a parade will form at St. Mary's Church at 2 o'clock and proceed through the streets of the Italian section of the town. Featuring this parade will be the crack Immaculate Conception Bugle and Drum Corps with its Girl Color Bearers and Guards and the perennially championship Immaculate Conception Girls' Drill Team. The Christopher Columbus Society and the Christopher Columbus Ladies Club will be in line, and in addition to the Drum and Bugle Corps, music will be furnished by a professional band from Boston.

Besides the chairman, Frank Dattilo, the committee in charge of arrangements for the celebration includes Alphonse Cucolo, Joseph Michienzi, John Gatineri, Orazio Fiore, Thomas Macario and John Mercurio.

FLYING WEST

Miss Mary and Miss Catherine Spaulding of Mary Spaulding's Bookshop, leave by plane today for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will visit their parents, Dr. Frank Spaulding, Sterling Professor of Education emeritus, at Yale University, and Mrs. Spaulding.

On their way west Mary and Catherine will stop at Denver, where they will be met by former Winchester residents, Mr. and Mrs. George Nardin. After a visit with the Nardins at their home in Greeley, Colorado, the Misses Spaulding will resume their flight to Los Angeles. They will make the return trip east by plane and plan to be back in Winchester by Labor Day.

FLOWER MISSION

Now that the rain has refreshed and renewed our parched gardens we all must have some flowers to send to the Flower Mission.

Mrs. Gerald Hills, WI 6-1165, of the Church of the Epiphany will be at the Winchester R.R. Station next Tuesday A. M., August 19, to see that the hampers are filled and sent to Boston on the nine o'clock train.

Imagine the joy someone ill or shut in will have in receiving a bunch of gay and saucy Zinnias. They grow better when they're picked too!

McCUE — CALLAHAN

At St. Mary's Church on Sunday afternoon, August 3, Miss Marguerite Louise Callahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Callahan of 52 Clark street, became the bride of Donald Thomas McCue of 83 Sheridan Circle, son of Mr. Henry J. McCue of Woburn and Mrs. Evelyn McDonough of Roxbury. The Rev. John P. O'Riordan, pastor of the church, officiated at the 2 o'clock ceremony, and the soloist was Miss Mary Rogers.

Miss Callahan was given in marriage by her father. She wore a ballerina-length gown fashioned with a fitted white satin bodice and a lace appliqued nylon tulle skirt over satin. Her fingertip-length veil of illusion was caught to a lace cap appliqued with seed pearls and she carried an old fashioned bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Margaret McDonough of Winchester was the bride's only attendant. She wore a ballerina-length dress of white nylon over aqua satin, with a matching picture hat and carried an old fashioned bouquet of pink roses.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. Callahan, wore a navy and white print with a white picture hat and matching corsage. Mrs. McDonough, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in pink linen and wore a corsage to match the flowers that trimmed her navy blue hat.

Henry McCue of Woburn was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Leo Walsh of Roxbury and Lawrence Callahan of Winchester, brother of the bride.

A reception was held after the marriage at the home of the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Katherine Doyle, 83 Sheridan Circle.

After a wedding trip to Washington, D.C., Mr. and Mrs. McCue will make their home in Woburn.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School, class of 1948. Mr. McCue is in the employ of the Sexton Can Company in Everett.

SENTENCED ON BAD CHECK PASSING

Earlier this month Alfred G. Zirpolo of 332 Salem street, Medford, appeared in the District Court at Woburn charged with passing a worthless check in Winchester.

Sgt. Thomas F. Cassidy, who prosecuted the case, alleged that Zirpolo bought a gallon of paint at the Hillside Paint and Wallpaper Company in the Center and proffered a $25 check in payment, making off in a taxi with the paint and the change from his check, which amounted to more than $20.

Sgt. Cassidy had been looking for the man for some time previous to picking him up, but lost him temporarily when the Somerville police caught up with him first. Police say the man is wanted by Medford and several other Police Departments.

When Zirpolo appeared in court at Woburn, Justice Henchey found him guilty and gave him a two-months' suspended sentence. The police recovered the paint at a Somerville taxi office, and Zirpolo's wife returned $22 to the paint dealer in court.

Winchester had three competitors, Robert Mullin, Richard Leonard and John E. Page, II, in the qualifying round of the 34th Massachusetts State junior golf championship at the Commonwealth Country Club on Tuesday. None of the local entrants qualified, but both Mullin and Page were in the junior-junior class, which would be pretty young to qualify in such competition.

McCOY WITH NEBRASKA RADIO STATION

The appointment of Hugh McCoy, formerly of 128 Washington street, to the staff of Radio Station KFAB, Omaha, Nebraska, has been announced by Harry Burke, general manager of the 50,000 Watt CBS affiliate.

McCoy takes over a new position, a combination of radio news reporter and feature newscaster. He will cover important news stories in the region personally, and will report them to KFAB's Midwest Empire listeners.

After two years service in the Merchant Marine, McCoy joined the News Staff of WCOP, Boston. Before leaving for the Midwest McCoy was assistant manager of the Boston studios of The World Wide Broadcasting Foundation's international short wave good will station, WRUL, where he broadcast financial and business news programs beamed to Europe and Latin America as "The American Industrial Reporter."

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCoy and daughter, Lael, made their home at 128 Washington street.

WICKS — McCALL

Wearing candlelight satin with a fitted bodice and a bertha of imported rosepoint lace, Miss Beth Eleanor McCall, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor McCall of Alban street, was married on Saturday evening, August 9, at the First Baptist Church to Theodore Reginald Wicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wicks of Wilmington. White gladiolas decorated the church for the 8 o'clock ceremony which was performed by the pastor, Rev. Walter Lee Bailey. Mrs. Frederick C. MacDonald played the bridal music.

Miss McCall was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. H. Webster Youlden. She had for her honor attendant her cousin, Mrs. William G. Kelly of Rumford, R. I., and two more cousins, Miss Marjorie Ann Wright of Lowell and Miss Judith Ann Youlden of Rumford, R. I., were junior bridesmaids.

Mrs. Kelly wore a white nylon net dress over a yellow underskirt and carried yellow and blue flowers, wearing a headband to match. The junior bridesmaids wore white nylon net dresses over blue underskirts and had headbands and flowers like those of the matron of honor.

Ralph Wicks of Malden was his brother's best man and the ushers were Lloyd Perkins of Wakefield, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and John Regan of Wilmington.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the church social hall, the mothers of the bride and bridegroom assisting in receiving with the bridal attendants. Mrs. McCall, mother of the bride, wore a tangerine colored dress with brown hat and matching corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs Wicks, wore an orchid dress with accessories and flowers of pale pink.

Mr. and Mrs. Wicks went to upper New York State on their bridal journey.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School and of the Katharine Gibbs School. Mr. Wicks is a graduate of Wilmington High School and of the Bentley School of Accounting and Finance.

HOLE IN ONE!

While playing with his son, Davey, Jr., in Tuesday's final round of the Father and Son golf tournament at the Winchester Country Club, Dave Shean shot a hole-in-one, the ambition of every golfer. It was Davey, Jr's, first tournament, and he got a real thrill out of his dad's feat to remember it by.

Dave made his ace with an eight-iron to the 140-yard 14th green. The ball took two hops, the second taking it by the hole, and then went into a reverse twist that caused it to roll into the cup.

The Sheans were playing in the division for fathers with sons under 12. Their card was 95-72, not good enough to win, but not too bad, either.

BLAKE PROMOTED

Paul G. Blake, U.S.M.C.R. inactive, of 37 Grove street, has been selected for promotion from the grade of 1st Lieutenant to Captain. An Engineer Specialist, Captain Blake recently returned to inactive duty after serving 18 months in the United States and Korea.

DANA S. GOODALE

Dana S. Goodale of 6 Middlesex street, was drowned late Sunday afternoon in Eggemogin Bay near Stonington, Maine when he apparently suffered a heart attack and fell into the water after bringing in his boat from a fishing trip. He went to Deer Isle, Maine, near Stonington, last Friday night to join his wife and daughter, Marjorie, who had been there for a week visiting friends. He went alone on his fishing trip Sunday afternoon. The Coroner's verdict was death from accidental drowning.

Mr. Goodale was the son of Myron A., and Minnie S. (Shaw) Goodale. He was born November 15, 1910, in Danvers, but later moved to Brookline and was graduated from Brookline High School in the Class of 1928.

He was for a time connected with Lever Brothers at the firm's Boston office, now closed. In May, 1950, he became associated with the Walter Baker Division of General Foods in Dorchester, and was assistant credit and collections manager of the company at the time of his death. He came to Winchester in 1946, having previously lived in Newton.

Mr. Goodale leaves his wife, the former Eleanor Brown of Newton; two daughters, Nancy and Marjorie; a son, Douglas, his mother and a brother, Myron A. Goodale, Jr., of Natick.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at the J. S. Waterman & Sons Chapel in Kenmore Square, Boston. The Rev. Robert A. Storer, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiated. Burial was in Cedar Grove Cemetery, West Peabody.

TOWN MEETING VOTES NEW BOILERS

SPECIAL SESSION STAGGERED AT COST OF NEW EQUIPMENT FOR HIGH SCHOOL

The special session of the limited town meeting, held Wednesday night with 26 more than the 100 members necessary for a quorum present, voted to install new boilers in the high school building, to install fire screens in the Wadleigh building and to use funds remaining in the high school repairs account with a transfer from the Excess and Deficiency Account to construct a "sample room" at the high school.

Payment for the items voted is to be by transfer from the funds in the Excess and Deficiency Account and the total voted under three separate articles is $81,928.20. Individually, the new boilers and installation will cost $78,451.20, the fire screens, $2,552.00, and the "sample room", something over $2,000. For the last item only $925 was authorized by transfer at Wednesday's meeting, this amount being added to funds remaining in the Senior High School Building Rehabilitation and Renovation Account.

These are the simple facts of the meeting. The boilers and fire-screens had to be provided if the high school and the Wadleigh School are to be used this fall. The "sample room" evidently rode in on the coattails of the necessary appropriations.

Few who went to the meeting believed there would be much of any debate over the transfers to pay for the boilers and fire-screens, but even the school authorities themselves, or some of them, were afraid the "sample room" might not go over.

Incidentally this isn't to be a room in which samples are kept. Briefly, the money is to be spent to renovate a single high school room as a sample of what the entire building will look like, if and when it is completely remodelled. The room will have a new ceiling and floor, different walls and modern lighting, and will be furnished with a set of modern school room furniture which has been in use at the high school for several years.

The idea behind the "sample room" is to enable the citizens and taxpayers to see what a modernized high school will look like if the committee now studying the school building situation decide to modernize and the town supports their judgment.

There wasn't any option on the expenditures for new boilers and the fire-screens. The underwriters agent had refused to certify the old boilers any longer and the State Department of Public Safety refused to permit further use of the Wadleigh building without the fire-screens. Anyone would have thought the meeting would pass the articles in routine fashion and get out of the steaming hall as soon as possible.

Such was not the case. There was an audible gasp when Moderator Wadsworth read the amount necessary for the new boilers, and after Mr. Swift, speaking for the Finance Committee, stated that the Committee felt the figures were high, and had only since four o'clock on the afternoon of the meeting to consider them, delegates arose here and there for information.

Mr. Swift did say the Finance Committee recommended favorable action on the transfer of $78,451.20 for the boilers, but that word "high" and the late hour at which the Finance Committee got the figures had started something, and a succession of speakers, Mr. Pike, Mr. Russell, Mr. Hewis, Mr. Twombly, Mrs. McDonald, and others whose names we did not get wanted specific information. Especially they were concerned with the break-down of the entire amount for boilers, specifically with the fact that the boilers themselves cost only $7,700 of the total $78,451.20.

HOME FROM THE WEST

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall W. Symmes have arrived back in Winchester after a seven weeks automobile trip to the West Coast. They travelled about 12,000 miles, visiting Colorado Springs, Salt Lake City, Grand Coulee Dam, Grand Canyon, California, Washington, Victoria, B. C., Banff, Lake Louise, Yellowstone and many other National Parks. While in Los Angeles they had a very pleasant visit with the George Budds, formerly of Walnut street, Winchester and now living in Whittier, California. They also called on the George Nardins in Greeley, Colorado, former Stowell road residents.

"BON VOYAGE"

Mrs. C. Norman Noonan of 48 Woodside road was tendered a "Bon Voyage" party at her home on Sunday, August 3, prior to her sailing on the "Nova Scotia" on August 5 for an extended visit to her home in Oldham, Lancashire, England. Many relatives and friends visited the Noonan home on that day to wish Mrs. Noonan a pleasant voyage. A feature was the making of a recording which is to be sent to Mrs. Noonan's mother, Mrs. M. Mellon. The recording was made to bring to Mrs. Mellon the voices of the many friends she made while on a visit to this country a few years ago. Mrs. Mellon returned home to England after a ten month's visit in February 1951.

Mrs. Noonan's last visit home was in 1949 when she made the round trip by air. This experience was nothing new to her as she had served as a member of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force of the Royal Air Force for five years during World War II. Mr. Noonan met her while he was stationed in England. Mr. Noonan is connected with the office of P. T. Foley, Realtor, is a prominent member of the American Legion, a member of the Control Staff for Civil Defense and is Secretary to the Board of Retirement of the Town of Winchester.

A large Bon Voyage cake, featuring a replica of the newest and fastest liner afloat, the United States, was the center of attraction on the buffet table. A collation was served and the many guests departed wishing Mrs. Noonan a pleasant voyage and a most enjoyable visit home.

MARSHALL PIHL, JR., APPEARS IN PEGGY WOOD'S PLAY

Marshall R. Pihl, Jr., of the Parkway, while summering with his family at their summer home in West Harwich, is ending his second year working under Richard Aldrich at the Cape Playhouse in Dennis. As General Technician, he has alternated between taking care of all lighting and sound effects for the plays, as well as taking small parts when needed. He received rather a distinct honor when Peggy Wood and her original television cast came to the Playhouse to present "Here's Mama" recently, by being given, with less than twenty-four hours notice, the role of an adolescent youth which he portrayed very well. Last week, several columns of the Cape Playhouse program were devoted to telling about Marshall and his work back stage, accompanied by his picture showing him at work on sound effects. Next week, as Production Manager, he will produce and play a character part in the annual Apprentices' Play. In September, he will return to Harvard College as a sophomore, where he will reside in Kirkland House.

GIRL IDENTIFIED BY POLICE

Monday afternoon shortly before 3 o'clock Mrs. Helen Callahan, a clerk at Purtle's Pharmacy, on Washington street at Swanton street, notified the Police that a young woman had collapsed on the sidewalk near the Pharmacy and had been brought into the store by Paul O'Neil.

Officers James E. Farrell and Alfred Poole were sent to the Pharmacy with the Police ambulance and removed the young woman to the Winchester Hospital where she was attended by Dr. Hinnerdale of Reading. She was unconscious when she was picked up and there was nothing by which to identify her on her person, though she had a pocketbook, containing two $20 bills and about a dollar in change.

Near where the young woman had collapsed the Police found an automobile with a New Hampshire registration. Investigation disclosed the fact that it was registered to George Hackett of 28 Central street, Farmington, N. H. He told the Police that both his car and his daughter, Betty Jean Morgan, were missing.

A description of the girl picked up here was sent on teletype to the Police of Farmington, and after seeing it, both Mr. and Mrs. Hackett stated positively that she was their missing daughter. They came to Winchester for her, arriving early Tuseday morning.

Police say the girl had not been well and had planned to visit a physician in Farmington on Sunday.

EDWIN D. MANTER

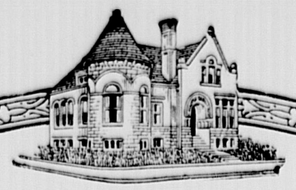

Edwin D. Manter of 6 Ridgefield road died Tuesday, August 12, at Fairlawn Nursing Home in Lexington. His death occurred only a few days more than a year after that of his wife.

Mr. Manter was the son of John Manter, Jr., and of Sylvia (Davis) Manter. He was born May 4, 1867, in Acushnet, and came to Winchester 40 years ago from Wilmington, Vt., having the house in which he lived built for him at the time he came to town.

During his active life Mr. Manter was a commission lumber merchant, selling California lumber in the East. He was a veteran member of William Parkman Lodge of Masons.

Mr. Manter married May Bates March 14, 1900, in West Upton. Mrs. Manter died August 7, 1951, after a bad fall on some cement steps at her home. Mr. Manter leaves no immediate family.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Williams Funeral Home in West Upton with the Rev. Flint M. Bissell, a retired Unitarian minister and long-time family friend, officiating. Burial was in West Upton in Maplewood Cemetery.

WINS WESTBROOK APPOINTMENT

Miss Irene L. Kline of 18 Alden Lane has been appointed Director of Residence at Westbrook Junior College, Portland, Maine, according to an announcement by Dr. Milton D. Proctor, President.

Miss Kline is a graduate of Hamline University, St. Paul, Minn., and is continuing residence work at the University of Chicago for the Master's Degree in Education.

The new director has been associated with Lever Brothers as a research assistant in public relations. She is a member of the Society for the Advancement of Management, the American Management Association, and was formerly a member of the National Association of Deans.

Col. and Mrs. Frank F. Marchetti of 151 Forest street returned Saturday from a week's cruise along the Maine Coast. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Zeigler of Reading aboard their sailing yacht, "West Wind."

CHAPMANS FATHER-SON GOLF WINNERS

Dick Chapman of Oyster Harbors and his son, Jackie, won the annual Father and Son Golf Tournament at the Winchester Country Club this year, carding a 72 last week in Wednesday's competition that stood up against the assaults of 224 other teams, playing before and after that day.

Chapman, present French amateur champion and former British and United States titlist, picked up two titles at Winchester this year, his second being the prize in the class for fathers playing with sons under 12. He and son, Dixie, 10, playing Tuesday had an 83-65 to nip Ray and David Marrad of Commonwealth, whose card read 92-66.

In the big open class competition the Winchester team of Judge J. W. and "Little Joe" Monahan, Jr., came the closest to catching the Chapmans. With three holes left on Tuesday the Monahans needed three pars to win by a stroke, but they got only one and finished two strokes out of the money, their gross score being a 74.

Another Winchester team, Dave and Jim Wilcox, had a gross 77 last week Thursday to tie with the Egans, George, of Oakley, and son, Junior, of Weston, for third honors, the Egans turning in their card last week Wednesday. Behind them were several 79s, one turned in on the opening day of the tourney, last week Tuesday, by Irving Sherlock, faculty manager of athletics at Lexington High, and his son, Irving, Jr.

The Grandfather-Grandson Division competition was won by M. E. Vaughan of Framingham and grandson, Gary Cross, who had an 88-73. The Monahans, Granddad Judge and Grandson, J. W., 3rd, had 96-74 for runner-up honors.

The consistently bad weather of last week made it difficult to run off the tournament and that 225 teams would actually brave the conditions prevailing is a real tribute to the popularity of this long-time feature contest.

Following are the Winchester scores by days:

Gail Hutchins and her brother, Guy Hayward Hutchins, children of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Hutchins of 22 Hancock street, are Little League boosters, who believe in backing their enthusiasm with real effort. Both devoted a day recently to collecting money for the league, Gail picking up 91 cents and David $1.17. They turned the money over to President Edward A. Bartlett of the Little League, who doubtless wishes there were more in town like Gail and David.

LONG WON AGAIN AT MARBLEHEAD

Rodney Long, orange-thatched, basketball-playing skipper of snipes out of the Winchester Boat Club, won the New England Snipe Championship at Race Week at Marblehead last week for the second successive year. Tall "Rod" didn't have things all his own way this year as he did a year ago. The competition from the Wilkins Brothers of Massachusetts Bay and from Bob Huggins of Winchester Boat Club was stiffer. As a matter of fact at one of the earlier stages of the competition Huggins was ahead of Long, but as more and more of the chips were down, Rodney began to show his championship touch and at the end of the over-all competition was sitting pretty enough so he didn't have to worry too much about first places, as long as he finished in the first three.

This mental luxury was due to the fact that on one day the Wilkins boys finished 7th, and Huggins also had a day when he was about that far back. This hurt both skippers as Long finished no worse than fourth on any day.

In winning his second straight New England championship and the Simonds Trophy, given by Winchester's former Commodore, Don Simonds, himself a master snipe skipper, Long and his "Rebel" piled up 78¾ points. Wilkins Brothers with their New Look out of Merrymount, had 74¾; Winchester's Bob Huggins and his Shady Too, 68¼; Edward Younie of Quincy and his Hi Satiety, 60; and the veteran Alan H. Gulickson of Merrymount and his Thebar, 59. A year ago Long, with his six firsts and a second piled up a much more impressive total.

Besides winning the New England title "Roddie" was one of those earning honorable mention for the Leonard Munn Fowle Memorial Trophy, won by 29 year-old Bob James who competes in the Lightning Class.

A year ago Pete Redding and his Gremlin won the Boston Yacht Club Trophy and Bob Stengle, the Pleon Trophy, to give Winchester a clean sweep in the Snipe class racing. This year the Boston race, held last week Wednesday in a light southeast wind and drizzly rain, was won by Bob Wilkins of Merrymount. Bob Huggins of Winchester was second, Rod Long third and Pete Redding, fifth. Wilkins had previously won the Pleon Junior Trophy, giving his stable two prizes, characterized by the "Brothers" as "small stuff", they both being much more interested in the important silverware amassed in the Eastern, Corinthian and New England competitions by "Rod" Long.

Last Wednesday in the big U. S. One Design Class, Byron Wiswell of Winchester, sailed his Goose to a three second win over Bill Welch for the Boston Trophy. Byron also was adjudged the Race Week winner in this class with a point total of 69¼, receiving the Noyes Memorial Trophy.

Harry Bean of Winchester, sailing Susan Hartnett's Man O'War, won the Boston Yacht Club Trophy in the newish Raven Class last Wednesday, and in doing so gave a great exhibition. His boat was moving so fast that he sailed right through and finished ahead of the two larger classes, the U.S. One Design and the Internationals.

The third and final race of the Eastern Yacht Club series, postponed twice because of bad weather, was finally sailed off last Thursday morning. Again the air was light and Bob Wilkins of Merrymount took an early lead with his New Look and stayed in front to the finish, Rod Long bringing in his Rebel, second, with Ed Younie of Quincy, third, and Pete Redding, fourth. Long took the Eastern Yacht trophy with the highest total of points for the series.

The first race of the three-race series for the Corinthian Yacht Club Trophy was held Thursday afternoon. In the Snipe Class Rod Long of Winchester finished first with a big lead. Ed Younie of Quincy was second, Pete Redding of Winchester, third, Alan Gulickson of Merrymount, fourth, and Cliffie Austin of Winchester, fifth.

The second race of the series was sailed Friday, again in light air and scattered showers. Bob Wilkins, who dropped away back to seventh the day before, won Friday's competition, Bob Huggins of Winchester came out of his slump to finish second and Rod Long came in third. Cliff Austin of Winchester also improved his point standing by bringing in his High Cliff, fourth.

The third and last Corinthian race was especially exciting for followers of the snipe class. In a brisk northeast wind the snipes were sent over a triangular course of two laps, instead of the one used when the air is light.

Quickly the competition became a duel between those arch-rivals, Rod Long of Winchester and Bob Wilkins of Merrymount.

Wilkins led at the end of a lap by perhaps 100 yards, but starting the second lap, with a beat to wind'ard, Long pulled up and passed Wilkins at the first mark.

On the run to the second mark Wilkins passed Long, only to have Rodney in turn pass him to round the last mark half a length in the van.

Cleverly maintaining his advantage at the turn and guarding against Wilkins slipping inside, Long increased his lead on the reach for home and finished with a safe margin over the Merrymount skipper.

Meanwhile, as the leaders were battling it out Bob Huggins of Winchester had been working his way up until he sailed into an easy third place.

Though he didn't need to finish first to win the Corinthian series, Long's thrilling victory clinched beyond any doubt his right to the New England Championship for the second straight year. Before Rodney, Roger Swanson held this championship for Winchester.

The Donald Crowells of Swan road, long time and well-known residents of Winchester, are leaving town to take up residence on Musketaquid road in Concord.

N.E.A.A.A.U. SWIMMING MEET

Last Saturday afternoon, August 9, the annual Winchester NEAAAU Swimming Races were held at Leonard Field Pool before an audience of some 300 persons. In the outstanding event of the day Lois Aspinwall of Worcester retained her NEAAAU Senior Women's 400 Meter Free Style title, although closely challenged by Virginia Smithers of Somerville.

The Worcester Aqua Maids, probably the outstanding girls' swimming club in New England, added the Women's National Junior 150 Meter Medley Relay championship to their laurels. The Winchester Swimming Club, represented by Noreen Johnson, Nancy Donaghy and Peggy McNally, qualified for the finals in this event but were unable to place. The young Winchester team showed a lot of determination, however, and with the additional two to three years' experience enjoyed by the rival teams, it certainly will be a power to be reckoned with in the future.

In special free style races for Winchester boys and girls 13 and under, medals are awarded by the Boston Record-American to the following:

Boys

(1) David Govostes
(2) David Harold
(3) Anthony Perittano

Girls

(1) Marguerite Johnson
(2) Mary McNally
(3) Ann Neville

ANNUAL RED CROSS SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIPS

Tomorrow, Saturday, August 16, the Annual Red Cross Swimming Championships will be held at Leonard Field Pool beginning at 1:30 p. m. There will be swimming and diving competition for boys and girls of all ages. The climax of the afternoon will be the awarding of trophies by the Red Cross and the Park Department. The recipients will be boys and girls with outstanding proficiency in swimming and with an unusually high spirit of courtesy, cooperation and good sportsmanship. Last year's winners of the Red Cross trophy were Ann Neville for the girls and David Govostes for the boys. The Thomas J. McGowan trophy, from the Park Department, last year went to Noreen Johnson for the girls and to John Morgan for the boys.

As an added feature of the program, Red Cross Swimming Certificates will be awarded to all children who have passed the required tests for beginners, intermediates, swimmers and junior life saving.

Parents, friends and all others who are interested are cordially invited to be present. Excellent bleacher seats will be available. Come and cheer on your favorite swimmer!

WINCHESTER HOOPSTERS DOWNED LEXINGTON

The Winchester Playgrounds basketball team won its first game of the season by defeating the Lexington Boys' Club 42-27 at Ginn Court last Friday evening. The locals had too much height and experience for the visitors and were able to control the ball the major part of the game. The Bartlettmen showed their lack of practice this week, however, as they were not functioning smoothly and were guilty of several bad passes which resulted in Lexington baskets.

Winchester led 13-4 at the quarter and 19-8 at the half. Lexington outscored the locals by one point in the third quarter to make the score 29-19 entering the final period in which Winchester added five points to its winning margin. Stu Thomson paced the local scoring with 16 points as he was driving well. Joe DiIorio hit for double figures with 10 points while John Atkinson drew several assists on nice passes to set up Winchester baskets.

In the preliminary game the Leonard Field Juniors beat the West Side Juniors 14-3 with Ed Carter as top scorer for the winners. Another double header is scheduled for tonight with the Reading Playground team as the feature attraction. Reading defeated the locals 44-33 at Reading three weeks ago and the locals are hopeful of reversing that decision tonight.

DODGERS WON PLAYOFF

VICTORY OVER YANKS CLINCHED SECOND HALF TITLE

The Dodgers won the second half title in the Little League with an easy 9-2 victory over the Yanks in a playoff for the second half crown on Manchester Field Monday evening. A previous game between the two teams had to be called because of darkness.

Flaherty, Dodger pitcher, gave up only one hit, a home run by Yanks first baseman, Billy Morton. Doug Thomson and Longworth hit triples for the winners. The summary:

BASKETBALL TONIGHT

A third double header in the Playground basketball program will be staged at Ginn Court this evening. These basketball games are proving increasingly popular and last Friday's attendance was the largest yet. In the feature attraction the Senior Playground quintet will meet the Reading Playground Seniors. In a preliminary game the Loring Avenue Juniors, captained by Jim Gibbons, will play the Ginn Field Juniors, led by Joel Peckham.

The Reading team should prove to be a banner attraction because of the intense rivalry that exists between Winchester and Reading in any athletic contests. Adding to the local's desire to go all out for a victory is the fact that Reading defeated the locals at Reading three weeks ago by a score of 44-33. The Bartlettmen feel that they have improved enough since then to reverse that earlier verdict.

The Reading quintet is made up of many of last winter's high school team that twice extended the championship Red and Black five. Heading the list of visiting stars is the huge, six-foot, six inch Dick Burhoe, who was the high scorer of the previous contest. Another name well known to Winchester fans is the three-sport star, Albie Runge, a fast-moving guard. This should be the best game of the summer program and could well be a preview of Winchester's prospects in the Middlesex League next winter.

CAMP FELLSLAND CLOSES ITS 28th SEASON

In the great downpour of rain Sunday, Camp Fellsland closed its 28th season of camp for the local Scouts. The closing was marked by the annual banquet which was prepared in such wonderful style by the cook, and his assistants. The meal itself naturally was roast turkey with all the fixin's from soup to nuts. Many of the boys certainly seemed to eat to the extent that it started to come out of their ears. In spite of the fact that many parents arrived early and the banquet got under way at one o'clock, it was close to three o'clock before the boys broke away to go to their parents for their ride home again.

Camp Fellsland has enjoyed one of its best years with better than 600 boy-weeks accumulated by about 250 boys from Fellsland Council area. The camp, although opening on a very rainy day and closing on a very rainy day, had an unusually hot, sunshiny season and the program accordingly was exceptionally well run and the water program exceptionally well appreciated.

The following local boys were at camp last week:

Jeffrey Bor
Carl Masi
Richard Gaffney
David Hopkins
George Yore
John Yore
William Bond
William Oliver
Stephen Enright

Mr. Jellison, and indeed all the School Committee speakers, agreed that the figures are high, but are the lowest they could obtain with the time element as a factor. In fact, Mr. Jellison told the meeting that only one firm, the Hodge Boiler Co., could provide the boilers in time for installation to start the school year. Mr. Speers, in an admirable extempory explanation of the entire project, told the meeting the boilers had actually been bought prior to the meeting so that they can be installed in time for school.

In a break down of the amount which does not pay for the boilers, Mr. Jellison explained that oil burning boilers are to be installed and the $11,997 is to pay for this equipment and installation, including a tank. The sum of $7,632 is for pipe and boiler covering, or insulation, and painting; $16,485 for excavation, backfilling, cutting, patching work, brick work for painting; and $2,700 for electric wiring. The remainder of the total, some $5,811.20, is for consultants' fees, which amount to eight per cent of the gross contract.

Mr. Hewis and Mr. Wakefield particularly, felt that the town faced an emergency situation primarily because the School Committee had not kept the school building in adequate repair. Mr. Wakefield, stating the town is now paying about $25,000 more for the installation of the boilers than it would have paid when they were first found to be in poor condition in 1949, sought an amendment to the motion for the transfer to pay for the boilers, providing for a committee to investigate the condition of town buildings, reporting at the March town meeting.

Moderator Wadsworth ruled the motion out of order, and Mr. Hewis took the floor to remind the meeting that the Referendum Committee had urged the expenditure of $40,000 at the time when the consideration of a new school was in order, and if some of this money had been spent for boilers then, it would have saved the town money. Mrs. Woodward replied with a detailed account of what the money had been expended for and said that the School Committee, not the Referendum Committee, had inserted the articles in the warrant asking $40,000 for the improvement of the high school.

Mr. Speers explained that the School Committee was just as disturbed over the cost of the boilers as its critics and added the information that the Committee had been living from year to year with the boilers because of the uncertainty of the future of the high school building as a school. He explained that boilers of sufficient capacity are to be installed to take care of heating the entire building, if and when it seems best to discontinue heating the addition from the Junior High plant. He also said there had been no lack of cooperation between the School and Finance Committee, and that the School Committee had gotten the boiler figures to the Finance Committee as soon as they had them, themselves.

Mr. Farnsworth told the meeting that what had been done in the past was "water over the dam", that the present school situation is due to a minority of the town who have blocked all programs to improve the physical setup of the schools, and offered as an amendment to the motion to transfer funds for the new boilers an emergency preamble, which under Winchester's Town Meeting procedure puts any motion so passed in effect immediately and precludes any possibility of referendum.

Mr. Hewis protested hotly, and Mrs. Woodside also spoke vehemently in opposition, telling the meeting that all present would vote for the boilers and that the emergency preamble was a slap in the face of those who are just as sincerely interested in the high school as any in town.

Mr. Wadsworth ruled a two-thirds vote necessary on the emergency preamble, over Mr. Hewis' objection, and the preamble was adopted 124 to 2.

The original motion providing for the transfer was passed unanimously.

There wasn't as much debate on the article to provide funds for the fire-screens, but Mrs. McDonald wondered why in the world the screens had not been installed back in 1946 when the School Committee first learned they were necessary and could have saved the town $1,500. She spoke at length on the fine school building owned by St. Mary's Parish and stated that after a recent disastrous school fire underwriters had been unable to find a single thing that could be done at St. Mary's either for safety or increased educational efficiency. All this, she said, without the benefit of a School Committee.

The article providing the fire-screens was easily passed on a voice vote, and the article for the "sample room" followed in like manner, though Mr. Wakefield, chairman of the Washington School Addition Building Committee, opposed spending $2,000 to fix up a room which at best can give no adequate idea of how an entirely modernized building will look. He also questioned whether the wiring of the high school will stand the load of really modern lighting.

With the time approaching 10 the meeting finally adjourned, but the delegates did not go immediately home. There were "gabfests" all over the hall and around the building, as pros and antis indulged in more or less pointed recapitulation.

The meeting did not get under way until after 8 o'clock, due to the late arrival of both the Selectmen and Finance Committee.

MERCHANTS DEFEAT ARLINGTON TOWNIES

The Merchants continued their chances for a playoff berth in the Inter-City League by defeating the Arlington Town Team last Friday evening at Leonard Field by a score of 8 to 5.

The locals got away to a fast start, scoring six runs in the first inning. Griffin singled to open the inning. Amico walked, moving to second on a wild pitch. Serieka singled home Griffin and Amico and moved to second on the relay. Dalton flied to deep right, but Golden dropped the ball. Serieka scored with Dalton reaching second, scoring on Johnson's single. Johnson stole second and reached third when Bellino beat out a perfect bunt. Bellino stole second and both he and Johnson scored when Myers booted Griffin's grounder.

Jim Griffin with two hits boosted his batting average to .380 for the season.

MERCHANTS AND READING TIE

The Merchants and Reading continued their battle for third place in the Inter-City League, playing a 1 to 1 six-inning tie Monday evening at Leonard Field.

Both clubs played good ball, with Symmes and Doherty hurling effectively, giving up only two and three hits respectively.

Griffiin and DiIorio again executed the run and bunt play perfectly with Griffin moving to third as DiIorio's bunt drew the third baseman in. He then scored on Runge's overthrow of third. Reading's run came on a squeeze play that everyone knew was coming, but then seemed rather surprised when it did happen.

The Merchants play the Imperials Friday evening at Leonard, the last regularly scheduled game of the season.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED

LITTLE LEAGUE STARS TO PLAY ROTARY FOR JIMMY FUND

Ever since the start of the Little League season last spring members of the Rotary have been toying with the notion of challenging their Club-sponsored Yanks to a game, the idea being to show the young fellers some of the finer points of baseball as it should be played.

Like many another idea, this one sort of mulled along until this week the Rotarians came to realize that the Little League teams would soon be through with their schedule and disbanded. Promptness seemed of the essence if that challenge match was to take place.

While this phaze of the situation was being discussed one of the Rotary enthusiasts suggested that, instead of challenging the Yanks, the Club issue a defy to the Little League All Stars so that there could be no criticism of the Rotarians for wanting to play only their own team and restricting the value that will accrue to the Little Leaguers from competition with such master baseballers as are numbered within the ranks of Rotary in Winchester.

Everyone felt this idea had merit and that the Club ought to meet the best the League affords, so Prexy Allan Wilde was deputized to direct a challenge to the Little League authorities, "dasting" them to let their All Stars get on a diamond with the Rotary phenoms at the same time and place.

The challenge was drawn up in the best Wilde manner, and dispatched to the Little League, being received by President Ted Bartlett with mixed emotions, chief among them being glee! In practically no time at all details of the game were complete and the Rotary and Little League All Stars will meet in more or less mortal combat at Little League diamond on Manchester Field Tuesday evening, August 26, at 6:15.

The only stipulation made by Mr. Bartlett to the match was that all funds go to the local "Jimmy Fund" campaign, this stipulation having the enthusiastic backing of Theatre Manager "Mike" Stranger, who annually heads up the "Jimmy Fund" activity in Winchester.

So it's all settled! The Bartlett ukase hase been agreed to by the Rotary, the Little Leaguers are practically tickled to death at the thought of playing against the Rotary, and the Rotarians are some of them commencing to wonder whether, after all, in challenging the kids to a ball game, they have acted prudently.

It's too late now, and the Rotarians have already settled down to secret practice after laying in a goodly supply of arnica, snake oil, absorbine junior and adhesive tape. A warning has also been issued to High School Trainer Lou Goddu to stay in town at all costs for a week or two following August 26, just in case his services should be needed, as they undoubtedly will be!

There is quite a lot of diamond class in the Rotary ranks, and the problem of manager "Charlie" Koch is going to be how to fit his plethora of luminaries into nine positions and six innings.

"Hy" Moody will positively start on the mound for Rotary. "Hy" has had plenty to say about the pitching of his Little League Red Sox team, and he is really going to show the boys his high hard one on the 26th. "Hy" is a sort of honorary member of the Boston Red Sox team, and it really is an open secret that the steady improvement in the Bosox pitching this year is due in no small part to his secret coaching.

Dick Hakanson and "Chub" Murphy will do the catching for the Rotarians and it is the Star reporter's thought that Little Leaguers use the fall-away slide going in to the plate on scoring possibilities, rather than the direct approach. Neither "Hakie" nor "Chub" will move easily, believe us!

Others who will positively play for the Service club are Phil Gallagher, base-stealer extraordinary; Harry Chefalo, a lead pipe cinch for infielding honors; big Nick Fitzgerald, who used to hit them a country mile back in the good old days of the Legion and Town Team; and Fred "Polock" McCormack, a left-handed first sacker who worked very smoothly around that hassock back in the days before he took on weight.

We haven't been able to learn positively whether Wade Grindle and Forbes Norris will play in the classic. Wade, the old Bates, used to play a very torrid second base indeed back in the days of the Faculty-High School games of happy memory, and few can go better to their left for balls hit to their right than that same Wade Grindle. Forbes is, of course, no tennis opponent to sneer at, and he has the altitude for a good first baseman, just in case "Polock" finds that extra avoirdupois a bit irksome; in fact the Doctor is our man for the initial pillow in case a replacement is needed.

Price Wilson says he definitely won't make it, though his southpaw cannonballs in the bygone days of the Calumet Club bowling are still talked about by the old timers. Jim Scott unfortunately will be out of town, but Aram Mouradian is being mentioned for one of the outfield posts and Milne Blanchard is practically sure to see service. "Doc" was one of the better infielders in the Halcyon days of the Ten Old Men. (Remember that soft ball game with the bloomer girls!) Harry Bigelow will be available for pinch-hitting duties and "Doc" Harry Mueller is expected to be ready just in case Hy Moody should falter on the mound. "Al" Elliott, the Billy Goodman of the Rotary team, has stated he is ready to move in wherever necessary, and "Butch" Haley is still another adding to the strength of the Rotary bench.

It is easy to see, if you have gotten this far, that the Rotary will not lack for talent. Its problem will be how to use all the stars available. By all means mark the date, August 26, on your calendar and don't let anything interfere with your attendance at this Rotary-Little League grudge match. You'll always regret it if you do.

FABULOUS, THRILL-STUDDED "GREATEST SHOW" DAZZLING TREAT FOR BOTH YOUNG AND OLD

To give all a chance to see this superior film, manager Michael Stranger announces that Cecil B. DeMille's "The Greatest Show on Earth", a Paramount picture which opened Wednesday at the Winchester Theatre, will run for one full week.

"The Greatest Show on Earth" is more than a compelling portrait of the bold and strange and joyous things on view beneath the circus' canvas roof. It is a sensitive and revealing record of the lives of circus performers and workers — their strength, their pride, their courage, their passions, their failures and their triumphs.

To stage this immense drama, DeMille used the full facilities of the Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey Circus and the services of some of Hollywood's most talented players. Among the stars, Betty Hutton is seen as a daring aerialist; Cornel Wilde plays a romantic and reckless trapeze performer; Charlton Heston portrays the iron-willed circus boss; Dorothy Lamour takes over the role of a sultry hula girl; Gloria Grahame is cast as a come-hither elephant girl; and James Stewart appears as a bulb-nosed circus clown.

The harmony to be found by seeking a more spiritual sense of existance will be emphasized in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Soul" which will be read in all Christian Science churches Sunday.

This theme is keynoted in the Golden Text: (Psalms 119:174, 175) "I have longed for thy salvation, O Lord; and thy law is my delight. Let my soul live, and it shall praise thee; and let thy judgments help me."

Among the passages from the Bible are these words, also from Psalms, (84:2) "My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God."

This selection from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is included in the Lesson-Sermon: "A demonstration of the facts of Soul in Jesus' way resolves the dark visions of material sense into harmony and immortality." (Page 428)

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd R. McIntosh with sons Richard and John are back home from a vacation spent in Maine. Upon their return Mrs. McIntosh christened the new barbecue her husband had built, inviting several of the neighbors over for a barbecue supper.

Miss Martina Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Murphy of Inverness road, after a week's vacation at Nantucket, is now cruising with friends aboard a schooner off the coast of Maine.

A group of local youngsters, guests of Winchester Rotary, took off about noontime yesterday from the rear of the Town Hall in special busses, bound for Fenway Park in Boston and the baseball doubleheader between the Red Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Mrs. John Mercurio, wife of the well-known local insurance and real estate broker, left last Friday with her son, John, to visit relatives in Chicago, and will return Labor Day. En route they will stop in Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sutton, formerly of Wedgemere avenue, have taken up residence in Palo Alto, California.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lockhart, formerly of 10a Winthrop street are now making their home at 361 Main street.

PLAYGROUND NOTES

A very successful Play Day was held with the Reading Playgrounds at Reading last Thursday afternoon. Four sets of games were held with the two towns dividing the honors equally with two victories apiece. The Winchester girls won their softball game by a score of 18-14, with Betty Bellino and Mary Alice Rehm starring for the locals. The Winchester Juniors defeated the Reading Juniors in baseball by an 11-1 score, featured by the pitching of Jim Dwinell and a long home run by Jimmy Gibbons. In the other two baseball games the Reading Seniors were victorious 8-2 and the Reading Intermediates captured an easy 10-2 verdict.

As the final week of the Playground season gets underway, it appears that Leonard Field will monopolize the championships in four out of the five leagues in operation. The Seniors and Intermediates have clinched their titles while the Juniors and the softball team are leading their respective leagues. Only in kickball is Leonard Field out of the running, as Loring Avenue and West Side will play next week for the championship of that league. It certainly has been a good season for the proteges of Patsy Mawn and Sandy Burbank.

An interesting softball game was held at Loring Avenue on Monday afternoon when the Junior Boys' team edged the Senior girls by a score of 12-11. The rivalry was keen and the excitement great as the boys rallied in the last inning to beat out the older girls. Joel Peckham had a great day for the Ginn Field Juniors as they were defeated 13-12 by the Loring Juniors on Tuesday morning. All Joel did was to hammer out three home runs, the last of which was a grand slam in the top of the seventh to tie the score at 12-12.

The arts and crafts program is featuring work in leather these last two weeks and many beautiful and useful articles are being turned out by the youngsters. The leather pieces were donated to the Playgrounds by Beggs and Cobb and are top grade pieces that make wonderful products. The most popular among the items the children are making are three different kinds of coin purses, three different kinds of wallets, comb cases, wrist pocket books, cigarette cases, and cosmetic cases. The youngsters have established a new all-time high this summer for the number of articles made in the popular and expanding arts and crafts program.

"So I've got the jalopy jitters!"

"Look here," said the Jalopy, "is it my fault if I've got under-the-hood trouble?"

"Did you say that?" I said, startled. "I didn't know you could talk!"

"It's about time somebody talked to you, Fred Brown," the Jalopy said. "I'm going to give you a piece of my mind — before I take the long sleep in the junk yard."

"S-u-r-e, you go right ahead," I said politely. Maybe my old crate was turning into a Frankenstein's Monster!

"You need a new car," the Jalopy said. "And you need it bad. I'm dished, folded, done."

"Cut it out," I said, "I can't afford a new car."

"Yes you can. Get smart. Go to the bank and get an auto loan. They save you up to $100 on it. And those easy monthly payments will be practically painless."

Believe it or not, next day I dropped into this bank. They treated me like someone important. Quick and easy I came out with my auto loan.

A SERIOUS THEFT

The final chapter of what many would undoubtedly consider a serious breach of the law was written Wednesday morning in the District Court at Woburn when Justice William Henchey sentenced a Winchester man to 90 days in the House of Correction at Billerica on two charges; the first, breaking and entering in the day time with intent to commit a misdemeanor; and second, drunkenness. Sixty of the ninety days were assessed on the breaking and entering charge, the remainder for being drunk, the defendant having a suspended sentence for drunkenness already hanging over his head.

The seriousness of the entire situation stems from what the defendant took from a West Side home when he did his breaking and entering act. According to Sgt. Thomas F. Cassidy of the Police Department, who prosecuted the case for the town, the theft was of two fifteen-year-old bottles of cognac and a bottle of gin. Few connoisseurs would feel sixty days for the theft of fifteen-year-old liquor is too severe a penalty.

The theft occurred on Monday night and, following a tip received on Tuesday, Officer Thomas Parsons arrested the party responsible at his home Tuesday. The latter had evidently been sampling the cognac, for both he and a friend, who was probably helping fix a value on the booty by means of extensive sampling, were arrested, first of all, for drunkenness. The additional charge of breaking and entering was added after Sergeant Cassidy had questioned the alleged breaker and enterer and he had admitted the theft of liquor from the West Side home.

The Judge sentenced the friend who aided in the disposition of the stolen liquor to 15 days at Billerica. He and the man who did the stealing were taken there by Sgt. Cassidy and Officer Clarence E. Dunbury after court on Wednesday.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL REMEMBERED

Through the will of Miss Anna P. Reid of Reading, a retired 88-year-old school teacher who died July 10, the Winchester Hospital will recieve $13,250, the sum being one-quarter of a bequest made to four institutions. Miss Reid left an estate valued at $90,000.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

Arthur Andrew King, 891 Main street, and Patricia Ann McGinn, 2 Spruce street, Braintree.

Alan Davis, 7 Ravine road, and Alice Racoobian, 29 Lithgow street, Dorchester.

Theodore L. Freeman, builder, reported to the Police Wednesday afternoon that fittings valued at $400, including a bath-tub, boiler-jacket, pipes, plumbing fixtures, 16 bundles of shingles and a quantity of nails, had been stolen from a house he is building on Lockland road. The same afternoon Wendell Irving reported a tool-chest and tools valued at $200 had been stolen from his new home in process of construction at 200 High street.

A NEW WAY TO CONTROL ANTS

CHLORDANE DOES THE TRICK

There is now a new method for ant control which eliminates all the fuss and bother of trying to determine what kind of bait the ants will eat. The insecticide, chlordane, is the answer to the ant problem. It kills by direct contact, and thus eliminates the use of poison baits and the hazard which always accompanies their use; namely, that a child or pet may accidentally find and eat them.

Chlordane will kill any and all ants that walk or crawl on treated surfaces. Properly used, it can be depended upon to control them when and wherever they become a nuisance, such as in the home, on the lawn, the farm or the picnic grounds. Treatment is easy and simple.

The home and especially the kitchen is a place where ants seem to delight in making a nuisance of themselves. With chlordane the following simple procedure usually gives quick relief. Obtain a 2 per cent oil solution which has been manufactured for household use, apply it with a paint brush to baseboards, door jambs, walls and around the base of cupboards, cabinets, table legs and other objects over which the ants crawl in gaining entrance to the house, or places where they are foraging. When used around the kitchen or other places where food is stored take care to use it is such a way that food will not be contaminated or children can easily get it on their hands or into their mouths.

WHEN HOMES ARE OVER-RUN

If the whole house is being overrun with ants and the points of entrance cannot be determined, follow this procedure: Prepare a 2 per cent chlordane water emulsion (mix 1 quart of 45 to 47 per cent chlordane emulsified concentrate in 6 gallons of water) and spray all outside portions of the building from the ground to the first floor window level, all window and door frames, steps, porch edges and sides, and all other objects under the house, such as pillars and pipes, that may form a bridge from the house over which ants can crawl. This type of treatment has been found to keep homes, in the South, free of the pestiferous Argentine and other common household ants for an entire season.

Most ants which invade homes have their nests outside of the building. The line of marching ants can usually be followed back to the nests from which they come. If these nests and the hills they make can be found and "spot treated" with chlordane sprays or dusts, the ants in the house will disappear.

Lawns and picnic areas are often polluted with ants, and lawns on occasion may be seriously damaged. Chlordane is a top-notch insecticide for eliminating ants in such places. Foraging ants may be killed by dusting or spraying the areas. For each acre to be treated, use 30 pounds of a 5 per cent dust, or either 3 pounds of a 50 per cent wettable powder or 1½ quarts of an emulsified concentrate in 100 gallons of water. For smaller areas use proportionately smaller amounts. One pound of the dust or 1 ounce of the wettable powder in 2½ gallons of water is ample to treat 1,000 square feet of lawn.

Where there are many ant hills in a lawn or picnic area it is desirable to seek them out and give them an extra dousing of spray. Often "spot treatment" of the ant hills is all that is necessary to eliminate ants from a field or lawn. This is accomplished by thoroughly wetting each individual ant hill along with an area of abut 2 square feet surrounding it, with water containing 2 per cent chlordane.

In "spot treating" an ordinary sprinkling can may be used in making the treatments, if a sprayer is not available. A satisfactory solution (approximately 2 per cent) may be prepared by mixing 6 ounces of chlordane, either the 50 per cent wettable powder or the 45 to 47 per cent emulsified concentrate with one gallon of water.

POISON BAIT FOR ANTS

Important in ant control is the destruction of the queens which lay eggs that produce the workers. Since the queens live a protected life in their nests, they must be destroyed there. Because worker ants will collect poison baits, and take them back to the nest for the queens to eat, poisoned baits have proved quite satisfactory for killing queens. For this reason, poisoned baits are useful in eliminating hard to find nests. The type of bait required will depend upon the food habits of that particular ant. Some ants prefer a sweet bait, while others prefer a greasy bait.

The two common poisons used in ant baits are sodium arsenate and thallium sulphate. Both of these chemicals are deadly poisonous and must be handled with great care and in a manner so that children and pets cannot reach them.

Ready-prepared baits containing these poisons either in a sweet or greasy base may be purchased at most stores handling insecticides. Detailed directions for their use will be found on the container.

SCOUTS AT AIR SCHOOL

Three Winchester Explorer Scouts attended the school for Explorers, jointly sponsored by the United States Air Force and Fellsland Council, B.S.A., and held for a week commencing August 2 at Stewart Air Base, Newburg, N.Y.

Erskine H. Kelley, 3rd, Robert Phillips, Allen Osborne and Robert Becker were the local scouts, and accompanying them on their trip to New York were Leaders Erskine H. Kelley, Jr., and Richard Davenport.

The party left Bedford Airport August 2 and flew to Stewart Air Base in Army C-46 planes. Two hundred ninety-seven Explorer Scouts from all around attended the school.

All personnel at the school attended classes in navigation, preflight training, base operations, rifle-shooting, drill, parachute folding and packing, maintenance, and also witnessed a crash fire demonstration.

All Explorers were awarded certificates attesting their successful passing of the various tests at the air base and also received T-shirts bearing the Stewart Air Base emblem. The Winchester scouts and leaders flew back to Bedford August 9.

"DAYS OF YORE"

Clippings from the STAR Files

FIFTY YEARS AGO

AUGUST 15, 1902

James H. Knowlton and Christopher A. Blackburn, Woburn carpenters on their way to work, were injured last Saturday when their buggy was bumped into on Main street just above the crossing by the 7:30 electric car from Woburn. Both men were thrown to the ground and rendered unconscious. Mr. Knowlton was the first to come to, but Mr. Blackburn was not so fortunate Dr. Shepard of Winchester was called and the men were taken to his office. Later they were removed to their homes. Mr. Blackburn had a very serious scalp wound.

Mr. George Adams Woods has rented for Mr. Frank Harrington, a house on Bacon street to Mr. Addison Pike.

It is suggested that the new town photographer should take a picture of the sandy delta at the mouth of the Town Hall brook annually so as to reproduce it in the town report each year that the citizens may definitely know how much the town hall lot is growing. Not many towns own a growing lot of land with buildings on it. Why could not the park commissioners make this natural growth of low land into a lagoon, or water garden when it gets big enough?

At the annual field day of St. Joseph's parish of Medford, held at Combination Park last Saturday, there was an exciting tug of war contest between teams representing division 4, A.O.H., of Medford, the farmers of West Medford and Winchester Council, Knights of Columbus, which aroused much local enthusiasm. In the first heat the Knights won from the farmers by two and one-half inches, after a long and hard struggle. The second heat was almost an even thing, but after a long contest the Knights managed to pull the A.O.H. team over the mark for six inches, winning the silver loving cup. The K of C team was composed of D. McDonald, Wm. Murphy, Edw. Murphy, Hugh McDonald, P. E. Fitzgerald.

The new Arlington-Reading cars are being equipped with air brakes. The hand brakes were not powerful enough in case of emergency.

Miss Mabel Stinson has been passing two weeks at Cumberland Foreside, Maine.

There will be a reunion and picnic of the Daniel Hovey Family Association at Groveland Pines Tuesday, August 19. All persons by the name of Hovey, or related thereto, are invited. Mr. H. N. Hovey of Mystic avenue is a member of the association.

Woburn's tax rate is $17.90 on $1,000 — last year $18.50.

Mrs. and Mrs. John P. Newman were in Philadelphia last week.

Garbage barrels in the center of the town are a necessity. This is becoming a center for electric railroad travel, and waiting passengers throw all manner of rubbish and swill onto the sidewalks and into the street. Barrels at Young & Brown's and Grover's Corners would be good places.

Mr. F. H. Higgins of Somerville has purchased the photographic studio at 172 Main street and will open the same August 18.

Messrs. William and Preston Corey arrived home from Nantucket the first of the week.

Rev. H. E. Hodge and wife and Mrs. Peters have gone to Ogunquit, Maine, for the present month.

Cashier Barrett of the National Bank, with his family, has been passing two weeks at New Ipswich, N. H. Mr. E. R. Rooney has been acting as cashier in his absence.

Arthur E. Whitney and his son, Harold, enjoyed the New York and Eastern Yacht Club festivities at Marblehead as the guests of Mr. Irving L. Palmer, owner of the steam yacht, Eugenia. The celebration continued for 3 days, closing Monday evening with grand illuminations and fireworks. Mr. Palmer's cottage overlooks Marblehead harbor, which was alive with yachts of all kinds.

Town Clerk George H. Carter was run into and knocked down by a red shirted scorcher on Main street Saturday evening. Mr. Carter was hurt in the back and had one of his hands bruised besides being covered with dust and dirt. The scorcher kept right on without stopping to enquire after his victim. The arrest of a few of those fellows would be a good thing. The automobile is limited as to speed, but the scorcher appears to be in a class by himself.

Rev Edwin B. Robinson, a former resident of this town, will preach at the First Congregational Church Sunday morning.

The punch bowl presented to the town by Mr. Winchester, in memory of his father, whom the town was named after, has been cleaned and placed in a new glass case, and will adorn the reading room of the public library.

Mrs. George W. Richardson of Cross street, and Miss Adelaide Richardson of Washington street took a fine drive in their private team Thursday, going to Lexington, Arlington and Medford, and home over the boulevarde. Miss Richardson, like her father, N. A. Richardson, is an expert in horsemanship.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Laraway attended the annual shore dinner of the Master Plumbers Association of Boston and vicinity at Bass Point, Nahant, yesterday. Mrs. Laraway won first prize in a potato race and received a handsome pair of brass candelabra.

The committee on a new High School will meet Monday evening to receive plans from architects. It is not probable any plan will be accepted for some days after.

There was considerable excitement at the A. C. A. Camp, Pleasant Bay, Chatham, Wednesday night when a heavy gale of wind came down from the northwest out of a clear moonlit sky following a sunset calm and a glorious twilight. During the evening several paddlers and sailors at the camp went out for light spins and practice work. The paddlers had all returned but the sailors were well out in the bay when the squall struck. H. D. Murphy, W. J. Ladd and James Newman of the Winchester Boat Club were nearer in than Arthur Mather of the Medford Boat Club, who could be seen wide off shore in the moonlight. All four canoes capsized instantly, but Murphy, Ladd and Newman succeeded in righting theirs, and though they again capsized several times, they reached the shore near the Winchester camp, where they were warmly greeted by fellow members anxiously watching their every movement. Mather could not be seen anywhere, so "Jack" Howard and Ralph Hunter took their double paddler and started to look for him, dangerous work in the rough water. They finally paddled clear across the bay where they learned that a canoe had been seen to turn over and over in the water. Meanwhile the schooner yacht, Intrepid, went in search of the missing canoeist, finally grounding a mile below camp. Mather, drifting to leeward on his overturned canoe, heard the hails from the yacht, and tried to swim off to it, being prevented by grass and seaweed. He returned to his canoe and was finally rescued in an exhausted condition by the crew of the yacht's whaleboat. He said but for the breaking of his canoe seat he could have managed to work it inshore against the wind and sea without much trouble.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

AUGUST 12, 1927

The Division of Inspection of the Department of Public Safety has notified the Board of Selectmen that as a result of its recent findings the Town Hall is given a rating of "good." The special hall license, relating to the use of the Town Hall, has also been received and has been turned over to Custodian Edward Callahan. The license expires yearly in August.

The Board of Selectmen has received a petition from residents of Bacon street and streets in that vcinity asking for relief from the heavy trucking being carried on there. Many of those who had signed the petition appeared before the Board at its meeting last Monday evening, stating that their ceilings are becoming loosened and that the noise is intolerable while the speed often employed is so excessive as to create a dangerous situation. Chairman John H. Powers of the Board stated that the Selectmen have been and still are making efforts to stop this heavy trucking on certain of the town's highways. He assured the petitioners that every effort would be made to remedy the conditions on Bacon street.

Rev. Truman Hemingway, the new rector of the Church of the Epiphany, arrived in town on Tuesday with his family and took up at once occupancy of the rectory, 3 Glengarry road.

Two local residences were struck by lightning during the heavy storm which deluged Winchester last Friday afternoon. The home of Frank H. Knight at 4 Ridgeway was struck by a bolt which entered the house in front at the eaves, tearing out an inside window casing, smashing a light fixture and knocking down considerable plaster. The fire department was notified and Chief De Courcy with one piece of apparatus answered the call. While there was considerable smoke in the house the firemen were unable to find any fire. A second bolt struck the roof of the house at 51 Yale street. The damage in this instance was not so heavy, the damage being confined to the rear of the structure where several shingles were torn from the roof which was also somewhat scorched. The fire department also visited the Blood home, but as in the previous instance found no fire. The storm was a heavy one, the square being again inundated while the lightning and thunder were especially severe. Conditions were made doubly unpleasant by hail which fell freely during one stage of the downpour.

Mounted Officer Edward F. Shea caught still another man attempting the larceny of some of the small pine trees which the town has set out about its water system. "Ned" was patrolling his beat in the Fells Wednesday evening when he came suddenly upon the man in question, busily engaged upon his task. When questioned by the officer the man could give no satisfactory explanation of his activities in landscape gardening and was at once placed under arrest. At Police Headquarters he was locked up, charged with larceny.

Camp Winchester, the camp maintained by the Winchester Council, B. S. A., opened July 30 on the site it has used for the past three years at Northport, Maine. The camp is in charge of Scout Executive Arthur E. Butters, assisted by Victor Bridge and Richard Clark as senior counselors and George Bartlett, Russell Franklin and Carl Eubanks as junior counselors.

The Selectmen have been notified that the Department of Conservation, Division of Fisheries and Game, has appointed former Selectman George E. Bryne to serve as Fish and Game Warden for the Town of Winchester until September 1, 1928.

The weather vane on the Brown and Stanton Block has lost its arrow, either through storm or age. This important meteorologic adjunct is sadly missed by many old residents, who for years have been accustomed to base their morning's conversation upon its authority. The cardinal points of the compass still show the way to fair or foul weather, and it is hoped the swinging arrow will soon be replaced in position.

Tuesday night of this week members of the Police and Fire Departments were notified that vacations and "days off" would be discontinued indefinitely in accordance with the precautions being everywhere taken in connection with the Sacco-Vanzetti agitation. The local authorities are not anticipating any trouble but intend to be ready for it in any case.

Mrs. Dorothy Lord, the genial clerk of the Star office is enjoying her annual vacation touring Vermont and Canada.

Chief David H. DeCourcy took advantage of having his entire crew of permanent men on duty Wednesday to hold a prolonged ladder drill in the rear of the Central Station. The drill included the use of ladder belts, "dogs," and the life net, paraphernalia not frequently used in the everyday work of the firemen about town.

New Telephone Dispatch System For Locomotives

SPEEDS NEW ENGLAND DEFENSE PRODUCTION

The new telephone dispatch system at American Steel and Wire Division, U. S. Steel in Worcester speeds the daily movement of over 1000 tons of raw material. Locomotives — via mobile radio telephone — get orders from dispatch centers, quickly shuffle materials from stock piles to open hearth furnaces. The telephone dispatch system assures uninterrupted defense production and makes it possible to turn out steel in shorter time. This is just one of the many ways the telephone works for defense.

DEFENSE ORDERS demand increased telephone service. To speed production of portable radio military telephones, a new centralized dial system has been installed at the busy Raytheon plant in Waltham, Mass.

Throughout New England the ever increasing telephone needs of manufacturers of radar and electronic equipment, precision tools, drills and textile machinery — to name but a few — are being met in record time.

Today — business, industry, the military and the public are more dependent than ever on the telephone. And, telephone people intend to provide the best telephone service in the quickest possible time at the lowest possible cost.

GREATER BOSTON AREA COUNCIL

"A community without a plan is a community without a future." William Roger Greeley, Chairman of the recently formed Greater Boston Area Council stated in announcing the appointment by the council of a research committee on regional planning and industrial development.

Composed of representatives of Boston and the suburbs, planners, lawyers, businessmen, architects, realtors, and employees, the committee has been assigned the task by the council of looking into ways and means whereby the Greater Boston region, which is one economic, social, and technological unit, can be provided with an overall plan for its development. The research committee's purpose, however, is not to produce a proposal limited to the creation of one plan for one year, but rather to recommend a governmental procedure and structure which will assure a perpetuating mechanism for intelligent planning for the region.

Mr. Greeley continued, "To provide the citizens of our communities with expanding job opportunities and better living and play facilities, the region must find some way to coordinate the vision of people and governments of the area, in order to realize the maximum use of the assets of the entire regional community. It can lead only to absurdity for Boston to have a master plan. Brookline another, Cambridge another and Wellesley still another and a multitude of other communities having their separate plans which are not coordinated and integrated. Needless to say, the committee's job is to inquire in this period in Greater Boston's history when all the communities are struggling to find adequate financial resources if it is both wasteful and inefficient for there to be 43 cities and towns drawing 43 incomplete, inadequate plans when one central agency or coordinating agency might be able to harness greater talents at lower costs and produce far better and more complete results."

Charged with the responsibility of plotting a forward looking course in this area and preparing a report for study by the 250 men and women of the Greater Boston Area Council are John Harkness of "Architects Collaborative," a resident of Lexington, as chairman and the following members:

Robert Braucher, Professor of Law, Harvard Law School, of Belmont; Morton B. Braun, architect, of Newton; Fairman C. Cowan, attorney, of Newton; Barry T. Dame, of Dedham; Thomas Flint, Chairman Concord Finance Committee; Thomas J. Galligan, member of Watertown Finance Committee; John T. Howard, City Planner, West Roxbury; Burnham Kelly, Professor of Planning at M.I.T., of Lexington; William C. Loring, Jr., Executive Director, Massachusetts Housing Association of Wellesley; Lionel MacDuff, Lynn Chamber of Commerce; William Stanley Parker, architect, Boston; Bernard J. Pond of Bedford; and Herbert A. Wiggins of Norwood.

Sgt. James B. Cogan of 8 Richardson street is reported as on field training exercises with the 109th Infantry Regiment's Tank Company near Gablingen in Germany. His unit is part of the 28th "Keystone" Division, federalized Pennsylvania National Guard Unit which has been in Germany since last November.

DOCTORS ON ADVISORY BOARD

This year, for the first time in its eight year history, the Governor's Interagency Committee for Employment of the Physically Handicapped will have doctors on its advisory board as consultants.

The new policy was announced by Edward D. Callahan after his election as chairman of this year's committee at an organization meeting held this week.

The doctors will assist the state committee in determining jobs which are suitable for specific types of handicapped workers. They will be chosen from a group of physicians recommended by the Massachusetts Medical Society.

The Governor's Committee, headed by Governor Dever as Honorary Chairman, with headquarters at 73 Tremont street, sponsors the annual October drive to help handicapped job seekers find suitable employment. This year's campaign will be from October 5 to October 11.

The state committee will assist local groups which will be elected in each community later this month. The local committees work with organizations in their areas which are interested in promoting employment of the handicapped.

National Employ the Physically Handicapped week was established by Presidential proclamation in 1944.

COLLEGE COUNSELOR

Miss Joan Claire Cornoni, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Cornoni of 11 Niles Lane, a senior, is one of sixty upperclass leaders at Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia who have been appointed counselors this fall to facilitate the adjustment for freshmen between high school and college.

These counselors will greet the freshmen in their dormitories when they arrive Sunday, September 14, providing them with name tags showing home towns, help with seating assignments in the dining halls, and provide answers for many of the questions confronting newcomers.

Participating in the orientation program of the first week, the counselors interpret college life to their proteges, expain rules and regulations, lead the singing of college songs, and encourage participation in some of the various campus activities. Each counselor will have eight new students who are suitemates or dormitory neighbors.

Tonight is the absolute deadline for reservations, so call the Club pronto!

Any members who may be over at the Club Sunday night will be pleased to learn that the Broders will be on hand with a light supper if you happen to be hungry.

A record number of tables, 14, signed up for the Ladies Bridge this past Wednesday. Tea and party sandwiches were prepared by Mrs. James Newman and her committee. Assisting her were Mrs. John Allen, Mrs. James Fitzsimmons, Mrs. Frank Madge, Mrs. Everett Littlefield, Mrs. Clarence Kriner, and Mrs. Martin Swanson.

Walter Redding has picked up commodore's duties again, taking over in Commodore Ned Morse's absence.

Any members, young fry or senior members, should make it known to the directors if they are interested in a dance to wind up a spirited season. Let's have one bang-up dance as a finale in September.

When Larry Penta, compositor in the Star pressroom, comes back next Monday from his vacation on the Cape, he is in for plenty of "razzing" by his fellow workers and by "Beanie" Perry of the Esso station on Main street, who is also a star player on the V.F.W. softball team. The reason for the "razzing" will be the two games the Sons of Italy lost to the V.F.W. in the league championship playoffs. We have no doubt that Larry will attribute the Sons' poor showing to the fact that he was not around to give them the benefit of his advice, his playing ability and his moral support. Larry will have a chance to prove himself, since he will be back in town in time for the third game of the playoff series.

Last Sunday evening Police Headquarters had several reports of a tree leaning in a dangerous way against live wires on Cambridge street near Robinson Park. Officer William Haggerty was sent in a patrol car to guard against accident and Officer Andrew Crawford was also dispatched to the scene. The wires were found to be burning and the Fire Department was notified. The Edison repair crews took care of both the damage done their system and the tree which caused it.

Joseph S. Donnell, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Donnell, Jr., of 13 Cabot street, is among 730 NROTC midshipmen on a summer training cruise in European waters aboard the battleship, USS New Jersey. The New Jersey is flagship of a task group, including a cruiser and six destroyers. The ships will return to Norfolk, Va., September 5, after visiting France, Portugal and Cuba. Donnell, a graduate of Winchester High School, is a student at Tufts College.

The heavy rain of Sunday caused a washout at Priscilla Lane in the south end of the town. The Police placed a horse and warning lanterns there during the afternoon so that the dangerous condition of the street would be easily apparent.

Alan Frazer in his column "My Boston" in the Boston Sunday Advertiser of August 10 tells of a woman entering Mary Spaulding's Bookshop and asking for "The Caesarean Sword." Mary hadn't heard of it, and asked the woman if by any chance she could have in mind "The Saracen Blade." The customer said that was it, adding, "I knew it was a story with a point to it!" Pretty hard to stick Mary on a book if you have part of the title, even if the part you have isn't just right! And "Cat's" pretty good at mind reading, too!

At an organization meeting in the Parker House, Boston, August 12, Atty. James C. Gahan, Jr., member of the faculty of Northeastern University Law School, and Belmont school committeeman, formally announced his candidacy for Republican nomination for the Governor's Council, from the 6th Councillor district. Harris S. Richardson, of Winchester, former President of the State Senate, was named as chairman of the Gahan campaign committee during the meeting.

Mrs. Leslie Olmstead of Madison avenue has just returned from an eight weeks trip to California with her son Ronald and wife of New York.

In response to complaints of shooting in the rear of the Legion Home on Vine street Tuesday forenoon, Officer Clarence Dunbury went to have a look around. He found the gun-men to be neighborhood boys shooting firecrackers that had been brought to Winchester by an out-of-state visitor. Officer Dunbury gave the boys "the word" on firecrackers and returned to Headquarters unscathed.

Another canoe was stolen from Mystic Lake this week, being reported missing Tuesday afternoon from where it had been padlocked to a tree at the rear of the home of Mr. Ronald Robnett, 15 Cambridge street. The Police were notified.

Little Jane Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Edward Little, Jr., of Tufts road, celebrated her sixth birthday with a party last Tuesday, August 12. Guests at the party were a few of her cousins, and Karin and Erika Sterling, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sterling of Nathaniel road. It was an especially joyous birthday celebration for the Little family, since earlier in the day they had learned Janie's leg, affected by a polio attack she suffered when she was eighteen months old, was growing again and that there was every hope that it would eventually grow normal.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Smith of Brookside avenue motored to Niagara Falls this past week, stopping off at Angelica, N.Y., for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cameron, formerly of Winchester. While there they also called on Mr. and Mrs. Henry Isaman.

Officer Al Poole of the Police Department went to the Ghirardini home at 24 Chesterford road and shot a big snapping turtle that had usurped the back yard and was too ugly to be taken lightly. "Al" said the turtle weighed abut 20 pounds but had one of the biggest mouths he had seen on such a reptile.

A resident of Bacon street called Headquarters shortly before 2:30 Sunday morning reporting a man had just rung his bell enquiring for a person who did not live in that neighborhood. He was just a bit suspicious perhaps, but the chap turned out to be all right when he was picked up by Officer Joseph L. Quigley. A newcomer to Winchester, he had become confused in trying to locate his home, which was further over on the West Side. Officer Quigley got him safely to his domicile in the Police cruiser.

Brig. Gen. Ralph A. Palladino of North Gateway was among the officers and dignitaries inspecting the crack troops of the 3000-strong 94th Infantry Division as they passed in a recent review during their two weeks of intensive field maneuvers at Camp Drum, N. Y. General Palladino is commanding officer of the 94th, the Bay State's only reserve division. Others in the reviewing stand were Lt. Gen. Willis D. Crittenburger, commanding general of the First Army Area; and Rep. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Mrs. Lloyd Wallis, Jr., the former Barbara Warsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Warsky of Stowell road, will leave Sunday for New York, from where she will sail to Germany to join her husband, Lt. Lloyd Wallis, Jr., now stationed in Bamberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie J. Scott and their sons Dick and Doug, of New Meadows road, are at Emory Mills, Maine, until Labor Day.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE

It seems hard to believe but the V.F.W. hold two straight wins over the Sons of Italy in the three-out-of-five series for the league championship. The Sons are now forced to prove that they are real champions by winning three straight games or a new champion will be crowned. The way the Vets are playing right now that will be quite an assignment, as the Vets are showing a lot of hustle and are getting excellent pitching from Bob Saunders.

The Vets qualified for the championship playoff by taking the rubber game from the Fitzgerald Contracting Co. last Thursday night by a score of 7-1. The Vets played air-tight ball to back up the superb pitching of Bob Saunders, who gave up only four hits and had a shutout until the final inning. The Fitzgeralds, on the other hand, were very erratic and did not display the brand of ball that earned them second place during the regular season.

The best game of the entire playoffs to date was the 3-2 victory of the V.F.W. over the Sons of Italy on Monday night in the first game of the final playoff series. The game was a nice pitchers' duel with Bob Saunders edging Frank Procopio as each twirler gave up only four hits. Sam Tibaudo hammered out a long home run for one of the Sons of Italy's runs, while "Beanie" Perry was the hitting star for the Vets with two sharp bingles. Timmy Connors was sensational in center field for the V.F.W., roaming all over the outfield for difficult putouts, with a gem that saved the game being a diving catch with two men on and two out that ended the Sons' greatest threat to score.

Rain deprived the Sons of Italy of an equalizing victory on Tuesday night as they were leading 9-3 with two out in the bottom of the fifth inning when a heavy shower struck. They needed time for only one more putout to make it a legal contest and even up the series, but luck was with the Vets on this occasion.

Bob Saunders proved to be an iron man as he twirled the V.F.W. to a 16-9 victory over the Sons of Italy on Wednesday night. It was his third successive night on the mound, and while not as effective as in the first game, he did not have to be, as his teammates were getting runs in clusters. Gangi and Procopio pitched for the Sons and, while not in good form, were ruined by the miserable support provided them by their teammates. In spite of all the hitting and scoring, the only home run of the game came off the bat of Harold Donovan of the V.F.W.

The series will continue on successive nights until one team wins three games. The Sons are having their troubles in this series, but do not give up on them yet. In the first game they got good pitching and fielding but could not hit. In the second game they were hitting but their pitching and fielding were below par. Perhaps now, in the third game, they are ready to tie these things together, do everything right that they are now doing wrong, and come up with a good game.

LITTLE LEAGUE

The Braves and the Dodgers are now playing in the championship three-out-of-five series for the Little League title. The Dodgers had tied with the Yanks for the second half title but defeated them last Monday night in a special one-game playoff. For the Yanks, it marked their second straight disappointment, as they had also tied with the Braves in the last half and were defeated then in a similar playoff.

The Braves appear to have the pitching edge over the Dodgers in this series. In Jim Dwinell, Dave Harkins and Dennis Keane they have three steady performers who can be counted upon to turn in a well pitched game. The Dodgers have an ace in Joe Flaherty, but he can pitch no more than two games in the series. Behind Flaherty, the Dodgers have Craig Davenport, Danny O'Connell and Tommy McGrail, but they do not measure up to the caliber of the Braves' pitchers. The Dodgers are a bunch of hustlers, however, and may make up for their pitching weakness with stronger hitting and general alertness.

Games were played on Wednesday and Thursday of this past week and will continue on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday of next week. No game is scheduled for Wednesday of next week unless it rains on Monday or Tuesday. In that case, the postponed game will be played on Wednesday in order to finish the series next week. As this is the last chance to see the Little Leaguers in action this season, large crowds are expected to be in attendance for next week's games.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Field of Maxwell road are back in town after spending Race Week at Marblehead as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wiswell of Fletcher street.

CHILDREN'S OWN SCHOOL NEWS

The Summer Play School of the Children's Own School opened in July for its tenth season, Miss Gove, the Director, having started the first out-door play and handwork group in July 1942. At that time the school occupied property on Mystic Valley Parkway. Miss Sally Sherburne is assisting this summer with all the out-door activities of this group.

The Remedial Department also is open during the mornings. Miss Josephine Broadbent, who is the head teacher for this work, is attending Emerson College Summer School, where she is taking further courses toward her Masters Degree in Remedial Reading and Speech Therapy. Miss Broadbent already is a certified teacher of the deaf, with considerable experience in that field of education.

Mrs. Wililam Herron has been elected to the Board of Directors of the school. Mrs. Herron has a natural interest in pre-school education, having taught in Honolulu kindergartens during her stay in the Islands. Additional members of the Parents' Committee for the school year 1952-53 are: Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Porter and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Worthen. Among those who will serve on the recently formed Carnival Committee are: Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Burr, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Zimmerman and Mrs. Daniel S. Howard. Plans already are under way to make this coming Tenth Year a most interesting one for parents as well as children — with a bigger and better carnival as a fitting climax.

Many parents and friends of the school, as well as her former pupils, will be interested to learn that Miss Catherine Yocum sailed this Tuesday for Germany on a teaching assignment. Miss Yocum, who until March was in charge of the Four Year Group at the Winchester school, is to be principal of a school for children of soldiers and officers of the American Army. She will go first to Heidelberg to await assignment to a definite school. While in Germany, Miss Yocum will keep in touch with the children's Own School, sending cards and snapshots to let its small pupils know something of the manner in which German children live and learn, as well as the activities of our American youngsters over there.

ROTARIANS GIRD LOINS FOR FRAY

PROMISE LITTLE LEAGUE STARS TOUGH GAME AUGUST 26

If the Little League All Stars are expecting a soft touch next week Tuesday evening when they tangle with the Winchester Rotary Club baseball nonpariels, they jolly well want to disabuse themselves of that notion right quick! The game between the Rotary and Little Leaguers, announced in last week's Star, has caused so much interest and speculation that the Rotarians, originally feeling they didn't need to bother much, now realize they have to really show something in the face of the turnout expected at Manchester Field on August 26. Public and private practice has been the order of the day and evening with the Rotary champions, and both Bench Manager George Franklin, the Squire of Fairmount Hill, and Playing Manager Charlie Koch, promise a fighting ball club for the fray next Tuesday, which will start at 6:15.

Manager Franklin has tried to sift the wheat from the chaff in deciding upon his lineup, for he naturally wants to put his strongest possible combination on the field from the opening gun.

After going into a huddle with Playing Manager Koch and President Allan Wilde, the Squire feels that his starters will be Forbes Norris, 1st base; Wade Grindle, 2nd base; Nick Fitzgerald, 3rd base; Manager Koch, shortstop; Eddie Cullen, left field; Phil Gallagher, center field; and Fire Chief Jim Callahan, right field. "Hy" Moody will positively start on the mound for the Service Club, with Dick Hakanson handling his slants behind the plate.

If the Rotary has nothing else, it has a strong bench. If any of the starters falter, or even if they don't, Manager Franklin, with a nod from Playing Manager Koch, can insert into the lineup as replacement pinch hitters, pinch runners, finish-up pitchers or just plain arguers, any of the following. You can see at a glance this roster reads like a baseball who's who.

Just imagine Lou Boudreau having such "stoppers" as "Al" Elliott, Ralph Bonnell and "Doc" Mueller behind Moody; such infielders as "Butch" Haley, 2b, Frank Thornton, 1b, Harry Chefalo, 3b, "Chub" Howe, 1b, Sid Elliott, ss, Paul LaJoie, 2b, "Doc" McLean, 3b, Vin Ambrose, 1b, Chandler Symmes, 3b, and "Doc" Wallace, 1b; such outfielders as Allen Kimball, rf, Roy Horn, lf, John McIntyre, cf, "Doc" Moses, cf, Les Whittaker, lf, and Aram Mouradian, cf; such reserve catchers as Charlie Murphy, Polock McCormack or Ralph Purrington. The Red Sox would be 10 games in front right now with these stars available for regular duty in Boston. They'll be ready for the Little League come Tuesday, and if you miss this one, don't blame us. We warned you!

Ball games aren't altogether won on the field of play and the Rotary has spared no effort or expense to give their team the best possible direction, from the bench, playing field and in the front office.

"Doc" Sheehy has been named to the important portfolio of team physician, and only the Rotary stars themselves know how important a part "Doc" may have to play in the ball game. Coaching at first base will be Billy Priest; at third, Pat Foley. None should make mistakes with Bill and Pat to guide them.

Police Chief Charlie Harrold has drawn the waterboy's assignment, with Joe Moffett as his assistant. Allan Wilde will handle the public address system and mastermind the game for the public. "Marge" Bartlett will act as official scorer!

The umpiring assignments have been given considerable and serious consideration. Few in town are felt to be qualified to handle a game such as this is pretty sure to be.

After much weighing of pros and cons, choosing and rejecting, those in charge of the ballgame have finally come up with four arbiters we feel sure none will care to question.

Handling the umpire-in-chief's assignment will be E. P. "Mack" McKenzie of the Woburn Times. First base umpire will be Lou Goddu; Traffic Officer "Dukes" Farrell will call them at second; and T. Price Wilson, editor of the Star, will be stationed at third.

Proceeds from the game will go to the local Jimmy Fund, of which Theatre Manager Mike Stranger is chairman. That should make it unanimous. Not only do you see the game of the century on Tuesday evening, August 26, but your dollars will help a mighty worthy cause. Two for the price of one! What are you waiting for!

WINCHESTER BOY BADLY INJURED

"BILL" FORESTER IN AUTO ACCIDENT IN ATTLEBORO

"Bill" Forester, 19-year-old Dartmouth student and son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Forester, Jr., of 5 Lawrence street, is in serious condition at the Sturdy Memorial Hospital in Attleboro, following an automobile accident in which he was involved at 5 o'clock last week Friday morning.

"Bill" had been working during his summer vacation in Maine. He had a couple of days off and had decided to visit friends in Westerly, R. I. On the return trip to Maine on the Route 1 bypass in Attleboro, he fell asleep and his car crashed into a tree. He was removed to the Sturdy Hospital and entered in critical condition, having sustained a broken leg, three broken ribs, as well as having both jaws broken. Whether there are also head injuries had not been determined up to yesterday morning, as "Bill's" condition has been so serious that is has been impossible to move him for necessary X-rays.

When the accident occurred Mr. and Mrs. Forester were in New Hampshire, having gone to Laconia to visit their younger son, "Bob", who is working at Three-Mile Island Camp.

The Attleboro Police communicated news of the accident to the Winchester authorities, who tried to locate the Foresters, but without success, there being no way of reaching them by phone. Consequently it was not until nine o'clock Friday morning when Mr. Forester called his office at the Rex Lumber Company that he learned of "Bill's" accident. He and Mrs. Forester left immediately for their son's bedside.

As the Star went to press yesterday Mr. Forester reported that he had seen his son the day previous and that "Bill" was bright and able to talk. The young man is still in serious, even critical, condition, and attending physicians state he will not be out of the woods until after the week-end.

Mr. Forester is hopeful that his son's condition will improve sufficiently so that he can soon be transferred to the hospital here. He had nothing but praise for the care given Bill by the Sturdy Hospital staff and nurses and believes their professional skill and immediate transfusions, followed by exceptional interest and care, have undoubtedly saved his son's life.

LITTLE LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP TO BRAVES

DECIDING 3-2 GAME WITH DODGERS BEST OF SEASON

The Braves won the championship of the Winchester Little League Tuesday evening by beating the Dodgers in a closely contested game on Manchester Field, 3-2. The Braves, first half winners, took three of the four games played in the little World's Series from the Dodgers, who led the league over the second half.

About five hundred saw the game, both stands being full, with an overflow along the base lines. The game was the best of the year, with both teams playing good ball, the infields of both clubs, especially, turning in some sparkling plays. Several close plays at the plate livened things up and there was enough extra-base hitting to keep the crowd on edge. The fielding gem was probably an unassisted double play by Vandy French, diminutive first sacker of the Dodgers, who while playing in close, took a sharply hit liner and doubled a runner at first base.

Both pitchers did well, Jim Dwinell, veteran pitcher of the Braves, was very effective and showed as the game progressed the value of experience on the pitching rubber. Jim gave up only four hits and blanked the Dodgers after the second.

His opponent, nine-year-old Paul Del Rossi, used first as a pitcher in relief only last week, did a great job for a kid making his first start, particularly in a game that could mean a title. Paul gave up only six hits, fanned six, one more than Dwinell, and walked only two. Dwinell gave up no passes at all.

The Braves started well by putting over two runs in the top of the first. With only one away Dwinell hit safely and scored from first when Craig Davenport, running in on Alex Adams' drive to right, let the ball bounce away from him. Adams made the entire circuit on the hit, which was officially scored a hit and a three-base error.

The Dodgers got one back in their half when Doug Thomson led off with a well-hit home run. They tied it all up in the second when Davenport hit safely and went around to third on Johnny Coakley's hit to right. Thomson's long fly to left scored Davenport with the equalizer.

Neither team scored in the third, but in the fourth "Denny" Keane, smooth-working Braves first sacker, belted out a triple and rode home with the winning run on a single by Steve Fisher. It was "Denny's" second triple of the game.

Each team made only one error, both, oddly enough, by the right fielders and both quite excusable, since handling sinking drives off the ground on that Little League outfield is very tricky business.

NEW SOFTBALL CHAMPS

VETS DISPLACE SONS OF ITALY MONDAY

The V.F.W. is the new champion of the Town Softball League, defeating the Sons of Italy three games to one in the final playoff series. The climax came last Monday evening when the Vets captured the deciding game by a 7-6 score in an extra inning. The series was one of the most closely contested in years as three of the games were won by one-run margins, 3 to 2, 5 to 4, and 7-6 in an overtime inning.

In the crucial game on Monday evening the Sons of Italy scored twice in the first inning, once in the second, and twice in the third to take an imposing 5-0 lead. The Vets scored three runs in the bottom half of the fourth, the third run coming on a tremendous home run by John Stevenson. That 5-3 lead lasted until the bottom of the seventh, when the Vets tallied twice to send the game into extra innings.

In that vital seventh the Sons of Italy committed two costly errors to put the tying runs on base. The first error came on a ground ball by John Martini to put him on first safely. Angie Amico went in a as pinch hitter and reached safely when his ground ball was booted. The "Old Pro", Paul Connors, put himself on the spot by pinch hitting for the pitcher and came through in the clutch by singling sharply to right field to drive in Martini and send Amico to third. Timmy Connors lifted a fly to right field, Amico scoring after the catch with the tying run.

It seemed that the Vets had shot their bolt in tying the score, for they had to present a patched-up line-up in the top of the eighth. Mark Kelly started on the mound and issued a base on balls to Procopio. After Gangi went out, Fiore was also passed. Jim Treacy replaced Kelly and promptly issued a base on balls to Sam Tibaudo to fill the bases. After Treacy threw a ball to the next batter, Connors again put himself on the spot by relieving Treacy on the mound. Al Tibaudo drove a long fly ball to left field, sending home Procopio with the sixth run. The dangerous Robert Del Grosso made a great bid for a home run, lining deep to right field, but Amico gathered it in to retire the side and the Sons had lost a great opportunity to salt away the game.

Trailing by one run in the bottom of the eighth, the pressure was on the V. F. W., but they came through like champions to score twice. After the lead off batter was retired, Sonny Swymer singled to center. Jim Treacy then became the hero by banging a long triple to left center, scoring Swymer with the tying run. John Stevenson looked too threatening and was passed intentionally. John Martini hit a ground ball to first base, but Jim Treacy beat the throw to the plate, sliding in with the run that gave the Vets the championship.

It was a fitting climax to a great series, played before the largest and most enthusiastic crowd of the season. The Vets deserved their championship, for they hustled every minute and had the stuff to come from behind in two of the three games they won. Particular credit must go to Bob Saunders and Manager Paul Connors. Saunders was a real iron man, pitching in every game and holding the hard-hitting Sons of Italy well in check. Connors was a fighting spark plug and inspiring leader, made the right strategic moves, and came through personally in the clutch on several occasions. The Sons went down like champions, fighting every inch of the way even though they seemed to have more than their share of bad breaks. The three one-run games indicate how closely matched the teams were, with victory going to the team upon whom Lady Luck cast her favor.

MISS MORROW SHOWERED

Miss Ruth Mae Morrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Morrow of 28 Kenwin road, was given a surprise shower Monday evening of last week by Mrs. Frank Genetti of Bedford and Mrs. E. G. Fraser of Winchester at Mrs. Genetti's home. The shower was attended by a large group of friends in honor of Miss Morrow's approaching marriage of Mr. Richard Benzel of Lexington.

After Miss Morrow opened the many lovely gifts and expressed her thanks, refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. Guests were present from Acton, Bedford, Cambridge, Everett, N.Y., Lexington, Reading, Roslindale and Saugus as well as Winchester.

GERMAN GIRL VISITOR HERE

Erika Quante of Herford, Westphalia, in North Germany, is spending this week in Winchester as the guest of Miss Linda Fielding of Lawrence street.

Miss Quante is one of 52 young people who have come to this country in the Experiment in International Living, which sends our young people to various foreign countries and returns to us visitors from abroad. Miss Fielding, a Wellesley graduate, went to Austria for a year under this program, and as a consequence was asked to take one of the girls who have just come to this country for a short time.

Miss Quante, after her week in Winchester, will go to Lexington, and then will spend about two weeks visiting some point of interest, accessible to her during the time at her disposal, as the guest of the United States State Department. Before coming to Winchester she had been at Boothbay, Harbor, Maine, where she had seen lobsters caught and had tasted this New England delicacy, finding, unfortunately, that lobster, at least on that occasion, did not agree with her.

Miss Quante will study elementary teaching and psychology at Wheelock College while she is in the United States, after which she will return to complete her studies at Bielefeld College near her home. She is planning to teach elementary subjects and music in the West German schools when she has completed her college work.

Miss Quante is a pleasant, good-looking blonde girl who does quite well with English, much better we are sure than most American youngsters would do with German under similar circumstances. She and Miss Fielding visited the Star office Monday and returned Thursday to watch the Star being run off, Miss Fielding, a former Star proof-reader, acting as guide. She said that her German guest's home is in the northwestern part of Germany outside the Russian zone of influence.

While at the Star office Miss Quante met "Ed" Sterling, one of the linotypers, who married a German girl, and the pair chatted for several minutes about Germany. Everyone enjoyed Miss Quante and hopes she will be able to visit the office whenever she is in town.

MISS MARY E. DOWD

Miss Mary E. Dowd of 910 Main street, a long time and esteemed resident of the North End of Winchester, died Monday, August 18, after an illness of several months.

Miss Dowd was the daughter of Patrick and Mary (Flood) Dowd. She was born September 10, 1874, in Winchester, and spent her entire life in town, being educated in the Winchester schools. She was a member of the Immaculate Conception Church and active in the affairs of its Ladies' Sodality. As a young woman she was for some years employed by the Barta Press.

Miss Dowd leaves two sisters, Miss Anna L. Dowd and Mrs. Marcella O'Neil of Dorchester; and a brother, James Dowd of Woburn. Another sister, Mrs. Richard W. Sheehy, died last March.

The funeral was held Thursday morning from the Lane Funeral Home with solemn requiem high mass celebrated at the Immaculate Conception Church. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

WINCHESTER WON HOOP GAME FROM READING

The Winchester Playgrounds basketball team won a very pleasing 48-30 victory over the Reading Playground quintet at the Ginn Court last Friday evening. Reading presented a strong team that had previously beaten the locals by 11 points at Reading but the locals played good ball and were in much better condition than their rivals. The game was very close and hard fought through the first three periods, but Reading ran out of gas in the final period, making only one basket in that quarter.

With Dilorio and Atkinson hitting consistently, Winchester opened fast to run up a 15-4 first quarter lead. The two teams matched basket for basket through the next two periods with Winchester leading 21-12 at the half and 34-25 entering the final period. The locals controlled the ball well through the last quarter and as Reading tired, the Bartlettmen pulled away to win easily.

The Winchester front court duo of Joe Dilorio and John Atkinson played brilliant ball to equal the scoring output of the entire Reading five. The lion's share of the credit for the Winchester victory must go to Stu Thomson, who did a magnificent job of holding Dick Burhoe, the huge Reading scoring ace, to only four points while collecting 13 himself.

In an interesting preliminary game the Ginn Field Juniors edged the Loring Avenue Juniors by a score of 14-11, with Joel Peckham starring for the winners and "Jigger" Bond for the losers. The final double header of the season is scheduled for tonight with the South Boston Boys' Club as the feature attraction. The South Boston team is appearing again by popular request, as so many fans enjoyed their spectacular exhibition against the locals three weeks ago.

ROTARY BASEBALL DAY

WINCHESTER KIDDIES SAW SOX-ATHLETICS GAME

Some 350 Winchester boys and girls were guests of Winchester Rotary at the Boston Red Sox-Philadelphia Athletics game at Fenway Park, Boston, last week Thursday.

The party, escorted by Rotarians, playground supervisors and others interested, left the rear of the Town Hall at noon, and made the trip to the ball park in nine chartered buses.

At the park the kids, or at least some of them, watched the first ball-game of the double-header, but the time schedule would not permit the group to remain for the second game as the first contest was not over until five, the time set for the return trip to Winchester.

As a matter of fact the members of the Braves and Dodgers Little League teams left the stands at 4:30 so as to be sure to arrive in Winchester in time for their little "world's series" game that night. Their bus got hung up in the parking lot and they didn't actually get away from the field until five, only a short time ahead of the main party. Ken Hall was in charge of the Little League bus.

Some of the kids with sufficient funds remaining after gorging themselves with ice cream, bananas, tonic and peanuts during the game, elected to stay on to see the second game of the twin-bill, but the big majority of the kiddies came home at the time set. Incidentally the Sox won two from the Athletics, and if that was a bit hard on Mr. Bartlett, the kids loved it, and "Bart" had partial consolation at least by having his playground team beat Reading in a return basketball game the next night.

There were no casualties, so far as the Rotarians know, and no children reported missing at a late hour Thursday night. Stomach trouble there may have been some of, though the youthful stomach is a mighty organ and capable of standing much abuse. The conduct of the kids at the game as a whole left something to be desired, in fact a great deal to be desired, the adult members of the party being quite disgusted with some of the actions of their young guests, though ball field attendants assured the Rotarians that the Winchester kiddies were above the average for deportment.

President Allan Wilde was in general charge of the party, with arrangements in the hands of the Rotary Youth Committee headed by Eddie Cullen. Gordon Bird was in charge of the buses and several other Rotary members went in to the game to keep the young hopefuls somewhat in line.

Mrs. Alfred Elliott and her daughter, Audrey, went along to help as did "Billy" Gibbons, custodian at the Junior High.

Other non-Rotarians assisting were Playground Superintendent Edward A. Bartlett and Playground Supervisors Patsy Mawn, Cynthia Wilson, Phyllis O'Neil, Nancy O'Rourke, Charlie Murphy, Sandy Burbank and Fred Ives, Jr.

BASKETBALL TONIGHT

SOUTH BOSTON HERE AGAIN

The final basketball doubleheader of the Playground season is scheduled for the Ginn Court this evening with the South Boston Boys' Club quintet as the feature attraction. This is the second appearance of the South Boston team this summer as so many fans enjoyed their earlier exhibition that a repeat performance was requested. In a preliminary game the Ginn Field Intermediates will play the West Side Intermediates.

Winchester dropped a close 52-51 decision to the South Boston team in their first game but are confident of pulling out a victory in tonight's encounter. Actually the one-point defeat represented a terrific performance by the locals for Southie fielded three of the regulars that faced the Indians in the Boston Garden last winter. Coach Bartlett was more than pleased with the play of his charges in that first contest and feels that some of his players have shown tremendous improvement this summer.

Leading the South Boston five are Mike Pano, Jim Donnellan, and Tom Mahoney, all regulars on last winter's South Boston High School team. In addition, Southie has Joe Gattuso, the 6 feet 4 inches center, who scored 23 points in that first game to ruin the Winchester bid for victory. The South Boston team, admittedly, looks too strong for the locals but the Winchester players are confident that they can do this time what they just failed to do in the first encounter.

COON COMMISSIONED

Paul F. Coon, son of Park Commissioner and Mrs. James H. Coon of Brooks street, was commissioned a 2nd lieutenant after completing Infantry School OCS at Fort Benning, Ga., on Friday, August 1.

After two weeks in Winchester, he left with his wife last Friday for Indiantown Gap Military Reservation in Pennsylvania, where he has been assigned as an instructor.

Lt. Coon graduated from Deerfield Academy and Amherst College in the Class of 1951. While at Amherst he starred in soccer, being one of the leading players in the New England small college ranks.

LEXINGTON SINKS WINCHESTER SWIMMERS 62-51

Proving the truth of the old adage, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again," the Lexington Swimming Club finally defeated Winchester. After a thrilling match in which the lead changed several times, Lexington "brought home the bacon" for the first time in four years. The meet was held at the Lexington Pool on Wednesday morning, August 13.

Weakness in the relays led to Winchester's undoing. With but four relay events to go and supporting a 51 to 42 lead, the locals needed only an even break in the last four races to win. Somehow or other they managed to drop all four. The 13 and under girls nearly pulled their race out of the fire, but Carleen Johnson, streaking through the water so fast she swam right out of her bathing suit, had a great decision to make. Unfortunately for Winchester, she decided what any nice young lady would do under the circumstances. Result: Winchester lost that event.

Jean Gilman, 13-year-old New England Junior Women's champion, carried the Lexington team on her capable shoulders. Winning four first places in the conventional races, she also was the backbone of both girls' relay teams. We will probably hear a lot more about this little lady before the 1956 Olympics roll around.

George "Whizzer" Wheaton was the star performer for Winchester. With three first places out of three attempts, he led the Winchester scoring and contributed much to the all-around good showing of his team.

Among the girls, Noreen and Marguerite Johnson both deserve special mention for their fine efforts.

DODGERS IN SERIES WIN

The Dodgers won the third game of the Little League World Series for the town championship on Manchester Field Monday evening, beating the Braves, 8-1, in a contest called because of darkness after the top of the sixth inning had been played. It was the Dodgers' first win of the series.

Flaherty, star fire-baller of the Dodgers, held the Braves safely until relieved by Davenport. Del Rossi and Coakley each hit triples.

ANNUAL RED CROSS SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIPS

Last Saturday afternoon, August 16, the Winchester Red Cross in conjunction with the Park Department, celebrated the Annual Swimming Championships at Leonard Field Pool. Inclement weather which produced showers and finally a steady drizzle, made life miserable for the hardy spectators in the stands. Nevertheless, a highly successful program was carried on rapidly and efficiently under the capable guidance of James J. Mccarthy, Red Cross Water Safety Instructor.

The afternoon's activities, slightly delayed because of the weather, got under way at 2 o'clock. There were swimming and diving events for boys and girls of all ages. Winners of first, second and third places in the older age groups received medals. The younger winners appropriately were given blue, red and white ribbons. About sixty boys and girls took part in all the competitive events. Among those who enjoyed the most success were Joe Bellino, George Wheaton, Bucky Morgan, David Govostes, Noreen Johnson, Marguerite Johnson, Mary McNally and Ann Neville.

Red Cross Swimming Certificates were presented to 54 children who had satisfactorily completed the required courses for Beginner, Intermediate, Swimmer, Junior and Senior Life Saving.

Highlight of the afternoon was the awarding of the Thomas J. McGowan and the Red Cross trophies. The former is donated by the Winchester Park Department and the latter by the Winchester Red Cross. Both awards are made to boys and girls of Winchester with outstanding proficiency in swimming and whose standards of interest, courtesy, cooperation and good sportsmanship are of the highest. All of these qualities are seriously considered in choosing the recipient. This year Mr. Henry A. Dellicker, Chairman of the Winchester Red Cross Board of Directors, made the presentation of the two Red Cross trophies to Noreen Johnson and Peter Graham. Mr. Frederick M. Ives, Chairman of the Park Board of Commissioners presented the Thomas J. McGowan Trophy to Ann Neville.

This annual field day concluded the Red Cross Water Safety program for the outdoor 1952 season. There is a possibility, however, that arrangements can be made for indoor swimming during the fall and winter months providing enough of the swimmers show interest. If such an arrangement is made an announcement will be made in the papers at a later date.

MR BUTTERS "EM CEE"

Arthur E. Butters of Park avenue, extremely capable head of the Mathematics Department at Winchester High School, is a versatile chap who is constantly giving new evidence of this fact. He skiied well before he took on weight, he can sail a boat, he ran the Boy Scouts in Winchester and did a bully job of it before Winchester scouts gave up their autonomy and joined with Fellsland Council, he plays a good game of golf and he used to throw a pretty fair horseshoe, three-quarters turn, low and hard, at Palmer Beach in the days before golf commenced to take so much of his time. You will remember he was then sometimes called "The State of Maine Champ" with the irons.

Arthur's latest bit would seem to be on the entertainment and civic side, and was contributed far from Winchester, in Bayside, Maine, to be exact, where the Butters have long spent their summers.

On August 9 at Bayside the natives and summer cottagers gathered at the Community Hall to hold a surprise birthday party for 75-year-old Fred A. Scribner, a rather versatile individual in his own right, who is Town Manager of Bayside and has been for 20 years, as well as serving as Road Commissioner (Superintendent of Streets) and Chief of Police.

Two hundred and sixty adults and children gathered at the hall for the exercises which opened with five acts of musical comedy and other entertainment, followed by the presentation of a handsome plaque to Mr. Scribner in recognition of his efforts in behalf of the town. Every summer cottager in the community contributed to the plaque.

Mr. Butters was chosen for the all-important post of Master of Ceremonies for the evening, and unofficial reports emanating from Bayside indicate that he discharged his duties flawlessly. Included was the presentation of the plaque to the astonished Mr. and Mrs. Scribner, which Arthur handled in just the right vein.

He is versatile, we said so in the beginning. "Willoughby" Mobbs used to try to get him away from the "three-quarter turn" in the old days and Arthur would admit that the "one-and-three-quarters" is probably better fundamentally. However, he did pretty well with the low hard one and stuck to it. As far as the Star could learn no one even considered criticizing his Master of Ceremonies form at the party August 9.

Firefighter Everett W. Kimball of 33 Westley street has returned home from the Hahnemann Hospital in Brighton, where he underwent an operation last week. He is reported as getting along nicely.

It is too bad that the conduct of their young guests last Wednesday is making the Winchester Rotary Club consider seriously abandoning the practice of yearly taking a group of playground boys and girls to a big league baseball game in Boston. Rotarians this year make no bones about expressing their disgust at the actions of the kids, who threw ice cream, tonic and fruit skins around the stands, hitting some of the adults near them and causing a distinct mental hazard to many more. By way of enlivening the trip home some of the kids filled their pockets with crushed stone at the parking lot to throw out of the bus windows, and though the Rotary members confiscated some of this ammunition, some of it was actually put to use. Some of the kids actually spit out of the bus windows at passing cars, hard to believe but attested to by adults in the party. This little trip to the ball-park costs Rotary over $300. After the return trip last Thursday several Rotarians in the party were asking themselves whether the money could not be better spent. Many of the youngsters behave themselves and enjoy the game, but this year at least quite a few of the kids did not even remain in the stands, going beneath them to indulge their mischief-making proclivities there. We repeat, it will be too bad if the Rotary decides not to continue the baseball trips, too bad for those kiddies who like them and behave themselves. For the others no sympathy should be wasted. They are getting what they are asking for.

WE STAND CORRECTED

Reporting town meetings is ticklish business. We have been doing it for quite a spell and from time to time have written things about meetings that certain of the well informed politically have felt did not square with the facts as they, at least, heard them. The late Henry J. Maguire, chairman of the Board of Selectmen at the time, objected strenuously to our interpretation of a town meeting incident in which he figured, and readers of the Star in recent years will recall the stout exceptions taken to certain of our statements after a town meeting by that past master of local politics, former Selectman and Town Moderator Joseph W. Worthen. There have been others through the years who have felt we were mistaken in our reporting and some of them probably were right, just as others we are pretty sure were wrong! We are willing to back our town meeting reportorial understanding with that of many delegates, at least on the intelligence of lots of votes as we have observed them for 30 years. However, we were taken to task last Friday by former Mayor "Nick" Fitzgerald, and a check would seem to substantiate his contention that we erred in reporting one of the votes at last week's special town meeting. "Nick" contended that when Harold Farnsworth, possibly to preclude any possibility of a referendum, introduced an emergency preamble to the motion seeking $78,451.20 to install new boilers at the senior high school, the Star was wrong when it reported that a two-thirds vote was necessary to adopt this preamble and only a majority vote was needed to pass the motion with the emergency rider. Mr. Hewis, who opposed the Farnsworth strategy, didn't agree with the Moderator in his interpretation of what was necessary on the preamble and motion it modified, and we thought he argued a majority only was necessary on the preamble with a two-thirds vote needed to pass the following motion. We do know Mr. Wadsworth did not agree with Mr. Hewis in his ruling, and Mr. Fitzgerald seemed pretty certain that Mr. Wadsworth ruled majority on the preamble and two-thirds on the motion. So far as the ex-Mayor is concerned we had a feeling he might be over-critical. He has had it in for the Star reporter since those nostalgic days when we credited him only with a double when he broke up a 15 inning ballgame on old Manchester Field with a belt into the murky Aberjona, scoring a man from second. Our scoring has always rankled in the Fitzgerald bosom so it could be, we figured, Nick was simply giving us the old needle on general principles. However, when Mr. Leslie James Scott entered the Star sanctum on the same day, agreeing with the Fitzgerald reasoning, we admit we began to entertain serious doubts. For we have always given Mr. Scott full credit for his athletic prowess, winning the John Abbott trophy at the Country Club and getting all those curling medals and everything, so we figured Jim could have no particular pique on the score of athletic credit denied. If he thought we were wrong, we blame well might be! There was accordingly only one thing to do, consult the "oracle at Delphi". We did it, and Town Clerk Mabel Stinson ruled that Mr. Fitzgerald was right, that you only need a majority vote to pass an emergency preamble to any motion, but that a two-thirds vote is necessary to adopt the motion with the preamble included. "In a way," said Miss Stinson, "you were both right, for the preamble does have to have a two-thirds vote after it is attached to the motion, so if there is any wager involved, I wouldn't pay the bet!" There were no bets and we do not plan to stand on any technicality. It appears we were wrong, and in extenuation we plead, heat, intricacies of debate and the fact that we had had a tough day at the office with Mrs. Lord on her vacation! And another thing that balled us up was the Moderator asking for a standing vote on the preamble without a voice vote first! Remember now, in the future (we've heard this emergency preamble business is just beginning) the emergency preamble needs only a simple majority vote, but the motion voted an emergency with the preamble that makes it such has to get the green light from two-thirds of the voters present and voting. Thank you, Nick!

THE MYSTERIOUS UNIVERSE

Editor of the Star:

At sunset the stillness of the twilight hour is, for the thoughtful, an hour of meditation, for contemplation of man's mysterious environment, to envision the incomprehensible magnitude and glory of the universe.

Is there no end to space, no height or depth or points of compass, no whence or whither or up or under; a shallow depth of air encompassing the globe to sustain all that breathe, while Old Earth goes rolling on through the airless ether of lifeless, limitless space, rolling without axle or prop — on, on beyond the limitations of mind to comprehend, on through the ages, distance immeasurable, pilot unwearying — whither and to what end? Nobody knows.

Learn to accept the limitations of mind. It is enough for me to be permitted to see the beauty and miracles bestowed upon man by the open hand of nature. The resurrection in May of the dormant life in the countryside, the flowers and birds in my garden, the limitless variety and beauty of living things on every hand, the sunrise and sunset, the floating sky, the mystery and the glory of the starry firmament. These are my thoughts as I linger in my garden at the twilight hour.

The blessings so freely bestowed for all mankind are immutable. Let us be content and thankful for the privileges we may enjoy and for the peace that comes from the appreciation of our bounty, biding the time when evolution, in its mysterious way, releases the limitations of the mind, revealing the plan, the majesty and the meaning of incomprehensible creation.

TO CORRECT MISSTATEMENTS

Editor of the Star:

Enclosed is a copy of a letter sent August 18 to the School Committee regarding statements made at the special town meeting.

I would appreciate very much inclusion in this week's issue, if possible, as it should correct misstatements that are wide-spread.

Sincerely yours,
Arthur J. Hewis, Jr.

Winchester School Committee
Winchester, Mass.

Dear Sirs:

At the Special Town Meeting I made the following statements —

(a) that the Article to spend $40,000. for the repair and renovation of the High School was inserted by the then existing "Referendum Committee" in the Warrant of 1951.

(b) that the "Referendum Committee" did definitely believe that certain repairs were necessary and had to be made immediately.

(c) that the "Committee" appeared before the Finance Committee in support of that article and at that time specifically recommended that about $10,000 of the forty thousand dollars should be used to repair the boilers and heating equipment.

A member of the School Committee at last week's special town meeting arose and denied that the "Referendum Committee" had had anything whatsoever to do about the subject of repairs to the High School, stating that your committee had recognized the need and had requested the Town to appropriate the money, and further stating how the money was spent, throughout which I did not recall one dollar as having been spent on the oft-condemned boilers.

If the problem were less serious than the education and safety of our children, this might be passed off as smart politics, but such is not the case.

Education and the facilities for the same consume the largest individual portion of the tax-dollar and if only for monetary relief that may be accomplished, personal and partisan politics should, and must be eliminated.

The facts regarding these conflicting statements are a part of the Town Records.

On January 28, 1951, a petition was filed with the Selectmen requesting that an Article be inserted in the Warrant for the Town Meeting in March to consider the repair of the High School and to appropriate the necessary money therefor. It was requested at that time that the name of Royal P. Teele be at the head of the list of about fourteen signers.

The record further shows that the School Committee filed two Articles on the Junior and Senior High Schools, the same Articles that were considered the previous November and defeated by referendum in December. This would make the third meeting to consider this proposition as on that same evening, January 28th, they were the subject of the Special Meeting. (Subsequently defeated by referendum in February.)

The Finance Committee records will show that a hearing was held on Article No. 27, at which time Royal P. Teele, Richard M. Rush, Arthur A. King and Arthur J. Hewis, Jr., were present. All were officers of the "Referendum Committee." They recommended favorable action and suggested that about ten thousand of the forty thousand dollars be used for boiler and heating equipment repairs.

The vote and the Article may be found on page 59 of the Town Reports, 1951.

The record proves beyond any reasonable doubt that the statements I made were based on the facts and that the denial of that statement by the School Committee member challenged my honesty and good faith before the Town Meeting Members, and in a larger sense, denies the good and serious intentions of the citizens to fully cooperate in the civic betterment for fear of similar and more serious embarrassment.

Mutual trust and understanding has been the foundation of our system of government. I hope and trust, and do believe, that the School Commttee shares these thoughts with us and will make the proper retraction and clarification of the statement made at that meeting.

Sincerely yours,
Arthur J. Hewis, Jr.

BOYS BREAKING STREET LIGHTS

At 1:15 Saturday morning Police Headquarters was notified of boys attempting to break street lights on upper Main street. Officers Archie O'Connell and Mario Buzzotta went to investigate and found that a group of boys had broken the globe of a light at the north side of Swanton street near Main street.

As the Police approached, the boys took off down Water street but the Police caught one of them and later learned the identity of the others.

Sgt. John J. Dolan questioned the boy picked up at Headquarters Saturday morning, and later the whole group appeared before Acting Chief Edward W. O'Connell. Their parents were notified and will settle with the Edison Company for the broken globe.

BOAT CLUB NEWS

All junior members should turn out for the dance which is being held at the Clubhouse tonight. There's been a big demand for this affair, so make it a success! The music will be recorded, and there's lots of fun in store.

Winchester won by the close shave of one point in the inter-club race with Medford last weekend. Rodney Long is still out in front of the Club fleet even after his victorious week in Marblehead. He won in both Saturday and Sunday's point score races. Cliff Austin finished second Saturday and third Sunday. Daw Blamire captured third place Saturday. Bob Huggins, this season's new addition, kept up the good work with a second-place finish Sunday.

The bridge season is drawing to a close at the Club, but the ladies are showing more enthusiasm than ever. Mrs. Harold Pine is chairman of the dessert bridge scheduled for next Wednesday, August 27.

Fifty-five hungry members ate with relish a delicious bean supper prepared by the Broders Saturday night. The steward and his wife will be on deck this weekend with refreshments if you want them, just let them know.

PLAYGROUND NOTES

The Winchester Playground enjoyed the final Play Day of the season with the Stoneham Playgrounds at Stoneham last Thursday afternoon. The opportunity to visit these nearby towns to compete in a friendly manner with their teams has been welcomed by a large percentage of our sports minded youngsters. They have so expressed their appreciation to the Instructors on a number of occasions in asking for more of these popular Play Days.

The honors in this latest Play Day were all even with each town winning two of the four games played. The Winchester Seniors were victorious in baseball by an 8 - 2 score in a game featured by the pitching of Dave Pratt, the hitting of Ralph Kerrigan, and the fielding of Art Sullivan. The Winchester Intermediates won 14 - 4 as Dave Lindsey hit a home run for the locals and Al Magliozzi pitched steady ball. The Stoneham Juniors won 12 - 7 in spite of a fine relief chore by Jigger Bond. The Winchester girls played exellent ball even though they lost a hard luck 7 - 6 game in softball as Stella Samarco and Mertie West were outstanding for Winchester.

As the Playground season draws to a close, the champions, in all five of the competitive leagues have been crowned. Leonard Field hit the jackpot by winning four of the five championships. Sandy Burbank piloted his Seniors, Intermediates, and Juniors to all three baseball titles. Patsy Mawn's softball team dropped only three games while winning nine to annex the softball championship. Nancy O'Rourke's West Side kickball team broke the Leonard Field monopoly by beating Loring Avenue 18 - 12 this week to win the kickball crown. The champions of the baseball and softball leagues will be rewarded for their efforts with a trip to Fenway Park today to see the Red Sox battle the White Sox.

WOBURN CHOSEN FOR LITTLE LEAGUE REGIONALS

Directors of the National Little League Playoffs for Region 2, comprising Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, have selected Woburn's superb Little League diamond as the site for the playoff games.

This is a distinct tribute to the Tanning City and its Little League setup, which has been locally the envy of all surrounding communities. Winchester Little Leaguers have played a couple of times at Woburn and have come back each time loud in their praise of the facilities provided for Little League in the Tanning City.

By comparison Winchester's setup has been pretty bad, but steps are being taken to correct this situation next year. It surely is a feather in Woburn's cap to be selected for playoffs on a National scale. Being adjudged to have the best field in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut is really something!

WINCHESTER TEAM ELIMINATED

Blair Hawley of Winchester and Henry Salaun of Hartford, Conn., were eliminated Wednesday in the third round of the National Men's Doubles Championship tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club by the top seeded team of Gardner Mulloy of Miami, Fla., and Billy Talbert of New York. The scores were 6-2, 6-2, 6-1.

In the Father-Son division of the tourney Jimmy Farrin, Winchester High School's Massachusetts State Interscholastic champion, and his father, Captain James M. Farrin, USN, survived the second round of play by defeating the Newton team of Harrison and Harrison Rowbottom, Jr.

A. Miles Holbrook returned to his home in Stetson Hall from the Winchester Hospital on Monday. He is recovering from his recent shock very nicely and is able to be up and about his home.

BOY CAUGHT IN BASKET

Little Paul Lentine, Jr., whose dad used to play a lot of football in the backfield of Winchester High School teams back in the seasons of '37 and '38, had quite a time for himself Wednesday forenoon when he climbed into a big metal wastebasket at his home, 44 Swanton street.

Little Paul, two and one-half years old, got into the basket all right and looked cute enough with just his head and shoulder showing above the rim.

When he tried to get out, however, he turned in such a way as to wedge one of his legs tightly and was unable to move. Even the efforts of his mother and neighbors failed to extricate him.

The Police were notified and Officers Clarence Dunbury and Thomas Parsons responded. They, too, were unable to free the boy until they ripped open the side of the waste-basket with cutters.

Little Paul came out then, unharmed, and his grateful mother gave Officer Parsons first aid for a cut he sustained on the jagged metal of the basket.

CAR RAMMED POLE

Raymond W. MacDonald of 3 Baline place, Woburn, fortunately escaped injury shortly after 1:15 Wednesday morning when the Chevrolet sedan he was driving north on Main street got out of control and hit an Edison pole near the home of Mr. George Naugel.

The pole was damaged by the impact and the car turned completely over, being extensively damaged about the right front end. The Fire Department washed the gasoline from the overturned car off the road.

When the Police arrived MacDonald was not at the scene of the accident, but Officer Thomas Parsons interviewed him at his home. MacDonald stated that he was panicky at the time of the accident and accepted a ride home with a passing motorist. He said he was uninjured.

MORE NEW B-LINERS

An order for three additional stainless steel self-propelled rail diesel cars has been placed with the E. G. Budd Manufacturing Company of Philadelphia by the Boston and Maine Railroad it was announced at the Road's headquarters here today. The order consists of two coaches and one coach-baggage combination car duplicating three cars already in service on the Boston and Maine lines.

Delivery is expected in late 1952, or early 1953, a spokesman for the Road stated. The schedules and points between which the cars will operate have not yet been determined. The total cost was quoted as approximately $495,000.

Private Joseph J. Paonessa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Domenilo Paonessa, 330 Washington street, recently graduated from the Ordnance Automotive School, Atlanta General Depot, USA, Atlanta, Georgia. Private Paonessa entered the Army February 27, 1952 at South Boston Army Base, was selected to attend the Automotive School and completed the Tire Repair Course.

"DAYS OF YORE"

Clippings from the STAR Files

FIFTY YEARS AGO

AUGUST 22, 1902

Wilson of the Star is in a sad plight. His wife and mother-in-law are gallavanting down in Maine; Price is off somewhere vacationing; his bookkeeper has vamoosed the ranch; and Wilson, poor soul! is left in his loneliness to gather local news the best way he can. (Woburn Journal)

One of the most necessary places in town for an arc light is on Cambridge street at the entrance to the Boat Club. Whether it lies with the Selectmen or the Boat Club to have this done is immaterial; the light is badly needed there and should be established. Cambridge street is a favorite speedway for automobiles, bicycles and fast horses, and there have been several narrow escapes by people waiting for or alighting from electrics. Only a short time ago a gentleman was run into by a bicycle upon alighting from a car after dark; the wheelman said he saw him alight but thought he had crossed the road. A few nights ago a party waiting to take a car had a narrow escape from being run down by an automobile. It is predicted that unless this place is properly lighted there will be a serious accident before long.

The plans for the new Church of the Epiphany are in the hands of architect Cram, receiving their final touches. They will be presented to the Standing Committee for approval in a short time. When accepted the Society will be called to pass upon them.

On Wednesday, coal dealers in Boston advanced the prices on stove coal to $10.00 a ton. This advance will, no doubt, become general in Winchester.

There is talk of forming a businessmen's association, the object being for mutual benefit and pleasure. Mr. Alex MacDonald will be pleased to talk it over with the store keepers. An association of this kind would be found of benefit to the merchants in many ways.

Mr. Henry Kellogg, while riding his wheel Sunday evening, slipped in some mud and slid under a cart. Mr. Kellogg was somewhat scratched and the wheel was wrecked.

The Winchester Catholic Total Abstinence Socety is arranging for a grand party on Labor Day, Monday, September 1st, in Lyceum Hall. There will be dancing from 2 until 11 o'clock. The floor director will be William H. Foley, assisted by John H. Maloney. The following will act as aids: John F. O'Connor, Thomas K. Lynch, James J. Fitzgerald, J. Joseph Foley, John F. Holland, Alexander A. Nelson, Frederick C. Foley, Thomas M. Kelley, Frank E. Callahan, Edward M. O'Connor, James E. Foley, Benjamin F. Cullen, Thomas F. Donahue, James F. Kenney, William H. Vayo, Hugh J. Skerry, Thomas B. Cullen, Frederick C. Newman, Dennis E. O'Neil, James H. Donahue, Patrick E. Powers and Anthony L. Powers.

Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Morgan went to Highland Farm, Upper Gloucester, Maine, where they are passing two weeks.

Messrs. Joshua C., and Edward A. Kelley, Mr. A. Miles Holbrook, Miss Elizabeth Dutton, and Miss Alice and Rhoda Skillings have been to West Harwich as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Kelley.

An industry that is not heard of much in town is that of making moccasins, and yet considerable is being done in a small way. Mr. John Sweeney, the well-known harness maker, is receiving orders from Cuba, Porto Rico and from nearly all sections of the United States for this comfortable article of footwear. How his name and fame in connection with the making of moccasins should spread so far he is at a loss to state, yet he continues to receive orders from new places weekly. In addition to these outside orders he does much work in town.

An owner has been found for the horse and wagon discovered by the police on Cambridge street last week. The outfit was taken from a stable at South Boston, and the police are now looking for the man who drove it away.

Judge Littlefield took a trolley party to Fitchburg yesterday. On Thursday of next week there will be a "Ladies Day" trip to Salem Willows. If the day is pleasant, a large party is looked for. There will be a fish dinner and other pleasant features.

The Misses Mary and Daisy Lyons of Oak street have returned from a two weeks vacation at Watch Hill, R. I. In a few days they will go to Nahant for a week.

At the Foresters picnic in Woburn last Saturday James Horn of Winchester won first prize in the 100 yard dash.

The First Baptist Church, of which Rev. Henry E. Hodge was then the pastor, observed its Golden Anniversary, 1852-1902, and a brief history of the Society's activities in Winchester was published in the Star of August 22, over the signature of E. Chaloner.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

AUGUST 19, 1927

Without doubt the largest crowd ever to visit Winchester witnessed the display of fireworks last Monday evening on Manchester Field with which the Italian residents of the Town concluded their annual two day celebration in honor of the Feast of the Assumption. On the whole, the display was magnificent, featuring many unusual designs in the set pieces as well as in the rocket bombs. Certainly the most striking of the former were the displays depicting Lindbergh, the automobile races, the American Flag and the Italian street girl. The first named sent the big crowd into an uproar as the gleaming replica of the "Spirit of St. Louis" glided across the field to ignite a huge picture of the world beloved "Lindy." The automobile races also aroused much enthusiasm, the fiery little cars running about at a great rate. The last of the pieces mentioned above was one of the most beautiful. When first lighted it depicted a huge American flag in glowing colors. During its display the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and the crowd voiced its approval in prolonged applause. As the flag faded, from the dying colors there slowly emerged a gaily bedecked Italian street girl playing on a guitar. Another very elaborate piece was the replica of Niagara Falls surmounted by the American Eagle. The National Flag was at either side of the gleaming falls, and below a United States infantryman was standing at salute. During the evening the Roma Band of Boston played a concert program from the bandstand, commencing at 7 o'clock and continuing until the conclusion of the fireworks.

President Harold S. Fuller of the Winchester Hospital Corporation has signed contracts for the first step in building the new addition to the Winchester Hospital. Work on the addition was started this week. The first step in the enlargement consists of the erection of a large wing facing Highland avenue.

The Finance Committee at its meeting last Monday evening voted to transfer $300 from the reserve fund to be used by the Board of Health in the cleaning of the Town's streams. Considerable worth while progress in this project has already been made.

The Boston and Maine Railroad is going to reorganize and expedite its small lot freight service by using motor trucks to carry merchandise between outlying stations and its newly equipped Boston freight terminals at the Northern Artery. The object of the change, it is stated, is to give better service, and thus to regain for the railroad business which has been lost to private and public motor trucks. The rearrangement of service should also effect a reduction in street congestion, it is felt, by consolidating in a few trucks under regular schedules the scattered merchandise shipments which now move separately in privately owned trucks and others.

Several grown-ups were treated to a first rate example of patriotism and given sound advice by a youngster who was gazing round eyed across the Aberjona at the fireworks display last Monday evening. A set piece had just been touched off, depicting our Country's Flag in vivid colors and the band was playing the opening bars of "The Star Spangled Banner." The kiddie, a boy of eight or nine, upon hearing the music, scrambled quickly to his feet and was standing rigidly at attention when a man seated on the bank at the rear admonished him in no uncertain terms to "Sit Down." Sturdily the youngster faced the grown-up "Don't y' hear what they're playing?" he piped wrathfully. "You'd better stand up yourself — and (as an after thought) take off your hat." Isn't there an expression somewhere which says, "Out of the mouths of babes, etc.?"

The Park Board is now facing the problem of preventing out-of-town enthusiasts from monopolizing the Town's tennis courts on Palmer street.

The guest and speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club at the Calumet Club yesterday was Mr. Charles P. Howard, chairman of the Commission for Administration of Finance of the State. He gave a most interesting talk on "Keeping the State from Spendthrift Methods."

Thomas Quigley, Jr. local contractor, has been awarded the contract to grade the grounds at the new Washington School on Highland avenue, and has already begun work upon the job.

"Bobby" Smith, with his father, Francis E. Smith won the best-ball four-ball tournament last week at the Essex Country Club in Manchester. The local team played in the "One Round a Day" class.

Several of Winchester's young tennis players participated in the North Shore Junior Tennis Tournament at the Tedesco Club, Swampscott this week. Among them were Nancy Bradlee, Frances Pettingell, Louise Packer, Caroline Mercer, Francis Smith, Sidney Paine, Lawrence Freeburn, Frank Carleton, Edward Pugh, Lawrence Palmer and "Buddy" Boutwell. All of the local entrants showed well.

Daniel Kelly of the firm of Kelly and Hawes brought into the Star Office on Tuesday a section of a whetstone which he had taken from the heart of the old elm which was recently removed from Vine street by the men of the Tree Department. The tree had originally been divided into three or four trunks and some one while mowing in the vicinity had evidently placed his whetstone for safe keeping in one of the crotches thus formed. The trunks had gradually converged until the stone became embedded in the tree. If a bit of stone could talk, it might tell an interesting story of former times in the community.

Officer James Farrell was the complainant in the District Court at Woburn Monday against four motorists charged with speeding on Main street. Three were found guilty and fined $10 each. The other case was filed. One of the speeders had an additional fine of $25.00 imposed for refusing to stop for an officer. The latter, a Charlestown man, was caught by Officer Farrell after a chase in a commandeered machine.

LIGHTS BROKEN AT WEDGEMERE

When Caretaker Walter Parkins arrived at Wedgemere Station last Saturday evening he found that some time during the day six electric light bulbs had been broken, apparently with an air rifle, in the waiting room of the building.

The Police investigated and located a boy whom they say is responsible. The Boston & Maine Railroad took the case from there.

GEOGRAPHIC ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

There is an Indian village in Brooklyn. Some 400 Mohawks live as neighbors in comfortable, modern apartments. Most of the Mohawk men are employed in stell skyscraper construction, for which they show a particular aptitude, combined with lack of fear while working at great heights.

The Mississippi River surface between dikes at New Orleans is normally about three feet above sea level and above the average level of the city's streets. The river bed at New Orleans averages about 80 feet below sea level, says the National Geographic Society.

Napoleon once contemplated residence in the United States. The emperor is quoted in the National Geographic Magazine as saying to his brother Joseph: "If we are forced to flee to America, I should choose a place between Philadelphia and New York and on the Delaware River, in order to get news by packet."

The drift of polar ice has long been noted by Arctic explorer, says the National Geographic Society. An example cited by Commander Danold B. MacMillan concerns a pair of pants. Commande MacMillan says that a friend left his pants on the ice off Siberia in 1881 and they were found at Cape Farewell, Greenland, in 1884.

In addition to aiding motor travel, one of the main purposes of early automobile clubs was to overcome antagonism of livery stable operators who frequently barred "horseless carriages" from their premises.

Longyearbyen (Longyear City), administrative capital of Spitsbergen, was named for John M. Longyear, a Bostonian who in 1905 conducted the first large scale coal mining operations in the icy Arctic archipelago. Spitsbergen has been governed by Norway since 1925.

A bright red, hourglass-shaped spot under the abdomen identifies the black widow, North America's most venomous spider. This femal's poisonous bite kills about five percent of her known victims, says the National Geographic Society. Sever pains caused by her venom are sometimes mistaken for symptoms of appendicitis.

Civilized man, who relishes crabs, oysters, snails, and frogs' legs, scorns insects as food. Yet Hottentots consider a locust prague as manna from heaven. Australian bushmen eat various types of raw insect larvae. American Indians enjoyed roasted crickets, as well as the queens of leaf-cutting ants. And to the Aztecs an ear of corn tasted best if full of borers, says the National Geographic Society.

Among the little-known casualties of World War II were the race course and cricket fields at Gibraltar. The British eliminated them to make way for a modern airfield, says the National Geographic Society.

A total eclipse of the sun will occur June 30, 1954. Starting at sunrise in the north-central United States, it will end at sunset in India, notes the National Geographic Society. It will be unusual in that its path of totality extends across land more than water, giving millions of people the chance to observe it if their area skies are clear.

Fat-tailed sheep are raised throughout the Near East, but not only for wool, meat, and milk, says the National Geographic Society. Their tails, which weigh up to 35 pounds, yield a fat prized in making pastry. In times of drought, the fat stored in the tails serves as a reserve supply of nourishment for the animal.

"Leghorn" hats are so called because they have long been shipped from Italy's west-coast port of Leghorn (Livorno). They are made 100 road miles inland at Fiesole, a suburb of Florence, says the National Geographic Society.

The supremacy of God as infinite Mind and as the basis of brotherhood and Christian healing will be brought out in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "MIND" which will be heard at Christian Science services Sunday.

Among the selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is, "It should be thoroughly understood that all men have one Mind, one God and Father, one Life, Truth, and Love. Mankind will become perfect in proportion as this fact becomes apparent, war will cease and the true brotherhood of man will be established." (Page 467)

One of the passages from the Holy Bible also included in the Lesson-Sermon is: "Now the God of patience and consolation grant you to be likeminded one toward another according to Christ Jesus: That ye may with one mind and one mouth glorify God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ." (Romans 15:5,6)

Loan under $500 — $6 per $100 per year

"So I've got the jalopy jitters!"

"Look here," said the Jalopy, "is it my fault if I've got under-the-hood trouble?"

"Did you say that?" I said, startled. "I didn't know you could talk!"

"It's about time somebody talked to you, Fred Brown," the Jalopy said. "I'm going to give you a piece of my mind — before I take the long sleep in the junk yard."

"S-u-r-e, you go right ahead," I said politely. Maybe my old crate was turning into a Frankenstein's Monster!

"You need a new car," the Jalopy said. "And you need it bad. I'm dished, folded, done."

"Cut it out," I said, "I can't afford a new car."

"Yes you can. Get smart. Go to the bank and get an auto loan. They save you up to $100 on it. And those easy monthly payments will be practically painless."

Believe it or not, next day I dropped into this bank. They treated me like someone important. Quick and easy I came out with my auto loan.

THE GOOFY ONES

(Santa Ana, Calif. Register)

It was 20 years ago that the Squire of Hyde Park hitched up to a microphone and crooned the opening bars of the New Deal Stomp.

Ah, those were the days!

Genial Jim Farley was riding herd on the legion of two-bit wardheelers who had grunted the Old Master into the White House.

Charlie Mickelson was making love to the gentry of the press.

The team of Rip & Snatch — known to their friends as Corcoran and Cohen — were doing odd jobs stuffing skeletons into closets and putting the dirty linen down cellar where nobody'd see it.

Rex Tugwell was busier than a cat on a tin roof — looking pretty and making like he had something besides holes in his head.

Felix Frankfurter was operating the Harvard Law School on an assembly line basis, grinding out his "little hot dogs" to take over government jobs that no self-respecting lawyer would touch with a 90 per cent contingency.

Every teed-off misfit on an Ivy League faculty was recruited for a fantastic, musical-comedy farce called "the Brain Trust."

The press corps was having a passionate nosebleed every time the Old Master smiled condescendingly.

It was just about the biggest celebration since Pat chased the snakes out of Ireland.

It was the beginning of the biggest free-hand bust in history.

It was the kickoff of a political drunk that was going to make a Roman saturnalia look like a regional convention of the Epworth League.

It set the pace for what was to follow.

Over the loudspeakers came the Magic Voice from Never-Never Land.

"We have nothing to fear but fear itself," the Magic Voice said.

And over in the Kremlin, a big-time burglar, counterfeiter assassin and double-crosser laughed to beat hell.

"We must not worry about the national debt," the Magic Voice went on, "for, after all, we owe it to ourselves."

And once more the man with the bushy moustache nodded in approval. It was going to be just the way Lenin predicted.

It was in 1932 that it happened.

Some historians will say that year marked our departure from free enterprise.

But 1932 marked the year the intellectuals took over — the year a bunch of bums who never did anything themselves began to tell everyone else how to do things.

It was the year we launched into a consolidation of the three branches of government.

The year 1932 was the beginning of "security at any price." Print enough money so's everybody will have a potfull. Kill the little pigs. Liquidate the kulaks.

Everyone with two dimes to rub together was an enemy of society and there was nothing so glorious as to be flat on your fanny and first in line at the WPA pay window.

The Real American was a strapping oaf who had outgrown a desire to acquire things via the work route.

"Human rights above property rights," was the cry; and the band played so loud nobody could hear the guys in the back row asking: "Aren't property rights part of our human rights?"

LESSON WORTH IT

Yes, it was quite a ball.

The Old Master did a magnificent job of work. He sang like a canary the words written by Charlie Mickelson and the music composed by Sammy Rosenman. Maybe he didn't exactly understand it himself; but, as he pointed out, he was "an Olympian" and who expects the gods to understand silly little things like morality?

The intellectuals were going to legislate away the human desire to acquire things — a process which has steadily improved the living standards of all man.

The desire to own something was "greed." The way to produce wealth was to lean on a shovel handle.

He lived to suffer some terrible licks from fellows like the Old Curmudgeon, a professional scold, and Jim Farley, too; but mostly he buried his own dead, as in the case of Bubblehead Wallace.

In a way, it was the most expensive experiment in all of history. It cost us thousands of lives, billions of dollars, an uncertain future, and Harry Truman.

It will have been worth the sacrifice only if we've learned our lesson as George Washington preached it:

"Government is a dangerous servant and a terrible master."

They say George never told a lie. At least he didn't that time.

RECEIVED B. U. DEGREES

Winchester had several among the approximately 900 persons graduated on Saturday, August 16, at Symphony Hall after completing degree programs at the 38th summer session of Boston University.

From Winchester were John Francis Conlin, A.B., M.P.H., M.D., of 2 York road, who received the degree of Master of Science from the School of Public Relations and Communications with a major in Public Relations.

Also Lewis Kingsley Moore, Jr., A.B., of 4 Penn road, Master of Arts from the Graduate School with a major in History.

Also Joan Bishop Warren, B.S., of 2 Greeley road, Master of Arts from the School of Education.

Also Wanda Whiting, 3 Orient street, Bachelor of Arts from the College of Liberal Arts with a major in History.

KNIGHTS CLAM BAKE SUNDAY

Winchester Council, Knights of Columbus, is holding a mammoth old-fashioned New England clam bake Sunday, August 21, at Pocahontas Tavern in Lynnfield. The Knights yearly have an outing of some sort and those who have attended these affairs in the past won't miss Sunday's big feature.

A big program of sports has been arranged for the afternoon, after the bake, though it would seem a quiet snooze under the trees would be more in order following the eating. Baseball, softball and golf are being planned for those interested and of course there is always the possibility that some horseshoe expert will finally take the measure of "Wild Willie" McLaughlin, the Pride of Stow and Champion of all Nabnasset.

Run your eyes over the following menu and see how you'd like to play softball, or hard ball, or any ball at all, after filling up on: clam chowder with crackers, baked lobster, drawn butter; broiled sweet corn on the cob with melted butter, clams in shell, melted butter; clam broth, broiled half chicken, potato chips, French and Italian breads, fresh creamery butter, broiled Italian sausage, tomatoes and cucumbers, watermelon slices and coffee! Whew!

To get to Pocahontas Tavern take Washington street to Route 128. Take Exit 23 from 128 at Lynnfield and go to Lynnfield Center, then turn right on Route 62 one mile to Tavern.

Mr. Lawrence Nichols is leaving town Sunday night for New York, where he will attend the convention of the American Legion.

WINCHESTER PHYSICIAN RECEIVED B. U. DEGREE

The medical profession's public relations demand more than a charming bedside manner, in the opinion of one of Boston University's degree winners, Dr. John F. Conlin of York road, since 1947 the Director of Medical Information and Education for the Massachusetts Medical Society.

Dr. Conlin, who received a Master of Science degree in Public Relations from the University's School of Public Relations and Communications, said that "No one field needs better public relations or has more public relations problems that the medical profession."

One of the state's leaders in promoting more information for lay people on public health questions, and medical practices, Dr. Conlin said that he took on his job of public information without professional training in the field. He started his Boston University graduate program last fall (1951) because, he said, "While I have learned to do my job through a combination of intuition, common sense, and trail and error, I felt the need of greater technical background in this new science of communication." Dr. Conlin likened public relations techniques to the medical profession in its growing emphasis on scientific research and surveys now being used more and more to develop new methods of communication.

Dr. Conlin has had a varied career, having spent nine years from 1923-1932 in Passionist monasteries in Eastern United States before deciding to become a doctor. He was graduated from Tufts School of Medicine in 1938, and did intern and residence work at hospitals and in the Army until 1945. He was discharged as a colonel from the Army Medical Corps after spending four and a half years in the service, much of this with General George S. Patton's Army in Europe. He became a graduate of the Harvard School of Public Health in 1947.

His work in medical public relations began when he became chairman of the Massachusetts Committee for Medical Research in 1946, working mostly in publicizing the medical profession's position on vivisection and chiropractic methods. Other programs carried out under Dr. Conlin's direction include the Boston Chest X-Ray program, Massachusetts Health Conferences in 1949 and 1950 for lay and professional people, and he has just been named general chairman of the Boston Accident Prevention Program.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

"Sally and Saint Anne" starring Ann Blyth and Edmund Gwenn and opening Sunday at the University Theatre, is delightfully flavored with the warmth and humor of such all-time great hits as "Going My Way" and "You Can't Take It With You". The tribulations of a robust Irish-American family beset by the machinations of an unscrupulous enemy form the structure about which the story is woven.

"California Conquest", the associate film, co-stars Cornel Wilde and Teresa Wright. This outdoor action drama was filmed in color by Technicolor.

On Wednesday, Review Day, the program includes "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington" co-starring James Stewart and Jean Arthur and "A Modern Marriage" with Margaret Field.

"The Story of Will Rogers", a tribute to America's beloved humorist, opens Thursday for three days. Will Rogers, Jr. and Jane Wyman have the leading roles in this Technicolor film.

"Lady In The Iron Mask", the companion film, is a swashbuckling action-drama starring Louis Hayward and Patricia Medina.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED

Shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday morning Ralph Marchesi of 251 Swanton street reported to the Police that some time during the night previous his Ford sedan had been stolen from his yard. The car was later recovered in the woods off Sylvester avenue extension by Officers John Elliott and Thomas Parsons.

The same night an attempt was made to steal another car parked in Marchesi's yard and owned by Patrick O'Malley of 27 Arthur st. One of the small ventilating windows of the car had been broken in an attempt to get into the machine.

BOYS RESPONSIBLE FOR DAMAGE CAUGHT

After investigation of damage reported at the Ridley and Damon homes on Swan road and Arlington street, Officer Thomas Parsons questioned two Winchester boys, aged 14 and 13, on Monday forenoon; exacting a confession that between them they had broken a large glass carboy used as a lawn decoration, an electric light globe and had pulled up a street number sign at the Ridley home.

The two boys named a third who had been with them when the damage was done and the parents of all three were notified by the Police.

WINCHESTER AT THE NATIONAL DOUBLES

Winchester was well represented at the Longwood Cricket Club on the opening day of the National Doubles Tennis Tournament, August 18. The number one N. E. ranking team of Winchester's Blair Hawley and Henri Salann of Hartford, Conn., upset Gaetano Rueda and Jose Cortes, Bogota, Colombia, 8th-seeded foreigners, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

Art Hills teamed with Bob Joslin of Watertown, losing to Ham Richardson, Baton Rouge, La., and Bob Perry, Los Angeles, 5th seeded Americans, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

Meanwhile, opening the tournament on the new stadium court, Dot Hills and partner Nancy Norton of Connecticut were licked by Nancy Chaffee Kiner, wife of the Pirates' Ralph Kiner, and Thelma Long, Australian singles champion, 6-1, 6-1.

Tournament officials were Winchester's Jim Ware, Gerry Hills, and Theo Whatmough, umpires; while Bobby Becker, ball boy, was seen shagging for Doris Hart and Shirley Fry, 1951 Nationals Doubles champs. Seen in the rooting section for the Winchester teams were Mrs. E. Blair Hawley, Ruth and Jim Murray, G. Y. Hills, Mrs. Leslie Curtis, Mrs. D. R. Weedon, and Mrs. K. Colony. Junior players noted among the spectators were Mertie West, Lee Abbott, Prue Morton, and Sue Morton, who is playing for the New England team in the intersectional matches this week at the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia. Sue will also play in the National Juniors next week.

BRAVES TAKE SECOND

The Braves won a 7-1 victory last week Thursday evening at Manchester Field to go two-up in the best three-in-five World's Series for the Little League town championship.

The game was highlighted by the fine relief pitching of Paul Del Rossi, who relieved McGrail for the Dodgers in the Braves' five run first, and despite the fact he was pitching his first game of the year, held the winners scoreless until the final frame.

ST. JOHNS K. O. MERCHANTS IN PLAYOFF

St. Johns of Cambridge dealt the Merchants a double blow Sunday, August 15, at Rindge Field, defeating the locals in a double header 8-6 and 5-4. Both games were well played, with only one error in both games. St. Johns scored two in the first on a walk, Shannon's double and Girouard's single. The Merchants tied it up in the second on Serieka's double and Chisholm's triple. Cirurso walked and in a run-down Chisholm scored. The Saints came right back to score three more on a walk, single, double and another double. In the fifth Landry's homer, another walk, a single and a double scored three more runs. Delorey was having his troubles, having been hit freely, and in the fifth bruised his pitching hand and was relieved by Diiorio. The Merchants stayed in the ball game, scoring one in the sixth on a hit by Johnson and successive hits by Chisholm and Murphy. In the seventh the locals had a lively rally going with Johnson reaching on a fielder's choice, Serieka's single, Chisholm's fourth hit sending Johnson home. Murphy doubled home Serieka and Chisholm. Cirurso singled but the rally died with Griffin's fly to center field. Chisholm had four for four in the first game.

SECOND GAME

The Merchants got away to a fast start in the second game, scoring twice on Dilorio's single, Serieka's double and Chisholm's triple. But St. Johns was not to be denied, scoring one in the first, one in the fourth, and two in the fifth to go ahead of the locals, who had picked up a run in the third. St. Johns scored an insurance run in the sixth. The locals, however, fought back in the seventh to get a short-lived rally under way when Dalton, with two away, singled to right. Serieka followed with a drive to right, but was thrown out attempting to reach second to end the game.

The Merchants played excellent ball defensively and did some of their best team hitting of the season. They never once gave up and forced St. John's, considered one of the best in this area, to the limit before going down to defeat.

MERCHANTS DOWN IMPERIALS TO TAKE THIRD PLACE

The Merchants defeated the Somerville Imperials Friday evening at Leonard by a 6 to 1 score. The victory in their final game of the regular season moved the locals into third place in the Inter-City League.

It was a 1-0 ball game with the locals ahead going into the last of the fourth, with Murphy and Naugler both pitching excellent ball. In the fourth the Imperials' defense fell apart and the locals scored five runs to put the game on ice. Chisholm and DiIorio were the only Merchants to hit safely, Chisholm's single scoring Serieka with the first run.

The Merchants met the league-leading St. Johns club at Cambridge Sunday, August 17, in a double header, the first two of a three game series to determine who would meet the winner of the Lexington-Reading series in a final three-out-of-five game playoff.

The Police are constantly called upon for all sorts of service to residents, so they really thought little about it at headquarters Thursday afternoon when a lady called from Boston with the information she had left her stack water-heater lighted and would the Police do something about it. Noting the address, Officers Nurnberger and John Elliott were dispatched to the home indicated, where, after climbing in a second story window with a ladder, they found that the stack was shut off and everything in order.

Frank A. Penta of 37 Dudley street, Arlington, reported to the Police Monday evening that while he was watching a soft ball game at Ginn Field some one had broken into his Pontiac sedan, parked on the Parkway, and had stolen four pairs of slacks. Officers Archie O'Connell and Irving Reardon responded and found that the slacks had been thrown into the Aberjona River. They recovered the slacks but they probably were not helped much by their immersion.

Last Friday evening Charles Barnes of 39 Middlesex street, a railroad worker, brought to Police Headquarters a set of number plates which he had seen two men throw over the banking at the M. D. C. parking lot near Sandy Beach. After throwing away the plates the men drove away in automobiles, the numbers of which Mr. Barnes was unable to secure. The Police checked and found the plates had been taken from a Buick sedan, which the Andover State Police reported stolen in Burlington.

Woburn has now adopted a city ordinance prohibiting the firing of "any gun, fowling piece, or firearms, or any air rifle in the city, except as provided by law." This will help the Winchester Police considerably, for a large part of the complaints received in this town about the discharge of firearms have been traceable to hunters in the outskirts of Woburn. Winchester has long prohibited the discharge of firearms in town and also has a ban on air rifles.

The Police received an unusual call Wednesday evening when Mrs. Theodore Messer of 1 Priscilla Lane reported an exhausted wild duck in her yard. Officers Archie O'Connell and Irving Reardon responded and it was later found that the duck was owned by a Medford man, named Luongo, living at 10 Winthrop street, that city, who called for the fowl.

Jack Chitel of Chitel's Men's Shop at 6 Mt. Vernon street called the Police yesterday forenoon, reporting that a little girl had wandered into his shop (where women like to shop) and seemed to be lost. The little visitor proved to be Ann Marie McDonough of 128 Washington street, and was taken home in the cruiser by Officer Thomas Parsons.

FIRE DEPARTMENT NEWS

Monday morning at 12:23 the department was called to the home of Mr. S. F. Orth, 30 Calumet road, where a member of the family, after snapping on an electric light, heard a buzzing sound in the walls and felt the wall near her becoming warm. The firemen found upon arrival that the insulation had melted from a wire in the partition between the second and third floors of the house and had charred some of the studding, creating a strong odor and some smoke. The firemen opened the partition and removed the defective wiring. Box 58 was sounded from the station for the fire.

On Saturday, August 16, Box 35 sounded for a fire in a tool shed at the old freight yard off Swanton street owned by County Commissioner James A. Cullen. Damage done there was reported as slight.

Wednesday morning of this week the Central Station was notified by Mrs. Thornton Harvey of 208 Washington street that a loud rumbling could be heard in the other side of the house, leading her to believe that the hot-water heater was burning there and no one at home. The firemen responded and found she had stated the case accurately. They turned off the lighted heater, first climbing into the house with the assistance of a ladder.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The Police have received complaints from the Edison Company about the breakage of street lights on Emerson road. It has been learned that the lights, six so far, have been broken by boys who have been playing at the Parkhurst School and who leave the playground there at dusk.

Miss Gertrude Crossman of Lloyd street took time off from her duties at the Mystic Beauty Shop Wednesday afternoon to take her nephew, Richard Crossman of Providence, R. I., to the Red Sox-Cleveland baseball game at Fenway Park. Miss Crossman, one of the town's more rabid Red Sox rooters, enjoyed little of the massacre and practically passed out when "Luscious Luke" Easter belted his grand slam homer for the Indians in the 10 run third.

EXPLODING MATCHES CAUSED BRUSH FIRE

A book of matches exploding in the hand of Fred Mitchell, well known barber, shortly after 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, set fire to a quantity of dry brush piled up behind his garage on Winchester place and caused a hot blaze with flames said by the firemen to reach a height of 20 feet.

Mr. Mitchell fortunately was not burned, but the brush was pretty much a total loss and there was also some damage done the Mitchell fence. The garage, being steel, was not burned.

COLLISION ON POND STREET

A Dodge sedan being driven east on Pond street by Malcolm J. Campbell of 30 Mozart street, Jamaica Plain, was in collision Monday forenoon at the intersection of the Woburn Parkway with a Plymouth coupe being driven out of the Parkway by Alfred K. Bartlett of 117 Howe avenue, Shelton, Conn.

Both cars were disabled and were towed to Woburn garages. Fred Masse of 145 Lexington street, Woburn, riding with Bartlett, was reported injured in the collision.

GEOGRAPHIC ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

New York City reaches nearly 100 miles into the lower Catskills for most of its water supply. Los Angeles depends largely on Owens River water brought 238 miles by aqueduct, and draws one-sixth of its supply 392 miles from the Parker Dam on the Colorado River, says the National Geographic Society.

In 1937 the asteroid Hermes, about a mile in diameter, came within 500,000 miles of the earth, although its path was such that it could not have struck. Should such an object hit a city, however, it would dig a crater several miles across where the city stood, and the hot air blast would destroy all life and property for miles around.

INDUSTRY, RECREATION SHARE DELAWARE RIVER

The Delaware River, named for a man who may never have seen it, and trickling from a duckpond and a mountain spring, ranks as one of the nation's most important avenues of commerce.

Albert W. Atwood traces the Delaware from its insignificant Catskill sources to the great and busy bay that carries it into the Atlantic in the current (July) issue of the National Geographic Magazine.

The Delaware, Dr. Atwood writes, was termed "a glorious River" by William Penn, who founded Philadelphia at the confluence of the river and the Schuylkill. The stream justifies Penn's words. It is broad and majestic in its lower reaches, and moves through mountain playgrounds and prosperous farmland nearer its source.

The farmlands and mountains — cut at the famous Delaware Water Gap — contrast sharply with the great industries and cities served by deepwater transportation of the navigable portions of the river.

Steel Mill Rising

One of the world's greatest steel mills, the Fairless works of United States Steel, is rising from farmland in Bucks County, Pennsylvania. At Trenton, capital of New Jersey, a few miles upstream from the Fairless works, the world's first open hearth furnace, the type in which most steel is made today, was set up in 1868.

The immense new steel mill will take water from the river, some 230,000,000 gallons a day. But Fairless works will give better than it takes, returning 242,000,000 gallons of water, purified of industrial waste daily. The increase comes from underground sources also serving the mill.

Philadelphia, once the nation's capital and now its third city and the second United States port in tonnage of waterborne commerce, lies a short distance downstream.

Other industrial cities trading with all parts of the world in ships plying the Delaware are Camden, N. J., Chester, Pa., and Wilmington, Delaware.

Shipbuilding Center

The Delaware is one of the Nation's prime shipbuilding centers, with ways at Camden, Chester, Philadelphia, and elsewhere. Tremendous quantities of oil are brought by tanker to refineries lining the stream, and great chemical installations are served by its waterborne traffic.

George Washington crossed the Delaware with 2,400 men on Christmas night, 1776, to rout the Hessians at Trenton — a crossing made familiar to every school child by Emanuel Leutze's famous painting. Philadelphia is packed with historical shrines, including Independence Hall, "the Cradle of the Nation."

The Dutch, among the first settlers in the area, called the stream the South River to distinguish it from the Hudson, or North River. But the name that lasted was bestowed by an English adventurer, Samuel Argall, in honor of Lord De La Warr, first colonial governor of Virginia.

MRS. CHRISTINE E. HAYDEN

Mrs. Christine E. (Cameron) Hayden, wife of Ashley K. Hayden of 8 Glengarry, died Sunday, August 17, while on vacation at Salt Springs, N. S. She had been for some time troubled with a heart condition, but had been able to go to her old home in Nova Scotia by motor with Mr. Hayden this summer as usual.

Born at Salt Springs, N. S., Mrs. Hayden completed her education in Boston, studying elocution at Emerson College as a young woman. She came to Winchester with her family in 1923, from Dedham, and during the active years of her residence here was prominent in social and civic affairs, having been president both of the Fortnightly Women's Club and of the Winchester Women's Republican Club.

She leaves her husband; a son, Albert Cameron Hayden of Lexington; two grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Roy Garland of Gloucester.

Both the funeral and interment took place at Salt Springs, N. S,

GEOGRAPHIC ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

Ostriches — largest and most powerful of the flightless birds — have been kept in enclosures and "farmed" since 1857. Before that time plumes sold on the fashion markets in Europe and America were secured by hunting wild ostriches, says the National Geographic Society.

The only French possession on the mainland of North or South America, French Guiana, is also France's oldest colonial outpost.

The Sabbath is strictly kept on the Isle of Skye in the Hebrides, and residents can, if they wish, attend two church services in successions. One service is in English and the other in Gaelic.

The first transcontinental telegraph line was completed on October 24, 1861, nearly eight years before the continent was crossed by rail, says the National Geographic Society.

Most fireflies are believed to eat nothing during the few summer days and nights when they are sparking around. They live on energy stored when they are larvae on and in the ground, says the National Geographic Society. Their diet then includes snails and worms, as well as the highly destructive cutworm.

Weaving is one of man's oldest crafts, says the National Geographic Society, but man probably made felt cloth before he made any woven fabric.

Auks and murres lay but a single egg; hummingbirds, two; robins, three to five; grouse, eight to 15. The number is probably an adaptation to the dangers to which the eggs and young are subjected.

Battle Harbour, center of Labrador's fishing industry probably took its name from the Portuguese word batal, meaning boat, says the National Geographic Society. At this settlement in 1893, Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell — "Grenfell of Labrador" — built the first hospital for the Indians and Eskimos of the region.

New Zealand, deep in the southern hemisphere, abounds in fish and trees imported from North America, says the National Geographic Magazine. A natural shortage of game fish resulted in the "planting" of brown and rainbow trout from Canada in the streams. Forest depletion called for new timber, and such trees as Douglas fir and Monterey pine were brought in to build up reserves.

HEADS NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION

MRS. POND FIRST WOMAN TO BE GOVERNOR

Mrs. June T. Pond of 2 Salisbury street was elected the first woman Governor of the sixty-one-year-old American Numismatic Association, at the annual convention in New York City last week.

Mrs. Pond, whose husband, the late Shepard Pond, was a former Governor of the Association, has been a member for only five years, making her election even the more remarkable. She has, however, been very active in the Association as a member of important committees, her activities having made her widely known in numismatic circles.

Her election as the first woman Governor of the American Numismatic Association is a great personal tribute, of which her many friends in Winchester will be pleased to learn.

WOUNDED IN KOREA

Friends of John Albree, formerly of 7 Stratford road, will regret to hear that he was wounded in combat on August 6 in Korea.

Lt. Albree graduated from Norwich University in June 1951 and was sent to Fort Knox, Kentucky, for training at the Armored School.

On Easter eve he flew to Tokyo, Japan, for a ten-weeks course in Military Intelligence. Upon its completion he was assigned, at his request, to the 72nd Tank Battalion, 2nd Infantry Division.

Lt. Albree with 4 tanks was supporting the French Battalion on "T" Bone Ridge when a shell fired by the enemy exploded near him and a fragment wounded him in the hip. He has been recuperating at the Swedish Red Cross Hospital in Pusan and expects to be returned to the front as soon as recovered.

ENGAGED

Mrs. William Alfred Barrell of North Andover has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Katherine Marie Barrell, to Lt. (jg) John Field Shepard, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howell F. Shepard of South Deerfield, N. H., formerly of Winchester. Miss Barrell was graduated from Stoneleigh Prospect Hill School and from the West Hill School. Lt. Shepard graduated from Phillips Academy, Andover, and from Williams College. He is stationed at Norfolk, Va.

WALTER FRANCIS CHAPMAN CANDIDATE FOR MIDDLESEX COUNTY COMMISSIONER

WALTER F. CHAPMAN

Walter Francis Chapman, a former member of the Melrose Board of Aldermen, and a resident of Wakefield for the past twenty-five years, has announced his candidacy for Middlesex County Commissioner. Mr. Chapman is basing his campaign on his training, experience and record of achievement as a public official and his service to the Republican Party.

Mr. Chapman was a member of the Melrose Board of Aldermen for five terms. During his terms he served on the important Committees on Highways, the Committee on Education, Health and Welfare and the Committee on Protection and Licenses. He was a member of the Melrose Republican City Committee for five years. As a home owner and taxpayer for twenty-five years he is especially interested in a reduction of county expenditures and the savings that result to the individual taxpayers.

Because of his long association with private business as a district office representative, insurance agent, and assistant manager he is cognizant of the need for increasing the efficiency of county government through the adoption of modern business methods and the giving of full time service to the duties of the County Commissioner.

Years of service in all parts of the county have made him familiar with the roads, county buildings, institutions and reservations of Middlesex County.

He has also been interested in many civic, church and fraternal organizations, being a trustee and member of the finance committee of his church for many years.

ASKS MOTORISTS USE CARE

Registrar of Motor Vehicles, Rudolph F. King, and Chief of Police Charles J. Harrold of Winchester, in a joint release today said, "Motorists and pedestrians must be prepared for the end of the vacation season.

"The Labor Day week-end will crowd our highways with the greatest number of motor vehicles in our history. Thousands of vehicles filled with family groups and relatives are returning from their summer vacations, while additional thousands are taking advantage of this last week-end holiday of the summer season. Other out-of-state vacationists must use our highways returning home from vacation spots in New England and the Provinces. This is a family holiday. The courtesy, consideration and patience practised at home should be publicly demonstrated behind the wheel.

"With approximately 36,000 more motor vehicles registered than a year ago and 47,000 more licensed operators, motorists and pedestrians must cooperate with enforcing officials if we are to prevent highway tragedies."

WINCHESTER OFFICER MISSING AT SEA

Mrs. Cecelia V. Cunningham of 176 Wildwood street is anxiously waiting for further news of her son, Alfred G. Cunningham, 34, first engineering officer of the American Export ship Exchequer, believed lost from his ship in the Red Sea Tuesday, August 19.

Mrs. Cunningham and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Croft, who live with Mrs. Cunningham on Wildwood street, received news of the tragedy last Thursday in a cable from the Exchequer's captain. The Cunninghams and Crofts came to Winchester from Jamaica Plain in 1949.

The Exchequer was on the India run when the accident occurred, having been out of American waters for three months with her last port of call at Port Sudan.

The cablegram stated that Mr. Cunningham's disappearance was noticed about 3:30 Tuesday morning, a time when he normally is preparing to go off watch and goes to the cabin of the officer relieving him. It is believed that the mishap occurred after he had aroused his relief and that in all probability Mr. Cunningham was washed overboard in a heavy sea. At his home it was said that he might have been checking the steering of the ship, which is one of the regular duties of the officer on watch.

Mr. Cunningham is a veteran of World War II, during which he survived the sinking of two of the ships on which he served, one being sunk in the Pacific and the other, the Georgetown, going down off the Irish Coast.

A native of Jamaica Plain and a graduate of Boston Latin School, Mr. Cunningham worked for a time after graduation as a machinist at the Boston Navy Yard, taking night courses in engineering subjects at Lowell Institute. At the beginning of World War II he enlisted in the Merchant Marine, serving on tankers in the Pacific and Near East. From the Merchant Marine he entered the Coast Guard and was sent at once to the Coast Guard Officers' Training School at New London, from which he was graduated in 1943 with the rank of ensign.

During the remainder of the war he shipped out of the West Coast on armed transports carrying high octane fuel and ammunition to airplane carriers engaged in island invasions in the Pacific. It was during this service that he received a citation for declining leave that was due him to remain on his job.

He was promoted to lieutenant, junior grade, and then to lieutenant before his release from the Coast Guard in 1946.

From the Coast Guard Mr. Cunningham entered the service of the American Export Line in New York. He was serving as first engineering officer on the Exchequer when the accident involving him occurred. His ship is due in this country September 5.

Meanwhile everything possible is being done to get more exact news of the young Winchester officer. Through Congressman Kennedy the State Department is working with the British authorities at Port Sudan and Port Said in the Suez, and the American Consul at Sudan is also cooperating.

The American Export Company has wired the captain of the Exchequer to make every effort to uncover any facts bearing upon the accident, and it is believed that the Coast Guard will conduct an inquiry into the tragedy when Mr. Cunningham's ship reaches Boston.

HIGH SCHOOL REGISTRATION

The High School Guidance Office will be open on Tuesday, September 2, and Wednesday, September 3, from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. to enable new students to register and to take care of changes in program of students already registered for the coming year.

ST. MARY'S CYO GIRLS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Expert swimming teams from cities and towns throughout the Archdiocese of Boston met last Sunday afternoon, August 24th, at the White Swimming Pool in Charlestown, to compete in the annual CYO Swimming Contest. Each parish brought large groups to enter the competition, but it took only two sister combinations from Winchester, the Johnson and the McNally girls, to splash their way to victory and pile up 29 points to top the scoring and St. Mary's CYO Girls' Team won the Swimming Championship of the Archdiocese and brought home the Archbishop Cushing Trophy for 1952.

Only four — no more — but what a score! That summarizes the winning picture for the St. Mary's Girls because only the four sisters comprised the number of entries in the girls' events. The team included Noreen, Johnson who was the highest scorer, Marguerite Johnson, Margaret McNally and Mary McNally. The exhibition of speed as they cleaved their way smoothly down the pool was something that made the crowd marvel. Their timing was accurate, their kicking perfect, their strokes powerful.

Noreen Johnson won first place in the Junior 50 yd. free style (Open). Her next honor came when she passed prettily by her opponents in the Junior 50 yd. back stroke for another St. Mary's victory. Marguerite Johnson, her sister, was not to be outdone. She flew the family flag high also, by winning the 25 yd. free style in the Cadet entry and she also gathered valuable points by placing 4th in the 50 yd. free style for Juniors. That was the Johnson story. The McNally story was soon to be written.

Peg McNally glanced at the scoreboard, sized up the situation and decided to accumulate more points for her parish team, so she dove in with keen competition for the Junior 50 yd. back stroke for Novices and placed a well-deserved second, a few strokes behind the winner. The St. Mary's figures were reaching a high total and there was more to be heard from the McNally duet. Little sister Mary pulled on her cap, lined up with the cream of the crop in the Junior 50 yd. back stroke and came whizzing home in second place.

The feminine side of the story closed — the totals were chalked up — St. Mary's Girls emerged victorious and the trophy comes to Winchester.

The masculine chapter in the swimming contest was written practically singlehanded by George Wheaton. In the same manner in which Noreen Johnson was spectacular for the girls' team, George was the star performer for the boys. Not satisfied with taking first place in the Junior 50 yd. free style, he entered the 50 yd. back stroke and with his arms spinning, he raced the length of the pool like a jet and came up the winner. Other members of the boys' team were Alan McDougall and Francis McNally, who showed real promise in their "race for little men."

The entire team deserves a world of praise because even though they were few in number, they were determined that St. Mary's, Winchester, would be heard from, and how right they were, because the echo of the "New Champion" is still ringing out from all corners of the Archdiocese of Boston like a 21 gun salute.

COMING EVENTS

Sept. 2, Tuesday, 8:30 a. m. Flowers for the Flower Mission to be left at the Winchester Railroad Station.

September 16, Tuesday, State Primary election. Polls open at Town Hall, 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

At St. Andrew's Church in Methuen on Saturday afternoon, August 23, Miss Cynthia Ann Lever, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wendall Lever of Sanford, Maine, became the bride of John Nelson Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Davis of Woodside road. The Rev. J. Norman Hall of Peabody officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony which took place in a setting of white and yellow gladiolas combined with ivy. Family pews were tied with white ribbon and decorated with gladiolas and ivy.

Miss Lever was given in marriage by her father and had for her honor maid her sister, Miss Emily Lever of Sanford, Maine. Miss Irene Lever of Methuen, small cousin of the bride, was flower girl, and the bridesmaids were Miss Priscilla J. Brown of Rutherford, N. J., and Miss Mary Jane Davis of Winchester, sister of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, princess style, with a train, and a sweetheart neckline outlined with seed pearls. Her mother's lace veil fell from a matching Juliet cap and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore identical ballerina-length dresses of white lace and tulle with matching mitts and Juliet caps and short white veils. The honor maid's bouquet combined yellow roses and blue larkspur with ivy. The bridesmaids carried ivy and yellow roses.

The flower girl wore a white organdy frock with a matching cap and carried a Colonial bouquet.

John D. MacPhail of Toronto, Canada, was his cousin's best man, and ushering were James Hennessey and Bradford Smith, both of Winchester.

A reception was held at the church after the ceremony, with the bridal attendants assisting in receiving. Mrs. Lever, mother of the bride, wore a champagne silk gown with brown accessories and carried shattered brown chrysanthemums with her matching purse. The mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Davis, wore roses with her navy gown and accessories of rose and blue.

After a wedding journey Mr. Davis and his bride will live in Orono, Maine, where the bridegroom will commence his junior year at the University of Maine this fall.

The bride, who is associated with the Division of Public Assistance in the Department of Health and Welfare in Brewer, Maine, graduated from Sanford, Maine, High School and from the University of Maine, class of 1952, Mr. Davis graduated from Winchester High School and from Kimball Union Academy.

NOLAN — DROHAN

Miss Rosemary Drohan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward William Drohan of Fenwick road, and Francis J. Nolan, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Nolan of Wildwood street, were married Saturday morning, August 23, at St. Mary's Church. Father Athanasius Drohan, C. P., uncle of the bride, read the marriage service at 10 o'clock and was also celebrant of the nuptial mass which followed. A reception was held after the marriage at the Music Hall on Bacon street.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Drohan wore a gown of imported eyelet organdy over ice-blue taffeta, fashioned with organdy flowers at the neckline, short sleeves and a hoop-skirt extending into a short train. Her ice-blue elbow-length veil was caught to a narrow eyelet brim and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Margaret Horner of Lawrence was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Parkhurst of Winchester, Mrs. William Gelotte of Pembroke and Miss Janet Condrey of Wilmington.

All the bridal attendants wore dresses of eyelet organdy over blue with wreaths of pink carnations and blue delphinium, matching the flowers of their bouquets.

Phillip Scharf of Rochester, N. Y., was Mr. Nolan's best man, and ushering were the triplet brothers of the bride, Thomas, Edward, and Richard Drohan, all of Winchester.

Mr. Nolan and his bride went to Canada for their wedding journey. Upon their return they will make their home in Rockland.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School and of Regis College. Mr. Nolan also prepared for college at Winchester High School and is a graduate of Harvard.

LEAGUE STARS, 15; ROTARY, 5

PHANTOM PHENOMS PHADED PHAST

The Little League All Stars won their challenge baseball game from the Rotary Phenoms on Manchester Field Tuesday evening, 15-5, in an exhibition that will long remain green in the memories of those fortunate enough to witness it.

For two innings the Rotary made a game of it. As a matter of strict record they were leading, 3-1, at the end of the second frame, with the Little Leaguers having all sorts of trouble fathoming the stuff served up to them by Rotary's starting pitcher, "Hy" Moody of Moody Motors.

"Hy" was all business on the mound and mixed up his wrinkle with a medium hard one and changeup in really impressive fashion. The Little Leaguers did score off him, it is true, but only an atrocious call by first base umpire "Ken" Hall, Little League player agent, if you please, made the tally possible.

"Dick" O'Brien, first up in the Leaguers' second, flubbed a little roller between the mound and first base. Moody trotted in for the pill, but couldn't seem to find any handle on it and the sturdy O'Brien beat his late toss to first.

Moody, riled like blazes, bore down hard and fanned the always dangerous "Denny" Keane and big "Joe" Flaherty, "Dick" Hakanson, workhorse Rotary catcher, getting a big assist when he hung onto Keane's foul third strike.

Despairing of being advanced by his mates with Moody so tough out there, O'Brien decided to steal. He's no Mercury is Richard, and a thrown ball propelled by the mighty Hakanson arm is much, much faster. "Hakie" got his throw to Harry Chefalo with an hour or two to spare and the Selectmen stood there holding the ball and let O'Brien run into it. For all that, Players Agent Hall spread his hands in the "safe" sign, but not until Mr. Moody and Ex-Mayor Nicholas H. Fitzgerald, massive Rotary third sacker had walked from the diamond, firmly convinced that O'Brien was out and side retired.

O'Brien may not move fast but his head is working all the time, and, seeing third base open, he just ambled down there, ultimately scoring when Ardini bunted safely. Mr. Moody's opinion of the Hall call won't bear repeating and Mr. Hakanson, who made the perfect peg to second felt even worse about it all. Mr. Chefalo was also quite unhappy.

Well that's the way they scored on Moody, but what happened in the third inning, when manager Charlie Koch yielded to over-persuasion and sent in his "hackers" to replace the varsity beggars description.

From then on the thing degenerated from baseball to theatre, good theatre, most enjoyable theatre, particularly pleasing theatre to the big crowd that filled the two stands and overflowed along the right field line and into right field behind the fielder. The Rotary varsity was fighting mad, but every one else was happy and when the third frame was finally written off the Little Leaguers were so far in front that only an earthquake or tidal wave could have prevented them from winning.

TALONE — PALAZZO

White gadiolas and tall candles against a background of palms and ferns decorated the altar of St. Mary's Church on Sunday afternoon, August 24, when Miss Mary Teresa Palazzo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Palazzo of Salisbury street, became the bride of Dominick G. Talone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guido A. Talone of Grayson road. The Rev. John P. O'Riordan, pastor of St. Mary's, read the 4 o'clock service which was followed by a reception at the Hotel Shelton Roof on Bay State road in Boston.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Palazzo wore an off-the-shoulder gown of imported antique shantung trimmed with seed pearls and sequins and fashioned with long tapering sleeves and a full-length circular train. Her finger-tip-length veil was caught to a matching headpiece, trimmed with sequins and pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Margery Sciletti of Norwood was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Ida Brigida of Medford and Miss Florintina Conti of Hingham. Miss Vivian Palazzo of Winchester, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

The matron of honor wore a ballerina-length dress of aqua silk organza and a matching picture hat, the dress being trimmed with small burnt-orange rosebuds, matching the flowers of her bouquet.

The bridesmaids wore ballerina-length dresses of pale yellow nylon tulle with stoles and picture hats to match. They carried yellow rose buds with blue delphinium.

The junior bridesmaid wore a yellow ballerina-length frock, embroidered at the off-the-shoulder neckline with matching roses and the skirt having two layers of net ruffled to suggest an apron. Her hat and stole matched her frock and she carried delphinium shading from blue to purple with yellow rosebuds.

Mrs. Palazzo, mother of the bride, wore a powder-blue nylon tulle gown with a bodice of pale blue sequins. SUMMERTIME SERVICE

The Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross has had a very active summer with the work varying somewhat from the winter schedule. The Home Service, Motor Corps, Gray Ladies and Nurses' Aides continue throughout the year with their important duties but with the arrival of summer and the warm weather, the Motor Corps takes a spurt and extra drivers are necessary with the station wagon on the road day after day, doing the errands of mercy.

Starting in June and continuing through September, every Tuesday is given to the Bedford Veterans Hospital by the Motor Corps, as patients are taken on all-day "Cinderella trips" to scenic spots on the North and South shores with a lunch provided by the hospital. These trips are the only vacations that the patients have and they are not only enjoyed by the guests of this Chapter, but by the drivers. This summer Mrs. Edward M. Feeley, Miss Alice Gaffney, Miss Barbara Sipp, W. Allan Wilde and Paul E. Lajoie have been the drivers for these trips. By mid-August the picnics are changed to the Big League baseball games and every Tuesday the patients are driven to Boston. Mr. Wilde, Barbara Sipp and H. E. Chefalo are doing the ball games.

Red Cross appreciates what the Motor Corps has done this summer, as there have been four members who are temporarily unable to drive, eight on all summer holidays and the remaining eight members away on vacations part of the summer. Through this critical shortage of drivers, Barbara Sipp, Mrs. Wayne E. Davis, Mrs. John I. Donovan, Mrs. Philip Boone, Mrs. L. P. Yale, Mrs. J. A. Mooney, Mrs. Theodore M. Atkinson, and Charles Farrar have taken call after call and pulled us through, as Winchester patients have to be driven to Boston hospital clinics and other errands continuously come to the Chapter.

The Winchester Hospital continues to have summer work for the Red Cross. The Gray Ladies act as hostesses afternoons and evenings and the Chapter appreciates the service the following women have given during the hot days: Mrs. Charles Farrar, Mrs. Whitelaw W. Wright, Mrs. Ruth E. Hilton, Mrs. Waldo V. Lyon, Mrs. Richard W. Wyman, Mrs. George S. Hebb, Mrs. Roy Wilson, Mrs. James H. Coon, Miss Constance Davy, Mrs. Guy E. Brooks, Mrs. Frank C. Herrick, Mrs. O. W. Merrow, Mrs. T. Parker Clarke, Mrs. Gearge A. Dutting and Mrs. Oscar W. Surtees.

The following Nurses' Aides have been of great help to the Hospital and while the list is not as long as in the winter, still the Aides have gone week by week to do their bit and to help others: Mrs. Hattie P. Foster, Mrs. Veronica T. Hickey, Mrs. M. J. Quirk, Miss Marie L. Larivee, Mrs. M. D. Sullivan, Miss Eleanor R. Sullivan and Mrs. Alice Tate.

Home service has helped 18 servicemen during the summer with Miss Natalie Jewett, Mrs. J. Edward Downes and Mrs. Harold A. Smith giving of their time and knowledge to aid the men who come to Red Cross for advice. One day a serviceman came to the office at 10 A.M. asking Red Cross to help him to get back to his Camp on the West Coast by midnight that day, when his leave expired. He had neither a reservation or transportation but Mrs. Downes got busy and through the military authorities the serviceman was on a plane by 2 o'clock, to her relief and ours, which would get the boy back to camp 3,000 miles away.

The first Wednesday of each month the Chapter staffs the Blood Center in Boston. This summer Libby Fenno and Barbara Sipp have been the drivers, with Mrs. Dunbar L. Shanklin the staff aide; Mrs. George B. Field, Mrs. Geoffrey C. Neiley, Mrs. Richard F. Fenno, the Nurses Aides; Mrs. T. Parker Clarke, Mrs. Frank C. Herrick and Mrs. John L. Graves doing the Gray Lady duties and the Canteen managed by Mrs. Ray E. Mauger, Mrs. William O. Thompson, Mrs. William L. Thompson, Mrs. W. E. Ramsdell and Mrs. Kingman Cass.

The next Winchester Blood Donor Day will come on September 10th and 150 pints of blood is our quota.

The 1952 Water Safety program has just been completed after a very successful season of eight weeks of swimming instruction to 300 children of Winchester.

The above summary of Red Cross work in Winchester is not all that the Chapter accomplishes. There is the day by day doing of the little things to help some person in trouble, though it may be but a telephone call asking for advice. In other words, Red Cross is people helping people. There are 650 volunteers in the Winchester Chapter, men and women who give of their time and themselves to help the other fellow. For that reason this Chapter is a strong one. The Board of Directors thank all those who have been of service to this chapter, to the gallant workers who through a depleted staff have taken over the day by day duties of the summer, to help the people of Winchester who are in need.

FIRE DEPARTMENT NEWS

Saturday morning at 8:32 Box 62 was sounded when an oil burner boiler exploded in the basement of the home of Mr. Frank W. Howard, 132 Washington street. Aside from the boiler and some cellar rafters which the firemen found to be ablaze there was little damage.

Saturday afternoon at 5:36 Officer Douglas Martell discovered smoke coming from a new house owned by George McKenzie of 72 Farragut street, Somerville and located at 21 New Meadows road. Box 56 was put on at Headquarters and the firefighters found that a number of rolls of wall-paper stacked in one of the rooms of the house had been set on fire. The wall-paper was pretty much a total loss and the flooring under the paper was somewhat charred.

Tuesday afternoon at 1:50 there was a brush fire near the M. D. C. Shed on Cross street, followed by Box 53 at 2:31 the same afternoon. This box was for an automobile on fire at the corner of Fletcher and Church streets. The car, owned by the Watson and Williams Manufacturing Co. of 57 River street, Millbury, and driven by C. E. Watson of Charlotte, N. C., was not badly damaged by the fire, which developed in the emergency brake lining on the rear of the transmission. The car was able to be driven away after the fire.

Wednesday forenoon at 11:38 the Central Station received a call from the secretary of a Lakeview road householder, reporting that the family of the householder in question had, they were afraid, left home with their heater burning. Would the firefighters have a look? They would and found everything in order! No heater goin'! No nothin'!

BEDFORD HOSPITAL CARNIVAL

Middlesex County Council' The American Legion, Robert F. Murphy, Commander, is cooperating with the Volunteer Services of Bedford Hospital and other veterans organizations in staging a mammoth outdoor carnival on the hospital grounds, for the more than 1400 patients, on Saturday, September 13, from 1 to 6:30 p. m.

Everything that goes to make an outdoor carnival a success will be included: merry-go-rounds, hot-dog stands, booths and all the usual games of skill. Prizes will be awarded the winners and arrangements are being made for every patient visiting the carnival to receive either a prize or a gift.

Every Legion Post within the County is being asked to send a cash donation to the Volunteer Service representative of Middlesex County, Mrs. Thelma Edwards, 77 Davis avenue, West Newton. Friends of the Legion wishing to help in this worthy cause may donate suitable gifts: ties, handkerchiefs, tobacco, pouches, cigarettes, lip-sticks, facial tissues, stationery, link-puzzles, Toni Permanent refills, socks for either men or women, in fact, any of the many, many things these men and women need in their every day living. Donations may be made to any Legion Post not later than September 6.

It is a worthy cause and one which warrants the support of everyone interested in our disabled veterans at Bedford Hospital.

NORRIS SECOND IN PROFESSIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP SWIM

Forbes H. "Ted" Norris, Jr., son of School Superintendent and Mrs. Forbes H. Norris of Church street, placed second in the world professional 10 mile swimming championship Friday, August 22, at Lake Ontario, Canada, the event being one of the big features of the Canadian National Exposition.

Cliff Lumsden, 21, of new Toronto, was the winner, finally besting Norris by some 200 yards, after a blistering two-man race. Steve Wozniak of Buffalo, winner of the race in 1948, was third, Tommy Park of Hamilton, fourth; and the Egyptian team of Hassan Abou Bakr, Saied El Araby and Abdel Latif Abou Heif, fifth, sixth and seventh, respectively. Lumsden's time, four hours, 24 minutes and six seconds, was almost five minutes behind the record of 4:19:28 established by Frank Pritchard of Buffalo in 1937. Norris' time was 4:27:58 and Wozniak's, 4:40:45.

A crowd estimated at 10,000 lined the Canadian National Exposition shore line on Ontario for the race which was swum over a half mile course and which turned out to be a real dog fight for the first four miles among Lumsden, the 24-year-old Norris, George Bevan of Estobicoke and Jerry Kerschner of Toronto. The lead amounting to a foot or two at most at each turn changed with every mile.

The pace, however, proved too fast for Bevan and Kerschner, last year's winner, Bevan developing groin cramps and Kerschner swimming himself completely out at the half way mark.

He stuck with Lumsden and Norris for 4½ miles, but was 50 yards behind at the half way mark, gradually falling out of competition. The Norris-Lumsden battle went on from the five mile turn with the Winchester boy leading over the sixth and seventh miles by a foot or two.

Lumsden then commenced to come and at the end of the eighth mile had built up a good lead. Norris fought back, and continued to make a race of it, but couldn't overtake the Canadian boy over the last two miles. The water varied from 61 to 67 degrees throughout the race.

Lumsden received $5000 for winning the race and four $50 lap prizes to raise his take to $5200. Norris, who turned professional a year ago, got $2250 for second money and also won four laps at $50 each to swell his total to $2450. Wozniak picked up $750, Park, $500; Bakr, $300; and El Araby, $150. Bevan got $50 for winning the first lap and Kerschner a like amount for leading at the end of the second lap.

Lumsden reported his money would go into a house and admitted he is thinking about marriage. Norris said his prize money would put him through his second year at Harvard Medical School. He was figuring the rate of exchange would help him too.

Ted finished the race in reasonably good shape though he was not perhaps as well prepared for the terrific grind as many of the other competitors who had spent most of the summer training at Ontario.

The Winchester boy lost his amateur standing a year ago when he accepted the job of director of the swimming pool at The Country Club in Brookline. He competed in the CNE race last summer, but had no practice swimming in Ontario and found the water conditions made it impossible for him to do himself justice.

This year Ted went up to Ontario a week before the race and had that much time to accustom himself to the water and course. He has again been director of the pool at the Country Club, and has been getting in practice swims at Lake Walden in Concord before reporting at the pool at 10 in the forenoon. After the pool closed for the night he did some more practicing there, and on Sundays he got in from six to ten miles of swimming at Walden, one Sunday doing 12 miles. With his family out of town Ted was "baching it" in Winchester, getting his own meals and altogether having a pretty rugged schedule.

WINCHESTER LEGIONNAIRES AT CONVENTION

Robert F. "Sam" Murphy, Middlesex County Commander and past Commander of Winchester Post, 97, headed the Winchester delegation at the National Convention of the American Legion in New York this week. P. T. Foley, a delegate from Winchester Post, and Richard Lynch, another Legionnaire, served as Commander Murphy's aides, and other local Legionnaires at the convention included Police Officer James F. Noonan and Lawrence Nichols. Jim Getchell of Brockton Post, an associated member of Winchester Post, went to the convention with Officer Noonan.

Having the signal honor of leading the Massachusetts Department in the big Legion parade on Tuesday was the crack drum and bugle corps of the Immaculate Conception Parish and its championship Girls' Drill Team. Rev. Herbert K. A. Driscoll, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Parish, accompanied the group to New York.

In the drum and bugle corps competition the Immacs finished a strong ninth in a field of 34 competing teams, many of which were much more experienced in such big competitions than the Winchester youngsters, making their first appearance in a national test. Many who heard the competition felt to the very end that Winchester had a good chance for one of the big prizes, if not first place, and indeed so close was the judging that only 2½ points separated the Immacs from the first place winning corps.

Mr. William Tuttle of Middleton, Ohio, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. A. Allen Kimball, this week.

WINCHESTER TOPS SOUTH BOSTON

The Winchester Playgrounds basketball team ended their season with a hard earned 50-46 decision over the South Boston Boys' Club at the Ginn Court last Friday evening. It was a real nip and tuck battle with the result in doubt until the final three minutes, when the locals pulled away to a seven-point lead for the biggest margin of the contest.

South Boston held a one-point lead at 8-7 at the end of the first quarter. Winchester gained a basket in the second quarter to hold a narrow 23-22 lead at the intermission. The teams were all even in the third quarter, with Winchester holding its one-point margin at 33-32 entering the final period. The final quarter was hard fought but the locals pulled seven points ahead over the last five minutes and were content to protect that lead in the last three minutes of play.

The battle of the centers was all even, with Max McCreery getting 18 points for Winchester and his opponent, John McDonough, netting the same total for South Boston. John Atkinson played good ball for the locals, collecting 12 points while passing well to his teammates. Little Mike Pano turned several sparkling plays for Southie to demonstrate why he was picked on the all-tournament team in the Boston Garden last winter.

The Ginn Field Juniors defeated the West Side Juniors 26-13 in the preliminary game. West Side was leading 10-8 at the half but Ginn Field staged a nice second half to outscore their oponents 18-3 in that stretch to win easily. Dennis Keane was high scorer for Ginn Field with 10 points, while Eddie Ardini paced the losers with six points.

It Means So Much—To So Many!
In all the history of the world's commerce, it is doubtful whether another manufactured product has ever had such a hold on the affections of its owners as the Cadillac car.
There is a well-to-do gentleman in a southern state, for instance, who will permit no one to minister to his Cadillac except himself—other than for its mechanical needs. He washes it, polishes it and cleans it . . . himself.
There is a family in New York which has owned a long series of Cadillacs to which have been given the names of people—because they regard their cars as all but members of the household.
There is a professional man in a mid-western state who insists that his whole life changed for the better when he got his Cadillac.
These are but typical of innumerable instances of the deep regard in which Cadillac owners hold their cars. The loyalty and respect a Cadillac engenders are extraordinary indeed.
You might well ask what there could be about a motor car to make it mean so much to so many.
The answer is not far to seek.
Because of its world-wide standing as one of life's better things, it reflects credit upon its owner and indicates that he is a person of substance and good taste.
Because it performs so well and so dependably, it is conducive to his desire to travel and to see the world—an inspiring companion for his daily movements among his fellows.
Because it is beautiful and luxurious, it is a joy to own and a pleasure to contemplate.
Standing in his driveway, rolling down the streets of his favorite city, or parked at the entrance to a distinguished club or hotel—it is a credit to his judgment and a testimonial to his work.
No wonder he cherishes it, and thinks of it as all but a part of his own personality.
Don't you think that a car which can mean so much to so many could mean a great deal to you?
Better come in today—and talk it over.

WHAT THE WINGS OF WEST POINT MEAN TO ME

Editor of the Star:

Wings of West Point taught me what Air Force life was like. It taught me to live and work with other boys my own age. It showed me how our Nation used teamwork to prepare for our National Defense, for example the crash truck crew rescuing a pilot from a burning plane, the many men it takes to prepare and get a plane into flight. The classes were very interesting on Base Operation, Aeronautics, Navigation, Maintenance and Parachute Packing. The high spot of the trip was the visit to West Point Military Academy, Graduation and the dance.

MRS. WOODWARD REPLIES

Editor of the Star:

If Mr. Hewis will consult his Town Report of 1951, he will find on Page 58 that it was voted that Articles 26 and 27 be considered together. Article 26 was filed by the School Committee, Article 27 was filed by Royal P. Teele and others. Both of these Articles related to repair and renovation of the High School. The action taken under this article was passage of a motion filed by the School Committee requesting $40,000.00. I quote from the Winchester Star, issue of March 23, 1951:

"At the request of Mrs. Chandler, the meeting voted to consider together the subject matter of the two articles dealing with the renovation of the high school, one inserted by the School Committee and the other by Royal P. Teele and others.

"Mrs. Chandler for the School Committee asked for $40,000 to make a beginning toward putting the high school in better condition, stressing the fact that no remodelling could be attempted since it was not the School Committee's policy to 'tie the hands' of the committee which is to be appointed to consider and report on secondary school facilities.

"Mrs. Chandler explained that the $40,000 would be expended for new lockers, improvement of physics laboratory, a new soundproof ceiling for the cafeteria, renovating the lavatories, outside painting and contingencies.

"Mr. Clark bespoke the Finance Committee's approval, but Mr. Parker Clarke was of the opinion that prettying up the building wouldn't keep the children warm and favored doing something about the heating system, which the School Committee proposed to leave as it is, at least until the new secondary school committee decides what will be done about the high school. Mrs. Chandler said a new heating system would cost $65,000 and Mr. Clark of the Finance Committee expressed that group's opposition to doing anything except the things asked by the School Committee.

"Mr. Rush moved to amend the original motion by reducing the amount to $38,000, eliminating the cafeteria ceiling and reclaiming as many of the present lockers as possible. Mrs. Woodside urged that the meeting do something now for the high school so that pupils who go there can keep their self respect by having a decent building, in which to attend classes.

"Mr. Rush withdrew his amendment and the motion to appropriate the $40,000 was voted, the money to be taken from Excess and Deficiency."

I corrected Mr. Hewis' statement on the Town Meeting floor solely to protect the reputation of the School Committee. I had no desire to detract from the action taken by the Referendum Committee to improve conditions at the High School. However, I believe that the above statement speaks for itself.

Sincerely yours,
(Mrs.) Sara C. Woodward

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Fire Chief James E. Callahan was in attendance at the various sessions of the annual convention of the International Fire Chiefs Association this week at the Hotel Statler. That accounts for his failure to start in right field for the Rotary against the Little Leaguers Tuesday evening as advertised. If his pals among the fire chiefs had known of his baseball commitment, they would have delivered "Jimmy" intact to Manchester Field in plenty of time to play!

Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Fitts and family are home from a summer spent at Sunapee, N. H.

Mrs. Santa Bilotta, who is now living in Albany, N. Y., spent last week visiting in Winchester with her sisters, Mrs. John Procopio, Mrs. James Suppa and Mrs. Antonio Chefali. She had not seen her sisters here for 33 years.

After 16 years residence at 7 Pine street, the John Carruthers moved this week into their recently completed new home on Birch Lane. Bernard Eckberg, local builder built the house which was designed by the Carruthers themselves.

Miss Carolyn Buracker of 12 Stratford road will register at Mount Holyoke College September 23 for a three-day orientation program preceding regular class sessions.

Dear Fred:

As you know, the Winchester Little League has had problems in searching for a field. Its sponsors are anxious to determine now a location for next year in order that an infield may be cut out, a playing surface properly leveled and grass seed be given an early fall start. Officials of the league, realizing they know little of the mechanics of our Town Government, have asked a group to act as an informal committee to guide them. This group consists of Nicholas Fitzgerald, representing the Rotary Club, Warren Branch, representing the Little League, Ernest Dade, Jim Scott and myself.

We have had many informal conversations and today held a formal meeting. Unfortunately, Warren Branch was not present, but had previously expressed to me his views. Possible locations which we considered were as follows:

Town owned land at foot of Tufts road

M.D.C. land bordering Mystic Lake

Land in back of Bacon Felt Company

Shore road

J. H. Winn Company land off Washington street

Town owned land off Middlesex street

Town owned land on Palmer street

Various Park lands

Ginn Field

We have concluded that the first two locations were composed entirely of gravel and would involve importation of loam, at a prohibitive cost; in neither case would the fields be ready for next year.

The Bacon Felt, J. H. Winn and Middlesex street locations present costly grading problems. While there is probably sufficient loam present, it seems unlikely that a field could be prepared in any of these spots in time for next year. The Palmer street site seemed to us to be one which would cause considerable objection from neighbors if it were opened to baseball; we think that it would be further complicated by parking problems coming at the peak of the evening tennis hour.

We feel that the less said about Shore road, the better. To us, it seemed unwise to consider any of the regulation baseball diamonds in the town. West Side Field seems too remote to be used. We, therefore, came unanimously to the conclusion that Ginn Field would provide the best possible solution to the problem. It is a field on which softball has been played regularly and the noise from the Little League games is of less volume than that of softball, and we can foresee no neighborhood objections. We feel that with the town parking area extending down the tracks toward Ginn Field and the Wedgemere Station parking space, as well as the possibility of on the field parking, that automobile traffic should present no problem. The Town Engineer has worked out a plot plan showing the extent to which the railroad elevation project would interfere and the baseball field would fit well within the scope of that work.

It is, therefore, our conclusion to respectfully request the assignment of Ginn Field to the Little League. We, in no way, wish to interfere with the operation of your Board and are merely trying to help out what we feel is a worthwhile project.

Thank you in advance for the cooperation you have given to them.

Very truly yours,
James F. Dwinell, Jr.

PARK BOARD'S REPLY

August 25, 1952

Mr. James F. Dwinell, Jr.
Fernway
Winchester, Massachusetts
Dear Jim:

At our last meeting, the Park Commissioners voted to grant Ginn Field to the Little League for the season of 1953. The following stipulations are made, however:

(1) that the laying out of the playing field would be subject to the approval of the Park Commissioners before any work is done;

(2) that the use of the field by the Little League will not interfere with the organized playground activities that are held on it.

We have been very happy to cooperate with the Little League from the beginning. We hope this time they will accept your recommendation, and our re-offer of Ginn Field as their home field.

Very truly yours,
Winchester Park Commissioners
Frederick M. Ives, Jr., Chairman

For the Rotary, in a physical sense, Dick Hakanson of the Star was the hero. He went all the way in that tough spot behind the bat, catching, throwing and blocking well, as well as contributing two good catches of high foul flies. "Hy" Moody shared honors with his catcher and Forbes Norris showed a nice first base, indeed, as well as knocking in the first Rotary run.

Offensively Paul Lajoie was the Rotary hero, with a home run to the remote reaches of right field, his full gainor at the plate when he tried to end up with a slide being among the better features.

From the standpoint of the crowd there was just one big star, and he would be Phantom Phil Gallagher, the galloping ghost, who played shortstop, second base and rover, with equal facility, and ran the bases like Max Carey at his best. It will be long before Mr. Gallagher's appearance at the bat with his red plaid shirt, dark blue shorts, banana shoes and wide-brimmed straw hat will be forgotten.

Everyone on the Little League was a star, at least the Rotary boys thought they were, particularly when bunting. It is, however, going to be pretty hard for "Jocko" Serieka, the All Stars' coach, to try to tell his boys how to hit away come another year, after what happened to him at the end of the ballgame. The summary.

FIRST INNING

Rotary: Moody beat out a hit to third. Hakanson safe when third baseman bobbled his bunt. Norris singled through short, scoring Moody. Lajoie's hit past first scored Hakanson, Norris taking third. Norris scored as Chefalo grounded out, second to first. Fitzgerald skied high to right. Three runs, three hits, one All Star error.

All Stars: Smith struck out. Hakanson threw out Adams. Chefalo threw out Alex Adams. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SECOND INNING

Rotary: Purrington out, second to first. Whittaker struck out. Wakefield fanned. No hits, no runs, no errors.

All Stars: O'Brien beat out a bunt to pitcher. Keane fanned, Hakanson holding his foul tip. Flaherty fanned. O'Brien ruled safe on steal and went to third when Rotary players left field thinking him out. Ardini squeezed in O'Brien, reaching first on throw home. Gibbons fanned. One run, one hit, no errors. (one wrong call)

THIRD INNING

Rotary: Moody out, third to first. Hakanson flied to second. Norris safe when shortstop bobbled his grounder. Lajoie belted long home run to right center scoring Norris ahead of him. Chefalo fanned. Two runs, one hit, one error.

All Stars: (Dallin pitching for Rotary) MacDonald bunted safely. Dallin threw out Smith. Peckham tried to bunt and was clearly hit by his own batted ball in fair territory. He was awarded first base instead of being called out, MacDonald going to third. Al Adams safe at first on Dallin's poor throw after fielding his bunt, MacDonald scoring. Gallagher over-ran O'Brien's pop-up between the mound and shortstop, Peckham and Adams scoring.

O'Brien scored on Keane's one-shot to center, a soft fly that fell in safely in front of Bird, Denny reaching second. Flaherty bunted safely, Keane reaching third. Ardini out, Hakanson to Norris. Keane scored on the play on a close decision. Gibbons walked and McCormack went in to pitch, Al Elliott going to right field. MacDonald walked to fill the bases. Dick Smith bunted and all hands were safe when Hakanson lost his footing trying to field his bunt, Flaherty scoring. McCormack walked Peckham, forcing in Gibbons. Alex Adams hit to right, scoring MacDonald, Smith and Peckham. Dick O'Brien popped up a little dinky one that McCormack lost when he fell flat, Adams scoring. Keane walked. Flaherty hit to short and when Gallagher fell trying to field the ball, O'Brien tallied from second. Ardini ended the slaughter with a high hoist that Hakanson caught along the third base line. Twelve runs, five hits, five Rotary errors.

FOURTH INNING

Rotary: (Flynn pitching for Stars) Horn struck out. Symmes struck out. Bird out, First base unassisted.

All Stars: (Chefalo pitching for Rotary) Gibbons singled to center. MacDonald was safe when Grindle dropped Chefalo's throw on his bunt to the mound. MacDonald out stealing, Hakanson to McCormack, Gibbons holding third. Dick Adams bunted past box scoring Gibbons. Peckham hoisted to Hakanson. Alex Adams beat out a hit to short, Dick Adams going to third. Flynn walked to fill the bases. Chefalo threw out Keane, Grindle making a perfect catch. One run, three hits, one Rotary error.

FIFTH INNING

Rotary: Gallagher doubled to right center. McCormack fanned lustily. Gallagher out at third on Ambrose hopper to pitcher. Chefalo reached when Keane lost Flynn's throw on his grounder to the right of the mound. Lajoie fanned. No runs, one hit, one error.

All Stars: (Whittaker pitching for Rotary and entire Rotary Club, including Bill Hevey, Joe Moffett, Ernie Dade and Harry Bigelow in the field) Flaherty hit into the right field overflow and was awarded a home run, though "fast fielding" by Al Elliott, plus an assist from a couple fans, held him to a triple. Ardini out, Whittaker to Norris, Norris digging the low throw out of the dirt in approved big league style. Gibbons hit safely. Whittaker threw out MacDonald and then also retired Coach Jack Serieka of the All Stars on a tap to the right of the mound. One run, one hit, no errors. The summary:

NOTES OF THE GAME

Prexy Allan Wilde of the Rotary handled the public address system and his constant chatter would have made Curt Gowdy, the voice of the Red Sox, green with envy. The loud-speaker equipment was late in arriving, but that didn't phaze Allan a bit, his years of experience as an auctioneer making him not at all dependent upon mechanical assistance to make himself heard. As a matter of fact he slowed down appreciably when he started to use the "Mike".

When Allan wasn't urging the crowd to shell out for the Jimmy Fund with folding money or begging some Little Leaguer to hit a hard liner at Rotary Shortstop Phil Gallagher, he gave the crowd a play-by-play description that was very expert. Your Star reporter depended upon him for the Little League players names and found when he got home that "Folding Money" had got two hits, scored a run and made three errors, that "Give Generously" had tallied on a hit by "Dig Down" and that "Hot Dog" had hit Gallagher with an extra serving of mustard.

Mike Stranger, Winchester Theatre Manager was commendably brief in his appeal for support of the Jimmy Fund, for which the game was played. The fans shelled out $229.10 for the fund, and this figure could probably have been larger if everyone on the field could have been reached. Everyone was surely invited to contribute, believe us!

After the game all the Rotarians and Little Leaguers went up to "Doc" Wallace's big back yard on Bruce road and enjoyed a sumptuous feed of hot dogs, Coke and Chocolate pops. "Jawn" R. cooked the dogs, which were served by "Charlie" Murphy. Joe Moffett handled the coke bar and the pops. "Polock" McCormack downed seven dogs, "they say", but everyone seems to agree that top gastronomic honors went to Roy Horn of Embassy Laundry.

Dick Hakanson lost his jacket sometime during the game. He left it on the Rotary bench while he was playing and after the game it was gone. If some one took it by mistake, Dick would be glad to get it back. This is the second time he has had his wardrobe diminished at Rotary functions, he having previously had his brand new overcoat taken during a club social function the past winter.

"Mack" McKenzie, Winchester's grand old man of baseball, called the opening pitch of the last inning, and called it correctly, from behind the catcher. "Mack" was messing around with baseball before a lot of those playing in Tuesday's game were born!

Joe Flaherty swears he really wasn't trying to "bean" Superintendent of Schools Forbes Norris that time when his high hard one got in close to the Norris whiskers. Some of his pals in the stands seemed just a bit doubtful.

In a class with Ken Hall's call on that attempted steal play was the decision that ruled "Denny" Keane safe at home after Ardini had been thrown out in the third. "Denny" beat the Norris throw all right, but Dick Hakanson was between him and the platter and, - - well, - - Denny just hasn't tagged that dish yet.

Allan Wilde kept up a constant paging of "Doctor Moses". "Is Doctor Moses in the stands" as the Rotarians were falling all over the field. Dr. Angelo Maietta was in the stands, hugely enjoying it all, but made no move to respond. After all, the "allergies" displayed on the field by the Rotary boys weren't the kind "Angie" could do much about!

Those wide-rimmed straw hats worn by the Rotary team were the contribution of Manager Charlie Koch, and were previously worn at the club auction. They set off the Rotary boys nicely, that turned-down all-the-way-round style, effected by High School Principal Wade Grindle, the old Bates, being one of the better modes, though "Hy" Moody's Tyrolean tilt wasn't far behind.

The Rotary was sort of figuring on swapping their varsity back and forth and in and out, but Coach Jocko Serieka of the All Stars would have none of that! We are afraid the Rotary did cheat a bit in shuffling their lineup, but no one can prove it by any one. They were in and out of there so fast it was hard to keep track of them.

How scorer Richards came up with a box score of the game will always remain one of the major mysteries of all time. Not only that, but he actually contended at the Star office Wednesday morning his box score was correct. If you don't think it is, prove it, that's all!

Allan Wilde is wasting his time in the insurance game. Any one who can without raising his voice, or getting rough, make a bunch of small urchins move away from their dangerous vantage point in front of the Rotary Bench, has a real future training bull walruses or something. The guy is good

And all joking aside, didn't Phil Gallagher put on a show, and isn't he entitled to all the credit in the world. We think so, and everyone we talked to agrees! What would it all have been without him?

That last inning Rotary lineup is what is called the Baseball Broadside, which is similar to the Zone Defense in Basketball, so well thought of by that old Yale oarsman, George Field, and the "Kitty Bar the Door" defensive strategy in hockey. It worked well, too, limiting the Little Leaguers to a single run!

Harry Bigelow took movies of the battle, and these should have a place in any corner stone the town happens to be laying in the near future.

There was some dissatisfaction voiced over the failure of T. P. Wilson, Editor of the Star to umpire at third, as advertised, "T. P." was there and willing, white cap and all, but gave way to "Lou" Goddu, without too much persuasion. "T. P." would undoubtedly have ruled Phil Gallagher safe on that "close" play at third in the fifth, and after all this would have been the correct call, evening up that Hall decision that smooched the Moody escutchion.

And if the Rotary had only had Jim Scott and Milne Blanchard now!!

Firefighter Joe Donahue, who is presently on vacation from the Central Fire Station, spent one enlightening day this week visiting Benson's Wild Animal Farm in New Hampshire. Firefighter "Bobby" Haggerty contends that you don't have to go to Benson's to see "wild ones" and his confrere "Flats" Flaherty agrees!

ALBERT A. JOYCE

FORMER WINCHESTER MAN DIED SUDDENLY

Albert A. Joyce of Moultonboro Corner, N.H., a former resident of Winchester and brother of Charles and George Joyce, both of this town, died suddenly late Thursday afternoon, August 21, in Ashland, N. H., while on his way to the hospital in Plymouth, N. H., from his place of employment in Holderness, N.H.

Mr. Joyce, a gardener employed by A. W. Forbes on the Webster Estate in Holderness, became ill while at work. Accompanied by a nurse who happened to be on the Webster estate at the time, he was being driven to the hospital in Plymouth when he died while the car was passing through Ashland. His death is attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Joyce was the son of William P. and Roas (Allen) Joyce. He was born July 13, 1888, in San Francisco and before going to Moultonboro 20 years ago, lived in Stoneham and Winchester. He was a member of St. Charles Church, Meredith, N. H., and of St. Charles Holy Name Society.

Besides his brothers in Winchester, he leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary V. (DuLong) Joyce; two sons, Charles F. Joyce of Ashland, N. H., and Herbert W. Joyce of Detroit, Mich.; a daughter, Mrs. Mary V. Hume of Melrose; a brother, William Joyce of Stoneham; and eight grandchildren, George, Donald, Joyce, Jean, Albert, and Joan Hume of Melrose; Jerrylynn Joyce of Winnfield, La.; and Donna Mary Joyce of Ashland; as well as several nieces and nephews.

The funeral was held last Saturday from the Wilkinson Funeral Home, Laconia, N. H., with requiem high mass celebrated at St. Charles Church in Meredith. Burial was in the family lot in the Village Cemetery in Meredith.

MRS CURLEY SCOTT KIRBY

Mrs. Curley Scott Kirby of 35 Harvard street, widow of Charles B. Kirby and well known among older residents of the town, died at her home Friday evening, August 22, after a brief illness.

Mrs. Kirby was the daughter of John and Lucy Ann (Tanner) Scott. She was born May 10, 1878, in South Boston, Halifax County, Va., and spent her early life there, coming to Winchester 55 years ago at the age of 19.

Throughout her long residence Mrs. Kirby was active in the affairs of the New Hope Baptist Church, of which she was a charter member. She aided materially in the effort that resulted in the building of the present church structure and she was one of the founders of the Mission Circle of the church.

Mrs. Kirby was married in Winchester May 9, 1901. Her husband died December 19, 1949.

Surviving are four daughters, Miss Lillian Kirby of Boston, Mrs. Mary Piner of West Philadelphia, Pa., and Miss Esther and Miss Lucy Kirby of Winchester; three sons, Walter Kirby of New Rochelle, N. Y., Howard and Charles Kirby, both of Winchester; five grandchildren and one great-grandchild; two sisters, Mrs. Susan Dancey of Jersey City, N.J., and Mrs. Eliza Hamlet of South Boston, Va.; and a brother, Crosby Scott, also of South Boston, Va.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the New Hope Baptist Church with the pastor, Rev. Virgess Hill, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Clifford Miller of Boston. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

MRS. VIOLA A. HORIE

Mrs. Viola A. Horie of 10 Westley street, widow of Frank J. Horie, died Wednesday morning, August 27, at Ring Hospital in Medford, following an illness of about a month. She was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage while in Atlantic City, N. J., on her way back to Winchester with her son, Hartlyn, of Hartford, Conn., after visiting another son, Everett, in Pittsburgh, Pa. Her son, Justin, flew from Winchester to Atlantic City as soon as news of his mother's illness reached him. After two weeks in the hospital at Atlantic City, Mrs. Horie was brought to the Choate Hospital in Woburn, being moved from there to Ring Hospital a week ago. She was in a coma during practically all the time between being stricken and her death Wednesday.

Mrs. Horie was the daughter of Michael F., and Sarah A. (Johnson) Burke. She was born July 7, 1891, in Brooklyn, N. Y., and came to Winchester with her family from Freeport, Long Island, N. Y., in 1927. During her residence in Winchester she was actively identified with the Guild of the Infant Saviour and enjoyed a wide circle of friends. The family home was first at 3 Thornton road, and later at 1 Edgehill road.

Since 1947, Mrs. Horie had lived on Westley street. Her husband died November 18, 1939.

Mrs. Horie leaves four sons, Everett N., of Pittsburgh, Pa., Hartlyn C., of Hartford, Conn., Byron L., of Opalocka, Fla., and Justin F. Horie of Winchester; also two grandchildren.

The funeral will be from the Lane Funeral Home at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, with solemn requiem high mass celebrated at St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

GEORGE W. HAMILTON

George W. Hamilton, a former resident of Winchester, died last week Wednesday, August 20, at the Grover Manor Hospital in Revere. He left Winchester about 20 years ago and had been making his home at 15 Wedgewood street, Everett.

Mr. Hamilton was born in Woburn November 5, 1877. While in Winchester he lived on Middlesex street and was a resident of Loring avenue just prior to leaving town. He was a steam-fitter in the employ of Braman-Dow Company in Boston.

Mr. Hamilton leaves his wife, Mrs. Harriet (Powers) Hamilton; three daughters, Mrs. Ellen O'Donnell, Mrs. Wilbur Connors and Mrs. Bertha Kline, all of Winchester; a son, George W. Hamilton, Jr., of Philadelphia, Pa.; and two brothers, Thomas, of Woburn, and Adam Hamilton of Winchester.

BOAT CLUB NOTES

A superb meal of fish chowder, boiled lobster, baked corn, potato chips, queen olives, pickles, punch, coffee, and ice cream will be the order of the day when the Boat Club has its annual Labor Day clambake. Commodore Ned Morse is head of a large committee which is bustling around and making ready for all these delicious goodies. Tickets must be purchased by tomorrow night. Get them early because the number is limited. Be sure to be at the Club at 6 o'clock sharp Monday evening.

The junior dance Friday night was a huge success — such a success that one is scheduled for every Friday night until the closing of the season. A large collection of balloons provided the opportunity for much merriment. Mrs. Broder acted as disk jockey, chaperone, and master of ceremonies. Dance records are urgently needed, so bring some over tonight.

The Club has gone modern with the latest of conveniences. A public address system rigged from the store on the first floor allows the steward to play music, call people from the water, and announce the latest baseball scores!

Mrs. Harold Pyne was chairman of a 15-table dessert bridge Wednesday. The ladies enjoyed yummy homemade cake and iced tea.

MAYOR THOMAS L. THISTLE

of Melrose, long-time supporter of Salvation Army Appeals, who has accepted appointment as Vice-Chairman of the Metropolitan Division of the 1952-53 Greater Boston Friendly Appeal.

WINCHESTER PREPARES FOR S. A. APPEAL

Enthusiasm is sparking the efforts of leaders in Winchester as they complete preparations for next month's Friendly Annual Appeal here for the Salvation Army.

From the new Provincial Headquarters building of the Salvation Army at 147 Berkeley street, dedicated early this year, Colonel Wm. H. Fox, commanding the New England forces of the Salvation Army, points out that although its humanitarian program for the next fiscal year in Greater Boston alone calls for expenditures totalling over $1,526,000, yet the general public will be asked to suscribe only $535,000. More than three-fifths of the total budget is expected from internal income and other sources.

"As we near the end of this fiscal year," Colonel Fox said, "we are scraping the bottom of the barrel to maintain our services for Greater Boston through 30 institutions, centers and departments. They constitute, in effect, a self-contained federation of social welfare agencies owned by The Salvation Army. Such as The Salvation Army has, it gives, and so we must come to the general public to replenish its funds."

For several years the Metropolitan Division, which last year went over its quota of $175,000, will again have as chairman State Senator George J. Evans, of Wakefield. This year he will be assisted by Mayor Thomas J. Thistle of Melrose as Vice-chairman, for many years a strong supporter of Salvation Army Appeals in that city.

Campaign leaders stress that 20% of all local gifts to the Appeal will be marked for local use as needed, in The Salvation Army Service Fund, administered by a local committee.

DOUB COMMISSIONED

William Scott Doub, husband of Mrs. Clara E. Doub, 917 Melrose avenue, Trenton, N. J., was graduated August 19 from Officer Candidate School at Fort Knox, Ky., and commissioned a second lieutenant in the Armor branch of the U. S. Army.

This was the tenth OCS class to be graduated here since the close of World War II.

The course consists of 22 weeks of field and classroom work in command and staff procedure, armored weapons, armored vehicles and communications.

Lt. Doub, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl M. Doub of 23 Sargent road, is a graduate of Winchester High School and of Tufts College.

CALDWELL COMMISSIONED

In ceremonies Tuesday, August 26, in Theater No. 1, Fort Sill, Oklahoma, Eben Caldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth I. Caldwell, 82 Mt. Vernon street, Boston, formerly of Winchester, was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Field Artillery Officer's Corps of the U. S. Army.

Lt. Caldwell, a graduate of Winchester High School, was a member of the 22nd graduating class of the Artillery Officer Candidate School. The Officer Candidate School reopened in February, 1951, after having been closed since 1946.

FORMER WINCHESTER WOMAN FIRE CHIEF

They listed Beverly Smith Sarrels of Tucson, Arizona, as the prettiest of the 2000 fire chiefs that checked in Monday for the four-day 79th annual conference of the International Fire Chiefs Association at the Hotel Statler in Boston. The local angle in this is the fact that Mrs. Sarrels, then Mrs. Stewart Smith, made her home in Winchester from 1942 to 1948, first at 1 Myrtle street and then at 3 Fletcher street. She and Mr. Smith went west from Winchester to Fayette, Arkansas in 1940.

The attractive 35-year-old brunette, was a featured delegate at the hotel sessions, the firemen's muster on Boston Common and the dedication of a new electronic fire alarm system for Old North Church. The trim, petite chief was dressed in a pretty casual suit which she had designed herself—possibly making her the only fire chief who designs dresses.

SERVES 2500

Chief Sarrels, a native of Malden, owns and heads the Catalina Fire Company, a three-pumper-truck fire force that serves 2500 subscribers in a 36-square-mile area northeast of Tuscon. She has a six-man fire department, 65 fire hydrants and sells fire protection on a yearly retainer fee ranging from $12 to $150. Her greatest responsibility is a 15-building medical center and hospital.

Mrs. Sarrels purchased the fire company, then a one-engine outfit, just before the death of her husband, Stewart Smith, three years ago. She now has expanded it into a three-engine unit and it has been so successful that fire insurance companies lowered the premium rates to her subscribers this year, she reported.

Her late husband was vice-president of a Boston sausage casing corporation before he resigned to move West. She remarried three months ago. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman H. Allen, live at 201 Mountain avenue, Malden. The father is retired president of the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company.

ELECTRONIC FIRE ALARM SYSTEM

An electronic fire alarm system, so sensitive that it will turn in an alarm for the first whiff of smoke, was presented the Old North Church late yesterday by Fire Commissioner Fred Madden III of Norwalk, Conn. It was a gift of the Edwards Automatic Alarm Company of Norwalk and will be installed by the Signal System Engineering Company of Boston. Commissioner Kelleher accepted the system for the city of Boston at the fire chiefs' ceremony at the church.

WITTETS FAR AFIELD

The Howard Wittets of Forest Crest Farm, Forest street, have been far afield since leaving Winchester on a camping trip August 9. They have gone through nine states and along the Virginia Skyline Drive, finding this drive one of great beauty. Last Friday the Wittets were camped in the heart of the Smoky Mountains in North Carolina with black bears roaming all around them.

TRAINING AT LEJEUNE

Henry W. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roberts of 12 Clematis street, is now training with the United States Marine Corps Reserve at Camp Lejeune, N. C., where he is a construction foreman with the rank of sergeant in the research carpenter shop attached to Headquarters Company.

Sgt. Roberts served with a Naval Medical Field Research Laboratory from August 1946 to July 1948, having the rank of corporal. He graduated from Winchester High School in 1946 and received his Bachelor of Science degree from Wittenberg College in Springfield, Ohio, in January 1953.

Sgt. Roberts is married to the former Rena Ewell Howard of Williamston, N. C.

Lt. James H. O'Connor, Jr., Navy medical officer and son of Dr. and Mrs. James H. O'Connor of White street, has been at home this week on leave from his station at Norfolk, Va. A graduate of Tufts Medical School, Lt. O'Connor expects to complete his Navy duty in October.

HOME FROM MEXICO

Jim Fielding of Lawrence street, Winchester High School graduate who enters Oberlin in the fall, returned last week Thursday from a seven-weeks stay in Mexico, during which time he lived in the home of Joaquin Barbara, a Mexican boy who visited Jim in Winchester last December through the exchange of students arranged by Mr. David Kotkov, Spanish teacher at Winchester High School.

Jim found his Mexican visit a most interesting and worth-while experience. Actually living with Mexicans and speaking a new language continually posed many problems, chief among them being the difficulty of speaking and understanding Spanish. With constant use, however, Jim found he learned the language much faster than he anticipated.

Jim found Mexico a very interesting and picturesque country with its beautiful coastline and snow-capped mountains. He spent one wonderful week at the beautiful Pacific Coast resort of Acapulco, now very popular with Americans and Mexicans alike.

Mexican food was different, Jim admits. He liked it except for the tongue-searing "chile", which is in practically everything, and the frijoles (beans) which are a part of every meal.

Jim figured he might see at least a small revolution while he was in the country with the presidential elections coming up, but things at the polls were the most peaceful they had been in years, with only seven persons killed in one minor riot which the police quelled with tear-gas bombs.

Mexico City is attractive with its many modern buildings and elaborate old churches built by the conquistadores in the sixteenth century. Built on top of a native Indian Aztec city in the middle of an old lake bed, many of the heavy buildings are settling in the mud, and during the heavy rainfall of the summer season many of the main streets are flooded. There are only two seasons, wet and dry, in Mexico City with its tropical location and altitude of 7500 feet. Temperatures range from 60 degrees fahrenheit to 75 degrees all year.

BREAK AT BATH HOUSE

Sunday morning shortly after 8 o'clock Officer Douglas Martell of the Police Department discovered that some one had entered and damaged the bath-house at Leonard Field Beach. Access had apparently been gained through an unlocked door.

Later Officer Thomas Parsons questioned two Winchester boys, aged 12 and 14, who the authorities allege admit remaining in the bath-house after it was closed for the night. One said he broke the lock of a closet with a hammer and took a clock, and the other spilled a quantity of paint over the floor.

Both boys were sent back to the bath-house to clean up the mess they had made there and were lectured by Chief Charles J. Harrold of the Police Department Wednesday afternoon. What further action will be taken will depend on a further conference at which the parents will be present.

Mrs. Florence Scales has returned to her home on Fenwick road after spending the summer at Ocean Park, Maine.

USE THREE DIMENSION PICTURES TO SELL REAL ESTATE

(The following from the South Shore Mirror Published at Scituate Thursday, August 21, tells of a new business venture by two former well known Winchester young people, John and Kay McGill. It should prove of much interest to the many readers of the Star who know Kay as the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Parrot of 21 Wildwood street, and her husband as the son of Mrs. Evelyn H. McGill of 75 Church street, and the late William H. McGill.)

"Once upon a time, the young buck of the family took a few looks in the parson's stereoptician viewer and set out to see the world. If he returns now, he can look at an ultra-modern refinement of the old viewer and pick out the home in which he will settle down for the sunset years of his life.

" And this he can do right here in Scituate at the home of Kay and John McGill, who have spent the past several months developing a new technique in the selling of real estate that is sure to be of interest nationally among real estate dealers.

"Kay and John McGill in ordinary life, are Mr. and Mrs. John H. McGill and they live at 21 Meetinghouse Lane. Kay and John McGill are in the real estate business for at least two important reasons. (1) John McGill had been traveling from coast to coast in connection with his business as a promoter and merchandiser, which made it impossible for him to be at home very often. (2) Kay and John have always enjoyed working together and real estate offered them a perfect opportunity for doing so.

"After an intensive study of real estate, they burned their bridges and opened their office. John injected his financial and promotional experience into the firm. Their primary objective was to build up a business based on friendship, honesty and informality.

"In spite of well intended advice that they would be very lucky to sell one house in their first six month period of operation, they proceeded to sell four houses in their first month of operation and have increased this rate of sale each month since then. This is some sort of record.

"But John's merchandising background and age-old methods of selling real estate were at odds with each other. So he set out to find a new and better way to do it, ended up with what is believed to be the first marriage of three dimensional photography and real estate .... and the results are terrific!

"Most everyone is familiar with the stereoscope and the optical magic produced by it. Stereoscopic pictures in full natural color are not only very beautiful but they accurately portray the photographed object.

"Another name for sterescopic is three-dimensional. Three-dimensional photography produces a true to-life image and creates for the viewer the illusion that he can reach out and touch objects in the picture.

"The possibilities of three-dimensional color photography having occured to Kay and John McGill they proceeded immediately to do something about it.

"They purchased a lot of equipment and commenced taking pictures of houses. With the help of their assistants, Ruth Payntar, Barbara Rogers and Nate Austin, they have already accumulated hundreds of pictures of houses listed with them for sale. These pictures include exterior shots showing as completely as possible the internal features.

"Some of the interior shots show cellars and attics, heating systems, good features and bad features, in an effort to accurately show the houses as they really are.

"Kay McGill admits that most houses look better from the outside when they are photographed at sunset or sunrise rather than on a rainy, dull day but, otherwise, the pictures show every feature realistically.

"The equipment used by Kay and John McGill includes projected three-dimensional viewing of pictures. This procedure makes viewing easy and gives the viewer the feeling of being right in the scene himself. (A new movie is now being finished in Hollywood using this same process and will be ready for release within a few weeks.) Seeing projected three-dimensional color pictures for the first time is a thrilling experience.

"Some of the potential advantages to the use of three-dimensional color photography in the merchandising of real estate have been pointed out by John.

"Many prospective house buyers make "house hunting" sort of an adventure and it winds up into a hit-or-miss game involving many hours of fruitless searching. The limitations in time and space are great and the factor of fatique is a big one. Some house buyers are in no particular hurry hence the slow, adventurous method is good fun.

"On the other hand, the majority of prospective buyers are faced with some time limits, so a method whereby they can see and consider a greater number of homes of the desired size, in suitable locations and within the correct price range, offers a tremendous advantage.

"Instead of driving around for a couple of hours and physically seeing three or four houses, the prospective buyer can sit comfortably, without distractions, and see a dozen or more houses, thereby bringing into focus one or two specific houses which are the ones best suited to him. Neither weather nor time make any difference; houses can be seen at night; a summer home can be seen and appreciated during a February blizzard.

"The advantages of this method of merchandising to a prospective seller are, by and large, pretty obvious. A greater number of potential buyers can be shown individual properties. The nuisance of having parties of sight-seers tramping through a house occupied by the seller is eliminated. The physical showing of the property is confined exclusively to serious and interested persons only.

"Both Kay and John McGill look upon this new plan askance. Up to this point they have been pretty successful and their success has been built on the personal touch, in a friendly informal manner. They have also been pretty busy. If the picture-showing business swamps them, they may have to put the operation on an appointment schedule. In anticipation of a deluge, Nate Austin has already spoken up for the popcorn concession.

"For the technically-minded: The McGills are using a Stereo Realist camera, with its 35mm film made by the David White Company, and the Stereo Vivid Projector, manufactured by the Three Dimension Company."

PLAYGROUND NOTES

The Winchester Playgrounds concluded a most successful season with special events on last Thursday and Friday. On Thursday a group of 55 youngsters, accompanied by four instructors, enjoyed a trip to Crane's Beach in Ipswich. This was the second Beach Day of the playground season, with some of the group being repeaters, but many were youngsters who were unable to make the first beach party. Needless to say, the youngsters had a grand time even though they reported that the water was very cold. Softball games enlivened the time between dips and helped to make the cold water more bearable.

On Friday afternoon the three championship baseball teams and the championship softball team were the guests of the Red Sox management at Fenway Park. Although the Red Sox lost, the youngsters saw a good ball game and thoroughly enjoyed the expedition under the supervision of instructors Patsy Mawn, Sandy Burbank and Charlie Murphy. All four of the championship teams represented Leonard Field this summer, which marks the first time that one playground has monopolized the championships.

Dr. J. Churchill Hindes of Stetson Hall has returned to town from a visit in Vergennes, Vt.

FOOTBALL CANDIDATES OUT

With the return of Head Coach Henry Knowlton from Camp Wyanoke on Tuesday, high school football practice got under way Thursday morning, though the sessions from then until school opening will be largely of a conditioning nature, with hard work to commence next week.

Winchester lost some real strength by graduation last year and Coach Knowlton has been eager to get a look at his current squad to see who looks promising to fill the vacant shoes.

On the line Don Rizzo, all-scholastic guard, will leave a huge gap, and Dave Keniston, veteran tackle, Prep Keyes, dependable guard, "Dyna" Lentine, regular center, and big "Anchor" Murphy, tackle, will also be missed. Letter players available to start the season up front are regular ends John Atkinson and Bobby Flaherty, reserve end Kit Carleton, and Captain Howie Amundsen, big and capable tackle. Coach Knowlton's first disappointment was the loss of "Harpo" Taylor, rugged letter guard, who fell by the scholastic wayside. "Harpo" definitely would have helped in the center of the line.

John Riordan and Ted Harrigan are promising center candidates, with Jim Carroll a varsity end possibility as of now. Big Jim Cullen, Dick Beck and Sam Rocray are experienced tackles, and Jim Cusack, Bob Derro, Hank Curtis and Bill Coleman know something of guard play.

Behind the line Winchester should be very strong, with those two really great backs, "Jocko" Serieka and Jim Griffin available for another year, backed by "Stu" Thomson, a big passing quarterback, who needs only the desire to rank with the best around.

"Moosie" Bellino, a running wraith, who can tackle like a fool, is another letter back who will be valuable; and others who saw varsity service a year ago are Dave Pratt and Jack Beggs, two more big boys. From last year's freshman team big Mike Murphy, rugged plunger, Bill Ross and Bucky Morgan are backs expected to keep the more experienced boys on their toes.

Winchester is especially going to miss Jost Michelsen, T-pouring quarterback over the past two years and a fine, if not spectacular, all-around player. Jost's calling of plays has meant much to Winchester, his passing was also very effective, and when he did carry the ball, he could generally be depended upon for substantial yardage. On the ability of someone to take his place depends much of Winchester's success this budding autumn.

Also absent from this year's football picture will be two of Winchester's fine defensive backs, Co-Captains Joe Donlon and Dick Errico. Errico, a vicious tackler, was outstanding defender against forward passing. Their empty shoes loom big for someone to fill.

COOLEN — BREEN

At a 2 o'clock ceremony in the Immaculate Conception Church on Saturday afternoon, August 23, Miss Alice Selena Breen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Breen of Wendell street, became the bride of Robert James Coolen, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Coolen of Providence, R. I. The Rev. Fr. Herbert K. A. Driscoll, pastor, read the service in a setting of white gladiolas, and a reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Henry Breen, the bride wore a gown of white satin and silk, embossed with flowers and having a long train. Material for the gown was sent the bride from China by her brother during World War II. Her fingertip veil was arranged with a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Irene Shine of Stoneham was her cousin's honor attendant and the bridesmaids were Miss Evelyn Connors and Miss Aleta Breen, both of Woburn.

Mrs. Shine wore a dress of fuchsia taffeta with net overskirt and a small matching picture hat. Her old fashioned bouquet of yellow roses was tied with fuchsia ribbon. The bridesmaids wore dresses like the matron of honor, Miss Connors wearing yellow with matching hat and Miss Breen, blue with hat to match. Both carried old fashioned bouquets.

Mrs. Breen, mother of the bride, was gowned in aqua and wore a matching hat and corsage of gladiolas. Mrs. Coolen, the bridegroom's mother, wore navy blue with matching hat and yellow roses.

Philip Bathgate of Providence, R. I., was Mr. Coolen's best man, and the ushers were Robert and Charles Breen of Winchester, brothers of the bride.

After a honeymoon spent at the Weirs, N. H., Mr. and Mrs. Coolen will live in Providence, R. I., where the bridegroom is in business as a jeweler.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's High School and is a former officer in the Woburn Grange.

SALVATION ARMY APPEAL

With the enthusiastic backing of officials, veterans, servicemen and civic, social, religious and business leaders, plans for The Salvation Army 1952 Friendly Appeal "for human needs" in Winchester are rapidly nearing completion.

William C. Cusack, 2 Lakeview road, is general chairman, it was announced today. Charles W. Butler, Winchester Trust Company, is the new campaign treasurer.

The important job of organizing the corps of volunteer women workers — the backbone of every successful appeal — is being undertaken by Mrs. Shepard Pond, 2 Salisbury street, who is active in civic and social affairs.

She is being ably assisted in the work of lining up a large corps of volunteer workers by four vice chairmen — Mrs. Dermot Townley-Tilson, 36 Foxcroft road; Mrs. Philip J. Woodward, 13 Sheffield road; Mrs. Bernard L. Chapin, 5 Salisbury road; and Mrs. Paul E. Lamarche, 97 Highland avenue.

Other top leaders named by William C. Cusack, the general chairman, today included Mrs. Kathryn P. Sullivan, 3 Common street, prominent real estate dealer, as publicity chairman and Mrs. Mary Gorman, 1 Thompson street, business chairman.

"This is truly a campaign 'of Winchester, by Winchester and for Winchester'", William C. Cusack, the general chairman, stated today. "This is true because one dollar of every five contributed here will remain in the Winchester Service Fund exclusively for local needs. Furthermore this Fund is administered by a local committee consisting of well-known business and social service leaders who know local conditions and needs. Therefore once again Winchester residents will give The Salvation Army the support it so richly deserves.

BLOOD DONOR DAY

BLOOD IS YOUR BUSINESS

Your service men need it.
Your neighbor needs it.
Your family may need it.

It costs you nothing but someone will live because you care.

Winchester's quota is 150 pints for each visit. In June we collected 110 pints.

The physical examination given each person who offers will show whether you can safely give.

NEW MAP BY ERNEST DUDLEY CHASE

Readers of the Star will be interested to know that the Winchester National Bank has reprinted the very popular pictorial map of the town drawn by Ernest Dudley Chase that has been in circulation for some time.

Inasmuch as there have been twenty-seven new streets added since the last edition was printed, it seemed fitting that they should be incorporated in this new printing. Besides, there have been some changes, especially in that portion of the map which shows the new route of the Mystic Valley Parkway along the border of Manchester Field.

Those desiring a copy of this new edition of the map may have one by calling at the Winchester National Bank, regardless of whether they are depositors or not.

There is no charge for these maps.

"JIMMY FUND" TAG DAY SATURDAY

"Jimmy Fund" Chairmen Michael Stranger, Manager of the Winchester Theatre and Charles Harrold, Winchester Chief of Police announce plans are complete for Winchester's "Jimmy Fund" Tag Day Saturday, September 6th.

This day is to be observed as "Jimmy Day" in Winchester. Through the courtesy and enthusiastic assistance of co-chairman Rev. Herbert K. A. Driscoll, pastor of Immaculate Conception Catholic Church, the colorful aggregation of the Immaculate Conception Drum and Bugle Corps and Girls' Drill Team nattily uniformed will lend invaluable assistance handling the tags and Baseball containers for "Jimmy". Aiding substantially and directing the tag day campaign for funds will be co-chairmen Mrs. William Cusack and spearheaded by Joseph Callahan's able handling of the Immacs Headquarters will be Winchester Theatre lobby open Saturday at 7:30 a. m. for tag day.

This day in our town will be dedicated to the fight against childhood cancer, that awful inheritance that no one fully understands. There may be a little Jimmy in your house or the house next door. God forbid that he be stricken. Take advantage of this tag day group set up for your convenience on this day and you can help a stricken child look forward to a happier tomorrow. Remember the child could be your own.

The accomplishments with the Jimmy Fund drives have enabled the Scientists and the Medical Staff of the Children's Cancer Research Foundation to move swiftly ahead and now, in many cases, children who were doomed for fatality within a few weeks have had their lives prolonged as much as forty-one months. Without your donations small or large, this could never have happened. With the completion of the new Jimmy Fund Building, the Medical Staff and Scientists are now in a position to further develop new ideas and discoveries for a great cause.

DRIVE AIDED BY LOCAL MERCHANTS

Over 100 merchants in Winchester are displaying the novel and colorful baseball "Jimmy" bank in order to help you to help swell the 1952 "DRIVE". Distribution by workers: Richard Drohan, Paul McManus and John Barry.

Fund Chairmen Mike Stranger and Charlie Harrold urge everyone to take advantage of the convenient envelope entitled "I Can Dream, Can't I" being distributed through the tireless efforts of co-chairman Edward Cullen, Winchester News Store and his many able newsmen distributors. These will be left with your paper and picked up the following day if you find it convenient to use this medium for your contribution.

Mrs. Mary Donlon, representing Catholic Daughters of America, in Winchester, reports Theatre Collections and lobby table donations being generously participated in.

Once again Chairmen Stranger and Harrold point out contributions are tax deductible if check donations are made payable to the "Jimmy Fund". Again this year please send yours to Fund Treasurer, Ralph Hatch at the Winchester Savings Bank.

Watch next issue of this paper for all names of workers participating in this campaign for "Jimmy" which is being covered so generously by publicity directors of the drive, Jim Penaligan, T. Price Wilson and Ed "Mack" McKenzie.

BOAT CLUB NEWS

Labor Day means the end of the summer in most camps, but at the Boat Club things seem to be percolating just as heartily as ever. The Bake on the holiday came off with a bang despite a deluge of rain. One hundred and sixty members and their guests polished off a delectable shore dinner which was served on both the upper and lower decks of the clubhouse. Mrs. Broder's fish chowder and Bart Sullivan's lobsters made a special hit. Mr. and Mrs. Broder are to be commended for the excellent way in which they handled the large crowd indoors.

Assisting Commodore Ned Morse in the preparation of the feast were Dawson Blamire, Walter Reading, Erskine Kelly, Bart Sullivan, and Martin Swanson.

Highpoint of the occasion was the dedication of the flagpole by the Commodore. A bronze plaque dedicating it permanently to Walter Redding, 1950 commodore, was placed on the pole. Bart Sullivan obtained the handsome pole for the Club last season.

The directors wish to emphasize that Rule No. 3 in the rule book must be carried out at all times. It states that an adult member must accompany and sign for all guests of minors.

Sixty youngsters enjoyed themselves once again at the Junior Dance Friday night. Held downstairs, it was the second of a series to be held every Friday night this coming month.

The junior races are to be resumed this Sunday now that the gang is back from summer vacations. Seven snipes have signed up for the competition.

There were four races last weekend, so it was a busy weekend for our sailors. One was a makeup race and the other 3 were regular point score. On Saturday afternoon there were several disqualifications, but the final standing was Cliff Austin, first place; Bob Anderson, a newcomer to the "Glorious Three", second; and Daw Blamire, third place.

Rod Long, Bob Huggins, and Pete Redding were the winners Sunday in the order given. Labor Day morning before the rain came, Rod Long placed first, followed by Bob Huggins and Carl Freyer.

TROOP 6

Troop 6 of the Unitarian Church will start weekly meetings beginning Monday evening, September 8 at 7 o'clock in the Unitarian Church.

WINCHESTER BEAT ARMY SOFTBALLERS

A Winchester soft ball team, organized by Sonny Swymer and Bobby Merenda beat the strong Army softball team from Border road last week Thursday evening at Ginn Field, 4 - 3.

As the score would indicate the game was tight with Winchester scoring early and then holding off the Army boys' bid. Incidentally the Army boys were greatly pleased at this opportunity to compete with a Winchester team, and look forward to other opportunities to meet local teams in other branches of sport.

Winchester scored in the first on two walks and a wild pitch. In the second a walk, followed by a booming double to right by Merenda and Saunders' solidly hit triple accounted for two runs, Saunders tallying later on a passed ball.

The Army boys outhit Winchester but it was only in the fourth that they were able to bunch hits for more than one run. The visitors had one of the fastest pitchers seen in town for a long time in Magnus, while infielders Calabris and Truzzlino were classy performers.

Merenda and Swymer kept the Winchester team in there with their hustle and fine playing while "Scratch" Amico contributed a long running catch that was easily the fielding feature of the game. "Skitchie" Fiore and Swymer made clean stops of wicked drives by Army players at times when the visitors were really threatening to go out in front.

The lineups:

Winchester	Army
Farrell, rf	3b, Truzzlino
Swymer, 1b	cf, Cutler
Tarbell, ss	1b, Lesley
Amico, lf	c, Chester
Fiore, 3b	lf, Tarlosky
F. Swymer, 2b	ss, Calabris
Sherburne, cf	2b, Middleton
Merenda, c	rf, Carmach
Saunders, p	p, Magnus

Score by Innings

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Winchester	1	3	0	0	0	0	x	4
Army	0	0	1	2	0	0	0	3

BARTLETT ATTENDS LITTLE LEAGUE SERIES

An interested spectator at the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa., last week was Ted Bartlett, president of the Winchester Little League. It seems that Bart and Marge were visiting in Harrisburg last week and Bart thought nothing of driving 180 miles to see the cream of the nation's Little Leaguers in action. He reported that he was tremendously impressed by the size and the power of the teams and that the Montreal nine was the best coached team in the tournament.

Bart was also in the stands for the final game of a three-game series for the championship of the four Harrisburg Little Leagues. In addition to the games he attended, Bart also inspected about a dozen Little League parks in various Pennsyvania cities and towns to bring back some ideas for the construction of Winchester's own Little League field. Sounds to us like the proverbial busman's holiday but Bart states that he thoroughly enjoyed it and his only regret was missing the by now famous Rotary Club — Little League All Star game. No comment from Marge!

SOFTBALL GAME

An all star team of the Softball League will play a game with the soldiers stationed on South Border road in the Fells on Ginn Field Tuesday, September 9 at 5:30 p. m.

Mr. Cedric Seager, formerly of Winchester, after concluding his service in Israel, has been appointed chief for the Point 4 Progam in Iran. He leaves during the early fall for a meeting in Rome, after which he will go on to his station in Iran. His wife is the former Gertrude Packer, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. William S. Packer of Yale street.

TALES FROM CAMP NOKOMIS

Camp Nokomis, resident camp for girls located on Bear Island in Lake Winnepesaukee near Meredith, New Hampshire, has just completed its first season under the direction of Mrs. Barbara McDonald and Mr. Lawrence Palmer. This season was very successful from all points of view.

Among the many activities available were softball, tennis, badminton, archery, camp craft, crafts, and numerous water sports, so that there was never a dull moment. Then, just as the exercise began to cause hunger pangs, "Cookie" Sawyer would pop one of her delicious meals on the table and satisfy everyone's appetite.

Every day, following inspection, there would be a morning assembly held on the steps of the lodge in the shade of the pines by the lake. After a brief religious service, Mrs. McDonald (Jinx) or Mr. Palmer explained the natural beauties of camp, taking a new one each day, and thus broadening everyone's knowledge of the great outdoors. In the evenings everyone would assemble in the main lodge for a program of entertainment. In the course of the summer, this entertainment included Mother Goose parties, baby parties, game sessions, camp sings, story telling sessions, and even two hilarious mock radio broadcasts put on by the counselors. On some occasions there would be a special treat in store for everyone when Mr. McDonald (Pop) told Bible stories.

Although there was more than enough to keep everyone busy within camp, the program also included numerous trips away from camp. During July, the camp took a trip on Mount Washington, climbed Mt. Chocorua and Mt. Belknap, and went to a horse show; whereas, the August group visited Lost River and the Flume, spent a day at Old Orchard Beach, and climbed Mt. Osceola. Both groups also took a hike to the church and observatory located about two miles from camp in the center of Bear Island.

Of course, there were also several outdoor council fires and camp banquets where special achievements were commended, and the last night of camp brought with it a beautiful candlelight service.

Winchester sent quite a number of girls to Nokomis this year, including Patty Tofuri, Judy Towle, Carol Ann Coakley, Barbara Crede, Paula Collins, Shirley Bingham, Janet Rich, Carol Larson, Linda Maroney, Julie Palmer, Natalie Palmer, Martha Lee Wood, Bobbie Watson, Gail Cullen, Gail Collins, Andrea Chapin, Mary Jean Newton, Ellen Glowacki, Cynthia Peterson, Roberta Rich, and Nancy Switzer. The counselor staff consisted of Carol Crockett, Florence Newton, Linda Nanry, Nancy Morse, Debbie French, and Jinny Dyer, all of Winchester.

WINCHESTER TENNIS ASSOCIATION

Then please plan to be on hand to play on time, according to the schedule. If the weather is good, all tournaments should progress through the quarter-finals by the end of the weekend, so that semi-finals can be played the following Saturday and finals the following Sunday. If, after entering, you find you must withdraw, please let the committee know; don't just fail to show up. There is one change in our previously announced schedule: Women's Doubles will begin on Sunday morning, shortly after the Men's.

WINCHESTER FOOTBALL OUTLOOK GOOD

After a week of intensive practice Winchester's 1952 football team is rounding into shape. From present indications the High School will again be represented by an eager, hard-hitting team.

Although many good football men were lost through graduation there is a fine nucleus remaining on which to build. Returning regulars from last year's championship team are Captain Howard Amundsen at tackle; John Atkinson and Bob Flaherty at ends; while "Jocko" Serieka and Jim Griffin, two of the best running backs ever to represent Winchester, will be in their backfield spots. Other letter winners from last year's squad include "Moose" Bellino, half back; "Kit" Carleton, end; and Stu Thomson, quarter.

Some of the outstanding men for the open positions include Jim Cusack, Hank Curtis, Bob Derro, and Dan Mistretta as guards. The tackle competition is close between Sam Rocray, Jim Cullen, and a new-commer, Franny Murphy, brother of former Winchester football players Walter and "Anchor" Murphy. John Riordan, Denny Doucette and Bob Amundsen are battling for the center spot. Stu Thomson, Dave Pratt, Bill Ross and Al Lindsey are likely to see lots of service at quarterback. There is a host of backs led by "Moose" Bellino, Jack Beggs and Aubrey "Tompy" Henry a speedster who transferred from Miami, Fla. Outstanding end candidates include Jim Carroll, Tom Cahill and Paul O'Brien.

All of the squad members and coaches realize that it will take a lot of hard work to mold this group into a good football team. They also realize that this year's results must be made on this year's effort and not on last year's reputation and record.

LITTLE LEAGUE TROPHIES

Three trophies have been presented to the Little League organization for distribution to appropriate winners.

Mr. Nathan Thumin presented a large trophy which will be awarded temporarily to the Winchester series winner each year until some team wins it three times, then it will become a permanent possession of that team. This year the trophy will go temporarily to the series winning Braves.

Murray and Gillett have made a trophy available which will be presented to the player with the highest batting average for the season.

The Stabile Construction Co. of Winchester gave a trophy which will be presented to the runner-up team of the league, which is the Dodgers.

The highest batting average and runner-up trophies will remain in permanent possession of the winners. All the trophies will be presented at the Little League banquet, September 20, 1952, at the Town Hall. Everyone interested in attending this banquet in honor of the Little League Players may do so. You can obtain your banquet tickets at the Winchester Spa, Winchester News, Winchester Sport Shop, Hevey's, McCormack's, Purtle's and the Royal Spa.

Ensign Charles W. Lovejoy, U. S. N., left Winchester Wednesday for San Francisco. He expects to be in Japan by the end of this week, where he will be stationed in Tokyo.

LITTLE LEAGUE BANQUET

Winchester Town Hall will be the scene of a huge post-season banquet for the Little League Ball Clubs, including their friends, fans and parents, on Saturday evening, September 20th at 6:30 p. m. sharp. Arrangements are being made for a Roast Beef dinner with all the fixings. There will be no charge to the 60 Little League team members and invited guests.

Parents and fans interested in attending this affair in honor of the four teams who have given Winchester citizens many hours of wonderful entertainment this summer, may obtain dinner tickets at the Winchester Sports Shop, McCormacks Drug Store, Hevey's Drug Store, Winchester News, Purtle's Drug Store and the Royal Spa.

Be sure to come and honor these boys who have done such a fine job in introducing Little League Baseball to Winchester. Several trophies will be presented to appropriate winners at the banquet.

We printed in our last week's edition without comment the letter to the Park Board from the citizens' committee considering the matter of a permanent field for Little League baseball in Winchester, and the Park Commissioners' reply. We were pleased to see that the Park Commissioners agreed to make Ginn Field available to the Little Leaguers for one year. In our opinion they should not at this time go further than a year in giving over Ginn Field to the Little League and we believe, that aside from what is actually necessary for a legal Little League diamond, the field should be disturbed as little as possible, at least until such time as it is settled beyond doubt that this particular town playground is the only spot were Little League baseball can be played in town. Ginn Field is used a lot as a playground. It serves a neighborhood where there are many children growing up. The same objections voiced to tying up Loring avenue playground for Little League use last spring, apply equally if not more strongly, to Ginn Field. In addition Ginn Field is the best field in town on which to play softball. For years now it has been the field where important soft ball league games have been played. If the town is going to continue with soft ball, some consideration should be given the problem of a suitable place for the big championship soft ball contests. Then, too, Ginn Field has been used for some time by the high school girls' field hockey team, both for practice and for home games. The girls also use the field for their spring soft ball. Both sports are popular with the high school girls and both are a part of the regular physical education program. Off hand we can think of no other easily accessible place the girls can play field hockey with virtually the entire surface of Manchester Field being used for varsity and freshman football, a sport that attracts over one hundred high school pupils each fall. While not so publicized as those of the boys, the girls' team games are just as important to them and just as necessary from the health angle. The space available for girls' sports played outdoors, with the exception of tennis, has been in recent years exclusively at Ginn Field. How is a Little League diamond, particularly one with all the ramifications, fence, dugouts, skun infield, etc., going to affect Ginn Field with respect to its continued use by the girls? This angle, in our opinion, should be considered, and probably is being considered seriously by the Park Commissioners. Now we are making no definite statement that Ginn Field is not the place for Little League baseball, permanently. The Citizens Committee pointed out its advantages admirably. They said little about the disadvantages of taking over the field for Little League, and they expressed only the objections to the use by the League of the land on Palmer street held by the town for playground purposes. Little League authorities, or at least some of them, consider this Palmer street spot the ideal location for a permanent Little League field. Parking limitations and objection by neighbors are listed by the committee as reasons why this place should not be used. We do not say that it should be, but when the land was finally acquired, back in '47, for a guess, "playground purposes" was first on the list of reasons for its purchase. We can sympathize with those who do not like the idea of the Little League diamond adjacent to their homes. Some of those who live across the river from Ginn Field feel the same way about the use of that field for organized soft ball. Parking on Palmer street looks like a real problem, but that seems to be a problem whatever you try to do, and it might be some solution of this problem could be worked out. Topographically Little League enthusiasts say the field is ideal. Certainly it is as accessible to the players as Ginn Field, and certainly it is not being used for anything else. Meanwhile we have no quarrel at all with the group of citizens who gave their time and effort to the consideration of a permanent field for Little League just to be helpful. The personnel of the group is sufficient guarantee that the problem was carefully and impartially considered, just as any civic problem would be considered by the same group. However, we do believe the Park Commissioners are right in agreeing to the use of Ginn Field by the Little League with some reservation.

NO "EX" IN FITZGERALD

Editor of the Star:

There is no "ex" in Fitzgerald. Again you stand corrected. All I can get out of "Fitzgerald" is this:

Fifteenth
Inning
Trys
Zealously
Gained
Earned
Reward
And Leading Decision

I don't konw "Nicky" personally but have heard of him for many years and all I've heard has been creditable.

Incidentally, in the Star of August 22 athletic news is noted of the Annual Red Cross Swimming Championships and the Star reports a race of

"Girls 14 and under — 50M back stroke

(1) Marguerite Johnson 47s
(2) Mary McNally"

I think the Star owes it to these youngsters to report that this event was called off because of rain and never was raced at Leonard Field on August 16.

Fair play never stands to be corrected. That's why "Nicky" is so respected.

Sincerely Yours,
Frank J. McNally
614 Main street

Ed. Note — We are glad to print Mr. McNally's letter and to agree with him on our friend "Nick" Fitzgerald. We refuse to stand corrected on our ex-Mayor statement, because ex-mayor is just exactly what "Nick" is right now, more's the pity! However, in spite of the grade crossing, we will be glad to vote for "Nick" any time he wants to run for Mayor again. As for the swimming race, Mr. McNally's criticism, if such it was intended, does not make the Star's face red. The report of the meet in question was given us, as usual, by the Red Cross. We are sure their correspondent was not intentionally inaccurate.

HOW TAX RATES HAVE RISEN

The following table, compiled by the Wakefield Item, is of interest to Winchester tax payers in showing how taxes have risen and the variance among towns and cities in this vicinity.

HOME FROM A TRIP TO EUROPE

Mrs. William C. Cusack and son Jim have returned from a delightful six weeks tour of Europe. They attended the summer session at the University of Innsbruck, Austria, in Mayrhofen. Mrs. Cusack was guest speaker on the summer program and there were fifteen nationalities in the audience.

They attended the opening night of the opera in Salzburg and also called on friends in Kitzbuhel, who are making a concert tour in the United States from September through December and will appear on "Toast of the Town" this month.

Mrs. Cusack and Jim stayed four days in Venice, Italy, and Lucerne, Switzerland; and five days in Paris, London, Brussels and Belgium.

While in London Mrs. Cusack gave a tea for Barbara and Nancy Booth of Oxford street this town and several English students whom the Cusacks met at the university.

They flew home, leaving Brussels at 7 o'clock at night, having tea in Shannon Island at 10:30, coffee in Gander, Newfoundland, at 7 a. m., arriving in New York at 10:30 a. m. Friday, August 22, where they were met by Mr. Cusack.

FIREFIGHTERS BUSY

Last week-end provided a busy time for the Winchester Fire Department, which was called upon to answer a number of alarms. None were serious and some were set. Those responsible for the fires which were set have been found — two small children.

A refrigerator out of order caused a call to a house on the Parkway, where the overheated motor caused no damage, and a house at 62 Water street owned by Andrea Saraco, filled with smoke, turned out to be an over heated pan on the stove.

A call Saturday afternoon to the McLatchy machine shop on Cross street was for a blaze at the rear of the building. A later alarm a few minutes after was at the same place for baled paper which was blazing. These fires were set.

A call for a fire at the Damon home on Arlington street, telephoned in, proved false. The family were away, and the call was traced to a Somerville pay station.

Another fire on Cross street caused an alarm from box 34 which was sounded in response to a telephone call. This fire was for a building at the rear of 166 Cross street.

The Labor Day alarm from box 33 was for an auto on fire near 40 Cross street. This was quickly extinguished.

THE IRISH LITTLE PEOPLE SHOULD NEVER BE ANNOYED

Nightime is the time for the little people to be abroad, dancing their dances, doing their work and repairing damage done by ordinary people.

Nowhere, observes the National Geographic Society, is this better known than in Ireland. There the little people are household familiars. There many floors are not swept between sunset and sunrise for fear of dusting the tiny guests out the door, and there food is left by doorstep or hearth when ordinary people go to bed.

Ireland's little people are mostly benevolent, even helpful, and guilty only of innocent mischief, such as keeping butter from churning, or teasing horses in the stables.

But the little people are not to be crossed, be they leprechauns, the shoemakers and keepers of treasure in the fairy world, or any of their numerous kinfolk.

A captured leprechaun, if held firmly and looked straight in the eye, has no choice but to tell the location of buried gold. But he is tricky, and can always divert attention. When his captor glances away — as the little man will make him do — the leprechaun disappears, no matter how firmly he is held.

There is a recent news story of a leprechaun mound on the grounds of a housing project near Limerick. Workmen ordered to bull-doze the mound refused. They had no desire to disturb and displease the little people.

Outside workmen were called in and soon had the hill half removed. That night the mound was rebuilt. The newcomers then wisely abandoned the job, and the project was built around the mound.

The workmen were only following their good Irish sense, and custom of long standing when they refused to level the mound. None but the most callous or unmindful will disturb the haunts of the little people, be they mounds or lone thorn trees — "fairy trees."

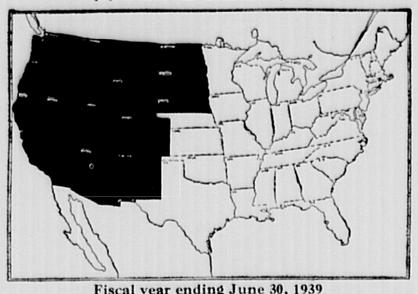

Respect for the little people is not confined to Irish workmen. A dignified professor of geography at Queen's University in Belfast wrote:

Miss Mary Alice Fitch is registered at the Bethel Inn, Bethel, Maine, this week.

BERMUDIANS SPEED CONQUEST OF DAMAGING CEDAR BLIGHT

Ocean racing yachtsmen and other visitors to Bermuda this summer are finding the face of this subtropical island paradise changed in hue because a visitor brought not tourist dollars, but death to the Bermuda cedars.

Where, prior to World War II, flowers of hibiscus and bougainvillea flamed against a background of cool, glossy, dark green, now much of the backdrop is the sere brown of dead trees. The cause of the blight, says the National Geographic Society, is juniper scale from the United States which slipped through plant quarantines. Famed as the Bermuda "cedars", the trees are in reality junipers.

Reforestation Planned

Happily, the British government of Bermuda foresees eventual removal of almost a million dead and dying cedars and complete reforestation. The task will take years to complete. Meanwhile, both to keep Bermuda green and to hold down its light topsoil, fast-growing pines, palms and other trees are being set out.

Replanting means a number of operations. First, the scale must be eliminated, a job now reported being successfully carried out with the aid of a small beetle, a scale parasite. Next, stricken cedars must be removed. This job is being undertaken by companies which will use the wood, still of good commercial quality even though from dead trees.

Finally, the new cedars will be planted. A few healthy trees survived to furnish seed, which was planted in Jamaica and elsewhere. This seed is expected to provide the slow-growing baby cedars for a scale-free Bermuda in two or three years.

Built Homes of Cedar

For more than three centuries, Bermuda cedar has played a large part in the lives of the islanders. Until they learned to build their houses from the Aeolian limestone just beneath their soil, they built with the fragrant cedar.

In cedar ships, they attacked Spanish galleons making their easting in Bermuda latitudes. They have long made cedar ornaments and furniture. The custom of celebrating births, weddings, and other events by planting commemorative cedars has been practiced for years.

Like islanders everywhere, Bermudians are fond of the things they have always known. They are willing to wait several decades for maturity of their new cedars, instead of following the easy path of planting fast-growing permanent substitutes.

The bower-birds of Australia and New Guinea, allied to the birds of paradise, are named from bowers or arbors built by the males. First clearing an area for the purpose, the male builds a bower, usually with twigs. In front of the bower is his stage, where he arranges a variety of bright-colored objects — leaves, berries, and even paper and glass— to accent the limited splendor of his plumage. The female then builds her nest a few feet away, but the bower is maintained and refurbished daily until the young are old enough to visit it.

INDONESIANS BATTLE HUNGER ON WORLD'S RICHEST ISLANDS

Six American 80-foot PT boats capable of 45 knots will soon be patrolling waters surrounding the more than 3,000 islands that compose the young Republic of Indonesia.

Manned by Indonesian sailors and equipped with radar and other modern navigation devices, the craft will aid the Far Eastern nation's drive to control smuggling and illegal immigration — evils contributing to Indonesia's current critical shortage of food.

"We are facing an appalling future, a case of life or death for Indonesia," President Soekarno told his people recently. He was reviewing the statistics of population versus food production. A million tons of rice are lacking each year even for subsistence diets, he said.

Yet this fledgling nation is one of the wealthiest on earth in natural resources. Barely touched are treasures in rubber and oil, sugar and spices, minerals and fibers, says the National Geographic Society. For such "wealth of the Indies," world powers fought for centuries.

80,000,000 Strong

The virtually countless islands of Indonesia stretch along the equator from the southernmost mainland of Asia to the northern tip of Australia. On them live 80,000,000 people, nearly as many as in Japan.

Largest Moslem country in the world in terms of people, Indonesia is the hinge around which the future of much of southeast Asia swings. Its people fervently wish to remain neutral in the conflict between East and West. "Merdeka," meaning freedom, has been their rallying cry ever since they declared independence on the heels of World War II and began a four-year struggle to make it stick.

Oil and Temples

Indonesia's main island is Java, seat of its capital, Djakarta, new name for old Batavia. Home of more than half the nation's people, Java is the most crowded region of its size on earth.

From Sumatra and Borneo come rivers of oil. Bali, where Hindu gods still reign, is a place of temples and spectacular rice terraces, glittering dances and ancient music.

Ridged by chains of active volcanos, parts of Indonesia are still among the wildest places on earth, inhabited by peoples seldom if ever visited by outsiders. In other parts of the islands, modern manufacturing plants turn out an increasing flow of goods.

Educational leaders are battling illiteracy. Arts and sciences flourish. Four new universities have been formed. While Indonesia fights to feed itself, it looks toward the day when the Indies' wealth will bring prosperity.

Along Bay of Fundy shores in Canada's Maritime Provinces occur some of the greatest tides on earth. Sometimes there is a difference of more than 40 feet between high and low tide at Windsor, Nova Scotia, as the waters rush in from Minas Basin. When the tide goes out, ships are left in natural drydock beside the wharves, resting on the harbor bottom. Cables and hawsers prevent them from tipping over.

LIONS, BABOONS, ENLIVEN AFRICA EXPEDITION CAMP

A hungry lion and a tribe of marauding monkeys have enlivened camp life for an American expedition studying wildlife and native culture in the more remote parts of French Equatorial Africa.

Both the lion and the monkeys—baboons—invaded the camp of the expedition, the lion to steal the carcass of a hartebeest that had been killed as food for native bearers, and the baboons to upset plans made to photograph the lion.

The expedition is sponsored by the National Geographic Society, The American Museum of Natural History and Dr. and Mrs. Carnes Weeks of Medway Plantation, Mount Holly, South Carolina. Expedition members include Mrs. Weeks, well known as an explorer, Walter A. Weber and Volkmar K. Wentzel of the Society, and T. Donald Carter of the Museum.

LARCENOUS LION

The expedition had made camp on the Aouk River, east of Fort Archambault, French Equatorial Africa, in the midst of country heavy with game, when it encountered the lion and the baboons. The lion stole into camp about 3:30 one morning to make off with the hartebeest carcass, which was found abandoned about 200 yards away.

Hoping to obtain pictures of a lion feeding at night, Mr. Wentzel retrieved the carcass and surrounded it with five cameras equipped with flash guns—all set up so that any movement would actuate the shutters and lights.

Unfortunately, however, the baboons found the cameras fascinating playthings and knocked them all down.

NUMEROUS SPECIES COLLECTED

A full report of the scientific findings of the expedition will be made when it returns to the United States later this summer, but Mr. Carter has indicated successful progress in his collection of specimens for the Museum. He reported that "quite a bit" of "some very nice" material had been obtained on one 17-day, 600-mile field trip.

Wild animals did not provide all the trouble encountered by the travelers; some developed when the native cook mistook automotive brake fluid for cooking oil and fried steaks in it. Mr. Weber contended the brake-oil steak was the best served on the trip.

On another occasion the same cook served stewed prunes which were tough. Asked if he had soaked the prunes as directed, he replied that of course he did, and displayed the water in which he had soaked them—without removing them from the can.

SOPHISTICATED UBANGI

In other meetings with natives the expedition encountered numerous Ubangi women with lips stretched to enormous dimensions. One of the women identified herself in a picture published in the September, 1938, issue of the National Geographic Magazine.

Another demanded twice the usual fee of 100 francs when she was photographed, and she was singularly unimpressed with cameras. It was found that she had developed her sophistication when she toured the United States with a circus and appeared at fairs and expositions.

Expedition members have had several close calls with crocodiles while swimming and taking pictures in the water, but there have been no casualties.

Mrs. Weeks reports that the average temperature in the explored areas is 113 degrees, which makes the nighttime low of 89 seem cool.

BAGPIPES ARE SCOTTISH REGARDLESS OF ORIGIN

The bagpipe, a johnny-come-lately to Scotland according to a current Glasgow researcher, is as Scottish as plaids and kilts for a' that.

That the national musical instrument of Scotland is far older than its Scottish ties seems well established, says the National Geographic Society. It is regarded as Asiatic in origin and counted among the most ancient of music-makers.

Braving the wrath of his countrymen, the Glasgow scholar places the arrival of the bagpipe in Scotland as late as the 16th century and finds it came from Italy. There is evidence, however, that bagpipes were brought to the British Isles by Roman legionnaires, to whom the instrument was well known. Nero was reported to be an accomplished performer on one type of bagpipe. The pipes were popular with troubadours of the Middle Ages.

NOT FOR BEGINNERS

The Scottish people have taken the bagpipe as their own. No Highland or lowland festival or party is complete without pipe music, and Scottish military bagpipe bands are as famous as the noted regiments to which they belong.

Much of the music written for the bagpipe is Scottish. There are three types of such music. The Coel Baeg, of Little Music, consists of dance and march tunes; the Coel Meadonach, or Middle Music, includes slow marches, retreats, and simple laments; and finally, the majestic Coel Mor, or Big Music, embraces the great sonatas or concertos of bagpipe composition.

There are about 300 laments, battle hymns, and salutes that can be classified as Big Music. They are not for the amateur performer or listener. The Big Music is considered by experts to be truly great national music. It consists of certain melodic lines repeated and varied with changing groupings or rhythm.

The most famous of all Highland musicians, the MacCrimmons, hereditary pipers to the MacLeods of Dunvegan on the Isle of Skye, wrote, taught, and played the Ceol Mor, scorning the simpler forms of composition.

Donald Ban MacCrimmon, one of the last and greatest of his line, composed the prophetic lament "MacCrimmon Never Will Return" before he followed Bonnie Prince Charlie in the tragic campaign of 1745 and died in the Rout of Moy. Patrick Mor MacCrimmon had good reason for composing the touching "Lament for the Children" when seven of his eight sons died in the space of a year.

COMPLEX INSTRUMENT

The bagpipe is a complex instrument consisting of an air-tight leather bag having from three to five apertures to which are affixed the tubes or pipes. In the Highland bagpipe the bag is filled with air by means of a "blow pipe" through which the piper blows air into the reservoir. In other types the bag is filled by a bellows.

The other attached pipes consist of one or more "drones" or tubes, each capable of only one note. The drones supply the constant background notes for the varied music produced by the remaining tube, the "chanter" or melody pipe, on which the piper produces the melody by fingering.

Constant pressure of air through the drones and chanter is maintained by arm pressure on the bag, which is carried under the shoulder.

CANDIDATE AND TWO LOYAL SUPPORTERS

Mrs. James A. Cullen of Winchester and Falmouth Heights gets an occasional mischievous dig from son Brian, who is nine. ("What are you trying to do, be a Congresswoman?") But when the chips are down, Brian and his older brother, Francis, 14, are their mother's loyal supporters. Four other children, who were not around when this picture was taken, add their wishes for success to a mother who is running for Congress and a father who is seeking his second term on the board of commissioners of Middlesex County.—(Courtesy Falmouth Enterprise)

ARLINGTON ACADEMY OF MUSIC

According to surveys made this fall at the Arlington Academy of Music, parents of today are becoming aware of their responsibility as far as Junior's music lessons are concerned. The requests for the junior aptitude tests given at this accredited music school would seem to indicate that music study of some kind is included in most every child's program. Frank E. Ward, Dean of the Academy, in spite of the school's prestige and popularity among the adult musicians, has never ceased his efforts in developing the junior curriculum to the highest.

An unusual opportunity for expert instruction in every field of music is available at the academy. The faculty consists of more than twenty-five distinguished musicians including leading soloists and experts in all phases of music education.

Junior music instruction includes private and class lessons on all instruments, voice, theory and ear training. Ensemble work and monthly recitals give further opportunity to those qualifying.

Two former well known Winchester boys, William and Stewart Elliott, now living in Torrance, Cal., outside Los Angeles, have returned to the west coast after visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Elliott of Water street.

IKE TO GET GIANT BIRTHDAY WISH

E. D. Chase, well-known Winchester greeting card man has a hobby of sending unusual Birthday Greetings to famous personalities.

In past years he has saluted such people as Calvin Coolidge, George Eastman, Herbert Hoover, Roxy (the great theatrical genius) and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

And now one for Dwight Eisenhower. Mr. Chase's new creation will be the largest and longest birthday card ever envisioned. He hopes to have over a million signatures from well-wishers, the country over.

Signature slips have been circulated in all forty-eight states—and upon their return to Boston will be affixed to the card to form the "greeting" — one letter to each page.

Mr. Chase is planning a very unusual presentation, to take place on Ike's birthday October 14th.

Mr. Chase says:

"Designed in accordian format in order that it may be made to any length, this colossal birthday card will be delivered in a most unusual manner at the proper time. (Size when folded is 21 x 33 inches.)

"To form the letters making up the sentiment, one letter to a page, we propose to secure signatures from all over the United States and believe that we can easily procure a million or more slips, each one of which will bear the name and address of the well-wisher."

BACK IN TOWN

Mrs. G. Lindrov Witham and daughters, Linda and Carol, have recently returned to their home on Bacon street after spending the summer as guests of Mrs. Theodore von Rosenvinge, Jr., and family at their summer home in Annisquam.

During their sojourn, Theodore von Rosenvinge, the IV, arrived, the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore von Rosenvinge, III. Billy von, second of Mary von's four sons has recently returned from a year at the front in Korea. He is now on leave and dividing his time between Annisquam and the farm of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Worcester in Francestown, N. H.

The Witham children spent a few days last week as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Wentworth and family of Princeton, N. J., at their summer home at Highland Lake, Stoddard, N. H. While there, they had an interesting trip in Mr. Wenthworth's amphibian plane from which they viewed the New Hampshire landscape from a new angle.

John Butler of Englewood road returned Tuesday from a ten-week vacation in California and many other places of interest.

NEW COUNCIL STARTS WORK

Twelve Winchester men and women with wide civic interests and with ready acceptance of civic responsibilities have agreed to serve as Members-at-large of the newly created Winchester United Nations Council. These are: Austin Broadhurst who will be the chairman and:

Warren T. Bolivar
Joseph W. Butler, Jr.
Mrs. Rodney W. Long
Miss Corinne Mead
Forbes H. Norris
Norman J. Padelford
Frank Provinzano
Ben R. Schneider
Robert B. Stewart
Joseph J. Tansey
Mrs. Charles Wilson

The Council will be composed of these Members-at-large and representatives from many Winchester organizations which wish to have a part in furthering its purposes. In a prospectus sent this week to many organizations, the purpose of the Council has been summarized in these words: "to promote in our community a broader awareness and knowledge of the U. N., of how it works, of its record, of its strengths and of its limitations."

The need for informed public opinion on this outstanding international organization, in these times of grave international tensions, has been recognized by many groups and individuals in Winchester. Since January a Temporary Steering Committee has been studying the problem of initiating a U. N. Council here.

The Council "will not have any official or unofficial connection with the United Nations itself or with any agency of the Federal Government or with any other organization." It hopes to spread information by means of suitable observance of U. N. Week, assisting other groups in preparing programs on the U. N. and its affiliated agencies, arranging study groups, etc. In general, the Council will coordinate community activities in the field of the United Nations.

A letter has been sent with the prospectus inviting many Winchester groups, the churches, veterans organizations, etc., to join the Council, and urging their attendance at a meeting in the Rich Room of the Library on Thursday evening, September 18th. At that meeting, organization of the Council will be completed and plans made for the observance of U. N. Week beginning October 19th.

Many thanks are due the Temporary Steering Committee for their time and thoughtful work. The committee members were:

Austin Broadhurst, chairman
Warren Bolivar
Wade Grindle
Donald Heath
J. Leslie Lobingier
Mrs. T. P. Messer
Robert Stewart
Mrs. Kenneth Toye
Mrs. R. V. Patrick

"DAYS OF YORE"
Clippings from the STAR Files

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

SEPTEMBER 2, 1927

The grading at the new Washington School has been practically completed and this week the grounds at the Highland School have been given some attention. The building has been thoroughly renovated during the summer in anticipation of its opening its doors once more in September.

The steam shovel which has been at work on Sylvester avenue lately has proved a big attraction for the children of the neighborhood. Last Friday, Motorcycle Officer Edward O'Connell was obliged to make trips to the scene of its operations to disperse the crowd of youngsters who were in constant danger of injury.

The excursion to Lake Sunapee, run by the Boston and Maine Railroad last Sunday, was not patronized by many Winchester people owing to the storm. The railroad company announces that another similar excursion will be run this week, the train leaving Woburn at 9:04 a. m. This will be the last excursion of this sort this season. Winchester people planning to go on the trip must take the train at Woburn, as it does not stop at Winchester. The round trip is only $2.00.

The $1,500 which the School Board requested to finish the grading at the new Washington School was pared by the Finance Committee to $750, according to a recent report.

Eleven pieces of real estate were sold at auction at the office of the Collector for unpaid taxes Tuesday forenoon.

Principal Wade L. Grindle of the High School with Mrs. Grindle and family has returned to Winchester from a vacation at Rangeley Lakes, Maine.

The police got a conviction in the District Court last Saturday under the law which prohibits the driving of a motor vehicle within 300 feet of fire apparatus on its way to a fire. A Winchester young man was found guilty by Judge Jesse W. Morton who imposed a fine of $5. Sergt. Thomas Cassidy was the complainant.

Roger O'Connor of 76 Sheridan circle notified the police on Tuesday that some one had stolen 12 of his hen and 21 chickens.

To Let — Two apartments, 7 Nelson street; key at Suite 1; rent $16 - $20. Tel. Somerset 7669.

Mrs. Frances M. Carter of this town is counted one of the expert yachtswomen who sail out of Gloucester where she has a summer home on Eastern Point. Mrs. Carter sails one of the rugged German sonder boats, dubbed "Skeezix", and has acquitted herself well in her first year of racing competition as a skipper.

Francis E. Smith, Jr., of Winchester won the boys' singles title in the Junior Open Tennis Tournament held this week at the Rockport Country Club. Strangely enough in the final match of the tourney he was pitted against another local boy, Lawrence Freeburn, the three resulting sets showing plenty of good tennis. Lawrence Palmer, Frank Carleton and James Brown were other Winchester boys who participated.

The schools will officially open on Wednesday, September 7.

Camp Winchester officially closed with a banquet on Thursday night, August 25. Besides the Scouts and their leaders, Mrs. Rogers, Mr. Eubanks and Mr. Gaffney were present as guests. After the banquet the prizes and awards were made and the last issue of the camp paper was read.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

SEPTEMBER 5, 1902

Ground was broken this week for another house, near the corner of Washington street and Park avenue.

Mr. E. N. Lovering, principal of the High School arrived home last week from his country home in Hancock, N. H.

On Sunday, August 3, the receipts on the North Woburn electric railroad were $1,071 and on Sunday, August 10, $1,069. This means that 21,000 fares were collected on each of these days.

The Democratic town committee has organized with the choice of J. Joseph Foley as chairman, Patrick W. Reardon secretary, and John T. Cosgrove treasurer. All the officers are re-elected with the exception of Mr. Foley, who takes the place of Thomas B. Colter.

A new hard wood floor has been laid in the large auditorium of the Congregational Church.

Mr. James J. Fitzgerald, the well known contractor, commenced work filling in and grading that part of Manchester field known as Ginn's Field, near Bacon street, Tuesday. There is a large amount of filling to be done which will take a long time.

There will be a Candy and Ice Cream Sale for the benefit of the Old Ladies' Home, Saturday, September 6, from 3 to 5 o'clock on Mrs. Whitten's Lawn, Everett avenue. Given by Miss Marion Gray and Ralph Whitten. All welcome.

Street department men are laying the pipes on Church street for the drainage of that street. It will take about six weeks to complete the work.

The sewer department are laying the sewer on Park road, and when this is done work will commence on Loring avenue. The sewer has been laid on Maxwell road and Lloyd street. Many house connections are being made.

Mr. Whitfield L. Tuck has received from Buckingham Palace a letter acknowledging an enclosure he sent King Edward on the occasion of his majesty's recent serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Messenger will observe their tenth wedding anniversary at their home on Washington street on Monday, September 15.

Arthur E. Whitney has shown his regard for his father, Joel Whitney, in erecting a rustic monument of stone upon the bank of the mill-pond which his father so long controlled. The stones were taken from the cellar of his father's homestead, which had been removed by the action of the Park Commission. This monument has not the grandeur of Solomon's temple, the historic tradition of Cleopatra's needle, or the dizzy height of Pompey's pillar, but it is a simple memento of filial respect for a kind and loved father. Let it stand in its modest and unpretentious exterior.

House For Sale — Ten rooms, suitable for two families, with bath room, set tub, summer kitchen, fine pantry, China closet, and 3,600 feet of land. Hot water heat, 10 minutes from Winchester Highlands Station and five to electrics. Price $2,450, only $300 down, and $20 a month. Apply to S. Lacy, 47 Court street, Room 7, Boston.

The High School Building Committee have decided that Mr. H. O. Hale's plans for the new building are nearer the requirement than those of any other competitor and have consequently chosen him for their architect.

AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology announced today that George F. Winterson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Winterson of 27 York road, and a graduate of Matignon High School, has been awarded a Freshman Competitive Scholarship for entrance to M.I.T. this fall.

These scholarships are granted annually by the Institute to a group of entering students of high scholastic standing and personal qualifications selected by competition from several hundred candidates from all parts of the country.

Miss Ruth E. Nelson will begin her professional training in physical education on September 19 when she enrolls as a member of the freshman class at Bouve-Boston School of Physical Education, which is affiliated with Tufts College, Medford. CRANE FOUND IN HEN YARD

Many Winchester residents have remarked on the large number of birds seen about town this summer. Many birds which have not been noted here for years have been reported. The bird had been caught in the wire of the hen yard. The police notified the M.D.C. officers, who in turn called a custodian from the Stoneham Zoo, who came here and took the bird.

"It has just come to my attention that you recently observed the Golden Anniversary of your affiliation with the Boston and Maine Railroad. Such a distinct achievement justifies great pride on your part.

"I am most happy indeed to extend congratulations to you on your accomplishment and to hand you herewith your "Fifty Years Service Pass" which comes to you in token of our appreciation of your loyalty.

WINCHESTER MAN EFFECTED CAPE RESCUE

A pre-dawn flashlight S. O. S., read by a Winchester man, was credited with saving the lives of four men adrift in a sinking motorboat in the gale-tossed waters of Sesuit Harbor, Dennis, on Monday night.

The four had ventured out in the launch to secure other boats torn loose from their moorings.

Mountainous waves, a backlash of the northbound hurricane, swamped their small craft which began to sink. They bailed furiously, but futilely in the darkness.

As a last resort a flashlight was used to message an appeal for aid. It was a desperate effort. Few persons would be "up and about" at that time of morning they thought.

The blinking light was spotted by Charles O. Nichols of 14 Jefferson road, Winchester, from his cottage nearby.

"I took one look", he said later, "and saw there would be no time to call the Coast Guard. Help would reach the men too late."

Donning a coat, he raced through the high winds to the waterfront and roused the three-man crew of the tugboat Snapper, employed on a harbor-dredging project.

Quickly, the crew warmed the tug's engine and headed her into the mountainous waves. Once close to the small boat, the heavy seas made the rescue difficult.

"Six times," Nichols related, "the tug passed close to the sinking craft before they were able to pull the men aboard."

"Just lucky I saw that blinking light," he said afterwards.

ROBERT J. FAGAN

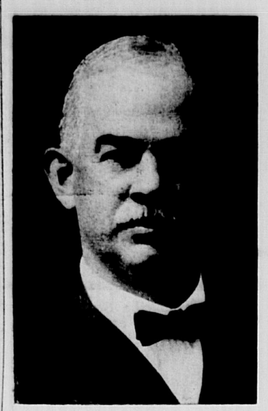

Mr. Robert J. Fagan of 160 Forest street passed away at the Soldiers' Hospital in Chelsea on Tuesday, September 9.

Mr. Fagan was born in Bermuda on January 19, 1892. He was a veteran of World War I. He was a member of Mystic Valley Lodge, Winchester Royal Arch Chapter, Reading Commandery, and Aleppo Temple. Mr. Fagan was a member of the First Baptist Church.

His only survivor is his wife, Mrs. Gertrude M. Fagan.

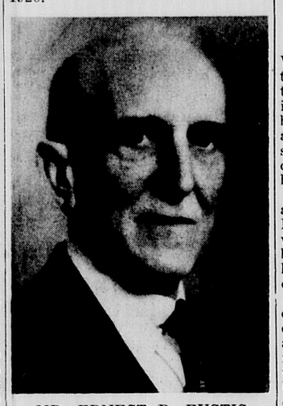

Funeral services were held from the Bennett Chapel on Thursday, September 11, at 2 p. m., with the Rev. Walter Lee Bailey officiating. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

CO-OPERATIVE BANK OFFICERS HONORED

MR. VINCENT FARNSWORTH

The Board of Directors of the Winchester Co-operative Bank met for dinner at the Winchester Country Club on Thursday, September 4th to honor Mr. Vincent Farnsworth, retiring President, and Mr. Ernest R. Eustis who retired as Treasurer earlier this year. These well known citizens have served the Winchester Cooperative Bank a total of more than 70 years, Mr. Farnsworth having been elected a director in 1913 and Mr. Eustis in 1920.

MR. ERNEST R. EUSTIS

Mr. Raymond Merrill, President, served as Toastmaster and presented each with framed resolutions of appreciation for their long and distinguished service to the bank. The President said that Mr. Farnsworth, as a Director and as Vice-President 1937 to 1942, and as President from 1942 to 1952, had contributed much to the sound growth of the Bank. In presenting Mr. Eustis his copy of the resolutions, Mr. Merrill pointed out the esteem and high regard in which Mr. Eustis is held by all those who know him and who have had the pleasure of working with him.

Following the presentation, the members of the Board conducted their regular monthly business meeting.

Directors present were Messrs. Raymond Merrill, President, Ernest R. Eustis, Vice-President, Edward D. Duncan, Treasurer, Sidney Blanchard, Alfred D. Elliott, Vincent Farnsworth, Alfred Hildreth, Morris Kerr, Hiram Moody, Charles Murphy, Curtis W. Nash, and Frank Randall.

ATTEND REPUBLICAN RALLY AT LOWELL

Mrs. Muriel S. Barnes of 39 Canterbury road, past president of the Winchester Women's Republican Club and a member of the G. O. P. steering committee, led a delegation of voters from this community to the old-time political rally, held for 29 cities and towns of the Fifth Congressional District, at the Lowell Memorial Auditorium this week.

Several thousand persons were present to hear the speakers. One of the main addresses of the evening was given by Congressman Christian A. Herter, Republican candidate for governor. Herter lashed out at the record of the Dever-Kelly machine in Massachusetts and accused the "do nothing" attitude of the administration of contributing to the migration of industry from Massachusetts.

Deputy Chairman John Volpe of the state committee, a resident of Winchester, also assisted in the initial plans for the Lowell rally, one of the biggest held by the Republicans in the campaign to date.

CO-CHAIRMEN AIDED THE "JIMMY FUND" CANCER DRIVE IN WINCHESTER

THE NEW WASHINGTON SCHOOL

MANY ATTEND INSPECTION OF FINE BUILDING

As chairman of the George Washington School Building Addition Committee I want to thank the many people who found time to inspect this important new school building. It was extremely disappointing to note that only five of sixty personally invited town officials could find time to inspect the building.

Collectively our schools buildings are far from a credit to the town. Most of them still remain as they were originally built and only feeble attempts have been made to keep them together much less modernize them.

Admittedly the expenditure of over a quarter of a million dollars of town money is very important and I'm sure our town officials had important reasons not to be able to attend the public inspection. To be sure the time it was held came during the post holiday season, however everything was secondary to the importance of having the school ready for opening day September 4th. Aside from a little equipment delayed by the steel strike everything was ready for the children.

It is sincerely hoped that all persons interested in Winchester schools will plan to visit this school.

This building represents a very serious attempt to raise the standard of school buildings in the town and to create a homelike atmosphere rather than that of an institution.

STRAND THEATRE MANAGER AWARD WINNER

Manager of the Strand Theatre, Woburn, received Cash Prize in the recent Sweepstake Drive held by Warner Theatres during May, June and July. Harry M. Kalmine, President of the theatre company, presented the award to Mr. George Carter of Elm street while Zone Manager Harry Feinstein looked on. Mr. Carter received this award during the recent New England convention of theatre managers held in New Haven.

Mr. Carter is a resident of Winchester and is married, having five boys and a girl attending Winchester schools. In 1937 Mr. E. M. Loew called him to Winchester from Rochester, N. Y., to open and manage the new Winchester Theatre, where he remained until 1943, when he resigned to manage the Warner Bros. Strand Theatre in Woburn.

Mr. Carter was very active in Winchester civic life. During his stay at the Winchester Theatre he became president of the Winchester Rotary Club, and director of Winchester American Red Cross. We feel confident his many friends in town will be pleased to learn of his winning this award.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Greetings, Everyone! Has this peppy fall weather put you back on your feet, raring to go?. It has all of us! How about treating yourself to a season of fun and adventure lending a helping hand as a Girl Scout Leader? You know the old adage. "You get out of life just what you put into it," so let's sign up for Scout leadership activities. As usual, there are many more Scouts and Brownies than leaders ready for them. In order that our daughters may have the fun, training and inspiration of Girl Scouting, we will each want to take our turn working with a troop. The College of Girl Scouting will be held at the Boston Latin School under the dates of October 14, 16, 21 and 23rd. This is for leadership training, and you will want to take advantage of this excellent training course. As soon as possible, call Mrs. Ralph Swan at WInchester 6-0257. Remember, the Girl Scouts need you!

Our first big meeting is at the Cabin on Wednesday, September 17th, at 10 a. m. It's a Council Meeting for the Chairmen of all Committees.

The New England Regional Conference will be held in Swampscott, at the New Ocean House, October 8, 9, and 10. This conference is for all registered adult Girl Scouts, and just think of the interest and inspiration to be found in such a gathering of really grand people. Better plan on that date right now, and make your reservations early. There will be transportation provided from Winchester, so we shall look forward to seeing many of you there!

BEYOND THE CALL OF DUTY

There is one Volunteer of the Winchester Red Cross who gives of her time every Friday afternoon and takes over the business of the Red Cross office.

Mrs. Henry K. Fitts, Sr., is a very valuable Staff Aide who comes throughout the year. She is responsible for the files of the Winchester blood donors, she serves all day when the Bloodmobile visits Winchester and during the Fund Campaign she comes day after day for several weeks when that rush of work needs hundreds of volunteers. She knows the routine of the office and can capably deal with situations that may arise. By her gracious manner she makes everyone who comes to the office feel completely at ease and is helpful in every way.

Friday afternoon and Mrs. Fitts means that that time is released for the Director who then call do some of the outside work which is always necessary. Tribute is paid to Mrs. Fitts, who through her loyalty to Red Cross and through the giving of her time and her service, is of great help and comfort each week to the Winchester Chapter.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT COUPLES CLUB

A varied and interesting program has been planned for this coming year by the committee of the Wednesday Night Couples' Club of the First Congregational Church.

The first meeting will be held at the Parish Hall Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, September 17. A picnic box supper will be followed by square dancing. Dudley Briggs will be the caller.

Misses Miriam O'Leary, Mary Humphrey and Dorothy Wyman returned home the first of the week from Hampton Beach, N. H., where they were vacationing.

REDECORATING YOUR HOME?

A new picture or mirror will add charm to your new furnishings. Perhaps the cleaning or the restoring of your paintings or the reframing of your favorite pictures will also give them new interest.

JIMMY FUND

"Jimmy Fund" chairmen Michael Stranger, Manager of the Winchester Theatre, and Charles Harrold, Winchester's Chief of Police participating actively again this year in the Winchester "Jimmy Fund" campaign benefitting the Children's Cancer Research Foundation in cooperation with the Variety Club of New England, the Boston Braves, and the motion picture industry, report that the combined efforts of all the local workers and the generous whole hearted support of all of the people of Winchester is resulting in favorable returns for the fund.

Preliminaries to this year's campaign got under way with a spectacular ball game by the Little League All Stars who won their challenge game from the Rotary Club members on Manchester Field, in an entertaining exhibition that will be talked about for a long time. Fund chairmen Mike Stranger and Charlie Harrold embrace this opportunity through the pages of the "Star" to declare "Hats Off" and sincere "Thanks" to Little League president Ted Bartlett and every participating Rotarian and Little Leaguer and all the people who so generously contributed at this colorful "Jimmy Fund" game.

Incorporated into the local campaign and highly successful was the "Jimmy Fund" Tag Day spearheaded by co-chairman Mrs. William Cusack. Highlighting the entire tag day were the colorful Championship Immaculate Conception Bugle and Drum Corps and Girls' Drill Team, graciously donating their time and efforts to the local campaign for funds, through the courtesy of co-chairmen Rev. Herbert K. A. Driscoll of the Immaculte Conception Catholic Church and Joseph Callahan.

Mrs. Cusack's workers were: Car drivers transporting solicitors for tag day from Winchester Theatre "Jimmy" Headquarters: Mrs. Wilbert Underwood, Mrs. Philip Woodward, Mrs. Martin Swanson, Mrs. Rodney Long, Mrs. S. Pond.

Tag Day Solicitors: Thomas McElhenney, Jack Doherty, Joan Connors, Lorraine Dizio, David Wilson, Gene Sweeney, Dawn Horne, Shirley Frotto, Roy Port, David Boyle, Judy Swymer, Paul MacDonald, Marjorie Doherty, Sandra Sleany, Keith Dannigan, Phyllis Connolly, Sally Chisholm, Jane Chisholm, Sandra Phinney, Judy Horne, Joseph Connolly, Jean Powers, John Carpenter, Richard McEachern, Mary MacDonald, Patty O'Malley, Robert Linehen, Ruth Wilson, Dennis Ducette, Jack Mooney, Robert Bruno and Lois McEachern.

Co-chairman Mrs. Mary Donlon of the Catholic Daughters of America in Winchester lent invaluable assistance organizing a group of workers to handle theatre contributions in conjunction with the "Jimmy" Fund movie screen short subject "The Wonderful Ones" starring Loretta Young.

Workers: Nancy Chamberlain, Lorraine Pearson, Joanne Donlon, Sally Fitzgerald, Alice Walsh, Donna Elliott, Connie Harris, Beth Donlon, Libby Costello, Alice Stevens, Sandra Saltmarsh, Carol Wallace, Marjorie Wallace, Judy Walker, Dodie Clark, Terel Newell, Linda Nanry, Joan McKinley, Roberta Coon, Judy Walden, Betsy McKenzie, Carol Parker, Mary Lou Nowell, Barbara Hammett, Louise Gray, Laura Snow, Kinky Nichols, Joan McNiell, Judy Nanry, Roger Symmes, Jody Gray, Connie Harris, Sally Elliott, Mary Purchello, Kit Carleton, Dick Fernandez, Ted Harrigan, Ted Elliott, Phil Ives, Nick Fitzgerald.

Results are not complete from other groups of contributors participating and these will be reported later.

Local Jimmy Fund Chairmen Mike Stranger and Charlie Harrold want to again thank sincerely Mr. T. Price Wilson and James Penaligan, of the Star, for space allocated thus far toward the "Jimmy" campaign, and to the Woburn Daily Times and Ed "Mack" McKenzie for their generous participation and support . . . And to all of you who are making it possible to put this worthwhile fund raising drive over the top . . . Thanks and God Bless You!

ART HILLS NOSED OUT

In one of the most exciting final matches witnessed in recent years in the Essex County Tennis Championships at the North Andover Country Club, North Andover, Mass., Nick Sharry of Worcester and Bob Stewart of Cambridge, Mass., nosed out Bob Joslin of Watertown and Art Hills of Winchester, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5. Hills and Joslin entered the finals by upsetting the first seeded team of Harrison Rowbotham of Waban and Sumner Rodman of Brookline, in a very hotly contested semi-final match, featured by very authoritative net play by Hills, who cracked away point after point from the forecourt position.

Henri Salaun of Hartford, Conn., gained permanent possession of the Essex County three-year bowl by winning the singles over Nick Sharry of Worcester in the singles finals, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0. Salaun and partner had previously been ousted from the doubles by Joslin and Hills in the quarter-finals.

The Finishing Touch

The last step in the compounding procedure is as important as the first. And with this in mind, we carefully and neatly typewrite the doctor's directions on the label . . . and then, cover the label with transparent cellulose tape to protect the directions against smudging and obliteration. The "fininshing touch" is indicative of the painstaking care we give to every step in the compounding of medicine, and it is another good reason for having your prescriptions filled here.

RENT CONTROL

Congress passed a measure saying that all rent controls will end September 30, 1952. Under this law, however, individual cities and towns can extend control until April 30, 1953, if they think it necessary. The federal law specifies that this can be done either through the local governing body — the city council or town board of selectmen — or by a popular referendum on primary day, September 16.

According to the Attorney General's office, this "either . . . or" clause means that if the local governing body decides to extend rent control, there is no need for a referendum. If, however, the local body takes no action, then a referendum is in order.

The State Legislature then approved the federal law and added to it certain sections saying: The purpose of the measure is to "permit a popular referendum in cities and towns" to allow the voters to decide the question of extending rent control; and the General Court enacts this act for the purpose of providing an opportunity for such voters to make a declaration . . .

These additions have led many cities and towns, Melrose among them, to feel that no matter what the local governing boards do, the people must also be given a referendum ballot on September 16.

Melrose, being a white collar city, whose citizens are caught with more or less fixed salaries without esculator clauses, will probably go strong for extension of rent control. However, control isn't at all fair to landlords who are faced with spiraling taxes and other costs, and in the long run the extension of controls will work hardship on renters, as under the present system there is no incentive for anyone to own or build rental properties. Melrose could well use more.—(Melrose Free Press)

COMMANDER COLLINS INSTALLED

Arthur W. Collins, 40 Sheridan circle, Commander of Winchester Post No. 97, the American Legion was installed on last Sunday as Commander of Sub-District No. 3 of Middlesex County Council. This Sub-District includes the Posts of the Legion in Arlington, Winchester, and Woburn as well as the four Posts in Somerville.

The Merenda Floor Company of 65 Nelson street have opened up an office in Woburn. Mr. Charles Doucette, Jr., of Hemingway street is in charge of the new office.

The following comparisons between the old school and the new may be of interest.

The main door instead of opening almost directly to the sidewalk now opens onto a covered platform which can shelter about 50 pupils in bad weather.

Instead of inadequate washing facilities in toilets each room in the new wing is equipped with sinks, hot and cold running water and drinking fountains.

To replace a fifty year old rattan couch covered with a filthy red rubber sheet the school now has a beautiful clinic with the best equipment, all as specified by the school physician Dr. Barone. This is the only complete school clinic in town. The Mothers' Association will care for the linen and a friend of the school will have flowers renewed weekly.

Instead of a small electric plate and a sink located on the second floor the new school now has a complete modern electric kitchen for use by the teachers and Mothers' Association. Parent participation is most important and any money spent to encourage it is well spent.

Kindergarten chairs are of maple, some natural finish, others enamelled in bright colors. Tables in this room are maple with gray linen design plastic tops. All other equipment in the new wing is of steel. Pupils and teachers desks and chairs are steel, also files, office equipment and auditorium chairs. All are enamelled a soft brown for ease of maintenance with four hour enamel. Pupils desks have plastic tops which are practically indestructible.

Lighting is as near perfect as possible and has been accomplished by use of General Electric incandescent fixtures and not Fluorescent. Each new room has been provided with 4000 watts of light as compared with 400 watts in the old building.

The new building is of firesafe construction. Roofs are of concrete and gypsum plank on steel frame. Walls concrete block terra cotta and brick construction. Ceiling tiles are of spun glass compared to the highly inflammable sugar can composition ceiling tiles in the old building.

The waxed asphalt tiled floors sharply contrast the warped, nail studded, dirt filled crack wooden floors.

Much of the furniture in the old school was second hand when the school was built 26 years ago. The varnish has completely disappeared from most of it.

Well appointed public toilets for ladies and gentlemen have been provided. This is the only grade school in the town to have this important facility.

Citizens of Winchester take unusual pride in their homes and churches and constantly renovate and redecorate them inside and out to keep them comportable, efficient and modern. It is inconceivable that our schools can be allowed to remain so unkempt and out of date. What must our children think after leaving beautiful clean modern homes and entering such poor school buildings?

Many of our schools must be modernized and more must soon be built; it therefore is very important that our citizens see this school. Constructive criticism is earnestly solicited.

This criticism can be filed with the final report on this school to the advantage of the next building committee and the town.

Please study the building. Have too many features been incorporated? What would you eliminate? Add what? Does the homelike atmosphere appeal? Do you prefer the institutional type?

Do you prefer a steel locker in the corridor for children's wet snow suits and garments? or do you like the open wardrobe provided? Can you suggest a better idea?

Twenty-seven colors have been used in the building. Do you like the color scheme? Have too many colors been used? Where could improvement be made? Do you like painted cinder block? Corridor tile? Would you prefer plastered walls?

Where has money been spent extravagantly or wasted? Where would you spend more? Where less?

Please arrange to visit the school. If you like it tell your friends and neghbors. If you have constructive or other criticism please advise me, members of the committee or the school department.

In this way we can obtain a great deal more for the money spent as it will enable others to do better.

Sincerely,
John C. Wakefield

One way to get elected to office appears to be to plaster the countryside with your name. On Saturday the police removed 21 signs from trees and poles on Main street. Tuesday they did a better job when they tore down 22 signs on Cambridge street. These candidates will undoubtedly receive a huge vote.

TOWN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The Town's annual Fall Tournament began last weekend with a draw of well over eighty participants. Ideal weather greeted the men's singles event on Saturday morning, and, with very few exceptions, two rounds were over by noon. Winners of the second round were as follows: J. Coon, F. Norris, H. Ross, R. Ellis, H. Fitts, B. Nutter, A. Buros, R. Horne, E. Williams, A. Alla, N. Harris, M. Mitchell, A. Hills, B. Bird, C. Wynn, and J. Riley. The next two rounds produced no upsets as the four seeded players reached the semi-finals. They were Jim Coon, Ed Williams, Henry Fitts, and Art Hills.

The sun continued to smile as the ladies walked on the courts in the afternoon for their singles event. Before long, Helen Carroll had beaten C. Moses and R. Murray to reach the semi-finals. With her were the other three seeded players to prove that there weren't going to be any upsets here either. Sue Morton beat K. Kneeland and M. Chase; Dot Hills overpowered N. Bellows, C. Stone, and P. Morton; while Theo Whatmough quieted N. Nutter, J. Collins, and S. Clark.

Now the sun was down at eye level, the lines were nearly worn off, and thus the stage was set for some opening round doubles of both the mixed and unmixed variety. The men's doubles saw Hills and Ross, Harris and Kittredge, Fitts and Williams, and Coon and Wynn still around when the wind stopped blowing late Sunday afternoon. Word should be spoken for those in the "We was robbed" matches who came so close. They include Freeman and Ayer, Bellows and Langell, Alla and Packer, and Bradlee and Harlow.

The ladies' doubles brought forth the only unseeded winners of the weekend. In a three-hour battle, D. Symmes and N. O'Rourke just beat P. Morton and B. Freeman. Other female duets who succeeded were C. Stone and C. Moses, Dot Hills and Sue Morton, Ruth Murray and Lee Abbott, and Helen Carroll and Theo Whatmough.

Sunday was for the most part co-ed day. Jim Riley and Sue Morton outlasted Whit Gray and Prue Morton to reach the semis, while Art and Dot Hills ended Corey Wynn and Betsy Freeman's chances with a score of 9 - 7, 6 - 3. Another Mr. and Mrs. team proved powerful as the Coons beat Alla and Reed. When Fitts and Carroll, the present mixed doubles champs, beat Bob Horne and Theo Whatmough, the four parties had again not failed the seeding committee.

As the second weekend of the tournament approaches, we find several old rivals meeting for what should be close and exciting matches in the semi-finals. The Men's Singles matches are a duplicate of last year, and it is safe to say that Art Hills and Henry Fitts will pull all the shots they know to reverse last year's beatings by Ed Williams and titleholder Jim Coon. Also, new combinations have appeared in the Men's Doubles, making three good teams to challenge defenders Hills and Ross.

The ladies are aiming for a showdown too, as Sue Morton meets Coach Helen Carroll (defending champ) and Dot Hills meets Theo Whatmough. In doubles the ladies are running pretty true to form, although not all quarter finals have been played at this writing. Mixed Doubles shows a real challenge being made by Jim and Weegee Coon.

It looks like a big weekend coming up. The times given in the schedule will be followed as closely as possible but will have to remain somewhat flexible.

Sunday School is held at the same hour as the church service.
Wednesday testimonial meeting 8 p. m.

That true substance is spiritual, divine, and is found in spiritual understanding, will be stressed at Christian Science services on Sunday. Subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Substance."

The Golden Text is from Hebrews (11:1): "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

Bible quotations include this question: "What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him?" (James 2:14).

One of the selections to be heard from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is this: "Until belief becomes faith, and faith becomes spiritual understanding, human thought has little relation to the actual or divine." (297:28).

Give to THE SALVATION ARMY Local Appeal

Although all signs are pointing to probably the largest corps of women workers volunteering to participate in the history of the Salvation Army's Friendly Annual Appeal in Winchester, Mrs. Shepard Pond, the Residential Chairman, who lives at 2 Salisbury road, today urged that other civic-minded ladies join their many friends who have already agreed to help conduct the approaching residential "good neighbor" canvass of every home.

"We are aiming to live up to our slogan of 'more people giving' rather than asking people to give more," Mrs. Pond stated, "and the only way we can hope to do that is by reaching every home."

The rousing kickoff for the Greater Boston Friendly Appeal with more than 450 top leaders invited, including those from Winchester, will take place next Wednesday (September 17) in the John Hancock Building, Boston. Always an enthusiastic session which at times rivals a football game for cheering and excitement, the kick-off will be the starting gong for local campaigns to begin soon thereafter.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SCHOOL DANCE

Hi Folks! Don't forget your cordial invitation to the Housewarming Dance at George Washington School Saturday, September 13, at 8:30 p. m. All are invited, as there is plenty of room for dancing in our nice, big and new auditorium. The music will be super under the leadership of Ned Marshall, and will consist of a five-piece orchestra including Adolph Forsberg.

The dance is jointly sponsored by the George Washington Mothers' Association and the Dads' Club. You will not only enjoy the dance by attending, but you will also be supporting the Scholarship Foundation, as part of the proceeds will go for that purpose.

Even if you do not indulge in dancing, you will enjoy the music and in addition free refreshments. The Social Committee, under the able chairmanship of Polly Keppler and including fifteen mothers, are providing delicious cheeses, dips, chips, crackers, and cookies. This is the only time free refreshments will be provided; so believe me, you will get your money's worth. The committee will be there to greet you.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SCHOOL MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The Mothers' Association of the George Washington School will open its season with a tea on Tuesday, September 16, at 3 p. m. This annual event gives the mothers and teachers a pleasant opportunity to meet, especially the mothers of kindergarten children.

The tea arrangements are under the direction of Mrs. Richard Keppler, chairman of the Social committee.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL NEWS

The hospital reports the appointment of a new assistant dietician. Mrs. Lucy Upson graduated from Framingham State Teachers' College and served a dietetic internship at the Albany Hospital in Albany, New York. She has had varied experience including instructing in student nurse programs.

On August 4th she was appointed by Winchester Hospital as Therapeutic (special diet) dietician and assistant to Miss Poore who is the chief administrative dietician at the hospital.

In an interview with one of the board Mrs. Upson showed great interest in her work at the hospital and was enthusiastically pleased with the beautiful new kitchen and its equipment. She remarked also on the high character of all the people that she is working with at the hospital.

Though the confusion of remodeling still exists, the hospital continues to function completely.

TV PROGRAM OF INTEREST

When Jon Gnagy, wearing his famous plaid shirt and celebrated beard, opens his weekly show over Television Station WBZ-Channel 4, commencing Sunday, September 14, at 11:45 a. m., sponsored by Spaulding-Moss Company, he will prove to you and your youngsters that everyone can draw, as he has proved it to many thousands throughout the country who have followed his simple directions.

Gnagy, who started in television six years ago on WNBT to teach people how to improves their doodling, now has one of the highest rated TV shows in the country — proof of the successful teaching technique of the fellow from Pretty Prairie, Kansas.

Winchester residents are interested especially in this fine program through the fact that Mr. Samuel F. Orth of 30 Calumet road, general sales manager of the Spaulding-Moss Company, has taken on the show as a feature which will prove of interest.

Jon's theory of instruction is based on three simple forms — the cube, the ball and the cone. Standing at his drawing board, he guides the viewer's pencil with step-by-step directions, helping him make a beautiful picture ready to be framed. His running commentary, spiced with colorful stories, proves exciting entertainment as well as highly instructive.

Stevenson Davies, son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Davies, III, of 11 Sanborn street, will enter the Junior department of the Longy School of Music this fall. He is studying musical theory with Helen Sanderson of the Longy faculty.

A LETTER TO THE VOTERS OF WINCHESTER

If you had spent $2,000.00 a day, every day, for the last 350 years up to the 16th of September of this year, it still would not equal the amount poured into rent control alone by our government since 1942. That is what rent control has cost YOU, AS A TAXPAYER.

Last July our Government in Washington passed a Federal Rent Law. It states that, except in critical housing areas (and Winchester is not in a critical housing area) all rent control shall end as of September 30, 1952, unless on or before that date the LOCAL GOVERNING BODY "DECLARES (by resolution of its governing body, ADOPTED FOR THAT PURPOSE, or by popular referendum in accordance with LOCAL law) that a SUBSTANTIAL SHORTAGE OF HOUSING ACCOMMODATIONS EXISTS WHICH REQUIRES the continuance of Federal Rent Control in such city, town or village." This was the amendment by Congressman Don Wheeler (Democrat of Georgia) which the house approved 225 to 170. House-Senate conferees kept it in the final draft of the law.

During the LAST EVENING our State Legislature was in session, a bill was introduced calling for a referendum September 16th in cities and towns to determine whether or not federal rent controls should be continued beyond the expiration date of September 30th until April 30th of next year, when all rent controls expire.

The language of the State bill includes the phraseology in its heading "as to whether a shortage of RENTAL housing accommodations exists which requires the continuance of Federal Rent Control —." The body of the bill conforms, however, to the language of the new Federal Rent Law. This bill was passed during the rush of the last day of the session; the day that saw the passage of the "Curley Pension Bill" and similar legislation.

No public hearing has been held in Winchester to determine whether or not "a substantial shortage of housing accommodations exists," a condition of the new Federal Rent Law.

Next week, Tuesday, September 16th, you, as voters of the Town of Winchester, will be given the opportunity to express yourselves on this issue. Your vote should be "NO", for the following reasons:

1. If you are a HOME OWNER you should vote "NO" because you are paying heavy property taxes through increased tax rates. Any unwarranted burden on real estate affects all property owners. The greatest part of the cost of Town Government is supported by real estate taxes.

2. If you are a TAXPAYER you should vote "NO" because a "NO" vote is a vote for lower taxes. The cost of maintaining the rent control bureaucracy has already run to approximately a quarter of a BILLION DOLLARS.

3. If you are a TENANT you should vote "NO" because:

   (a) Rent control is no longer needed. The U. S. Census shows we had more housing per person in 1950 than in 1940. In the ten year period, 1940 to 1950, the number of dwellings per person increased 23.6% while the population increased only 14.5%. The number of vacant dwellings increased from 2.5 million to 3.4 million. This does not include the increase of the housing boom of the last two years.

   (b) Rent control dries up the supply. Under rent control many owners found it more profitable and desirable to sell their rental properties. Hundreds of thousands of rental homes were sold and taken off the rental market. People were forced to buy. The 1950 Census shows 2,000,000 rental units removed from tenant use since 1940.

   (c) Rent control encourages "hoarding" of housing. In 1950 there was a total of 3.9 million dwellings occupied by only one person. This is an increase of 45% since 1940. Only under rent control have these individuals been able to spread out and cause this maldistribution of housing.

   (d) Fears of exorbitant increases are unfounded. Rent control officials point to increases of 50-100%, which are isolated cases and used for the purpose of frightening people. Documented evidence from scores of cities of varying population show that the rent increases have not been exorbitant, and that, as a result of decontrol, the supply of rental accommodations has noticeably increased. The old law of supply and demand can work to the advantage of everybody if it is given a chance.

4. If you are a good AMERICAN you should vote "NO" because:

   (a) If the principle of enforced subsidy of one group of private citizens by another such group is allowed to stand, all private business and our way of life can thus be destroyed.

   (b) It violates property rights and can only endure under a strong central-powered police state. Experience with rent control in England and France has been so disastrous we should not tolerate its continuance here.

   (c) Rent control is a political football. Politicians favor rent control, because they feel it buys them votes. The rights of property owners should not be sacrificed for political expediency. Thousands of bureaucrats are campaigning for the continuance of rent control because it means jobs and political patronage for them.

   (d) Rent control is unfair. Wartime Federal rent freeze and occupancy controls are still imposed on property owners more than six and one-half years after the end of the war.

Fellow voters of Winchester, our Town is a town of homes, a town in this free land of America of which we are all proud. We have no place here for class antagonism. Let us be Americans first and place selfish interests behind us. Vote "NO" on rent control next Tuesday, September 16th, if your conscience so dictates — but be sure to vote anyway — for that is part of the American way of life and it is your duty to preserve it — for yourselves and for your children.

And, lest some misguided persons accuse us of having selfish motives, we, the undersigned, hereby agree that:

SHOULD THE VOTERS OF THE TOWN OF WINCHESTER DECIDE NEXT TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 16th, BY A "NO" VOTE ON RENT CONTROL, THAT RENT CONTROLS IN THIS TOWN SHALL BE DISCONTINUED AS OF SEPTEMBER 30th OF THIS YEAR, WE WILL, AS OUR PLEDGE TO KEEP FAITH WITH THE VOTERS AND WITH OUR TENANTS, PROMISE THAT WE WILL NOT CHANGE ANY OF OUR PRESENT RENTALS TO OUR PRESENT TENANTS BEFORE APRIL 30th, 1953, THE DATE UPON WHICH, BY FEDERAL RENT LAW, ALL CONTROLS END.

(Signed) Robert B. Blackler—Winchester Chambers
Ernest H. Hurd—Stetson Hall

SOFTBALL

ALL STARS 10 — ARMY 5

The All Stars again turned the Army boys back on Tuesday night, September 9. The All Stars, headed by Bobby Merenda and Sonny Swymer, defeated the Army 10-5.

The soldier boys got off to a fast start with two runs in the first. The All Stars came right back with three runs in the bottom of the first. They added two more in the third, one in the fourth, one in the fifth and three more in the sixth.

Swymer and Merenda again delivered in the clutch, and were a fine inspiration to their team. Swymer was marvelous in the field as he shifted his players into the right spots, and his fielding around first base was second to none.

Freddie Swymer, Sonny's brother, got into the act with two hits and three dazzling catches in left field that took extra bases away from the Army.

The player of the night was "Skitchie" Fiore. "Skitchie" came through with three "hot" singles to left and he proved quite a glovеman also, as he leaped high in the air three times to take hits away from the opposition.

The Army might have won, except for three errors by the usually dependable Calabirs. Truzzlino played his usual fine brand of softball. The Army boys really proved they are capable of some lusty hitting. In the seventh they had four straight hits good for two runs and runners on first and third with only one out. Truzzlino stepped in and tagged a line drive headed for left field; out of nowhere "Skitchie" leaped high in the air and made a stab at the ball and speared it, stepped on third for an unassisted double play to end the ball game.

SA Rita Coughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Coughlin of 10 Forest street, has returned to duty at San Diego, California after a fourteen day furlough. Miss Coughlin received her training at Bainbridge, Maryland.

TROPHY TO NANCY DONAGHEY

Several members of the Winchester Swimming Club traveled to Brockton the end of August to participate in the Swimming Races held at the Campella Pool and sponsored by the City of Brockton annually.

The Winchester swimmers signed up for the open events and Nancy Donaghey brought back a beautiful trophy for winning first place in the Open 100 yard Breast Stroke for Women by a very good margin. All of the trophies were donated by the merchants of Brockton. The only other winner for Winchester was Noreen Johnson, who won the Red Cross Trophy this summer. She placed 2nd in the Open 100 Freestyle for Women and 3rd in the Back Stroke, receiving a silver and a bronze medal to add to her collection.

MYSTIC MOTHERS' BOARD MEETING

On Friday morning, September 5th Mrs. H. Gardner Bradlee was hostess to the members of the board and the room mothers of the Mystic School Mothers' Association at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. R. Bradlee at 6 Ledyard road. Following a pleasant coffee half-hour the meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. H. Gardner Bradlee, and a roll call was taken. Practically all the officers and room mothers were present. The only change from last year's slate was the substitution of the name of Mrs. Horace DeRivera in charge of 6th grade dancing in the place of Mrs. Melvin Sears who is moving from Winchester in the near future.

The secretary's report was read, corrected, and approved. The treasurer being absent there was no treasurer's report.

A resume of activities for the year was given which includes the opening meeting tea on Wednesday, September 10th at which the new teachers will be introduced and Mr. Forte will speak. In October the ways and means committee are planning a canasta bridge party on Wednesday, October 29th with the Mystic School children providing string music for the occasion.

In November the teachers teas will conclude before the 15th and the teachers luncheons will begin and there will be open house at the school during National Education Week. The winter meetings will feature skits, square dancing and a speaker from the scholarship foundation. April 30th a pet show will be the feature attraction, and the year will conclude with the annual meeting and election of officers in mid-May.

The tea chairman, Mrs. Howard Davis announced that the school had long needed a tea table of its own, and it was recommended by the board that the sum of $20 be allotted for the purchase of a tea table.

The President announced that the primary objective of the Mystic Mothers' Association this year would be to get better acquainted and to give all possible cooperation to the teachers.

A number of mothers present expressed concern over the business of the safety of our children going to and from school — particularly those who must cross main thoroughfares such as Main street and Highland avenue at places where no police protection is available.

A number of solutions was advocated such as a mother's safety-patrol, the use of the 6th grade boys, sidewalks, traffic lights and it was finally decided to have a petition signed by the Mystic Mothers to be presented through the school committee to the Board of Selectmen asking for action on this problem.

Two new members were elected to the nominating committee, Mrs. James Baker of Grove street and Mrs. Dean Carleton.

Mr. Forte then talked to the group and told them about the three new teachers at Mystic this year, the new set-up in the music department of the schools this year the music aptitude test. He cleared up some rules on wearing apparel and hours of arrival at school and announced that as of that day, the second day of school, 410 pupils were enrolled with a possibility of more to come — this being by far the largest group to enter the Mystic School. Following his talk the meeting was adjourned.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Squires, Jr., have returned to their home on Yale street after spending the summer at Holderness, N. H.

LEGION INSTALLATION

Winchester Post American Legion will mark the start of a new Legion Year with the installation of officers, Saturday evening, September 13th. Each year this occasion draws many Legion County and State leaders to the local headquarters, and this year will be no exception. State Department Commander J. Herbert White, several of the State Department Vice Commanders, and many other State officers are expected.

Charles Meek will be installed, as Commander of Post 97 for the coming year, by County Commander Robert F. "Sam" Murphy, who is Past Commander of the local Post, attended by the complete County Staff of officers.

Installed with Commander Meek will be his suite of officers, Joseph McKee, Senior Vice Commander; Alexander MacKenzie, Junior Vice Commander; Parker Blanchard, Finance Officer; Kingman Cass, Adjutant; Reverend Charles Anadore, Chaplain; Charles Watson, Historian; Daniel Matthews, Sergeant-at-Arms; and members of the Executive Committee, Edward Bartlett, Paul Capone, Arthur Collins, Bernard Cullen, Robert Donaghey, Joseph Flaherty, Herbert Froberg, Lester Gustin, Jr., Robert F. Murphy, and Graydon Tozier.

The present and outgoing Commander, Arthur W. Collins will open the meeting and promptly turn the gavel over to Mrs. Robert Burr, present Auxiliary President who will introduce the installing suite of the new Auxiliary Officers. The Legion Installation will immediately follow. Although dignified and impressive, the ceremonies will be conducted with military precision and dispatch, insuring a long, festive evening to be enjoyed by the new officers, their guests, and the many visitors from the State, County, and surrounding Posts.

Charlie Meek and his staff are all well known and popular Legionnaires and members of this community, and since they all are exceptionally well informed on Legion matters, an enthusiastic and fruitful program for Winchester Post 97 for the next year is guaranteed.

AN APPRECIATION

Many men and women of Winchester have given of their time and effort to solicit funds for the State and National Republican Finance Committee. They have done this work because of their personal interest in the American Way of Life, to restore integrity in Government and for the success of the Republican Party. These efforts are appreciated and your Chairmen wish to thank you one and all for your efforts to date.

The Republican candidates for President and Vice-President are now named. Many potential contributors, Republican, Independent and Democrat, wished to await this outcome before making their respective contributions. The time has now come to redouble our efforts to gather in these contributions not yet collected.

Therefore, will each solicitor recheck his names and call on those contributors who have not made their contributions?

SALTONSTALL HERE SEPTEMBER 23

Senator Leverett Saltonstall, campaigning in the interest of Christian A. This is the first of a series of campaign endeavors that the Senator intends to make in behalf of the Republican candidate for Governor, Congressman Herter.

MRS. MERLE BROOKS HOOD

Mrs. Merle Brooks Hood, wife of Harry P. Hood of 2 Glen road, died Tuesday morning, September 16, at her home after a short illness. She had been bothered with a heart ailment for some time.

Mrs. Hood was born in Columbus, Ohio, February 9, 1890, and grew up in that city. She was married December 9, 1914, in Santa Ana, Cal., and spent most of her married life in Swampscott and Marblehead. She was widely known on the North Shore, having been for two terms president of the Lynn Junior League. She had been a resident of Winchester for the past two years.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Hood leaves a son, Harry P. Hood, Jr., of Winchester, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at Ripley Chapel of the First Congregational Church with the pastor, Rev. Howard J. Chidley, officiating. Cremation followed the services.

BURNS PROMOTED

Walter J. Burns, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Burns of Canal street, has been promoted from captain to the rank of major in the United States Army.

Major Burns is now a security officer stationed in Tokyo, Japan, with the Military Police. A veteran of World War II, he saw active service overseas and was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for heroism during an Allied landing in North Africa.

He was wounded during the landing and had a long period of recuperation, after which he was separated from the service with the rank of major. He was recalled to duty about three years ago and reentered the service at Camp Gordon, soon being sent to the Orient.

Major Burns has been in Japan during much of his time in the East. His wife, the former Ruth O'Melia, of Winchester, and their son and daughter, are with him in Tokyo.

UNITED CHURCH CANVASS

Six Winchester churches are cooperating this year in an effort to coordinate their fund raising appeals, a program which was carried out with real success last year.

Working under the title, United Church Canvass, members from the participating churches met Monday evening at the office of the First Congregational Church to form their organizational setup.

The Winchester churches taking part are: First Baptist, New Hope Baptist, First Congregational, Second Congregational, Crawford Memorial Methodist and Unitarian.

These churches were able to improve their individual fund raising appeals last year through joint planning, publicity, interchange of ideas and a stirring up of general interest throughout the town in church giving.

Reports from other communities throughout the country indicate that such a cooperative venture works better after the first year. Sometimes, on the initial effort, some confusion arises over whether the money raised is to be pooled.

Actually, each church conducts its own money raising drive, but the activities preceeding it are town-wide and planned so that all mailings, posters and news stories are united.

Chairman of this year's United Church Canvass is Kenneth W. Lamprey of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Henry L. Clark, Jr., of the Second Congregational Church is vice chairman, Mrs. Clarence R. Wickerson of the First Congregational Church is Secretary and Kenneth Hall of the Unitarian Church is treasurer.

Representing the various churches on the general committee are:

First Baptist — Dr. Lester A. Pratt, H. Stanley Kinsley and Lewis M. Foster.

New Hope — Rev. Virgess Hill, Hezekiah Griffith and Timothy Thomas.

First Congregational — James N. Jones, Murray S. Moore and William C. Weldon.

Second Congregational — W. O. Whiting, Henry L. Clark, Jr., Frank W. McLean.

Crawford Memorial Methodist — Ralph H. Pingree, George Needham and John E. McIntyre.

Unitarian — Dr. John D. McLean, Warren P. Eldridge and Herbert Black.

December 7 has been selected as Loyalty Sunday, the day on which all the participating churches will conduct their individual church canvasses.

KIWANIS MILK FUND TO BENEFIT

Monday morning bright and early Mr. William J. Murray of the firm of Murray and Gillett, Winchester realtors, arrived at the Star office with as handsome a vase of dahlias as it has ever been our good fortune to gaze upon. Not only that, but "Bill" left the bouquet with us to enjoy, and every one who entered the office during the day exclaimed over the huge blooms, some measuring ten inches across the petals. Various colors were included, red, dark maroon, yellow, pink, bronze and some beautiful white flowers.

It seems that Mr. Murray and Irville H. Spear of 394 Main street grow the dahlias at Mr. Speers home, and the idea of bringing the bouquet in to the Star office, aside from neighborliness and good will on "Bill's" part, was to build up interest in the sale of dahlia bulbs he and Mr. Spear are running to benefit the milk fund of the Winchester Kiwanis Club of which Mr. Murray is treasurer.

Mr. Murray is having a big display of the dahlias at the Murray and Gillett office on Thompson street tomorrow, and all interested are invited to view the flowers and make any inquiries about them. Orders for bulbs for spring delivery will be taken at the office any time or at the garden at 394 Main street, where visitors are welcome.

The Murray and Spear dahlias are no ordinary varieties. All have been purchased in Holland, the best bulb-growing country in the world, and some of the bulbs have cost as much as ten dollars each. In the Spear garden are about 40 varieties of dahlias, each of which has won a prize in flower shows. Some of them have to be seen to be believed.

MYSTIC GLEE CLUB OPENS 13th SEASON

A dinner at the Masonic Hall on Monday, September 15th ushered in the 1952-1953 season of The Mystic Glee Club. Fifty-five members were present and guests of the club included Dr. Harold Margeson, President of the New England Federation of Men's Glee Clubs, Mary Louise Middleton, accompanist and Allen Lannom, conductor.

Following dinner, President Ralph Curtis spoke a few words of greeting and introduced Mr. Lannam, the new conductor. The first rehearsal of the season was then held under Mr. Lannom's direction.

There will be many rehearsals and much hard work done before the Winter Concert in December, but from the enthusiasm evident at this first meeting, it would appear that this can be a most enjoyable year for the men, and, through them, for the audiences whom they will endeaver to entertain.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Cassily of 25 Charles street, Waltham, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Mr. Joseph James DiZio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore DiZio of 2 Upland road.

MR. BALL ON "PAYOFF" PROGRAM

Mr. Edward Ball of 7 Marshall road appeared as Big Payoff partner on the "Big Payoff" program Sunday night, September 14, on WBZ-TV.

Mr. Ball was chosen to appear as the result of a letter he submitted for his future daughter-in-law, and because thle letter was chosen as the best one received during the week, both he and his future daughter-in-law, Miss Claire Mongeau, 19, of 380 West Elm street, Brockton, appeared on the WBZ-TV program "The Big Payoff". Mr. Ball's wife, Mrs. Mildred K. Ball, made the trip to New York with her husband.

Mr. Ball's son, Edward, 22, is now serving in the U. S. Navy aboard the U. S. ship "Dickson" somewhere in European waters. He expects to arrive home sometime during the latter part of October and intends to be married to Miss Mongeau about November 2. He is a graduate of Winchester High School class of 1947 and joined the navy while he was a senior at Boston University in 1951.

Although son "Eddie" hadn't been notified about the TV date of Claire and his father he learned about it in some manner and sent a Radiogram from Edinburgh, Scotland: "Lots of luck to both you and Claire. Sure know how to pick them on The Big Pay-Off."

Top prize on the "Big Payoff" program was a trip to any place on the globe the winner may choose. If Mr. Ball had won he planned to present the prize to his son and future daughter-in-law as a honeymoon trip. Unfortunately he missed the last of the questions asked him, and although he picked up some valuable prizes for the young people, the honeymoon trip at TV expense eluded him.

The trip to New York for the quiz gave Miss Mongeau a chance to see her 23 year-old sister who is a Rockette in New York City. The two haven't seen each other for some time.

Mr. Ball is employed by the Hooper Holmes Bureau Inc., of 33 Broad street, Boston.

WINCHESTER PRIMARY VOTE LIGHT

HERTER REPUBLICAN, CULLEN DEMOCRATIC VOTE LEADERS, RENT CONTROL FAVORED

Only 3,655 voters of a total registration of 9,412 went to the polls in Tuesday's Primary election, 3,072 being Republicans and 583, Democrats. Five more voters cast ballots in the referendum on rent control than voted for the various State office candidates, a total of 3,660 voting on this controversial matter. Winchester favored the continuation of rent control by the narrow margin of 13 votes, the totals being 1,727 no, to 1,714 yes.

The overall vote for office candidates was substantialy the same as two years ago, the total then being 3,520, divided, Republicans, 3,032, and Democrats, 488. On Tuesday the Republicans cast 40 more votes than in 1950, the Democrats exceeding their previous vote by 95. These figures should prove of interest to both the Republican and Democratic Town Committees, neither of which conducted any sort of noticeable campaign to get out votes.

Chrisitan A. Herter, Republican candidate for Governor, led all candidates in Winchester with a total of 2,897 votes, followed closely by Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Senatorial candidate, who polled 2,885. Of chief interest perhaps was the fight for State treasurer betweer Roy Papalia of Watertown and Fred Burrell of Medford. Winchester Repubicans showed amost a four to one preference for Papalia, who was the successful State-wide candidate.

On the Democratic side former Selectman James A. Cullen, a candidate to succeed himself as Middlesex County Commissioner, edged Cong. John F. Kennedy, Senatorial candidate, 473 to 472 for top vote honors. In the write-in contest for representative in the General Court for the 29th Middlesex District, the Winchester Democrats cast the greatest number of votes for Thomas J. Fallon, who is no longer a resident of the town and is reported to be deceased.

Governor Paul A. Dever, running for re-election, received only 341 votes with more than 40 percent of the Democratic voters casting blanks for this office.

ON ARMY ENTERTAINMENT TOUR

Pfc. Frank R. Strawbridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Strawbridge of 47 Myrtle terrace is one of a group of personnel from the Military District of Washington which has recently returned from an entertainment tour to Fort Churchill, Manitoba, Canada. Fort Churchill is an isolation post used by the United States as a testing ground for arctic equipment and the only source of live entertainment is groups such as this which are sponsored by the MDW Special Services and which make the trip four times each year.

Carrying their own props and specially designed sets the troupe flew a total of 36 hours in two C47's in order to present their shortened version of the 1920 Broadway musical and more recent movie, "Good News". The cast did ten performances in three days, presenting the musical three times and doing at least seven variety shows and spot numbers for the personnel of the US and Canadian Army, Air Force, and Navy, and for the civilian population of the town of Churchill.

Since their return the group has been touring the less far-flung installations of the Military District in addition to their individual regular duties. There have been performances given at Walter Reed Army Hospital, Fort Myer, Fort Belvoir, and Fort McNair; and the pending schedule includes the Lafayette Square USO in Washington, D. C.; Indiantown Gap, Pa.; and Bermuda.

Pfc. Strawbridge has one of the leading roles of the production, that of Bobby Randall, the football hero's roommate who fails to make the team until the big game and then wins with a sensational touchdown. His musical numbers "Baby What" and "In the Meantime" are among the hits of the show which has been very well received by its G. I. audiences.

Selwyn F. Prime of 6 Wilson street retired Monday, September 15, from the Employers Liabinty Assurance Corporation Limited after 40 years in the company's service.

Mr. Prime entered the company's employ in 1912 shortly after his graduation from Winchester High School. He commenced as a workman's compensation investigator, working out of the old Boston office at 33 Broad street, remaining in that capacity until he was transferred to the company's Worcester office as assistant superintendent in 1917. He remained in Worcester until 1922 when he returned to Boston as a supervisor, remaining in Boston until 1927 when he was transferred to Portland, Maine, as superintendent of the Maine Claim Department, serving the entire state.

In December of 1931 he was moved to Albany, N. Y., as superintendent in charge of Eastern New York State, a territory comprising 19 counties and 20,000 square miles.

Mr. Prime went to Newark, N.J., in 1936, as superintendent in charge of the Northern New Jersey Claim Department, from which post he was recalled to Boston in February of 1944 as an examiner in the Claim Department of the home office of the company, now located at 110 Milk street. He remained with the company in this capacity until his retirement. Associates in the company gave a dinner in his honor last week Thursday at Warmuth's in Boston, and on Friday he was presented with retirement gifts by associates and the company.

A native of Charlestown, Mr. Prime is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Winfield F. Prime, for many years residents of Prospect street, his father, a prominent attorney, having been a member of the State Legislature. He came to Winchester at the age of six years, attending the Winchester schools and while at high school, playing on the football, baseball and basketball teams.

Mr. Prime is married to the former Doris E. Folger of Winchester and they have three children, Mrs. Dorothy F. Kievit of Derry, N. H., Mrs. Madeline F. Smith of Montclair, N. J., and Winfield S. Prime of Reading. There are also three grandchildren.

Mr. Prime told the Star he has no plans for the future, beyond a vacation, which is surely merited after 40 years of continuous business service.

TIMOTHY J. CONNORS

Timothy J. Connors of 104 Loring avenue, a native and widely known resident of Winchester, died suddenly Monday morning, September 15, being stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage while on the train from Boston to Lynn where he was employed as a department manager for the Enterprise Department Stores at their Lynn establishment. He was taken from the train to the Lynn Hospital where he was pronounced dead upon arrival.

Mr. Connors, known familiarly as "Ted", was the son of Timothy J., and Margaret (Noonan) Connors. He was born July 28, 1890, in Winchester, and spent practically all of his life in this town, being educated in the Winchester schools.

As a young man Mr. Connors entered the employ of Houghton & Dutton, advancing to the position of buyer at the company's old line department store in Boston. When Houghton's went out of business Mr. Connors became associated with the Enterprise Department Stores, operating stores in many Greater Boston communities, and for the past twenty years he had been with the company in both Lynn and Malden.

Mr. Connors' wife, the former Nellie W. Haggerty of Winchester, died in 1944. He leaves two sons, Paul W., and Timothy J. Connors, 3rd; two daughters, Mrs. Harold W. MacDonald anc Mrs. Thomas M. Higgins, both f Winchester; four grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Charles MacDonnell of South Boston.

The funeral was held Thursday morning from the Lane Funeral Home with solemn requiem high mass celebrated at the Immaculate Conception Church. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

GRAY LADIES NEEDED

More Gray Ladies are urgently needed for work in the Bedford Hospital. More can also be used for shorter periods of time in our Winchester Hospital. No special skills are needed but they will be most welcome and they will be used.

Applicants for service in Bedford Hospital will be interviewed by our local Chapter of the Red Cross and also by the hospital. Training will be given at the hospital on October 21 and 22 from 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. For those who wish to work in the evening a training period will be held on Thursday evening, October 23, from 7 to 10 p. m.

The services needed are varied; such as playing games, writing letters, feeding patients, helping with shock treatments, running movies, chatting with patients, stimulating activities, office work, classes in simple subjects, hostesses and library work. An orientation period is supervised.

For those who can only spare a couple of hours a week, Gray Ladies are needed in our own hospital. A class will be given as soon as enough have signified their interest. At present this service consists chiefly of assistance during visiting hours and doing any errands requested by the hospital. When the enlargement of the hospital is completed, it is expected that these services will be extended to include more direct work with the patients.

If you have time you can spare once a week or oftener and you are willing to give of yourself to help others, will you call your Red Cross at WInchester 6-2300 and arrange for an interview?

TENNIS TOURNAMENT RESULTS

And so the curtain has been drawn on another successful tennis year with a tournament which will be remembered for years to come. The semi-finals in all five events were completed on Saturday. Henry Fitts nosed out Jim Coon in a three set match which was as fast as any we will ever be privileged to watch. In the other men's singles race, Ed. Williams and Art Hills had a battle to end all battles with Ed winning. Playing nearly errorless tennis, this was one of Ed's best days.

On the court next to this match, Art's better half, Dot, outpointed Theo Whatmough. The second women's semi-final singles contest was featured with Helen Carroll and Sue Morton. Miss Carroll, as did Mrs. Hills, won by straight sets. Corey Wynn, a new face in Winchester, paired with Jim Coon and this team met its death at the hands of Henry Fitts and Ed Williams in the first men's doubles semis. The other half of the draw saw Art Hills combining with Herb Ross to eliminate the unpredictables, Mr. Harris and Mr. Kittredge. The last semi-final match on Saturday was the mixed doubles. Mr. Fitts and Miss Carroll passed Mr. and Mrs. Coon while the Hills ruined any hopes for Mr. Riley and Miss Morton.

The big day finally arrived and weather wise saw it not as desirable as the previous days of sun. The planned schedule was changed a bit as the first match was the men's doubles and not singles. This game saw Herb Ross, of old, and Art Hills, of experience, using trick formations and strong ground stroke to beat Henry Fitts and Ed Williams. The next match in line was the women's singles finals with Dot Hills showing the way to Helen Carroll. The quality of these girls tennis served as notice to all others that they intend to be playing in the finals for many years to come. After a litle rest, the women's doubles finals was played. This was as close a contest as the Packer Courts will ever witness. When the smoke cleared, Helen Carroll and Theo Whatmough had just, and that just is a 9-7 set, beat Sue Morton and Dot Hills. The men's singles, for years the acme event, was not as close as many of the shivering spectators had hoped as Henry Fitts, a school teacher who can't leave his work at home, overpowered the sharpshooter Ed Williams in three straight sets.

Last, but as ever, not least came the mixed doubles in which the champions of last year, Henry and Helen, were putting their cup on the line against the hardest team they'd ever met, Art and Dot Hills. The first set went to the Hills after many deuce games. The scond set went to the Fitts and Carroll team as it appeared that the Hills were resting. Then came the third and crucial one. The crowd was so interested in some of the rallies that at times everyone forgot the score. This didn't last long as it became evident that last years winners were looking for that free spaghetti meal, as the school teachers took the victory.

A word should be said congratulating all those who took part in the tournament to make it the success it was. This included the linesmen, park commission, tournament committee and many others. It's people like this that make tennis the game it is and Winchester the town it is.

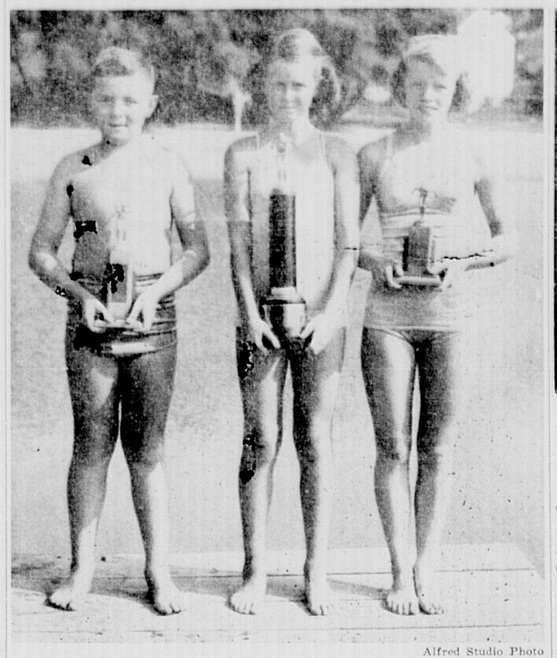

THE SENIOR FORUM

Although the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church does not go into full swing until its opening supper on September 28, considerable activity has been evident among its members in the form of a series of Class Get-Togethers.

On Friday, September 12, the Junior Class were entertained at a cook-out at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Addison Becker, and on Sunday afternoon, September 14, the Freshman class enjoyed a get-together at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Kelley, Jr. On Friday, September 19, Mr. and Mrs. W. Henry Johnston will be hosts to the Senior class at a picnic supper, and on Sunday afternoon, September 21, the Sophomore class will enjoy a meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Gowdy.

These informal meetings give each class a chance to meet their adult Class Advisers, at whose homes they are being entertained, and to make some plans for their part in the Forum activities for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hawkins and son, Douglas, of Highland avenue, are back in town after an enjoyable vacation at Great East Lake, N. H. "Doug", former Winchester High track and basketball star, and his father did a lot of fishing on the lake, with "Doug" hooking the biggest fish, a four and one-half pound bass. "Doug" leaves soon to enter Amherst College.

HOUSE WARMING DANCE HUGE SUCCESS

The Housewarming Dance for the new addition to the George Washington School, sponsored by the Mothers' Association and Dads' Club, was attended by a large crowd last Saturday evening in the new auditorium.

Ned Marshall and his band were excellent, and delicious refreshments were served by the Mothers' Social Committee. Pre dance and post dance parties, in private homes, added to the gay evening had by all the parents and their many guests.

A Grand March, headed by Mrs. Robert Lowe, President of the Mothers' Association and Mr. John Wakefield, President of the Dads' Club was a special feature. As the lines of sixteen came in the final march towards the stage, Joseph Cussen, Secretary and Charles Adams, Past President of the Dads made a special award of a bronze plaque to the School Addition Committee. This plaque was accepted by the Chairman, Mr. John Wakefield, who expressed his pleasure at the beautiful ornament to adorn the main entrance of the school. The plaque was embossed in the following manner: —

SCHOOL ADDITION BUILDING COMMITTEE

John C. Wakefield, Chairman
Hazen H. Ayer
Daniel T. Chane, Jr.
Constance K. Marshall
Eugene M. Pollard
W. Langdon Powers
Caroline P. Spaulding

Presented by Dads Club

The following committee of Mothers and Dads are to be congratulated on this unusually fine opening dance: Mrs. Bernard Cavanagh, Joseph Cussen, Mrs. Herbert Fairfield, Mrs. Erskine Kelley, Richard Keppler and George Neville.

Pfc. Newell Dahl, son of Mrs. Frances Dahl of 3 Lewis road, is at Quantico, Virginia, for special weapons training before returning to Embassy guard duty in Washington, D. C., and advanced courses in math at the Marine Institute.

MILTON TO OPEN GRID SEASON TOMORROW

With three weeks of hard conditioning practice under their belts Winchester High School's 1952 Football Team is prepared to demonstrate before a big opening-day crowd of loyal supporters on Manchester Field at 2:30 p. m. that Winchester produces a better brand of football than this year's Milton High School Team can show.

Not underrating Milton and realizing that the visitors will be hungry for their first win over the Indians, Howie Amundsen's eleven are determined to open the season with a clean-cut victory. They are not going to be thinking about last year's games or about last year's fine record.

This game tomorrow is the "Big Game" and they won't be saving anything for the game next week. "Win today," is their motto, and "Let tomorrow take care of itself."

While regretting the loss by graduation last June of several fine players, the coaches are confident that they have found promising replacements who will need only experience to prove that they are Varsity material.

Last year's co-captains, Joe Donlon and Dick Errico, may be hard to replace, as will Quarterback Jost Michelsen and Guard Don Rizzo and Tackle Dave Keniston; but in "Jocko" Serieka, Jimmy Griffin, "Moose" Bellino and "Stu" Thompson, Winchester will have one of the fastest and most explosive backfields we have seen in years. "Jocko" is a big, rangy, powerful runner, capable of scoring from any place on the field. As a passer he is a constant threat. Jim hits the line like a pile driver and picks up speed and yardage at the same time. "Moose", as slippery as an eel, can find a hole big enough to sneak through in any line and he can travel in the open. In "Stu" Thompson, Winchester has a quarterback with lots of previous experience who needs only one or two hard games under his belt to make him a field-general of the top rank.

Perhaps the biggest job for the coaches this year is in the line where there is less experience this year but no less determination. Already in scrimmages against other neighboring schools the new line has shown signs of learning what it's all about and as soon as they begin to really learn how to size up their opponents' line and to carry out their down-field blocking assignments consistently they will get a lot of satisfaction in watching those speed boys behind them tear off the yardage. Give them time! It takes time to develop real line play.

This year's team will play offensive football from whistle to whistle. They won't be stalling for breaks or trying to hold an opponent's score down. They will be putting on the pressure all the time and shooting for the goal line on every play. But remember that a finished team can not be fashioned in three weeks of practice and don't expect the Indians to start in right where last year's championship team left off on Thanksgiving morning.

Milton has yet to beat Winchester, but they aren't coming over here for an afternoon tea. It should be a real battle.

Both teams will feature a few stars from last year's teams supported by promising newcomers who may out-star the stars.

Kick-off at 2:30 sharp. Don't miss the most dramatic play of the whole game or you might miss a touchdown play.

An adequate section in the home stands on the west side of the field will be reserved for adult spectators. You may be sure of a seat near the center of the field.

The Winchester High School Band, about 60 strong, will be on hand and will put on a fine show between the halves.

Ticket gates will open an hour before game time. One booth on the parkway will sell adult tickets only, while the other booths will sell all tickets.

The refreshment booth will be supplied to cater to a large crowd.

The officials for this game are as follows:
Walter Hawkes, Referee.
Anthony Segedelli, Umpire.
Mel Wenner, Head Linesman.
Charlie Vye, Field Judge and Timer.

With the great increase of automobiles and trucks on the road, and the rather prevalent tendency of motorists to obey only such driving regulations as they are obliged to, it might be well for our Selectmen to give serious consideration to making our school traffic control officers special policemen. The authority that goes with a police badge could be quite helpful to the control officers in dealing with some of the drivers they encounter, though by far the greater number of motorists respect their directions. It would be however the small minority who might ignore orders and question the authority of those giving them who would cause trouble. Some of the traffic control men seem to think they could do a better job as special police.

BETTER SCHOOLS

Editor of the Star:

Rejoicing as I do with all the people of Winchester in the fine addition completed for the Washington School children, it is with regret that I take exception to some of the remarks in Mr. Wakefield's letter to the Star last week. It seemed to me that the impression given of the rest of the Winchester school buildings was not a fair one. This letter is no effort to "whitewash". I too am for better schools, but let's be fair.

The school with which I have been longest acquainted is Wyman. At no time in the many years I have paid it visits have I ever felt for a moment that it deserved the adjective "unkempt". Contrariwise I have never entered the building after a considerable absence without being impressed by the fine maintenance work, fresh paint, etc., and altogether well-cared-for look of the place. Wyman is the oldest of the elementary schools. More casual and less frequent visits to the other schools do not suggest to me that Wyman has been favored over them.

As to modernization, it must be admitted that the hot plate in the Teachers' Room which was there on my first visit is still the only cooking arrangement provided. However, "parent participation", which Wyman parents believe in too, has been too keen to be discouraged by such a slight inconvenience. Ask the teachers how they feel about Wyman "parent participation" in regard to refurnishing their Room!

My memories of the nurse's room in Wyman are those of adequate arrangements to meet the needs. By no stretch of the imagination could anything there be associated with the "filthy red rubber sheet" described by Mr. Wakefield as formerly at the Washington School.

Eager, indeed anxious, as I am to see more and better school buildings in Winchester, it does not seem to me fair or useful to make the charge against the school buildings worse than it actually is. We have problems enough, particularly in the secondary schools, without exaggeration. After all Wadleigh is surely not "unkempt" and it is very hard for me to say a good word for Wadleigh.

The strong inference in Mr. Wakefield's opening paragraphs that the officials of the town who did not attend the Building Committee's Opening of the School for inspection were somehow failing in their duty or lacking in proper interest does not seem to me in the least logical. As long as the officials have first hand knowledge of the building prior to making decisions about that or other schools they have done all that can be required. Their presence or absence at a specified time had no effect on the opening of the school to the children.

In closing, Mr. Wakefield's invitation for constructive criticism is a fine idea. I would suggest that visitors keep his list of questions and give them thoughtful answers. However, the millenium will certainly have arrived the day all the citizens agree on the answer to any one of the questions.

Lots of us are vitally interested in better schools, buildings, teachers, and curriculum. Let's keep our interest on the constructive side.

Sincerely yours,
Mabelle M. Long

SWEEPING VICTORY FOR ROY C. PAPALIA

Attorney Roy C. Papalia of Watertown, the Republican endorsed candidate for State Treasurer, received a sweeping nomination Tuesday, September 16, in the Republican Primaries. He defeated Mr. Burrell by more than 70,000 votes.

Winchester came through with an almost four to one vote, giving Attorney Papalia 2,375 to Mr. Burrell's 621.

Mr. Papalia is well known here in Winchester and is the husband of the former Lavinia M. Barone of Winchester. They have three children and live at 250 Mount Auburn Street, Watertown, Massachusetts.

ATTENTION OF YOUNG MEN AND PARENTS

Editor of the Star:

Getting back on the job the writer finds various changes which make it more than advisable that men of Selective Service age keep closely in touch with their draft board, the Medford Recruiting Station or the writer.

The new Station Commander of the Medford Recruiting Station is now T/Sgt Wesley D. Moore assisted by S/Sgts Robert E. Mutch and Alfred D. Bonacci. These are all Air Force men but an Army man will eventually join them. You are going to like these men and find them most cooperative.

At the present time the Air Force enlistments are on a limited quota and it has been necessary to set up a waiting list at each Recruiting Station. Any young man interested in the Air Force should lose no time in getting his name on the list as enlistments will be on a "first come first served" basis.

The writer anticipates more changes after November and it would be well for young men, whether returning to college or not, to get in touch with us. It is well for all of you to have a photostatic copy of your birth certificate and High School diploma on hand and to know ahead of time what is open to you. This entails no obligation but helps to settle some confused minds.

A word to High School students — Be Sure To Finish High School.

Cordially yours,
G. Toye, Chairman
Military Manpower Committee

RECENT APPOINTMENTS IN CIVILIAN WAR AID

Mr. William Supple, Director of the Civilian War Aid Division, Winchester Civil Defense, announces the recent appointment of two new persons to key positions within his Division. Mr. Charles A. Farrar, formerly of the telephone company and a present member of the Board of Public Welfare, has been chosen Assistant Director of C.W.A This is a vital action which other division heads will wish to soon emulate, for it gives C.W.A. not only a new executive to assist in plans and training, but a capable alternate for Mr. Supple — putting the Division leadership on a potential 24-hour operating basis.

Miss Adelaide Homer, also a member of the Board of Public Welfare, has been asked to head the Clothing Section of the C.W.A. Division. Her important sphere of activity will be the survey (and procurement) of clothing stocks throughout the town, against the time when such extra clothing supplies would be required in an emergency.

THE OMAHA FLOOD STORY AND CIVIL DEFENSE

The inspiring story of the fight against the flooding Missouri, in April, 1952, is a perfect lesson in what CD has been trying to teach the public, everywhere, for a long time: namely, that CD is a powerful protective weapon for the community in many other emergencies besides war alone.

Fascinating as the whole Omaha story is, it's only possible here to touch upon the important highlights of CD's work. In this biggest and worst of all floods in Missouri River history, which reached an ultimate 32-foot crest at Omaha, 87,000 persons were displaced, 50 communities flooded, over 2 million farm acres inundated, and damage reached an estimated 500 million dollars.

Fortunately well-organized and integrated in advance, Omaha's Civil Defense was empowered to organize flood control officially by the governor. And though most Omaha residents knew little of their CD organization in March, by the end of April they were fully aware of its power for good. Before the emergency, CD had already charted and listed every truck, bulldozer, dragline and emergency equipment in the community. During the emergency, it recruited from 30,000 to 50,000 workers; placed 8,000 to 9,000 vehicles in operation, filled and placed 3 million sandbags, served over 400,000 meals.

About 500 emergency police routed traffic, often for 21 hours at a stretch, fire auxiliaries evacuated homes, rescued thousands marooned, did stand-by fire watch for countless days, sandbagged levees, etc. So effective was the organization of the operation, and the effectiveness of every trained worker that not one life was lost during the flood disaster!

Since this was not a war-caused disaster, relief was handled by Red Cross and the Salvation Army, working very closely with CD, of course, since many top-echelon leaders were also CD officials.

The over-all lesson to be gained from this successful fight of a community against nature on the rampage was to prove the importance of a well-organized and well-planned disaster force, to channel the best efforts of its citizens and get the very most from their earnest labors — and the greatest possible protection for every person and piece of property that it's possible to have.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

On Tuesday, September 16, the George Washington School Mothers' Association had their opening tea. This event honors both new mothers and teachers at the school. After a short business meeting Mrs. Low, the President, cordially welcomed the mothers of the kindergarten children and the new teachers. She then introduced Miss Rich, the school principal, who talked about the school routine and the new system of marking the children's report cards, the marks being on a higher percentage basis. She also emphasized the point that the mothers should feel free to discuss the children's report cards with the teachers at any time. At the close of her talk she introduced the new teachers, Miss Webster, Mrs. Peebles, and Mrs. Eisenstadt. Mrs. Low then introduced Dr. Norris, a welcome visitor to our functions, who gave a brief talk on the importance of exptnding our schools to fit the children's needs.

The tea hour followed with delicious refreshments served by Mrs. Richard Keppler, Social Chairman, and her new committee members, Mrs. Erskine Kelley, Mrs. Paul Wickwire, Mrs. Phillip Porter, Mrs. James Chaffee, Mrs. Alfred Lambiase, Mrs. William Varley, Mrs. Frank Marshall, Mrs. Robert Gulick, Mrs. Jerome Foster, Mrs. Norman Weeks, Mrs. Edwin Dalziel, Mrs. Herbert Thompson, Mrs. Pasquale Tofuri, Mrs. Richard Caldwell, and Mrs. Frank Dreyer. Mrs. Low and Miss Rich were the pourers.

UNITARIAN PLAYERS' MEETING

The Winchester Unitarian Players will get together on Wednesday evening, September 24th at 7:45 in the Unitarian Church with their new officers; President, Bradford Darling; vice-president, Mrs. Ganson P. Taggart; secretary, Mrs. Eric Anderson and treasurer, Everett Gray to organize for their fall production and to welcome new members.

During the summer a play-reading committee, consisting of Mrs. Ganson P. Taggart, chairman, Mrs. William Davies, Mrs. Percy Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Mowatt, Mrs. Robert H. Sibley, Jr., and Mr. William Spaulding considered many plays and selected John Patrick's unusual comedy "The Curious Savage" for fall production.

The Players' Executive Committee composed of Mrs. William Davies, Mr. George W. Hayden, Mr. Robert P. Low and Mrs. W. H. D. Townley-Tilson and the officers plan to get the show off to a good start on Wednesday by holding tryouts for acting parts and appointing production committees. Members will have a chance to express all varieties of interests and talents by working on scenery, lighting, acting, properties, tickets, costumes and other phases of show business.

LEADERS HAIL SCOUTS' GET-OUT-THE-VOTE CAMPAIGN

Since their inception in this country in 1910, the Boys Scouts of America have had participating citizenship based on good character as one of their principal goals. Therefore, it is not surprising to find this organized and patriotic group, qualified to render effective service, actively engaged in another "good turn" to the nation.

It is the "Get-Out-The-Vote" Campaign which the Boy Scouts are now undertaking in cooperation with the Freedoms Foundation. The program is non-partisan, without reference to any candidate or parties. Simply, it will urge citizens to exercise their franchise, and go to the polls and vote.

In the first phase, the Scouts will place more than one million posters in public places urging citizens to register so that they can vote in November. Then just before Election Day, November 4, most of the nation's 2,950,000 Scouts and Leaders will visit 30 million homes, hanging on each door knob a Liberty Bell card which will call to the attention of citizens the importance of voting.

The job needs to be done. In 1948 when 94,092,000 persons in the nation were eligible to vote, only 52 per cent went to the polls to cast a total of 48,836,579 votes.

Locally, the Fellsland Council of the Boy Scouts of America which administers the Scouting program in Winchester has a special "Get-Out-The-Vote-Committee" headed by A. Benjamin Gowing, assisted by Dr. Robert E. Millican.

BOAT CLUB NEWS

Things are quieting down over on the old Mystic Lake, but the teenagers are having more fun than ever with their weekly hops. Sixty attended the dance last Friday night, and an even larger gang is expected this week, since all the members are back in school again. The committee is hiring an orchestra for a week from Friday, so plan to make an evening of it.

The Point Score Races turned out as everyone expected, with Rodney Long, consistent champ, winning the cup. The trophy will be awarded at the Snipe Dinner, which is not scheduled yet. Bob Huggins placed first on Sunday, followed by Anderson and Legere in second and third positions respectively. On Saturday Rodney Long, Bob Huggins, and Carl Freyer copped the first three places.

Still on the docket for this season are the Directors' Meeting, Snipe Dinner, Motor Boat Dinner, and maybe another buffet.

BUGBEE AT PENSACOLA

Aviation Cadet Holbrook Bugbee of the United States Navy has recently reported aboard the U. S. Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Saufley Field, at Pensacola, Florida, and is currently undergoing training in fixed aerial gunnery, basic aerial tactics, and formation flying.

Cadet Bugbee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bugbee of 7 Dartmouth street, attended Hamilton College at Clinton, New York, prior to entering the Naval Aviation Cadet Program. He reported to Pensacola in November of 1951 and since that time has participated in a strenuous schedule of military, academic, and physical training.

Upon completion of training at Saufley Field, Cadet Bugbee will commence training carrier qualifications. The climax of this training will be six take-offs and landings aboard an aircraft carrier in his SNJ "Texan" trainer.

ATTENDING FINCH

Miss Sona Vera Norian, daughter of Mrs. Merin J. Norian, 8 Robinson Circle, who is attending Finch College in New York this year, has the distinction of being among the first students to be enrolled at Finch since authority was granted to confer the B.A. and B.S. degrees in addition to the junior college degrees of Associate in Arts and Associate in Applied Science. Finch students will, therefore, starting this fall, have the advantage of wider choice and greater flexibility in their selection of courses and careers.

It is advisable to use No Rub (Water Waxes) on floor coverings and tile floors only. On hardwood floors the paste or liquefied type paste wax is to be recommended. Fullustre (Water Wax) is excellent for asphalt and rubber tile, vinylite and linoleum, and will not build up a crust or residue on the floor covering, which should be rinsed and dried before applying wax.

MARTIN — BROWN

Miss Edith Barclay Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Barclay Brown of 321 Warren street, Needham, was married to George Forrest Martin of 23 Allen road, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Frederic Martin, on Saturday afternoon, September 13. The Rev. H. Hamlin Hall officiated at the informal ceremony which took place at Christ Church in Needham at 4 o'clock. An attractive arrangement of white gladiolas decorated the altar.

Miss Brown was given in marriage by her father. She wore a street length gown of white silk shantung, the bodice being fitted over the hips and having a sweetheart neckline and three-quarter sleeves gathered at the elbow. Small covered buttons extended from the neck to the gathered hipline of the skirt and she wore a small-brimmed white hat with matching shoes and carried a colonial bouquet of white roses.

Miss Marylou Steeves of Needham was the bride's only attendant. She wore a rose taffeta dress with a fitted bodice and matching jacket with three-quarter sleeves. Her skirt was gathered at the waist and she wore a navy hat and matching shoes. Her colonial bouquet was of pink roses.

Edward W. Byrnes of Winchester, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man, and the ushers were two brothers-in-law of the bride, Leonard W. Cooper and Francis W. Hofer, both of Needham.

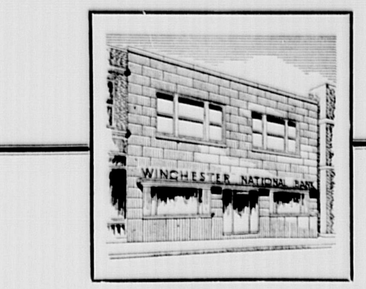

A reception was held after the ceremony in the church parish house, the parents of the bride and the sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Edward W. Byrnes of Winchester, assisting in receiving.

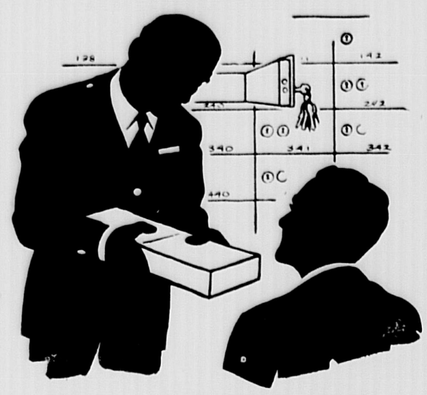

Mrs. Brown, mother of the bride, was gowned in navy with pink trim and wore a matching navy hat and shoes with pink gloves. Pink roses formed her corsage, and Mrs. Byrnes, sister of the bridegroom, wore yellow roses with her navy ensemble.

After a honeymoon of three weeks on Cape Cod, Mr. and Mrs. Martin will live in Newton.

The bride is a graduate of Needham High School. Mr. Martin, who is associated with Cleghorn Co., Boston heating and ventilating contractors, graduated from Dorchester High School for boys.

A Winchester motorist was locked up Wednesday evening by Officer Henry P. Dempsey after the automobile he was driving on Washington street struck a pole between Brookside avenue and the Watch Hand Factory. In District Court yesterday morning he was found guilty of driving under the influence of liquor and drunkenness and was fined $50. The car was completely wrecked.

TUBERCULOSIS CONFERENCE

Tuberculosis workers in Middlesex County will place renewed emphasis on educating the pupils to the problems of victims of tuberculosis, according to a statement made today by David Moxon, Executive Director of the Middlesex Health Association.

Future plans in the work for tuberculosis control were considered in a state-wide conference of tuberculosis workers held at Westfield this past weekend. Basis for the discussion was a three-year study of tuberculosis control made by a special committee of the National Tuberculosis Association. The Massachusetts tuberculosis workers agreed with the committee's report that advances in treatment of tuberculosis have increased the need for attention to the problems of ex-patients. The consensus was that communities would be called upon to assume increased responsibilities for restoring tuberculosis patients to an active, useful life.

The work of the Tuberculosis Association is supported by the annual Christmas Seal Sale.

The Golden Text is: "Truly in vain is salvation hoped for from the hills, and from the multitude of mountains: truly in the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel." (Jeremiah 3:23).

The Bible citations include: "For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting." (Gal. 6:8).

The following quotation is included in selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The sharp experiences of belief in the supposititious life of matter, as well as our disappointments and ceaseless woes, turn us like tired children to the arms of divine Love. Then we begin to learn Life in divine Science." (322:26-30).

EPIPHANY CHILDREN REPRESENT DIOCESE OF NEWARK

At an impressive Children's Offering Service at Trinity Church, Boston, last Sunday, five children from the Parish of the Epiphany, Winchester, had the honor of representing all of the Church School pupils of the Diocese of Newark, New Jersey.

This service the first of its kind to be a part of the Episcopal Triennial Convention, was participated in by Episcopal Bishops from all over the United States, and many far distant lands such as Brazil, Hawaii, and Alaska.

Each of the parishes in the vicinity of Boston selected five children to march in the processional preceded by a colorful reproduction of the seal of the diocese and accompanied by the Bishop of that particular area whose own thousands of young people were unable to attend in person.

Accompanying Bishop Washburn and Suffragan Bishop Ludlow from Newark were: Bonnie MacLellan, Deborah Jope, Patricia Bates, Louis Towner, and Harlow Russell, 3rd.

The varied colored vestments of the younger members as well as the dignitaries, the stately procession, the message of gratitude from the Presiding Bishop, the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, thanking the children for their Christmas, Lenten, and birthday offerings during the past three years were appropriately climaxed by the presentation of the offering. To a Priest, a Medical Missionary, a Nurse and a Teacher from the Panama Canal Zone, China, Liberia, and Japan respectively, accompanied by costumed children from many areas of the world, the money was given, and the total Triennium gift from the Episcopal children was announced as $1,641,867.85.

ALUMNAE WON AGAIN

The alumnae field hockey team again defeated the Winchester High School team at Ginn Field on September 11, 3-0. The varsity team, which had only practised for about a week, proved to be very good competition for the alumni.

The alumni had many outstanding players such as "Dee" Barrett, former All-Collegiate star; "Marge" Carroll, now playing on the varsity at Sargent; "Mal" Chase, last year's captain of the All-Collegiate Stars of the junior colleges; Jane Chiswell, varsity Veteran at Jackson; and "Bette" Kneeland, varsity center at Stanford University. Also playing were four members of last year's W. H. S. varsity.

"Bette" Kneeland and "Mal" Chase scored the goals for the alumni team, with "Bette" scoring two goals and "Mal" one.

The inbound train leaving the Cross street station of the B. & M. at 8:27 last Saturday morning was stoned by a group of boys near Russell's Hill in the North End. Several windows in the train were broken, but no report of injury to passengers was made.

The car was badly damaged and had to be towed to Haggerty's Garage. Yeo, who was driving on the license of Alice M. Burke of 28 Florence street, Somerville, sustained a cut on the bridge of the nose. Miss Burke sustained a broken left collar bone.

Two more passengers, Cosimo Ciano of 98 Edgerton street, Arlington, and Marjorie Nelson of 12 Billfellow street, Billerica, were also injured, Ciano an abrasion of the right arm and Miss Nelson, abrasions to left arm and right ankle.

All the injured were taken to the Winchester Hospital in the police ambulance and treated by Dr. Charles Rooney. Miss Burke was held at the hospital after treatment.

A 16 year-old Melrose girl was injured Sunday afternoon at 4:30 when an Olds sedan, being driven south on Washington street by Philip A. MYSTIC SCHOOL MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION MEETING

On Wednesday afternoon, September 10th, the Mystic School Auditorium opened its doors to a large number of Mothers who came to meet the teachers and to hear Mr. Forte speak at the first meeting this Fall of the Mystic School Mothers' Association. The President, Mrs. H. Gardner Bradlee, opened the meeting by reading the introduction to the by-laws which state that the purpose of the association is to promote closer relationship, and cooperation between the parents and the teachers.

Brief talks were given by Mrs. Richard Frazier, chairman of Room Mothers, Mrs. Rolf Eliassen, chairman of teachers luncheons, and Mrs. Frederick Bailey, chairman of Ways and Means relative to their duties and plans for the coming year.

The Secretary, Mrs. George Niles submitted a petition to be sent to the Board of Selectmen asking for a sidewalk from Chardon road to Symmes corner to safeguard the Mystic School children who come from the North Gateway — Chardon road area, and who now must cross both Main street and Highland avenue entirely on their own. This petition was approved and many signatures were obtained.

Mrs. Bradlee then introduced the three new teachers at Mystic this year, and each was presented with a corsage as she came forward. They were Mrs. Dorothy Seed, first grade; Mrs. Dorr (who was ill and not able to be present) second grade; and Miss Whittemore, who has returned to Mystic after a three year absence, third grade. She then introduced Mr. Forte explaining that he and Mrs. Maude Dover are now at the Mystic School full time. Considering the fact that — according to Mr. Forte — Mystic is now the largest grade school in town with an enrollment of 408 — it seems that a full time principal is a necessity. Aided by some very amusing cartoons Mr. Forte showed the state of affairs at the school— the building bulging at the seams with only the fourth and sixth grades having less than 30 pupils in each division, with a record enrollment of unanticipated new children — 59 new families being represented in the total of 275 families. Problems are to be expected, but he anticipates being able to meet them with the aid of his fine staff of teachers, and the help of the parents. He suggested that the mothers use the room Mothers and the Board members where possible to relieve the strain on the telephone situation at the school. A few suggestions relative to wearing apparel, safety on the playground, co-operation from the mothers who come in cars to get the children on rainy or stormy days, and such matters concluded his talk.

After the meeting was adjourned, delicious punch and cookies were served by the tea chairman, Mrs. Howard Davis, and her committee consisting of Mrs. John Farnum, Mrs. R. S. Pingree, Mrs. C. E. Abbott, Mrs. C. D. Kennedy, and Mrs. Robert Blake. Mothers wishing to talk to the teachers were able to identify them easily because of the corsage which was presented to each as Mr. Forte introduced the staff of the Mystic School to the Mothers of the Mystic School children. A fine atmosphere of sociability prevailed, and a year of such pleasant association is to be anticipated.

MEETING OF UNITARIAN COUPLES CLUB

The executive committee of the Unitarian Couples' Club met at the home of David and Jean Wardwell on Thursday, September 11.

The program for the coming year was decided upon and includes four dances. The first dance will be in the Hallowe'en tradition at Metcalf Hall on Saturday evening, October 18th.

Mrs. John Coulson, of 11 Sheffield road, is a member of the committee making arrangements for a tea to be held at Bouve-Boston School on the Tufts College campus to welcome new students on Thursday afternoon, September 18th. An alumna of the school, Mrs. Coulson is also a member of the Corporation and on the Scholarship Committee.

OPEN HOUSE AT THE GEORGE WASHINGTON SCHOOL

Hundreds at the recent George Washington house warming were visibly impressed with the new addition to the School from the moment they set foot inside its friendly reception room.

From then on in, all through the new addition, it is a child's fairyland and, from the teachers' poll a teacher's dream come true, to say nothing of the very happy parents who, more and more, are coming to the school to share in their children's school-life.

A child, beginning school in this new kindergarten, would certainly be most favorably impressed with school, as he sees it. The room, a large square sunny room, whose enterior wall is all glass and glass block, is ideally situated, opening directly to their playground. But the playground has no longing eyes cast toward it. Inside is Wonderland to the five-year-old eyes. The large floor space is covered by rubber tile, golden beige in color, bordered by gay blocks of color, depicting the A B C's, and the numbers which the beginner must learn to recognize. Grouped about the room are little families of chairs, each group a smooth blending of color. On one wall hangs an intriguing nursery clock. The numbers on the clock are blocked out on bright-colored circles around its face, and a long-dangling pendulum exactly portrays a Hickory-Dickory-Dock clock copied from an old English textbook, even to the fat, friendly little gray mouse running up the side. Little hands will get grimy — so over in one corner is a two section sink, also a bubbler, complete with towels and drinking cups, all within little hands' reach. Needless to say, there will be oceans of water drunk and many many little hands laundered these first few weeks.

Off in one corner of the kindergarten is a child's corner for relaxing, while learning of plants, in a child-size solarium. Again, they find chairs, cheery little fiesta ones grouped about. And along a stainless steel plant rail around the windows rests glory of glories — a little cactus plant for each child to administer to, with his name on it.

There is pride in possession, even in the very young, and this little personal touch will keep interest high in the solarium.

But best of all — is the pride and joy of the kindergarten — their Esty Organ. And what little child will not yearn to sing with all his heart — in such happy surroundings.

To make school not seem too far a step from Mother's living room, draperies with colors blending in with all the colors in the room hang gracefully from the windows.

Another room creating a great deal of favorable comment was the "Clinic". Each pupil is audibly hoping for some minor accident that he may be the first guest of honor in this beautiful room. The exterior wall, all windows, has been gracefully hung to the floor with 50 yards of daffodil yellow draperies, laced throughout with fine leaf patterns on green. The once "impossible to make appear fresh" cot has been replaced by a regular hospital cot, spotless white in itself and looking most inviting with its snow-white linen, and its daffodil yellow wool blanket, thrown across it. Hospital cabinets and tables complete the picture, and, herein, as in all the rooms, are flowers — daffodil yellow ones, here. Despite the request it not be mentioned it is only fair to publicly thank Mr. John Wakefield, for his generous gift of a continuous supply of fresh flowers all year round for the clinic.

No school now-a-days where so many parent get-togethers are held can get along without a kitchen. And the new addition boasts a kitchen to end all kitchen troubles. A snow-white electric range keeps silent company with an equally silent refrigerator, freezing compartment, and all. The walls are lined with white steel cabinets, and all counters are black. Complete in every detail, from sink to automatic ventilator fan, it will serve many needs long and well.

The Principal's Room, Miss Rich's, has not the awesome look of the old-time Principal's Room. It is beautifully decorated in the pastels with green predominating in the floor-length draperies. A room, indeed, where even the most mischievous boy could feel at home on the mat.

The new Teacher's Room with furniture redecorated by the Mothers' Association, suggests moments of quiet relaxation, in beautifully cozy chairs. The draperies in this room have caused many favorable comments.

Mrs. Dolan's office is a model of efficiency, and, being open to view on all sides, gives the corridor a homey lived-in-look.

Coming back to the corridors — you will find directly at the further end, where a brief stairway ushers you up to the kindergarten section, a very fine red-bricked interior garden. Flowers are blooming gaily there against an effective white back wall. And all winter long, as the pupils pass to and fro along the corridor they will find a gay garden growing.

The Dads of the Dads' Club have generously volunteered to keep flowers blooming there all winter for their boys and girls.

Last but not least, is the heart of the whole school — the Auditorium. It is awesomely beautiful, has a seating capacity of about 500, and its stage curtains are a full cyclorama.

The stairs, leading on and off the stage, are low and wide, with rubber nosings to assure absolute safety for the future stars of stage and screen.

During the Open House Monday night, Ned Marshall took his place at the grand piano on the stage — with Dan Chane, Jr., filling in on Tuesday evening. Both Dads added a very pleasant background of music.

Not all the rooms were described minutely, but each, in its own right is beautiful and different.

Color choices were solicited from pupils of the school, and, by artistic blending, 27 of these color choices were used in decorating the rooms and corridor.

Some Construction Notes

All teachers' chairs have foam rubber seats with plastic covers.

All pupils' desks are steel with plastic tops. The chairs have adjustable backs and all equipment is finished in a melon shade of brown.

A great deal of blonde birch and California Redwood was also used.

Large chair storage room has trap door opening into a cement storage basement, which could also provide bomb shelter.

Also it should be mentioned that the Mothers' Association has volunteered to maintain the clinic room in its present spotless condition.

George Washington School feels you will enjoy seeing the new addition and, cordially, and at all times, George Washington School will enjoy seeing you — one and all.

YOUTH LEADERS AT UNITARIAN CHURCH

Two new youth leaders have been appointed by the Winchester Unitarian Church to carry out a varied and interesting program for young people this year.

Named to work closely with Reverend Robert A. Storer in conducting the church school is Mrs. Ralph Lasselle of Stoneham.

Mrs. Lasselle is well known for her outstanding work in Religious Education, having directed church schools in Cambridge, Melrose and Stoneham before coming to Winchester. She was trained as a professional teacher and has conducted workshops for teachers at Star Island and other institutes in New England.

As director of Religious Education in the Winchester Unitarian Church School, Mrs. Lasselle brings a youthful and up-to-date point of view, backed by wide experience, to help both the young people and the teaching staff.

She has prepared, in conjunction with the minister and the Religious Education committee, an outstanding course of church school study designed to stimulate the young people in both the lower and upper schools.

The directing of the activities of the very popular Junior High School Fellowship and the Metcalf Union for High School students will be carried out by Mr. Herbert Black, a Winchester resident who has been a member of the teaching staff of the church school for two years.

Mr. Black brings to the leadership of the youth groups wide experience as an editor on the Boston Globe, a teacher in adult education, lecturer on current affairs and leader in Boy Scouting. He is a graduate of Tufts College, where he is a member of the Alumni Council and a member of the executive board of the Zeta Psi fraternity.

Both Mrs. Lasselle and Mr. Black, as young parents, have a keen interest in growing boys and girls. They bring an understanding point of view to the programs of worship, study and recreation at the Unitarian church.

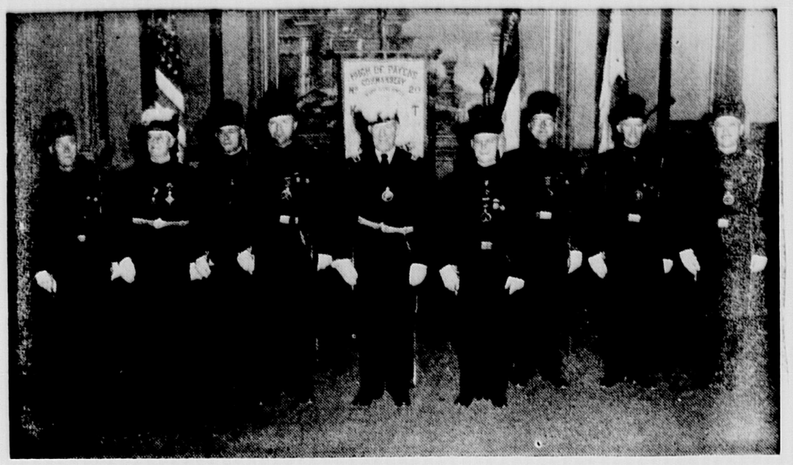

Registration for the church school is Sunday, September 28, or on Tuesdays at the church office. Sunday School begins October 5.

BLOOD DONOR DAY

The Red Cross Mobile Unit collected 137 pints of blood on its visit to Winchester, September 10. Twenty-two persons were temporarily rejected for various reasons but are hopeful of being accepted next time. There were 172 appointments made and the local Chapter appreciates the fact that many of those who cancelled their appointments were disappointed they could not make it, saying they would try next time.

One of the most faithful donors who was rejected felt so badly not to be accepted that she insisted something be found then and there for her to do. She discovered the Canteen was being a bit pushed, so she went to the kitchen and washed the dishes used by the staff!

We were happy to welcome a group from the Anti-Aircraft Battalion in the Fells who signified their interest in the community by donating blood here, rather than going to Boston. One of the group who had served in Korea, said "I have seen how this is used and what it does and believe me, I give just as often as they will take me."

Several Girl Scouts from our local Hospital Aid group are increasingly helpful with each visit and willingly and efficiently do any assigned task.

Mrs. Kendall Spencer, Blood Donor Chairman, wishes to thank all those who gave so willingly of their time to make the many telephone calls in the two weeks preceding the visit, as well as the 41 Volunteers who made this day a success.

Feminine readers of the Star, especially, will sympathize with the lady on Chester street who notified the police last Friday that some time during the night previous a wash she had left out all night had been pulled from the line and the clothes thrown into some muddy places in the back yard. JOY — TWAY

There is Winchester interest in the marriage which took place at the Meridian Heights Presbyterian Church in Indianapolis, Ind., on Saturday afternoon, September 13, when Miss Ada Joan Tway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Tway of Indianapolis, became the bride of Russell Warburton Joy, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Warburton Joy of Wedgemere avenue. The Rev. Dr. Roy B. Connor, Jr., was the officiating clergyman and the double ring ceremony took place before a pleated ice blue taffeta screen with a background of cibotium ferns and an arrangement of white gladiolas, chrysanthemums, pompons and white Fuji mums in a fan-shaped vase. Virginia Jefry played the bridal music, and the marriage was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Tway wore a gown of white nylon tulle over satin with a softly tucked formal bodice and a waltz-length skirt highlighted with a finely pleated flounce with alencon lace medallions in bowknot motif. With it she wore a matching tulle bolero and a chapel length veil of English silk illusion caught to a velvet circlet accented with small sea shells. Her bouquet was a simple debutante nosegay of tuberose fleurettes, stephanotis, white carnation petals and lily of the valley foliage, centered with a white orchid and frilled with pleated white nylon net.

Miss Katherine Arlene Tway of Indianapolis was the bride's only attendant. She wore a waltz-length dress of pale blue net over satin with a formal bodice of lace, a satin bolero and matching velvet head-band. She also carried a debutante nosegay combining pink carnation petals, pink lady roses and light pink Fuji petals with a frill of pink nylon net.

Frederick V. Martin, Jr., of Hicksville, N. Y., was Mr. Joy's best man, and ushering was Robert S. Hansen of Indianapolis.

Mr. Joy and his bride came east on their wedding journey, the bride's traveling costume being a navy wool garbadine suit with beige accessories and a thistle-blue feather hat. They will be at home after October 1 at 3710 N. Meridian street, Indianapolis, Ind.

The bride attended Indiana University and is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. Mr. Joy attended Boston University.

The dinner for the bridal party was held Friday, September 12, in the Pen Room of the Marott Hotel in Indianapolis, the decorations being an attractive arrangement of white flowers with smilax and cathedral candles.

TORRICE — CALLAHAN

At St. Mary's Church on Sunday afternoon, September 7, Miss Claire Louise Callahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Callahan of Tremont street, became the bride of Samuel George Torrice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Torrice of Jefferson avenue, Woburn. The Rev. John P. O'Riordan officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony and a reception followed at the Music Hall on Bacon street.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Callahan wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace over satin with fitted sleeves and a full train. Her fingertip-length veil was caught to a headpiece of Chantilly lace and she carried a prayer-book topped with white roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Rosemary Caruso of Medford, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Rosemary Caruso, small niece of the bride, was flower girl. Bridesmaids were Miss Kay Michienzi, Mrs. Ann Cirone and Miss Frances Oliver, all of Winchester.

The matron of honor wore an off-the-shoulder dress of iridescent green taffeta with a short jacket and mixed flowers in her hair, matching the flowers of her bouquet. The bridesmaids wore identical dresses like those of the honor attendant, two wearing rose and two blue. Their flower headdresses also matched their bouquets. The small flower girl wore a green frock and her bouquet and headdress were like those of the other attendants.

Mrs. Callahan, mother of the bride, wore a royal blue Chantilly lace dress with blue velvet hat and accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Torrice, also wore an orchid with her salmon crepe dress and matching hat. Her accessories were brown.

Joseph Torrice of Medford was his brother's best man, and the ushers were John Clemens of Stoneham, Paul Kirk of Newton, Joseph Tropea of Wakefield and Daniel Callahan of Winchester, brother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Torrice left after the reception for a wedding journey to Vermont and Canada. Mr. Torrice, who is graduate of Malden Business College, is office manager of the Belco Distributors in Somerville.

FRANCIS JOSEPH DOLAN

Francis Joseph Dolan, a resident of Winchester for more than half a century, died Monday morning, September 22, at his home, 1 Dunham street, following several weeks of failing health. His wife, the former Bridget Gaffney, a native of County Cavan, Ireland, died on June 15 of this year, and Mr. Dolan's health began to fail soon after her passing.

Mr. Dolan was the son of Thomas, and Mary (Winn) Dolan. Like his wife, he was born in County Cavan, Ireland, on January 6, 1872, coming to this country 60 years ago as a young man and settling in Boston. From Boston he came to Winchester over 50 years ago and he had since been a resident here, living for 25 years on Hancock street, and for the past four years at 1 Dunham street. He was widely known among older residents and held in esteem by all who knew him.

Mr. Dolan spent virtually all his business life in the employ of the Boston & Maine Railroad, working for more than 45 years as a freight clerk until his retirement in 1937. He was a member of the Association of Railway Clerks, of St. Mary's Holy Name Society, and of Qualey Court, Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Frank D. Riley (Mary Dolan) of Chelmsford and Sister Mary St. Constance of the Order of the Good Shepherd at Troy, N. Y., the former Ann Dolan; four sons, Thomas W., of Rockport, Sgt. John J., of the Winchester Police Department, Francis, of Winchester, and Charles J. Dolan of Dallas, Tex.; a sister, Mrs. John McGuire, and two brothers, Patrick and Charles Dolan, all of County Cavan, Ireland.

The funeral was held Thursday morning from the M. G. Moffett Funeral Home with solemn requiem high mass celebrated at St. Mary's Church.

Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

NEW TRAIN TIME SUNDAY

Along with setting the clocks back this Sunday, trains on the steam railroad will go on the fall and winter schedule and patrons of the railroad should secure a copy of the new timetables. Although many changes have been made in the time of through trains, Winchester will escape largely with minor changes.

Inward trains have but one change to note, that being the 7:31 inward in the morning. Outward trains remain the same except for the time of arrival, which in some instances has been shortened, and one forenoon train which will leave Boston at 10:20 instead of its present time. The first Sunday train for Boston will leave at 8:06.

Handy pocket-size timetables giving the new time may be obtained from:

MISS NORIAN ENGAGED

Mrs. Leon K. Norian of 8 Robinson Circle announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mary A. Norian, to Mr. John H. Ayvazian, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ayvazian of Arlington.

THAT INTERVIEW

Senator Leverett Saltonstall visited Winchester on Tuesday, spending most of the day attending political and social functions about town. He was accompanied by our State Senator, Robert P. Campbell, Representative Harrison Chadwick, Mrs. Robert W. Reynolds, president, and Mrs. Muriel S. Barnes of the Winchester Women's Republican Club, Mr. John A. Volpe and president W. Allan Wilde of the Rotary Club of Winchester together with others.

The group joined Senator Saltonstall at the Star Office and from there went to the Town Hall on the start of their tour. The Senator probably got off to a good start. He was warmly welcomed at the Star and found common ground with the editor when he recalled the murder at the Winchester railroad station in 1923 when he was Assistant District Attorney and both were on the scene together.

Winchester being a good Republican town obviated the necessity of any critical question and answer session, although the Editor did express regret that the Republicans were allowing the Democrats to run their campaign and expressed the wish that when they took office after the November election they would first start their economy move by holding up the four to six million-dollar project to elevate the railroad tracks through Winchester.

The Senator admitted in reply to a very blunt question that it was very often difficult for one in his position to carry on with his numerous duties and live on the salary provided by the nation. He was spared the question of whether he could do it or not.

There was a complete absence of heckling and if the Senator and his group got along during the rest of their visits as well as they did at the Star it appears that they are in a good position to be elected.

FERDINAND JOHNSON

Ferdinand Johnson of 31 Englewood road, a retired pattern maker, died early Sunday morning, September 21, at the Winchester Hospital after a brief illness.

A native of Sweden, Mr. Johnson was 81 years old. For more than half a century he had been in this country, being for many years a resident of Everett before coming to Winchester in 1946. He was until his retirement eight years ago a pattern maker for the Griffin Car Wheel Company at its Chelsea branch.

Mr. Johnson was a widower, his wife, Jennie, having died in September, 1946. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Gustaf W. Johnson of Winchester; two grandchildren and two sisters living in Sweden.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Henderson Funeral Home in Everett with the Rev. William Mitchell, retired pastor of the Glad Tidings Tabernacle in Everett, officiating. Burial was in Glenwood Cemetery, Everett.

HOME FROM YEAR ABROAD

Miss Nancy Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Booth of 64 Oxford street, returned to this country September 13 on the SS Media from Liverpool, England, after a year in London and visiting the Continent.

Miss Booth attended the Triangle Secretarial School while in London, living with her sister, Miss Barbara Booth, who is a secretary with the Military Assistance Advisory Group to the United Kingdom (MAAG) located in London. As her studies would permit Nancy visited Scotland, France, Switzerland and Austria.

SALTONSTALL VISITS WINCHESTER

On Tuesday morning, September 23, large enthusiastic groups in all parts of town were able to meet and hear Senator Leverett Saltonstall. He was in Winchester campaigning in behalf of Christian A. Herter, Republican nominee for Governor.

Arriving in Winchester at nine o'clock, Senator Saltonstall was met by Mrs. Muriel S. Barnes, chairman, and a prominent committee of Winchester and Woburn Republicans who had arranged his speaking engagements throughout the town. This welcoming committee included Mrs. Robert W. Reynolds, President of the Winchester Women's Republican Club, W. Allen Wilde, Representative Harrison L. Chadwick, John A. Volpe, Ralph Bonnell, W. Wade Johnson of Woburn, and Senator Robert P. Campbell.

After being cordially interviewed at the Star office by T. Price Wilson, owner and publisher, Senator Saltonstall went to the Town Hall and was greeted there by Selectmen, Don S. Greer and Harry S. Chefalo. At 10 o'clock he visited the Browning Laboratories meeting Mr. Glenn Browning and Mr. Ralph L. Purrington and speaking to the personnel there. He then proceeded to J. H. Winn Sons on Washington street and was welcomed by Mr. Lester Snow and Mr. Henry Clark who presented him to the employees of the company.

Large groups awaited him at two morning coffee hours, one held at the home of Mrs. Howard J. Chidley, Fernway, and the other at the home of Mrs. Don S. Greer, 372 Highland avenue. Preceding Senator Saltonstall's arrival in each home, Mrs. Philip J. Woodward, trustee of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts spoke of the Republican National Platform. Senator Saltonstall addressed both groups being introduced to his audience at Mrs. Chidley's by Senator Robert P. Campbell and at Mrs. Greer's by Representative Harrison L. Chadwick.

Shortly before noon the senator visited Beggs and Cobb Leather Company where Mr. Harry Damon introduced him to the personnel there. The morning ended with a joint luncheon of Winchester and Woburn Rotarians at the Towanda Club in Woburn with Senator Saltonstall as the guest of honor.

Senator Saltonstall is always a favorite with Winchester audiences who are happy to have the opportunity to welcome him here again. In behalf of the Winchester Women's Republican Club, Mrs. Robert W. Reynolds wishes to thank all those who made the morning coffee hours with their large audiences such a tremendous success; notably the hostesses, Mrs. Howard J. Chidley and Mrs. Don S. Greer; Mrs. Ralph H. Bonnell and her committee in charge of hospitality and Mrs. J. Howard Macaulay and her committee who prepared the social hours.

TWO ACCIDENTS SATURDAY

Following an accident in which his automobile was involved at the intersection of Woodside road and Chesterford road shortly before 8 o'cock last Saturday evening, William F. Gallison of Wilmington was arrested by Officer John H. Boyle for drunkenness and driving while under the influence of liquor.

Police say Gallison's car collided with an automobile operated by Anna Foley of Pond street, who had stopped for a "stop sign" on Chesterford road. A passenger, John E. O'Sullivan of Cambridge, riding with Gallison, was arrested by Officer Archie T. O'Connell for drunkenness.

O'Sullivan was released by the police, but Gallison appeared in District Court at Woburn Monday morning, at which time his case was continued for trial until September 29.

Shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday night Officers O'Connell and Boyle came upon a Dodge sedan, registered to Daniel A. Trotta of 423 Somerville avenue, Somerville, which had struck a pole on Cambridge street about 200 feet north of the intersection of Church street.

The car had crossed the sidewalk on the easterly side of the street and broken down about 12 feet of hedge at the residence of Mr. Irving E. Jennings.

The machine was badly damaged about the right side and had to be towed away. The driver at the time of the accident, according to the police, was Hallie A. Laviere of 19 Wyoth street, Somerville.

INTERESTING SHIP PICTURES

Through the courtesy of former Selectman George M. Bryne of 4 Copley street the Star has on display at the office this week pictures of the raising of the freighter, Arizona Sword, which Mr. Bryne brought up from the bottom of the Cape Cod Canal off Sandwich after a thrilling battle with bad luck and the elements for about a year.

Few experts gave Mr. Bryne much chance of raising the freighter when she sank, and news of his exploit went over much of the world, through the medium of the Christian Science Monitor, an international newspaper, which did a feature story of the ship raising. Life Magazine also covered the event with a story and pictures and most of the papers in and around Boston had coverage.

The pictures the Star has on display are those of the "Arizona Sword" shown after it was sunk in a collision at the easterly end of the Cape Cod Canal May 5, 1951; part of the huge pile of sulphur salvaged by Mr. Bryne's crews from the sunken freighter; and the "Arizona Sword" as she was being towed into Boston Harbor June 17, 1952, after her epic raising.

WAYNE B. THOMPSON RECEIVES PATENT

On September 9, 1952, the United States Patent Office granted patent number 2,610,092 on a "Spray Discharge Nozzle" to Wayne B. Tompson, Winchester.

This invention pertains to an improved spraying apparatus for applying liquid coating material to the interior wall surfaces of hollow articles such as cylinders, tubes, pipes, cans and the like. Generally speaking, the equipment for this purpose comprises a nozzle or mechanism through which the coating material issues in atomized form. When used for the aforementioned interior work, the resulting spray, which is normally conical in shape and circular in cross-section, is transformed to a flattened or fan-like pattern. It should be noted also that, during operation of the equipment, there is a relative longitudinal and rotational movement between the head of the spraying device and the article being processed in order to apply the coating both circumferentially and lengthwise along the interior of the workpiece.

However, according to Mr. Thompson, the foregoing practice suffers from the disadvantage that the coating material is applied in narrow stripes, with the result that the procedure is slow and there is a minimum machine output per unit of time.

It therefore is the object of his invention to overcome this limitation and thus he has devised a novel spray nozzle which, as its principal feature, provides for a supplemental discharge of air that creates a more effective and satisfactory flattening of the coating spray than has heretofore been the case. In other words, this flattened spray is applied to the interior of the article as a wide band instead of a narrow one; and, as a consequence, the coating operation is speeded up considerably.

Mr. Thompson has assigned this patent to Spray Engineering Company, Somerville, Massachusetts.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Calling all Girl Scouts! Calling all Girl Scouts!

You need leaders! You all want the fun, the friendship, and the education that Scouting brings! Let's put the pressure on — on whom? Why, right on your mother and all her friends! It is only by their help that we can put across the program we have lined up for you, and that you all want. (Don't tell them just how much fun and satisfaction they will get from being Scouts, you know, the grown-up kind. Just let them see for themselves.)

All Senior Scouts will be meeting at the Cabin this Friday afternoon, right after school, for their big Rally.

The following schedule of School Rallies, all to be held right after school, is something for you to cut out and clip in your notebooks:

Wyman School, Monday, September 29th.

Lincoln School, Tuesday, September 30th.

Washington School, Wednesday, October 1st.

Noonan School, Thursday, October 2nd.

Mystic School, Friday, October 3rd.

Parkhurst School, Monday, October 6th.

The Rally for 7th and 8th Graders, the Junior High School students, will be at the Cabin Tuesday, October 7th, also directly after school. In the event that any changes have to be made in this schedule, you will receive notice of same through the individual school.

Any of the Day Camp girls who have ordered pictures, please bring your money to your Rally, and your pictures will be ready and waiting for you.

On October 3rd, Wednesday, the Girl Scouts will be hostesses at the Cabin, Camp Joy, for the Social Agency Group.

Mrs. Ralph Gilbert left Sunday for a visit with her daughter at Birmingham, Mich.

DONUTS FOR DOUGHBOYS

These Korean veterans who are visiting The Salvation Army's spacious Red Shield Club for the Armed Forces, located at 634 Atlantic avenue, opposite South Station in Boston, are finding out that the Sallies are their friends now just as they were for their fathers in World War I and their older brothers in World War II. Service for servicemen and women has always been the motto of the Salvation Army—and this is especially true at this "home away from home" which occupies more than 7,500 square feet on two floors. This is one of many activities supported by The Salvation Army.

BADMINTON

First call to Badminton!

This week the Governing Committee meets to make plans for the coming season which promises to be an interesting one. As mentioned at the end of last season the National Championships are to be played in Boston this year, so, among other things we have them to look forward to. Then, our Club as winners of the series of matches in both Men's Doubles and Mixed Doubles Leagues has much to live up to, and with last year's successes in mind we hope there will be lots of interest in team play among our members.

More news next week. This is just a reminder to get out those badminton rackets, birds and humidifiers and come down to the Gym at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday, October 7th for the first evening of play.

As always, we will welcome new members whether they have played before or no — so remember, every Tuesday and Thursday evening, beginning October 7th.

GAVE LITTLE LEAGUERS BOUTONNIERES

The good looking boutonnieres worn by the Little Leaguers at their end-of-season banquet last Saturday evening at the town hall were the gift of "Sis" Foley of Foley Florist at 594 Main street. The boutonnieres came in for many compliments during the course of the evening and Miss Foley's kindness in presenting them was much appreciated.

Fall has brought a resumption of activity for the many organizations that are a part of Winchester's civic, social and religious life, and once again the press chairmen of these various groups are bringing articles to the Star for publication. This is fine. These organizations help make Winchester a better town to live in, and news of their activities is of general interest. We welcome it. We want to print it. And because we want to print it we are asking those who write the articles for the various organizations to help us, and themselves, by keeping their articles as brief as possible and by getting them to the Star as early in the week as they can. Women's organizations in town alone, civic, social, church and school, number more than fifty. Taking fifty as a basis, if each of these groups submits an article half a column in length, and this is on the conservative side, the Star would have to devote 25 columns of its edition to club and organization news alone; nearly 40 percent of the 64 columns in an eight page edition of the paper. Taking care of this 25 columns of club notes would take no account of space for advertising, which is the life blood of any paper, general town news, marriages, deaths, police and political news, fires and sports and the organizations other than those of the distaff variety which may happen to have something they want to publicize. We really do want, and try to keep every one happy, as far as it is humanly possible, but sometimes even with the best of intentions we have to leave matter out of a particular edition. Usually when space is limited it is the long article that has to be omitted, and when a lot of matter comes in late on a busy Thursday it is the short factual piece that we have the time to set. Sometimes it is an impossibility, physically, to get all the matter that comes in to the office set and corrected in time to make the deadline we have to meet to get the Star delivered Friday morning. So keep 'em short, you press correspondents!, and get 'em in early! If you will, you'll get your story printed most of the time, and we will all be happy. If you will write 'em long and get 'em in late, there are going to be times when we will have to decide between your piece and some one else's, and our judgment may not please you! And another thing, please channel your news through one person. Last week we had three articles sent in about the same thing by the same organization. We repeat, we want your news and we want to print it. If you will help, we think we can print most of it, and we will all keep our blood pressures at a much safer level!

DO YOU REMEMBER W.H.S. 1892?

Reading, September 15, 1952
Editor of the Star:

I am enclosing copy of a circular letter which I am sending to the surviving members of the Class of 1892 of Winchester High School and to a few other interested parties. As this investigation started from a letter from Herbert C. Sanborn which was printed in The Star of May 16, 1952, asking about some of his old friends in Winchester I thought that the information might be of interest to some of your older readers who were residents of the town around the turn of the century.

You are at liberty to use all or any of the information in the letter. Perhaps some one of your readers may have some knowledge of Gertrude E. Moseley, who lived on Myrtle street and had a sister Madge and a brother Charles. Beyond the fact that she married Eugene Babcock and went to live in Greenfield I have been unable to find any trace of her. If we can find her address, if still living, it will be appreciated as it will complete the records of the class sixty years after graduation.

Very truly yours,
A. W. Rooney

To the members of the Class of 1892, Winchester High School:

For the past few months, following publication of a letter from Herbert C. Sanborn in the Winchester Star, I have made a check on the members of our class by personal interviews, phone calls and letters to various parts of the country. I find that ten of the sixteen graduates are still living. Five are known to have died and one is still unaccounted for. This is a remarkable record for longevity for sixty years after graduation.

I am enclosing a summary of the information that I have been able to secure and know that it will be of considerable interest to all the survivors. If anyone has any further knowledge regarding any members of the class or desires to add anything to his or her record I will be glad to include it in a later bulletin to be distributed to the members.

My address is 15 Willow street, Reading, Massachusetts.

Editor of the Star:

I agree with Mrs. R. W. Long, "let's be fair."

Why, then, when a perfectly clear comparison is drawn between the old and new George Washington School, go so far as to bring up the Wyman School? Why confuse people's minds in the Wyman district into thinking I was running down their school? This is an old trick of building up personal and sectional differences and trying to damage and discredit the one purpose of getting better schools for our children in all parts of the town, and without too much delay.

It is not news to me or to anyone else in Winchester that the Wyman School, as well as all schools in the town, enjoys excellent parent participation. The Wyman School was completely redecorated in 1951. Prior to that when was the last time it was painted? That the people in the Wyman influence are perfectly satisfied is beside the point. These people are solicited and urged to put all of our schools in a condition that will make us all proud of all our school buildings.

While my comparisons were severe, they are all true and were purposely given to wake up our citizens to the realization that our school buildings have been and are sadly neglected.

When you go from school to school and see such things as the "red rubber sheet", a floor brush standing in a damp basement of a newer school with a mushroom growing in the bristles, observe inflammable ceilings in others, wood roofs, the high school floors, the furniture, the poor lighting, the gas jets and the Wadleigh spectacle, I dont believe I should just sit back and rejoice that two of my children are in the new wing of the George Washington School. One school hasn't had a brushful of paint in seven years, and when would you say the Wadleigh had its last facial? Why do town employees worry about electric light bills at the expense of our children's eyesight? The stage curtains at the high school are so rotted that they can't be cleaned again. Can they still be fireproof?

Reading between the lines it is easy to infer and at times twist meanings. Is it possible that some of Mrs. Long's friends failed in their duty and lacked proper interest? "First hand knowledge" is usually observed by those in charge, not by the employees. Then again, why make a lot of noise and not bother to see about what? Specific dates are one thing, but twelve months easily permit a "first visit."

Before any more inferences are drawn I want it distinctly understood that the run-down condition of "some" of our schools is not due to the failure of our custodians to do their best. They used to work sixty hours a week and now they work forty hours a week. The enhanced school programs, expanded enrollments and much larger school buildings require much more manpower in addition to the work now being done by women part-time helpers.

Painted and otherwise properly maintained buildings and equipment would inspire them to even greater effort. How much satisfaction comes from keeping a soapstone sink clean?

I'm not interested in who is or was responsible for our schools being neglected, so please don't again try to come to the rescue of someone you might think is unfairly criticized by implication. "Let's be constructive." That suits me too. While we wait to agree on a solution to the secondary schools, let's fix up what we've got — modernize or at least make the old look as if they belonged to someone. Keep the new, new, and make sure we have no more "emergency repairs" due to state or insurance condemnations.

A year-by-year proper maintenance and modernization program will in the long run prove much the cheaper way and pay handsome dividends to our children, their teachers and those responsible for the upkeep of the buildings.

While we are on the subject of schools, let's examine the Foster Plan again.

VOTE AMERICAN

Editor of the Star:

This is no time for selfishness that seeks its end in party politics. Self-respect, honor and patriotism find their true course in the guiding star of Americanism.

In this era of the Roosevelt-Truman blight, corruption in Washington has spread over the whole country like a plague. No longer can our people exclaim in pride as once they did, "Massachusetts, there she stands," but, rather now, in shame, "Massachusetts, don't look."

Climaxing an administration of shameless graft, its people were humiliated when its legislators, in sordid selfishness, voted themselves pensions in addition to their regular salary of $4500. These legislators begged their constituents to elect them, advertising their qualifications for the position and promising fealty. They accepted the job with its stated salary and, after they were elected, voted themselves pensions in addition. A patriot would have been amply rewarded by the honor conferred upon him by the people who elected him and by the compensation allotted.

Fair remuneration for services rendered has been allotted and any more should be determined by a bi-partisan commission elected by the people who pay the bills and not by the legislators themselves. For one to estimate the value of his services himself and because he has the power to do it, vote himself the extra amount he wants is effrontery.

The appellation Democrat, Republican, or Socialist does not reveal the character or manliness of the one designated; his deeds do. Even in politics honesty pays as the writer has shown in previous articles and was amply demonstrated by the late Walter S. Goodland, Republican Governor of Wisconsin, who defied every pressure group, including members of his own party, labor unions, veterans, personal friends and Democrats, when they advocated any policy that was not for the good of the state. The editor of the Madison Capital Times, a Democrat, said, "I have always fought Republicans but as long as Walter Goodland is governor, he is going to be backed by my paper." "Our most honest governor in forty years," "One of the finest governors Wisconsin ever had" were tributes paid to him. He made no promises, returned all campaign contributions, paid his own expenses of a little over two thousand dollars and, when he ran for re-election, he received more votes than the combined total of all his opponents.

"We must have government of the people, by the people, for the people if we are to be saved." That was Lincoln's idea of Democracy.

Ex-Governor Thompson of Georgia, a lifelong Democrat, who was appointed to office with nothing to do, by President Truman, resigned, stating, "I refuse to accept salary and expense money from the taxpayers when I am rendering no public service. I refuse to be a parasite on the American taxpayer." How different things would have been in Massachusetts if Governor Dever and our legislators had been men of the Goodland-Thompson type.

This is election year. Be guided by the wisdom of Lincoln. Vote American.

TAKE IT EASY WITH THAT CAR

Editor of the Star:

May I use some of your valuable space to speak directly to our young men in and out of uniform? It would seem to me, that parents have enough to worry about as their sons become of military age without the added burden borne by the parents in the following story.

The other day one of my finest looking young men in uniform came to see me, while on leave, badly disfigured as the result of an automobile accident — his head went through the windshield. It will be necessary to have considerable plastic surgery and grafting done, and what back and neck injuries may develop is yet to be determined. And all for what? To make camp in time because he had spent twenty minutes too long with his girl! Twenty minutes vs his life!

Perhaps the girls should take on the responsibility of seeing to it that such a thing will not happen again. Make sure your young man leaves in plenty of time so that he may live to be with you another day.

Inasmuch as I have seen no Korean combat soldier disfigured as is this young man, I am beginning to wonder which is the more deadly, a hand grenade or an automobile.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. K. B. Toye, Chairman
Military Manpower Committee

IN POWER SINCE 1933

Editor of the Star:

After listening to Senator Nixon las night as no doubt millions of others did. If anyone could doubt of his honesty. Something is the matter with their head.

Those who would discount his statement and accept the "Smear" tacticts of the New and Fair Deal crowd — will accept — Alger Hiss and those who have blocking the effort to clean up - the corruption in our Government from 1933 to the present time.

Read the list of Ghost writers for the New Deal, Fair Dealers as listed in the U. S. News and World Report (September 26, issue) Poets, Playwrights, Brain Trustees, all of whom were deciphers of F. D. R. and who with others have been retained by Truman as advisors, not only as Ghost writers but some as so called Economic Advisors; all of whom are and were Socialistic minded, and "who planned it that way" — to make this country a Socialistic State.

It is time the people put on their culk boots and ousted lock-stock-and barrell those who have been in power since 1933 and who have been responsible for policies which are so un-American.

E. D. Fletcher.

BACK WITH HIS COMPANY

Editor of the Star:

Enclosed in a letter from home today I found a piece from the Star concerning me. It was a great surprise to see, but I wish to write just a few lines to let you know the current situation.

I entered the hospital on August 6th and after excellent treatment from the Swedish doctors and nurses I was able to get out on the 8th of September. I was extremely anxious to get back to my unit, and after a 36 hour train ride I arrived back to my Company.

We are now in reserve for a short breather period but we all are hoping to soon get in a few more rounds with the Chinks.

My best to all my friends in Winchester and I shall hope to see them all next Spring when my wife and I will take our 30 day leave.

Sincerely,
John A. Albree

INDIAN HARRIERS WON

The Winchester High School cross country team opened their season with a smashing victory over Everett Vocational at Everett last Friday by a score of 15 to 49. The Jayvee team also recorded a win with a shutout score of 15 to 50.

Both the Varsity and Junior Varsity are defending their Divisional titles won last year at Essex Aggies. The squad suffered heavy losses by graduation with 13 Seniors running their last race.

This year's team started the season with only 3 letter men, Co-Captains Bob Nelson and Les Godwin and a junior, John Becker. Early season saw several new runners, most with very little cross country experience so the opening meet was a big question mark. An added hazard was the fact that it was scheduled to run on Everett's rather difficult course. Therefore the results were a most pleasant surprise to Coach Morse and his squad members.

Forty-two runners left the mark on Friday in a light rain that shortly developed into a driving downpour, lasting throughout the race. Everett's Richardson jumped into an early lead followed closely by several Winchester runners.

As they started up the steep climb toward the hospital the local harriers moved out in front and at the halfway mark had established a solid block of red and black clad runners.

Then came a real surprise as a newcomer to the team this year Lou Farrell moved up to take over the lead and widen his margin steadily to take 1st place with a time of 12:09:9, only one second over the course record; an outstanding effort particularly with the poor weather conditions. Lou was following in his brother's footsteps as John was a varsity runner last year.

Claron Swonger also a newcomer finished a strong second and was followed by Co-Captain Bob Nelson. The first ten runners to finish all carried the black W except for number seven — Richardson of Everett.

AL SAMOILOFF DUE HOME ON FURLOUGH

Corporal Al Samoiloff is coming home for a ten-day furlough (Uncle Sam's plan coinciding with Al's), in the vicinity of October 6th. He has been at Fort Bragg, where his six-foot-three height and M. P. equipment help keep order.

Al's company, the 525th, participated in a swimming meet this summer and won their first meet. Al qualified in second place in the 220 and 440 races.

While home he plans a quick trek to see brother Dudley at Middlebury College. He hopes that some other buddies in service will have coinciding furloughs.

Sunday Services at 11 a. m.
Sunday School is held at the same hour as the church service.
Wednesday testimonial meeting 8 p. m.
Reading room, 5 Winchester Terrace (off Thompson Street). Open daily except Sundays and holidays from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m.

The nature of reality as purely spiritual, divine and good, will be emphasized in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Reality," which will be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday.

The Golden Text is from I Chronicles (29:11) "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all."

The Lesson-Sermon begins with these words from the Bible: "I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him." (Eccl. 3:14).

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read these words, among others: "God creates all forms of reality. His thoughts are spiritual realities." (p. 513:26-27).

GUILD LUNCHEON

An Italian luncheon, sponsored by a capable committee of the Guild of the Infant Saviour, under the leadership of Mrs. Joseph Burgatti and Mrs. John Volpe, was enjoyed Tuesday, September 23, by more than 225 members and their friends at the home of Mrs. Volpe. The guests were seated in the spacious refectory of the new Volpe home at groupings of tables, each accommodating ten persons.

The celerity and expertness of the serving was proof of the expert planning and organization that had gone into making the affair the financial and social success that it was. The guests were escorted through the home as an added feature.

Those who served on the luncheon committee were: Mrs. Anthony Albiani, Mrs. Leo Barbo, Mrs. Joseph Barrett, Mrs. Henry Barry, Mrs. Frank Bees, Mrs. Arthur Center, Mrs. Henry Center, Mrs. Maurice Connors, Mrs. Nicholas Dellova, Mrs. Anthony Derro, Mrs. George Doherty, Mrs. Joel Donovan, Mrs. Henry Gahan, Mrs. John W. BAPTIST COUPLES CLUB STARTS SEASON

Last Friday evening 36 lucky people enjoyed a pot luck supper in the social hall of the First Baptist Church. The occasion was the reopening of the Eight O'Clock Club for the '52-'53 season. Betty Josephson and Club President Mildred Allison, two pretty delicious dishes themselves, did a fine job of serving the same.

Afterwards, the women did some chit-chatting, something that women are good at. And the men did some dish-washing, something that men aren't so good at.

There were lots of new faces at the meeting, and it is hoped that they, and the people who own them, will be present again next month October 17 when Berta Swanson and her committee will put on another "what in the world will they think of next" program at 7 o'clock. That's the time the Eight O'Clock Club always meets. Don't ask us why.

JUNIOR FLORENCE CRITTENTON NEW MEMBERS' TEA

League of Women Voters members at the League information booth in Pray's. Mrs. Walter D. Abbott and Mrs. James B. Willing (seated) and Mrs. Robert Drake and Mrs. Oscar W. Surtees (standing).

LEAGUE INFORMATION BOOTH IN BOSTON

Spotlighting their pre-primary activities, the Winchester League of Women Voters staffed a League information booth at Pray's furniture store on Tremont street in Boston, on Saturday, September 13th. Mrs. James B. Willing, 16 Ledyard road, Mrs. Robert Drake, 6 Lagrange street, Mrs. Oscar W. Surtees, 246 Highland avenue, and Mrs. Walter D. Abbott, 27 Lawson road, found themselves busy during their tour of duty with many serious and definite questions and requests for the great variety of material with which the State League office had stocked the booth. Mrs. Drake reports that the interest was heartening, that most inquirers were young people feeling the responsibility of their first vote, and that, for example, one girl took copies of everything the booth had to offer "because all the girls in the office want to know." A highly complimentary editorial on the booth in the Boston Herald on Monday, September 15th, was particularly gratifying to these four members of the Winchester League.

A telephone information service on the day of the primary was the chief election activity of the Winchester League. The Voter's Service committee is especially grateful to Mrs. Abbott, who undertook the project alone, and to Mrs. W. W. Davies, III, 11 Sanborn street, president of the League, who offered her phone for this purpose. Since the service has proven useful and the type of question can be better anticipated, the committee plans to have it in operation again on November 4th.

The League's information table in the library will be supplied from now until the presidential election with a collection of non-partisan information on candidates and issues. Mrs. H. L. De Rivera, 417 Main street, in charge of this phase of getting out an informed vote, calls attention to a pamphlet called "On the Record." In factual but simplified and colorful presentation, this booklet shows how Senators and Congressmen have voted on some of the key roll calls over the past six years in the Senate and over the past two years in the House. From this breakdown the voter can judge the general trend of his candidate's voting in the areas of United Nations and Defense Pacts, Foreign Aid, International Trade, and Domestic Economic Stability. Mrs. L. K. Hawkins, 11 Stratford street, publications chairman of the League, expects to place copies of "On the Record" in various public gathering places and waiting rooms of doctors and dentists in Winchester.

MYSTIC MOTHERS PLAN TEACHERS' TEA

On Friday morning, September 19th, Mrs. H. Gardner Bradlee, President, and 18 room mothers of the Mystic School Mothers' Association met at the home of the Chairman of Room Mothers, Mrs. Richard Frazier at 7 Summit avenue, for a morning coffee, and discussion of times and places to hold the various teas for the Mystic School Teachers. It was decided to have the teas take place between September 30th and November 15th with the exact time and place to be announced at a later date. The first of these teas will take place on Tuesday, September 30th at the home of Mrs. Morton Grant of 7 Pierrepont road, and will honor Mrs. Eileen Hartwell, teacher of one of the fifth grades. Mrs. Harold McCarthy will be Mrs. Grant's co-chairman. The time 3:15 p. m.

JAPANESE FESTIVAL

Plans are going ahead full steam for the Japanese Festival to be held November 19 at the First Congregational Church. Mrs. Daniel P. Morse, Jr., wants to remind you that it's still not too late to send her a gift for the Parcel Post Table. The address is 3 Sanborn Place, and packages mailed even locally will be cheerfully accepted.

The Gift Table is offering a unique feature this year. Pins, bracelets, and necklaces of the beautiful Mustard Seed remembrance jewelry will intrigue both young and old.

Christmas shoppers will find the Japanese Festival a wonderful place to pick up gifts. Just one of the many things will be the Utility Box — a practical and handy little item which the Social Service Guild is presenting.

ADDED STRING INSTRUCTION

With the addition of a full-time teacher of stringed instruments this year the music program offered by the Winchester Schools has been considerably expanded. The new instructor is Mr. Theodore Janner, formerly of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Janner has also played with the Boston "Pops" Orchestra and has been an assisting artist with the Stradivarius Quartet.

All students in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades may take class lessons in either violin, viola, violoncello, or double-bass. Classes will be held during school hours, and both classes and music will be provided without charge.

During the first part of this instructional program classes will be limited to beginners only. Later, students who are already receiving private instruction will be included in the ensemble work.

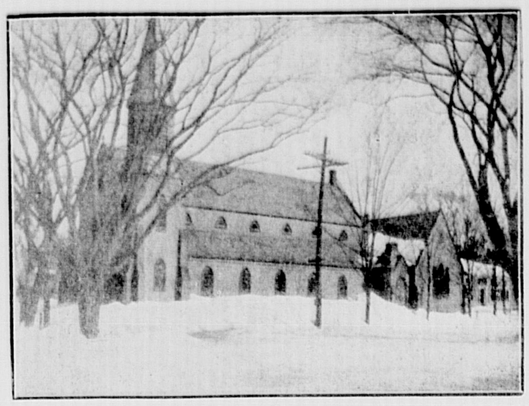

All prospective students should avail themselves of an instrument. These may be purchased or rented at reasonable rates from a number of Boston music firms. Students who are unable to acquire their own instruments are advised to consult with their school principal.

It is hoped that the instruction provided by Mr. Janner will promote further interest in stringed instruments in our schools. Any inquiries may be made at the elementary school that your child is attending.

BAPTIST WOMEN'S LEAGUE

The Women's League of the First Baptist Church will open the new season with a luncheon at 12 o'clock in charge of Mrs. James Newman. Mrs. Lewis M. Foster will be the speaker of the afternoon, bringing a report of the American Baptist Assembly at Green Lake, Wisconsin. Devotions will be led by Mrs. Walter L. Bailey.

All women are cordially invited.

THE ORIGINAL BAPTIST CHURCH

BAPTISTS WILL HOLD WEEK OF OBSERVANCE

During the dark and uncertain days of the Civil War a little band of men and women, strong in faith, who in 1852 had organized into the First Baptist Church of Winchester, decided upon the building of a meeting house. With great foresight they chose the commanding location at the junction of Mt. Vernon and Washington streets. That building, erected in 1864 with much sacrifice and difficulty, stood on that site until 1929, when it was replaced with the present structure.

In its 65 years the membership was multiplied over and over again. Many of our townspeople — as the First Baptist Church of Winchester approaches the celebration this October of its 100 years of service in this community — will recall the many inspirational services and happy social events woven into the history of the old church. Now, with the beautiful new building and greater opportunities, the First Baptist Church of Winchester is steadily contributing to the life of the growing town which it serves.

A week of observance of the Church's Centennial will begin on October 19th with a Masonic Vesper Service to which the public is cordially invited. On October 24th an Anniversary Banquet will be held, and on Sunday, October 26th, in addition to the regular Morning Service, an evening service with all the Winchester churches participating will climax the week's celebration.

RED CROSS APPOINTMENT

At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the Winchester Red Cross Chapter, Mrs. Bradford M. Bentley of 4 Sheffield road, was appointed the Chairman of Public Information.

FLOWER TALK ON WEDNESDAY OCTOBER 1

"You Can Have Fun With Flowers", an informal and entertaining program by Harriet Dora Hamlin of Boston will open the 1952-53 season of the Business and Professional Women's Guild, First Congregational Church, in the Ladies' Parlor at 7:45 p. m. on Wednesday evening, October 1. The members of the Junior Mrs. Guild will be guests that evening, and a cordial invitation to hear Miss Hamlin is extended to all women who enjoy flower arrangements and flowers.

Simple arrangements for the home or office, arrangements for occasions during the year, and the making of pleasing, easy corsages will be demonstrated by Miss Hamlin, an art teacher and artist. Miss Hamlin's hobby started when she applied for a summer job as flower arranger at a summer hotel — something she had never tried before. To give herself confidence and the practical experience she lacked, she took lessons, practiced, and then tackled the position — with such success that she also found a new interest!

A coffee hour will follow the program. Miss Helen Monroe will preside.

JR. MRS. GUILD

On Wednesday evening, October 1st, at 7:45 p. m. the Jr. Mrs. Guild of the First Congregational Church will be the guests of the Business and Professional Women's Guild at the church. The speaker, Harriet Dora Hamlin, will tell how "You Can Have Fun With Flowers". Jr. Mrs. members are cordially invited to come and enjoy this fascinating speaker.

Members are urged to bring used toys, puzzles and games for the Trading Post at the children's fair. Your contributions will mean many happy hours for the young fry.

GOOD LUCK FROM WEST!

Last week before the Milton game on Saturday Coach Henry Knowlton received a letter wishing him and his 1952 eleven the best of luck from "Bill" West, captain of the Winchester High School championship football team of 1942 and all scholastic back. A graduate of West Point and member of the Army backfield that boasted Glen Davis and "Doc" Blanchard, "Bill" is now a captain in the regular Army. Each year since leaving high school he has written Coach Knowlton, wishing him and his team luck, even active service in Korea failing to interrupt his messages. Needless to say they have been appreciated by his former coach who rates "Bill" at the top of the boys he has coached in high school.

WINCHESTER LITTLE LEAGUE BANQUET

Last Saturday night over 250 gathered at Town Hall to honor the four Winchester Little League teams at the close of their initial season. The boys were treated to a wonderful roast beef dinner in gratitude for the fine performances on the diamond last summer.

After the dinner Little League president, Ted Bartlett introduced and thanked everyone who had helped make the first year of Little League baseball successful. He felt that the first year of operation while not perfect had been most successful in building character, and developing standards of fair-play and sportsmanship so necessary in these times. Particular tribute was paid to the fine quality of adult leadership in handling the boys. Fred Ives, chairman of the Winchester Park Board announced that Little League will play next year at Ginn Field which will have a regulation Little League diamond with cut out base lines, new back stop, shelters etc.

The four team sponsors were presented with framed pictures of their team.

Mr. Nate Thumim presented the League winning Braves with a beautiful trophy which he donated in memory of his own son. A trophy donated by Murray & Gillett, Realtors was presented to Doug Thomson the player with the highest batting average for the season. A trophy donated by the Stabile Construction Company was presented to the Dodgers as the runner up in the play offs.

Warren Branch, manager of the Braves speaking for Mr. Ralph Bonnell sponsor presented each of the Braves players with a small silver baseball as a memento of their successful season.

The climax of the presentations came when Ted Bartlett announced that each of the twelve year old boys who will graduate from the Little League program this year due to their age would receive jackets. Each of the twelve year old boys stepped forward to receive a beautiful navy blue jacket with a Little League emblem on the left sleeve, a large red W on the left front and red, white and blue knitted collar, cuffs and waistband. Mr. Bartlett expressed his hope that this precedent will be carried on each year in recognition of the boys graduation from the program.

Joel Peckham spoke briefly giving a players viewpoint of the value of the Little League program.

WINCHESTER WON OPENER

MILTON VICTIM, 39 - 12. GRIFFIN, SERIEKA AND FLAHERTY STARS.

Winchester High got away to a good start in the defense of its Class B football championship last Saturday afternoon when the Indians outscored Milton, 39 - 12, before a big opening day crowd on Manchester Field.

"Jocko" Serieka, burly left halfback paced the Winchester attack with a pair of touchdowns and a 55 yard pass to right end Bobby Flaherty. Flaherty made two spectacular pass completions and Jimmy Griffin, speedy fullback, contributed the game's most spectacular performance when he returned a Milton punt from his own end zone for a touchdown.

The Indians looked both good and bad in their season's opener. They have scoring power of the explosive sort that can tally from anywhere on the field, and they have a lot of sheer power and speed. Defensively the local boys were not particularly impressive, as was to be expected, particularly in the matter of their backers- up. The loss of boys like Dick Errico, "Dyna" Lentine and Joe Donlon, experienced and especially adept defensive players, left gaping holes behind the line which will take time and hard work to fill. Big John Riordan, starting center, looked very promising, but as yet he lacks the "savvy" that only experience can bring.

Winchester made nine first downs to seven for Milton, rolling up 240 yards from scrimmage to 134 for the visitors. Winchester threw ten passes, completing four for 86 yards, with Milton completing eight of 13 passes for 58 yards. Winchester fumbled once, recovering; and Milton fumbled four times, recovering once. Winchester lost 50 yards in penalties to 22 yards for Milton.

Milton showed a well conceived offense, and except for the individual prowess of Serieka and Griffin, played the locals pretty even. The visitors did not seem to have the man power of the home team, and after Lake their quarterback was injured early in the game, had no especially outstanding player. Lake remained in the game, masking the ball well, but was handicapped by his injured leg, especially on pass plays, where he tried to get the ball away as quickly as possible, on three occasions grounding the leather with receivers in the clear.

The crowd had hardly settled down after the kickoff when Winchester scored. Milton received and had to kick. Serieka and Griffin made a first down at the Milton 41, and then big "Jocko" cut through a gaping hole off the Milton left tackle and simply outran the secondaries to the goal line. Griffin kicked the goal.

Opening the second quarter Lake kicked to the Winchester goal line. Jimmy Griffin took the ball right at the line, and circling into the end zone a yard or so, started up the far sideline. Big Jim Cullen took out a couple of the Milton defenders and Captain Amundsen accounted for another, but the key blocks were thrown by Derro about the 20 and Atkinson 20 yards further on.

Griffin was chased all the way by a Milton boy and just barely beat him into the end zone, falling exhausted after crossing the line. "Griff" went out after the play and Winchester attempted to pass for the extra point, Thomson completing his heave to Serieka, who was stopped just short of the line.

Midway through the second quarter Carroll stopped a Milton threat by recovering a fumble at Winchester's 20. Serieka and Bellino advanced to the 35, Serieka added nine and Coach Knowlton sent in his junior varsity.

The seconds lost the ball on downs at their 44, and Milton started. Mahoney broke through to the 38 and Daley make it first down at the 25, both going through the line. Kenney then broke through a big hole in the Indians frontier and catching the local secondaries out of position, drove into the end zone standing up. Serieka spoiled Lake's try for the extra point by passing.

The Indians scored in two plays after the ensuing kickoff which Carleton took back to Winchester's 44. Bellino streaked outside to the Milton 37, and then Serieka on a reverse play got out into the right clear, ripping away from the close defender and faking the deep field man beautifully to go all the way. Griffin kicked the goal and Winchester breathed easier.

Coach Knowlton started his second team after half time, and Deroo recovered his own fumble of the kickoff at the Indians 40. Beggs, Murphy and Morgan drove to the Milton 20, where Pratt arched a pass out to the left, Flaherty making a spectacular jumping catch at the Milton one.

On the next play the Indians lost 15 yards for holding, but big Mike Murphy busted through from the 16 to the six, Morgan added two and Pratt jump passed over center to Jim Carroll for the touchdown. Wiklund failed to convert at placement.

Just before the start of the third quarter Coach Knowlton sent in his third team with the ball at the Milton 29.

With Quarterback Al Lindsey mixing his plays well and completing a nice jump pass to Paul O'Brien, the "Heebie Jeebies" plugged along, McLaughlin doing some effective bucking to reach the Milton three.

Milton was offside, setting the ball on the one, and McLaughlin bored over on an inside play. Again Wiklund failed to convert.

Miller ran Winchester's kickoff back all the way to the Indians 25 where Bobby Amundsen saved a touchdown with a last ditch tackle.

The varsity went in at this point, but Kenney broke through for seven and Mahoney found a big hole off left tackle, running past the close up defender and ripping away from the deep field back to score standing up. Lake's attempt to pass for the extra point was grounded.

The Indians stalled after the kickoff and had to punt, but Atkinson gave them another life by recovering a Milton fumble on the Winchester 45.

Milton lost five for offside on an unsuccessful play, placing the ball at midfield. Thomson grounded two passes and was ejected with a Milton boy for illegal use of hands after the second.

On fourth down Pratt pitched out to the right to Serieka who arched a long spiral from his own 45 far down the field into the Milton end zone where the streaking deerfoot, Bobby Flaherty, made a great over-the- shoulder completion for a touchdown, one of the most spectacular pass completions a Winchester team has ever made. Griffin added the extra point at placement and two plays later the game ended. The summary:

DR. NORRIS' ADDRESS TO WINCHESTER TEACHERS

After the recent general teachers meeting several teacher reported that the speech by Dr. Norris were especially noteworthy for the ideas and ideals presented. Believing that townspeople generally may be interested, the Star is pleased to offer portions of the address which was entitled "The Drama of Discovery."

"'Because we are in a crisis — not despite it — we must protect our schools. Otherwise, the rest of what we are doing would be senseless. For great and powerful nations never fall by external enemies, but from their own follies and shortcomings. An ignorant and foolish population is a greater menace to an otherwise strong democracy than any 'ism' or external foe.' Thus wrote a leading columnist about a year ago.

"'We must protect our schools,' says this columnist, and immediately we pose the question — How do you protect schools? Is it a matter of force? Are our buildings to be subjected to acts of violence and depredation? Is it a question of maintenance, of overloaded classes, or niggardly supplies? Is it a question of having a teacher in each classroom? This question of protection is deeper than any of those and much more subjective.

"I would like to think about two phases which impress me as essential and almost insurmountable bulwarks: We must foster and cherish a keen, alert, and intelligent faith in the public schools and the work they are trying to do, and we must keep a high level of morale in the people who are doing the job. The second must take precedence over the first, for a high type staff with a high level of morale builds the faith on which all other things rest.

"Since you are the keys, the architects, the molders, and since you are in the favored and strategic positions of observing pupil growth and development, I would like to discuss with you the thing that enriches, rewards, and inspires all true teachers — The Drama of Discovery.

"Have you had the experience of finding something new, unusual, unexpected, unknown? Of being the first to solve a problem, of mastering a new technique, of finding a new way, of giving a different interpretation? Of recognizing a worth in an individual you had never known was there before? Of sharing a new found talent or interest or achievement in or by some one that you hadn't realized before. Being the first to see, to share, to recognize, to do, whether it be finding a new world, a new record of achievement, or a new person, carries with it the reward that makes discovery a mountain peak in the life of the discoverer. That's part of this Drama of Discovery.

"In the history of the New World, it was Columbus who popularized discovery. While looking for and trying to prove there was a bigger world, he found a new world. It is usually the people who are looking for and expecting the bigger and better who find the new. The true discoverer is always more than hopeful; he sees possibilities, potentialities, improvements. He is always in the process of realizing an ambition, of making a dream come true.

"Sometimes the removal of a barrier, the correction of a handicap, the right word spoken at the right time by the right person, may mean that some one assumes the role of discoverer, and it changes his whole life.

"The coming to America removed a barrier in the life of a 14 year old penniless, hunchbacked boy and helped him discover the future Steinmetz.

"The putting on of eye glasses opened a new world to Teddy Roosevelt and paved the way for his discoveries which led him to the White House.

"The kind words of a wise parent opened the eyes of Jane Addams to the fact that a tall, erect father was proud of his daughter, even though she couldn't stand erect, and gave her the vision and courage to build a Hull House.

"It was the loving care and patience and faith of a mother that gave Glenn Cunningham a vision of his future and enabled him to become one of the world's greatest runners in spite of fire-crippled legs.

"These are all a part of this Drama of Discovery — helping people realize dreams, fulfill ambitions, overcome obstacles, find higher levels of living.

"Teachers are the discoverers of discoverers. It is they who help pupils find those talents and abilities that make them the finders of new worlds, the painters of great pictures, the prophets of new visions. So, today I would experience this Drama of Discovery if I could, in some small way, help you to a greater understanding and appreciation of the role of teacher, and send you to your classroom tomorrow morning proud to be called a teacher.

"I am not one of those who believe that Education can do anything and everything. Education is not a specific, it is a stimulant. And Education, alone, is not enough. Think of those thousands of able young Germans who had the best of formal education. But that didn't prevent them from crying, "Heil, Hitler." It is possible to have a type of education that neither corrects nor controls, but simply deepens the distortion of the minds.

"True education implies participation. And 'learning that makes a man turn his back on reality, is treason to the stewardship of humanity.' The second most dangerous man in the world today is the educated agitator; the first most dangerous man is the educated non-participator. For what will it profit society to sharpen the keenest minds for science and to leave government to the crackpots, the dull wits, the light-fingered, the greedy exhibitionists? Our education will all be on the negative side if there is no participation making progress real.

"The period of our American Revolution was great, not only because of the issues involved, but because of the leadership of educated men — men who had dedicated themselves and their sacred honor to the attainment of an ideal. If some men in public life today should pledge their sacred honor to a task, the raucous response from the American public would be laughable, if it weren't so tragic.

"Can we in Massachusetts in 1952, we who live on the very threshold of so many of the great Dramas of Discovery, can we find or help produce the inflexible purpose of a Columbus, the contagious enthusiasm of a Teddy Roosevelt, the broad sympathies of a Jane Addams, the dogged persistence of a Glenn Cunningham?

"Can we help our pupils in discovering themselves to discover the qualities in the stories, the poems, the songs, the pictures that are a part of our heritage? . . . Our pupils need to re-discover the literary heritage for which New England can be justly proud.

"Can we so dramatize the ideals of our nation that pupils will discover in them the most thrilling and exciting of adventures. These ideals have been voiced by many people under trying conditions. 'As for me, give me liberty or give me death.' 'I only regret that I have but one life to give for my country.' 'Liberty and union, now and forever, one and inseparable.' Back of each of these statemens was an excitement-packed drama. Can we help our pupils discover the values and ideals for which they stand?

"Haven't you had the experience of seeing a pupil's eyes opened to some new talent, some ability that he had felt was beyond him? An Industrial Arts teacher had insisted that a boy stick to his project of model boat building. Then one day, the boy grasped the idea and saw a fulfilled task. 'Why,' he cried, 'It will really look like a boat.' The teacher had no further trouble.

"There was a girl of Junior High School age — retarded, a truant, a behavior problem, a problem to herself and everybody. Then one day the music teacher found she had musical ability and soon she was in the school orchestra; the school had found a new girl.

"Or that youngster who came bursting with the news that he had mastered a particularly difficult problem in mathematics.

"All of them are parts of this Drama of Discovery in which your role is so great.

"Do you recall the story of the Master Teacher when He came back to the plains after a transfiguring experience on the Mountain? He was met by a father whose plea was 'Master, heal my son.' I like to think of that in an educational situation as the first worried parent coming to the school, to the teacher. So, tomorrow there will come the parent to the school, and he'll figuratively place the hand of his child in the hand of the teacher; and his plea will be, 'Help me help my son; he has unfound talents, he has undeveloped abilities, he is potentially an intelligent, active American citizen. Help me to help him, to become and be all that he can and should be.' And as every great teacher since the beginning of time has stood, so will you. You will be on the threshold of the Drama of Discovery.

"A young English actor once asked a veteran how he should allow the size and attitude of his audience to affect him. The veteran replied, 'Always play as though the king were in the audience.'

"How shall we teach? Always teach as though a great inventor, a high public official, an artist teacher, a great humanitarian, yea, even a President of the United States were in your class.

"For you, too, are standing on the threshold every day of this Drama of Discovery."

President, Mrs. John J. Flaherty.

Recording Secretary, Mrs. Charles R. Fish.
Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Austin E. Nanry.
Treasurer, Mrs. Dominic Runci.
Auditor, Mrs. Joseph A. Gagliormella.
Chairmen of Ways and Means, Mrs. S. Kennedy Tully, Mrs. Leo R. Dantona.
Chairman of Programs, Mrs. Vincent G. Carroll.
Chairmen of Social, Mrs. George R. Carter, Mrs. Arcangelo Amico.

Chairman of Publicity, Mrs. William P. Coady.
Chairman of Nominating, Mrs. Herbert S. Mullen.
Chairman of Scholarship, Mrs. Ralph P. Webster, Jr.
Chairman of Dance, Mrs. Barbara Clark.

Mrs. Flaherty said she would pass over the business of the meeting so that the mothers could meet the new principal of the school and the teachers.

The President gave a very cordial greeting to Miss Martha Cunningham, the new principal. In speaking about the development of children Miss Cunningham said she hoped the mothers realized that each child is different and has its own rate of growing and learning. She said the Lincoln School has the lowest number of children per teacher of any other Winchester school. Miss Cunningham introduced the teachers one by one, and as each teacher stepped forward she was presented a corsage by Vice-President, Mrs. Kenneth F. Cullen.

Mrs. S. Kennedy Tully spoke about plans for the Hallowe'en Frolic which is to be held Thursday afternoon, October 30. There will be a number of interesting new tables. Past President, Mrs. Ralph P. Webster, Jr., described how money from the treasury had been spent last year, and she displayed the articles which had been purchased for the school: a set of Junior Encyclopedia Britannica and World Atlas, in memory of John Hamilton Lynch; $50.00 for a suitcase victrola, two film strips, and portfolios of discoveries and explorations.

The meeting adjourned to a most pleasant social hour, arranged by Mrs. George R. Carter and Mrs. Arcangelo Amico, where the mothers and teachers had an opportunity to meet each other. Mrs. Kenneth F. Cullen and Mrs. Bruce D. Pendergast poured at a very attractively decorated table. Small children were cared for in the kindergarten room under the direction of Mrs. Mary E. Carroll. The Association wishes to thank Mrs. John Ivers and Mrs. Richard Donovan who volunteered their services to assist Mrs. Carroll.

CAR THIEF HELD

Raymond U. Goss of 51 Columbia street, Cambridge, who police say stole an automobile in Winchester last Saturday night, is being held in $3,000 bonds for appearance before the Grand Jury.

According to the police Goss was stopped last Saturday evening by Officer Thomas F. Hannon as he was driving an automobile with a flat tire along Washington street. Questioning disclosed the plates on the car he was driving belonged to his father's car and that the machine he was operating was unregistered and uninsured. His name and address were taken pending court action and he was allowed to go.

After his encounter with Officer Hannon, police say Goss stole the automobile of George Watson from the latter's driveway at 14 Webster street sometime previous to 10 o'clock. The Cambridge police picked Goss up Sunday in that city while he was changing the plates on the stolen machine.

Goss appeared in court in Cambridge Monday morning, the case against him there being continued. As he left the court he was taken in to custody by Police Chief Charles J. Harrold of Winchester and brought to local headquarters where he was booked on charges of larceny of an automobile and driving an unregistered and uninsured car.

In court at Woburn Tuesday morning Goss admitted, according to the police, that he stole the Watson car. He was accordingly held for the Grand Jury and in lieu of bonds was remanded to jail at East Cambridge to await trial.

HOT T.V.

It wasn't so much the program as a short circuit that made the big 20 inch CBS television set at the Elks Home on Elmwood avenue so hot last Friday night.

The Central Fire Station was notified at 11:21 that the TV set at the Elks Home was on fire and the room in which it stands was full of smoke. The firefighters found a short circuit had burned out the condenser and incidentally blown two circuit fuses in the home. Aside from the smoke the damage was confined to the TV set and the equanimity of the Elks watching the program.

Abadessa children from Medford depict mission work of Medical Missionaries of Mary in Africa.

Whiting, Mr. and Mrs. Rony Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. George Foskitt, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Richburg, Mr. and Mrs. John Reynolds, Mrs. Arthur Belville and Mr. Frank McLean.

Caling that is not completed on Sunday will be done during the week. It will be appreciated if the members and friends of the parish will plan to be home to receive the callers.

Mr. Thomas Holton Hoare of 101 Church street has been placed by Daniel Tyler, Jr., Chairman of the Republican State Committee on the committee of arrangements for the coming visit of the Republican Presidential nominee, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, to Boston.

STOPPED MAIL DELIVERY

The mail didn't go through on Chisholm road last Saturday morning, but, according to Carrier Charlie McClellan, there was a darned good reason for the delay that occurred, and the Star joins him in the opinion that no one in the whole Post Office Department from the Postmaster General down would have adopted any different delivery policy from that taken by Carrier McClellan in the light of the attendant circumstances.

The mail stoppage occurred as Carrier McClellan was operating a mail truck on Chisholm road last Saturday morning about 8:30. He brought his truck to a stop in front of the residence of Mr. Edward M. Conley, Jr., 7 Chisholm road, and picked up a special delivery letter for delivery.

What the mailman did not notice was that as his truck stopped the top of the vehicle scraped through the overhanging branches of a tree and came in contact with a nest of hornets.

The hornets, however noticed the intrusion and at once proceeded to do something about it. Disdaining appeasement or the polite approach, the angry insects swarmed around Carrier McClellan as he got out of the truck, totally oblivious of the reception committee awaiting him.

He wasn't long in doubt, nor did he tarry to debate the issue or apologize for his intrusion upon the hornets' privacy. His not to reason why, his but to do or die, and that in a thundering big hurry.

"Charlie" took off at speed, at full speed to be exact; beating his arms about his head and taking all other steps possible to prevent the too close attention of the humming hornets. As he sprinted toward Forest street his uniform cap came off, and this proved a real boon, for the angry hornets swarmed upon it, forgoing their persecution of the fleeing Mail Man.

Carrier McClellan, after a prudent wait, returned cautiously to Chisholm road, to the home of Mr. Charles Adams, where first aid for his stings was administered. Among his more painful stings was one on the eye, and upon the advice of hospital authorities Carrier McClellan went to the Winchester Hospital for special treatment to guard against possible infection.

Meanwhile calls had been sent in to the police and fire departments, the members of which were not at all eager to attempt the rescue of the mail truck from the riled-up hornets that still swarmed about its interior.

Then came the dawn! "Ted" Chilcott, an acknowledged bee expert, happened in at the Central Station and was dispatched to the scene of the Mail holdup. Donning a mask and other protective equipment "Ted" cleared the truck and turned it around. Upon his return from the hospital Carrier McClellan continued his rounds, taking good care not to drive under overhanging limbs, at least for the remainder of the day.

Later men of the Tree Department burned the hornets' nest as a permanent measure against further trouble, but last Saturday morning at least was one time when the Mail Did Not Go Through!

U. S. DIPLOMAT MOVES TO WINCHESTER

Harry C. Hawkins, U. S. Career Diplomat and international trade expert, has been appointed to the Faculty of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy and will become a resident of Winchester. Professor and Mrs. Hawkins arrived from Washington last week and have taken up their residence at 329 Highland avenue.

Professor Hawkins has served as Director of the Office of Economic Affairs of the State Department and as United States Minister for Economic Affairs in London. At the Fletcher School he will occupy the newly established William L. Clayton Chair of International Finance.

Announcement of the appointment was made today by Dean Robert Burgess Stewart of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Medford, Mass., where the Clayton Chair center will be established. Mr. Hawkins is expected to resign his present position as Director of the State Department's Foreign Service Institute to take up his new duties March 1.

Sponsored by the American Cotton Shippers Association and The Cotton Trade Journal, this Chair of International Finance honors Mr. Clayton's distinguished service as America's first Under Secretary of State for Economic Affairs and as a leading figure in the world cotton trade.

The ACSA has already received contributions totalling $215,000 toward the proposed endowment of $300,000.

Mr. Hawkins served as one of Mr. Clayton's principal aides in the State Department as Director of the Office of Economic Affairs and as United States Minister for Economic Affairs in London. In welcoming Mr. Hawkins' appointment Mr. Clayton said: "I am delighted! I do not know of anyone I would rather see in the position than Harry."

Negotiated Trade Treaties

Long identified with the Hull Trade Agreements program, as Chief of the State Department's Trade Agreements Division, Mr. Hawkins played a leading role in negotiating trade treaties with Great Britain, Canada and some 30 other countries during Secretary Hull's administration. He likewise served as United States delegate to international trade conferences at Geneva and Havana.

Secretary Hull, in his Memoirs, says: "Harry Hawkins, who became Chief of the Trade Agreements Division of the Department, served with great energy and ability. No one in the entire economic service of the Government, in my opinion, rendered more valuable service than he. Hawkins was a tower of strength to the Department throughout the development of the Trade Agreements, and especially in our negotiation with other countries, which at times were exceedingly difficult."

The magazine, World Report, in an article on Mr. Hawkins' work states: "Perhaps more than any other single man, Hawkins has dedicated his life to realizing the Hull-Clayton ideas on freer trade."

Author of Economic Books

Mr. Hawkins holds degrees from Olivet College and the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, and has served as Professor of International Trade at the University of Oregon and the University of Virginia, as well as at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy. He is author of "Commercial Treaties and Agreements", "The Foreign Trade Gap", and other works.

Other New Residents

Also residing in Winchester will be a number of persons in training at the Fletcher School. They include U. S. Foreign Service Officer Samuel D. Eaton and Mrs. Eaton, who have been serving at the American Embassy in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and are assigned to the Fletcher School by the State Department; Mr. and Mrs. James W. Gould, recently members of the Foreign Service serving in Indonesia; Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Vear from the University of Indiana; and Mr. and Mrs. John O. Yeo. Mr. Yeo has just returned from war service in Korea.

WINCHESTER SCHOOLS ENROLL 2877—INCREASE OF 72

A study of the comparative enrollment figures for the Winchester Public Schools for the opening days of the school year shows a continued increase in the elementary school population. 1732 pupils were enrolled on September 8, 1952, compared with 1642 on September 10, 1951, a gain of 90 pupils in the elementary schools. Enrollment in the Junior and Senior High Schools showed a slight decline from a total of 1163 students in 1951 to 1145 in 1952. When the totals for all schools are combined, they show a net increase of 72 pupils over last year's enrollment.

A comparison of the figures for 1948 and 1952 underlines the fact that so far most of the increase in school population has come in the elementary grades. Elementary school enrollment rose from 1376 in 1948 to 1732 in September of this year. During the same period the combined enrollment of the Junior and Senior High Schools rose from 1116 to 1145.

Beginning in 1954, when the present fifth grade of 240 pupils reaches the seventh grade, the estimated enrollment of the Junior High School will be 455 instead of its present figure of 400. In 1955 the enrollment estimate rises to 472, and thereafter the number remains above 470, rising to 562 in 1959.

The pressure of numbers on the High School will become significant by 1955, when the estimated enrollment will be 825, an increase of 80 over that for 1952.

Comparative enrollment figures by grades for the years 1948 to 1952 are as follows:

GRADES	1948	1949	1950	1951	1952

SWAMPSCOTT HERE TOMORROW

Winchester High plays its second game of the 1952 season tomorrow afternoon at Manchester Field, meeting Swampscott High at 2:30.

The Indians will be favored to keep their unbeaten string intact. A year ago the locals beat Swampscott, 28 - 7, and though Winchester, at least right now, is not as good as it was last season, it still ought to have strength enough to get by Swampscott, even allowing for considerable improvement on the part of the Sculpins.

Swampscott had a dismal season last year and its Coach Lehman, a former player under Coach Mansfield at Springfield, spent a lot of his time building. As a consequence he has a lot of juniors and sophomores coming along, as well as three veterans, and figures to be quite a bit better than he was in 1951.

Swampscott will not be as big as Winchester, probably, but the Sculpins will be well drilled and should prove no setup. The Blue and Silver, even in lean years, has always given the Red and Black good games, and this year should prove no exception.

Winchester will probably take the field as it did against Milton, but several second stringers have looked so good in recent practices that they may be in there for the regulars before the game is too far along.

Miss Carol Hawkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence K. Hawkins of Stratford road, returned last week to commence her sophomore year at Middlebury College in Vermont. She is on the Dean's List for scholastic excellence.

CUB PACK 3

Approximately 50 enthusiastic Cub Scouts registered for membership when Pack 3 of the Winchester Cub Scouts held its first meeting of the season last Monday evening September 22, at the First Congregational Church.

Mr. Francis MacFeeley, Field executive of the Fellsland Council, B. S. A., welcomed the Cubs and their parents, and spoke to them briefly on the Cub Scout program, following which Mr. James Baldwin, head of the Pack 3 committee, introduced other members of the committee and Den Mothers for the coming year.

The highlight of the evening was an interesting and informal talk by Coach Mickey Meurling, of the Junior High School, who explained some of the fine points of football. Coach Meurling especially emphasized the dangers of playing tackle football, and showed the Cubs how they can have just as much fun playing touch football until they are older and physically ready for the rougher version of the sport.

Achievement awards were won by the following Cubs:

Brian Walsh, Wolf, Gold and 2 silver arrow points.

Tom Joslin, Wolf, 4th arrow point.

Bruce Graves, Wolf, 3rd arrow point.

Tom Hinton, Bear, Gold and Silver arrow points.

Bobbie Godwin, Wolf, Silver arrow point.
